Tamar J. Nance SC Court of Appeals 9-15-23

This is a prose brief addressing issues the court should consider in my appeal.

*1. State failed to present substantial circumstantial evidence during trial to support charges of kidnapping, 1st degree burglary, and CSC 1st degree.

To convict me of CSC the state must present evidence I committed a sexual batter and actually used aggravated force at the time of the crime.

There was no serious injuries or any severe wounds shown in court.

*2. There was no cameras showing me going in or out without permission or breaking in someone's dwelling without consent. There was no one on stand in court who testified in court they truly seen or saw me commit a crime of burglary.

*3. I would like to include ineffective counseling do to the fact, I have witnesses and information that was not submitted in court at the time of the trial.

The court has not shown any evidence I actually used aggravated force on or about time of sexual assaults.
