Sorry everyone. I genuinely hoped to finish the Certiorari Petition and Appendix in this case yesterday. Unfortunately, by early lunch time the congestion that has been in my head for weeks, got worse and moved into my chest and I generally worse.

I was really sick today and had the get tests run to figure out what is going on, By the time I finished it was after 5:00. I expect to get test results tomorrow morning. I truly did think I could finish this petition and Appendix up yesterday. Unfortunate I ended up sicker both days rather than improving. I hope to get this petition finished tomorrow, but to be candid with the Court, unless I am better tomorrow than I was today, that may be possible. I will keep everyone posted.

Good morning. I have been home sick since my filing last week regarding this case. I apologize for not seeing this order sooner, but I can understand how I missed it because I was very ill. Thankfully, I was able to rest all weekend and an additional medication has helped me feel much better this morning. I was able to complete this appendix last week with the help of my paralegal and it is being printed today. My petition will be finished today although I expect it will be tomorrow before I can add page references to the petition. I apologize for this delay.. Until this morning I have just been too sick. I will get this petition and appendix submitted tomorrow and will most sincerely appreciate the Court accepting it for filing at that time.
