Assessment of Progress Towards Goal

Response: R.D.M. presented in happy mood, requesting session on previous day [REDACTED]

[REDACTED]

He sat down and made eye contact during discussion of his stresses and need for communicating his intentions and real feelings. He stayed still during more intense discussion when he reported that some siblings not talking to MHP but the reason was not clearly stated. He made some attempt to clarify when MHP modeled full assertive sentences. He would not answer to rate his lack of self-control in exercise for self-awareness and had difficulty calming himself in exercise, kicking ball in MHP's face by accident. He looked shock and then began inappropriate attention seeking behavior by looking through MHP objects and taking items previously denied. He reported parental statements that may be undermining therapy efforts. When MHP explored dissatisfaction of services or MHP/MHS after R.D.M. made hurtful statements, he said that he didn't want to get new therapists. He reported some potential triggers. He didn't respond to new behavior process but water bottle is observed at desk and using throughout the day. When MHP confronted inappropriate attention seeking behavior, R.D.M. said that he liked getting the attention and didn't acknowledge or respond to the differences that were explained.

MHP reviewed with R.D.M.'s mom the 90-day summary and updated IPOC for R.D.M.'s and his siblings (sisters J.J.M. and A.M.M.). MHP obtained signature on documents and attempted to plan CFT with other clinicians to discuss services going forward.

Assessment of Progress Towards Goal

Response: R.D.M.'s mom completed tasks that took her attention away from meeting and focused on discussing regression and new behavior replacement (water bottle use at school) attempts with R.D.M. Father arrived at home and attended part of the meeting. Mom reported some concern about the attention he receives by having a water bottle in classroom and was receptive to brainstorming possible attention-seeking reasons. She seemed to be listening to MHP requirements to continue service where she and/or father is needed in family sessions to address attachment issues but didn't respond to completing this task. Both parents listened and provided input regarding R.D.M.'s hearing difficulties found in school testing (difficulty with hearing first two letters of words). She agreed about his difficulty in making eye contact during different types of scenarios, explaining that she holds his face to make him have eye contact.

[REDACTED] She reported that she is still trying to understand R.D.M.'s intentions and behaviors that continue to escalate but expressed more comfort that school is better working with him and parents and not assuming neglect when he steals food. Father exclaimed that children need milk products to stop stealing and to help them gain weight. Mom argued that doctor says they can't have milk products and other foods can be incorporated into meals, naming the foods. She reported an upcoming meeting with nutritional resource to help with this. Mom reported school reporting of status process improved but would like further changes where children report how they did that day with their stated daily goal made at home prior to leaving for school. She reported not understanding recent changes with R.D.M.'s sister A.M.L., who is exhibiting similar behaviors as R.D.M. and having difficulty as school work gets harder. She reported that R.D.M. complains about MHS and doing behavior modification practices. Mom denied any other reasons for some children's recent distancing with clinicians. Mom agreed that stealing food and inappropriate behavior occurs seasonally around food-related holidays, when know others have it or will receive it, and that one child's crisis affects other children. Mom openly discussed R.D.M. and J.J.L. recent stealing incidents but didn't reveal consequences of these.

[REDACTED] Mom didn't provide a CFT date saying, "would let us know". Mom accepted bibliography homework and agreed with some ideas from it, specifically R.D.M.'s power attempts when become discouraged.

[REDACTED] Mom expressed continued desires to utilize a resources outside of school but has not proceeded with previously provided referral.

MHP urged R.D.M. to express honesty about his plan that he made with siblings about getting extra food.

[REDACTED]

Assessment of Progress Towards Goal

Response: R.D.M. presented initially in happy mood but when seeing brother coming out of session with MHP, he began getting mad and disrespectful to MHP. When coming together for his family session time, he willingly came and requested an item from brother but was able to wait with some x3 prompt for patience until problem was discussed between him and brother. He was able to speak his intentions and feelings with prompting and used calm normal voice volume. He initiated hug with brother and acknowledged the difference between food and nurturing (love).

Assessment of Progress Towards Goal

Response: R.D.M. presented in happy mood until delays occurred and he assumed that he was being denied request when siblings were getting attention. He was able to eventually follow directions when redirected from refusing to enter the camp room to wait because of another's delay. He was able to express his needs but not the feeling that he was having and returned to session, talking about changes that MHP and he would make. He refused to listen to siblings when they attempted conversation in their family sessions, being extremely focused on IPHONE music/cartoon and not sharing with them nor looking up when addressed. [REDACTED]

[REDACTED] He wouldn't acknowledge someone talking to him. He argued about the direction taken during a car ride insisting going wrong way. During soccer game with brother as leader, he took leadership when brother walked away and became direct with instructions with others but delivered with some hostility. He fully participated in game but demanded ball at all times. Peers and MHP had to restate clarifications about rules of game but he eventually complied to rules, giving ball up. He reported dissatisfaction that camp was ending. He reported siblings tattling in past and not doing recently because would mom would take away camp attendance. He and siblings report eating all three meals at home. He didn't seem to understand reasons to not eat food on floor, saying that he wanted them.

