RE: Cynthia Holmes v. Haynesworth
Appellate Case No. 2020-000968

Dear Ms. Harrison:

I received a letter from you on November 7, 2023 indicating that the Court may hear oral argument on this case in March, with some potential dates. The letter also stated that we would be notified in writing if the Court decided to consider the case without oral argument. I have reviewed the current hearing schedule for March and do not see this case on it for oral argument. Neither does it appear in the list of cases considered without oral argument. I do not see any other correspondence from your office about argument, and just want to make sure I did not miss something. I am located in Washington State and need to make travel plans with as much advance notice as possible. Is this case being considered for oral argument on another month's schedule, or has the Court decided to consider it without oral argument yet? Please accept my apologies if my questions are premature or I have missed prior correspondence on this subject.

Sincerely,

Chalmers C. Johnson
