Dear Sir or Madam:

I received the attached letter on February 7, 2024 by email. Upon receipt I marked off my dates in June and given that the matter was sent to me 4 months in advance, I had no conflicts at the time, but I did not tell the Court that I had no conflicts by the February deadline. My apologies for not informing the Court of this by February 20, 2024. I remain conflict free because I marked the days at the time; however, it is now May 2024 so I am beginning to get scheduling demands and opportunities for the month of June and these reserved seven dates are creating somewhat of a problem.

May I assume that I will know sometime fairly soon when, or if, this case will be scheduled for oral argument?