MHS was redirected by instructor that client is "usually not this talkative and loud. It's almost as if he is showing off." While in class setting, MHS observed R.D.M.'s engagement in classwork and his promptness to answering questions asked by instructor.

R.D.M. responded to MHS initially by not fully engaging in conversation. R.D.M. was non-responsive as evidenced by engaging more into neighbor at lunch table than MHS. R.D.M. demonstrated once more of non-responsiveness with MHS once recess was over. R.D.M. chose to engage with others in his class and not with MHS. R.D.M. acted out more during class than normal by evidence of being "talkative" and "loud". Client expressed great acknowledgment of the warm up lesson by evidence of raising hand to answer questions in the correct form.

MHP reviewed with R.D.M.'s adoptive mother the progress and recent behavior incidents at school. MHP referred him to Savannah (per mom request) child psychiatrist (information written in her copy of 6-month assessment)

[REDACTED]

Response: [REDACTED]

[REDACTED] used low volume to respond to departure salutation, which he didn't return. Mother shared that negative school behaviors are returning with lower behavior chart reports. Mom seemed to understand the diagnosis and interventions because she nodded and agreed to priority of attempting new interventions and support for R.D.M. to improve ODD diagnosis, agreeing to talk further about interventions at next visit scheduled every other week. R.D.M. said, hello but not goodbye and refused to provide any information about his change in emotion and affect. Mom read and signed all documents for all siblings to continue services in direction of updated treatment plan.

Response: R.D.M. presented in happy mood, requesting to attend therapy. He agreed to rules and fully participated in play therapy, talking about various topics until music was turned on. He was not able to maintain as much self-control and had difficulty in talking and listening while playing with soccer ball.

He reported "mad" not sad last night and reasons for being mad, which were food related ("we didn't get to eat as much cause you were there" and "ate after church"). He didn't reply to wanting to learn how to make requests to mom, saying he "didn't want to". Later, when told it was time to go back to class and while he was touching various toys in room, he quickly walked over to phone and began playing with phone in therapy room, punching numbers and said, "I'm going to call 911" and hung up when MHP directed to reframe from playing on phone. He said, "just kidding...I didn't".

He could not recall the numbers dialed except insisting that he dialed a 3. Because school staff came to room, he must have dialed 911. When questioned by principle, he was able to answer her questions that he didn't need help and denied knowing or being taught that 911 was the number to call for help.

He was not able to identify what he was feeling or thinking prior to playing on phone. R.D.M. was able to practice with principle an assertive statement "I made a mistake... didn't mean to...I won't do again..but required first word in sentence prompt from MHP. This was topic of earlier discussion when he kept breaking rule with soccer ball established at beginning of session but wouldn't repeat assertive statement but must have understood reason for statement because he later stated it to principle. When he would break rule during interactive play with ball and during other times he would impulsively say acusational statements, "your cheating" then "just kidding". There would be 3-5 second time delays between when he realized what he said and clarification.

Goal

[REDACTED], R.D.M. threatened to leave room but stayed and continued conversation. R.D.M. expressed concerns of having MHS as therapist, reporting "not as nice" or "good as Ms. Berryhill". He was able to define "nice" as not letting him search for his own adult rap music on Iphone even though this was established as a limit early on in using music device. He was not able to describe what makes him feel respected. He acknowledged in agreement for MHS's suggestion for MHS to smile when he is redirected. [REDACTED] he reported he wanted to continue to have MHS to help him. [REDACTED] when MHS clarified it was time to go back to classroom prior to lunch, he became frustrated (which he identified) when he wasn't going to cafeteria, which has been allowing him to be first in line when class arrives. [REDACTED] He agreed this is the reason he liked the time because he "gets first in line". He stated that if MHS didn't let him go to cafeteria to wait for class then he'll not work with her and say MHS "not nice". He didn't respond to MHS comment about refusal to play emotional games. [REDACTED]. While with sibling S.T.S., he said to him, "she's leaving" causing Teshawn to be surprised and questioned MHS R.D.M. looked at sibling and MHS saying, "uh [REDACTED]". He became reflective and quiet (only nodding) during discussion about friendships and different perspectives others may have about situations. [REDACTED]. R.D.M. reported that mom won't let them go on field trip due to being punished and that he would like to go. When praised, he appeared to hear MHS gratitude by slight nod yes.

