I am so glad to report that the last two days I have finally been improving. I still have chronic fatigue, intermittent blurred vision, loss of balance and a horrible bitter metallic taste in my mouth, I have been able to work again but on very limited hours. All these symptoms are improving daily.

I have nearly finished the Certiorari Petition in this PCR appeal and the Appendix is back from the printer and ready for submission as well. I have nothing scheduled for tomorrow or Wednesday, so I am planning to get my final draft done and submitted to the Court by Wednesday evening at the latest. I apologize for the delay in this appeal, but assure this Honorable court that it has been totally beyond my control.

Thank you very much.