Assessment of Progress Towards Goal

Response: Mr. and Mrs. Mitchell, S.T.S., R.D.M., J.J.G., A.M.L. and J.J.L. welcomed MHP into their home. All fully participated in communication exercise, except father who departed for work mid-session after providing positive input to family on how to handle bullying. Each provided dialogue with some hesitancy in communication, appearing to say words that mom would want to hear as they would glance at her and carefully articulate their words. As activity progressed, Mom interjected instructions and how to complete group activity, giving restrictions and correcting their way of performing activity. Mom corrected every case of child's adult reply to ensure they were saying "yes, mamma" and in tone that she desired. Mom reported a possibility of children not attending camp, letting staff know this week. Mom reported reading book provided last week, stating that she "like it" and enjoyed quality time activity with family this past weekend. None of the children offered reasons or emotions regarding stealing/eating food, but appeared to be listening to topic because they maintained eye contact but none of the children made an acknowledgement.

R.D.M. reported in a tearful state that peers are talking about him and teacher didn't resolve for him. He froze when father offered suggestions to avoid bullying response and became tearful, turning his back away from father. Mom reported this is first time that R.D.M. communicated his feelings to family. He agreed to working on assertive communication during individual therapy sessions. When mom was prompted by MHP to attend to his concerns, she stated that she was waiting for him to ask. After discussion, he became happy and fully engaged in group activity.

He casually participated in exploring play items settling on casual soccer kicking where he invited MHP to talk about things. As explored emotions and where he needed support, he impulsively kicked ball in air at MHP. [REDACTED]. MHP prompted for rating, which he quickly announced with what sounded like disgust, the kick as 7 on 1-5 Lykert scale. [REDACTED]

Response: R.D.M. presented in extremely happy mood saying "I missed you". He requested session knowing possible receipt of food could occur but had not been stated by MHP. He attempted completing action towards goal while in community but at times refused to perform task related to it. He eventually performed task with slight prompting of what to say to store clerk. He did not provide much detail on last week's activity at home, not giving any insight to his changed mood and compliant behavior. He stated, "she [MHP] will look after us". [REDACTED] He was able once to maintain self-control with food after eating alot, leaning back and saying "oh my belly is full". Then, after 20 minutes he returned to not using self-control in eating food. At end, he didn't offer gratitude and it was not clear if he understood explanations about process and expectations about receiving food even though he made eye contact. [REDACTED] He was observed being around siblings with food not able to say no to offerings and requesting portions from them, eating from all options. At times, he would remember to request eating from MHP's peanuts prior to getting them.

R.D.M. was mostly cooperative in session and he actively participated when prompted. He had to be redirected when he tried to skip a turn and Co. processed with him why it was not ok to "cheat" because it "wasn't being honest". He was able to verbalize that it is wrong to "lie" because you should "tell the truth" and "people won't believe what you say". He shared it is wrong to "fight others" because "you could get hurt or they could get hurt". He shared it is always good to do your homework because "you make good grades and teachers and parents are proud of you."

[REDACTED] MHS offered a break in the library to finish lesson, in which he smiled and happily agreed. Librarian informed MHS and R.D.M. that his next activity for reading with the dog in the library would not start until 11:00 when it normally starts around 10:30. MHS walked him back to class at 10:30 as he requested and that teacher had expected. [REDACTED]

Assessment of Progress Towards
Goal

Intervention: R.D.M. communicated a need to be in the classroom at 10:30 in order to not miss the call out for next activity in the library, because he would lose points if he was missing. He refused to answer MHS questions while in hallway and classroom, but was later able during play to confirm that he was angry. When MHS asked about teacher's rules, he refused to walk down hallway, avoided eye contact, and ignored answering but eventually nodded yes that the journal was not allowed to leave the classroom. R.D.M. willingly returned journal to room and walked to the library at first with a snickering and smile. He agreed to play with legos and pleasantly participated with response and initiation to MHS questions. R.D.M. disagreed with MHS' explanation of changes until librarian restated the new plan to R.D.M. at which he said, "oh". When next teacher arrived at 11:00, he returned to MHS a high-five for communicating and he nodded in agreement that no longer angry.

Response: R.D.M. greeted MHS with smile and answered questions. Without eye contact, he would not answer teacher's question even with MHS assistance. He was compliant to leaving room and happily began playing legos until MHS provided explanation that him and S.T.S. had to share legos, and he accused S.T.S. of taking some of his. He then refused to let MHS play with the legos and requested bracelet on MHS' wrist. To every comment he said, "I don't care". After full explanation he said, "I hate you and everybody except mom/dad" and later expressed, "I like Jawanda".

he looked at clock, stood up, and said, "I'm missing lunch...you are wasting my time". He refused request to clean up and waited until MHS was ready to walk towards lunch room. During lunch room follow-up, he appropriately answered MHS questions, "come back at 3", and he ate all food on plate. When greeted at end of day, he smiled and nodded yes when asked if he felt comfortable in knowing what to do for testing the next day.

Response: R.D.M. followed by teacher's side to a private area where he openly, confidently stated that he didn't like the room, which was a fairly bland room. He made the time-out signal before beginning with activity, which he confirmed the request for MHS to allow him space but he said that MHS "can talk". R.D.M. quickly began reading instructions without prompting or any displeasure. He drew a figure with happy face along with the words next to it. He marked a double zero and denied having any questions about therapy. [REDACTED]

Intervention/Activity
(What you did)

[REDACTED] to resolve sibling dispute and confront two lies, which was brought to MHS' attention by his sister, [REDACTED]. The first untruth was R.D.M.
said to mom that "[REDACTED] told MHS mom hit her". R.D.M. also lied, saying "MHS told him what [REDACTED] said". MHS inquired of R.D.M. to repeat to [REDACTED] the real conversation around Jazzy's request yesterday to resolve sibling argument where he said he would "be mean to her".
R.D.M. reported receiving timeout at home when siblings argue. He revealed that timeout is being sent to the closet and repeated that his mother said "to not be telling family business".

[REDACTED] MHS explained that punishment of whipping and timeouts are sometimes used by parents as a way to teach kids who make bad choices. [REDACTED] commented that they didn't use to receive these things. MHS inquired duration of timeout and whether it seemed fair or unfair. R.D.M. didn't respond.
[REDACTED]

Assessment of Progress Towards Goal

Response: R.D.M. confessed that he told lies and repeated the truth of what MHS said during yesterday's session about sister's concern for his statement to her that he was going to be mean to her. He remained calm and interacted at the table while playing with play dough with his sister and discussing feelings and decisions to resolve. R.D.M. didn't respond to MHS' request for feelings. R.D.M. agreed to report to mom that he lied and actually pressed phone number to call her. R.D.M. remained calm and took deep breaths prior and during call, staying close to phone to listen to mom and MHS restated the situation and clarifications about the lie. He refused a hug request from J.J.L. but accepted objects that he made and offered one to her.

Response: Mom confessed hanging up on MHS on Friday because she was upset with school's attention around food, stating she "was ready to drive down there" but then "I prayed for strength". Mom has reported a change to her message to kids by saying "don't ask and don't take" in order to avoid any confusion and attention. She stated that she told kids this instruction to avoid future incidents and use in prompting. Mom reported kids have been fusing more and agreed that it would be good if they can work out their own problems between each other. Mom reported trying breathing to work through being upset. Mom didn't respond to whether she will coach kids on better expressing and resolving emotions.

Progress Towards

Response: R.D.M. stated he wanted to talk with MHS but when in office he said wanted to play soccer. R.D.M. id/repeated three emotions that he was feeling (calm, cheerful, excited). He initiated coloring them on the emotion chart. He repeated back the agreed plan prior to receiving reinforcement. He initiated setting the timer with 1 prompt to hold with both hands and use self-control. He pulled his hand away once when redirected to follow MHS instruction. He ignored 4 prompts to follow a specific instruction, shaking his head yes and then no on whether wants to change behavior to respond better to other's instructions. R.D.M. expressed excitement to access puppets and tamed down when MHS prompted to not tear open the bag. He engaged in attempts of making a puppet voice and laughed but [REDACTED] only making a few word phrases instead of complete sentences. R.D.M. played soccer later in day to practice self-control and was able to say "impulsive" and the different between the two concepts. He labeled lack of self-control as "his brain wasn't with the ball...not paying attention." [REDACTED]. When asked if ok, he said, "yes", but didn't answer when asked if tired. During basketball fall, he denied being hurt. He requested to play with peer group when they arrived on field and was receptive to prompting to ask teacher for the instructions of the game. [REDACTED]. At end of day, homeroom teacher reported him taking snack and putting in pocket with denial but when given the option to avoid reporting on behavior chart he confessed and returned snack to teacher. R.D.M. resisted MHS to look at knee and option to report it to school. After 3 prompts to view knee he allowed MHS to touch right knee and said "it was okay". He seemed to understand MHS' action to call mom because he stated, "lets call her now". He showed excitement in telling MHS that he performed 16 out of 16 in his learning areas. While on phone, Mom asked R.D.M. if it was hurting, saying that he replied it is okay. She expressed concern that not reported to school due to accusations of abuse and wanted to make sure that she is not being accused of something when kids are hurt in activity occurring at school.

Assessment of Progress Towards Goal

Response: R.D.M. was able to report on a 1-5 Lykert scale with 5 out of control and 1 as a slight impulsive response. He reported scale ratings on many occasions. He was able to recognize and id every level of the scale, adjusting his response afterwards. He understood the concept of controlling his body's responses using "making goals" as his reinforcement. [REDACTED]

[REDACTED] He agreed that impulsiveness happens in classroom but didn't answer that he understood the similarity of controlling himself in other environments such as the classroom. [REDACTED]

[REDACTED] He still continues to push MHS hand away when attempting instructional prompt. He recognizes that this is inappropriate by catching himself and not pushing hand away right after prompting. In afternoon, he demonstrated control at all times when kicking ball and interacting with MHS. [REDACTED]

R.D.M. communicated 3-4 feelings, demonstrating them using body language and identifying them. He was conscious of time limits by initiating setting the alarm. He left the area without communicating to MHS and was receptive to redirection by completing the instruction with partial MHS prompting. R.D.M. repeated to teacher the prompted reply from MHS. R.D.M. declined to answer the reasons for last week's stealing of food, which he confessed to teacher to avoid punishment. [REDACTED] commenting, "yeah I told the truth". When asked the reasons he told MHS, "I don't want to talk about it".

He refused to identify any other activities, hesitating when asked about activities with his dad saying, "huh?". He never reported about being redirected by teacher for distractions, and he said that he had a good day not detailing further when prompted. He initiated an assertive request with gym teacher to use gym and ball. He stated request in clear, normal tone using eye contact. He stumbled to gym floor again today while kicking in a self-controlled manner and held out both hands, smiled, and requested help to get up. Purpose of Contact	[REDACTED]
Intervention/Activity (What you did)	Co. met with Mrs. Mitchell to discuss behavioral concerns and/or changes, use of the behavior chart, and R.D.M. 's progress in improvements at school. [REDACTED]
Assessment of Progress Towards Goal	Mrs. Mitchell shared R.D.M. did not earn any stickers on his chart since it was first introduced. She shared his agenda and it noted R.D.M. was "teasing other students, not following directions, and getting out of his desk without permission". She explained how he got in trouble for putting a hole in his bag with swim trunks, so the consequence of him tearing it up a 2cd time was a note being sent home. Therefore, the next day she did not allow him to swim. Write up yesterday involved him swinging a pool noodle at other kids and continuing despite being told to stop. When asked what to do different he said he "should have stopped" but could not state "why". Mom expressed concern over him not earning stickers. [REDACTED]

Purpose of Contact

Intervention/Activity (What you did)

Co. met with R.D.M. and Mrs. Mitchell to access progress of decreasing negative behaviors, charting, and discuss concerns.

Assessment of Progress Towards Goal

Mrs. Mitchell shared that 2 months ago she took away R.D.M.'s bookbag and has been stapling his snack bag so there is evidence if he takes it ahead of time. Mom shared R.D.M. got in trouble for pushing a kid that cut him in line. Mom responded by telling him "not to handle it himself, to tell a teacher". R.D.M. has been earning really good points on his agenda. She is concerned that when she is out on medical he may not bring home his agenda. So far, this has been working successfully. Mom is considering giving him privilege of bag back or getting a see-through bookbag in the near future. Mom create a daily rewarded free time chart for A.M.I. as follows : each daily activity will be 15 minutes: Mon-IPAD, Tues- Drawing/games, Wed-play-do/paint, Thurs- coloring/puzles , Friday- free choice. The idea is for the consequence of not earning smile's on her chart would be the following day not being able to engage in fun time, time-out for 15 mins while others play, etc. Sat and Sun were left for family days and a time-out would still be used as a consequence or loss of electronic or tv privileges. A shecdule was also created for daily chores that were rotated by each sibling. Consequence to be time-out or loss of electronic privileges for this also. Mom shared she will be having surgery on 1/24/13 on her knees and plans to prepare the kids for this. She wanted to talk to R.D.M. and her husband and the plant to begin preparation for R.D.M. and her siblings will be next week. This is also when the chore chart and reward fun time will begin.
