George Brown, #301460, Appellant,

v.

South Carolina Department of Corrections, Respondent.

Appellate Case No. 2024-000416

ORDER

On April 12, 2024, this appeal was dismissed after Appellant failed to pay the notice of appeal filing fee, file a copy of the order on appeal, and file a proof of service upon the Administrative Law Court and Respondent. On April 19, 2024, Appellant requested that this court waive the filing fee, explaining he is indigent. We construe this filing as a petition to rehear the dismissal. Appellant has still not provided the filing fee, order on appeal, or proof of service.<sup>1</sup> Accordingly, the court is unable to discover that any material fact or principle of law has been either overlooked or disregarded, and hence, there is no basis for granting a rehearing. Accordingly, the petition is denied.

ORDER DISMISSING APPEAL

RECEIVED
JUN 27 2024
SC Court of Appeals

STATEMENT OF THE CASE

This matter is pending before the South Carolina Administrative Law Court (the ALC or the Court) pursuant to an appeal filed by George Brown (Appellant), an inmate incarcerated with the South Carolina Department of Corrections (SCDC or the Department). In the present appeal, Appellant asserts that the Department is not paying him a prevailing wage under sections 24-3-40, -315, and -430 of the South Carolina Code (2007 and Supp. 2023) and he is seeking to be paid the prevailing wages for his work as an inspector, tester, and weigher in the prison industries program. For the reasons discussed herein, the Court dismisses the appeal for lack of appellate jurisdiction based upon Appellant's failure to exhaust his administrative remedies.

PROCEDURAL HISTORY

On June 19, 2023, Appellant filed a Step 1 Grievance contending that he was not paid a prevailing wage. On June 20, 2023, the Department elevated the matter to a Step 2 Grievance without responding on the merits. The Responsible Official denied the Step 2 Grievance on October 25, 2023, explaining that Appellant's grievance was untimely under SCDC Policy ADM-15.13, section 12.1, which governs problems with inmate pay.

This appeal followed on November 3, 2023. It was assigned to the undersigned on November 20, 2023. Appellant filed his initial brief on January 3, 2024, prior to the date on which the Record on Appeal was due. Appellant's brief designates three issues on appeal:

- 1) Was SCDC violating Appellant's Statutory Rights, pursuant to SC Code of Law 24-3-430(D), by paying him an hourly wage of [$] 7.25[] per hour for work he was performing, where (DEW) wage plan listed the prevailing wages as [$]13.98 [] per hour?

2) Did SCDC violate Appellant's Statutory Right, pursuant to SC Code of Law 24-3-315, by paying him an hourly wage of [$]7.25[] which was less than the rate of pay and conditions of employment than non inmate worker receiving in this area for performing the same or similar work?

3) Has SCDC been violating Appellant's statutory Right, pursuant to SC Code of Law 24-3-40, removing [$]6.73[] per hour of monies remitted by the private industry sponsor and then disbursing the percentages listed in section, 24-3-40, of the SC Code (Supp. 2021) based on the lower rates of [$]7.25[] per hour, instead of the [$]13.98[] listed in the (DEW) prevailing wage plan and in SCDC's contract with Shaw Industry private sponsor?

The Department subsequently sought an extension of time in which to file the Record on Appeal. While the extension was denied, the filing of the motion itself resulted in a change to the timeline for service of the Record on Appeal. As of the date of this Order, the record is not yet due.

FACTUAL BACKGROUND

Appellant is incarcerated in the custody of the Department. He asserts that he worked in the Prison Industries Program from July 2, 2021 through December 16, 2022. Appellant states that he was paid at a rate of $7.25 per hour.

JURISDICTION

The Court's jurisdiction to hear inmate appeals is derived from the decision of the South Carolina Supreme Court in Al-Shabazz v. State, 338 S.C. 354, 527 S.E.2d 742 (2000). See also S.C. Code Ann. § 1-23-600(D) (Supp. 2023); Allen v. S.C. Dep't of Corr., 439 S.C. 164, 170, 886 S.E.2d 671, 674 (2023)("[T]he ALC has subject matter jurisdiction over inmate grievance appeals that have been properly filed."); Slezak v. S.C. Dep't of Corr., 361 S.C. 327, 331, 605 S.E.2d 506, 508 (2004) ("[T]he [ALC] has jurisdiction over all inmate grievance appeals that have been properly filed . . .").

In Al-Shabazz, the Court held that the ALC's jurisdiction in inmate appeals is generally limited to state-created liberty interests typically involving: (1) cases in which an inmate contends that prison officials have erroneously calculated his sentence, sentence-related credits, or custody status; and (2) cases in which an inmate has received punishment in a major disciplinary hearing as a result of a serious rule violation. 338 S.C. at 369, 527 S.E.2d at 750. However, the South Carolina Supreme Court subsequently clarified that the ALC has the authority to review the Department's failure to pay the prevailing wage. See Wicker v. S.C. Dep't of Corr., 360 S.C. 421, 423-25, 602 S.E.2d 56, 57-58 (2004) (stating the ALC was authorized to review the Department's failure to pay the prevailing wage); Adkins v. S.C. Dep't of Corr., 360 S.C. 413, 419, 602 S.E.2d 51, 55 (stating inmates could seek remedy for unfair pay by filing an inmate grievance.).

Moreover, as discussed in detail below, the Court's jurisdiction is further limited by the requirements of S.C. Code Ann. § 1-23-380.

DISCUSSION

The Department denied Appellant's grievance as untimely pursuant to SCDC Policy ADM -15.13. Policy ADM 15.13 is globally entitled "Inmate Pay." It requires each warden to designate at least one Inmate Payroll Office for a correctional facility. SCDC Policy ADM 15.13 section 5. The office is responsible for entering inmate pay data into the Inmate Pay System. Id.

Policy 15.13 also establishes a system and procedure to handle problems with inmate pay. This policy is located in Policy ADM 15.13 section 12. This section is entitled "Problems With Pay." SCDC Policy ADM 15.13 section 12 reads:

12. Problems with Inmate Pay:

12.1 Inmates must report any problems in their pay to their institution's inmate pay designee utilizing the Automated Request to Staff Member (ARTSM) within 15 days of the payroll date error. The inmate should maintain a record of the ARTSM reference number. The inmate pay designee will review the case and determine whether any additional pay is owed. Payroll corrections will be limited to the following:

- If the inmate fails to notify the Agency in writing and within 15 days, no back pay will be given.
- The pay rate will be adjusted to the proper rate amount for future payrolls in accordance with these procedures.
- The inmate may receive additional pay owed for the previous two (2) pay periods only.

Id. at section 12.1. As this language indicates, the policy is phrased in mandatory terms. Inmates "must" (1) report "any" problems in their pay; (2) to their institution's inmate pay designee; (3) using the Automated Request to Staff Member (ARTSM);<sup>1</sup> and (4) within 15 days of the payroll date error. Id.

“The inmate pay designee will then review the case and determine whether any additional pay is owed.” Id. (emphasis added). If, after review, additional pay is owed, the “inmate pay designee will make the appropriate entry to deposit the additional pay into the inmate’s pay account.” Id. at section 12.2. Pay rate corrections may also be made. Id. The inmate pay designee is the person designated by the policy to “respond to inmate pay problems as prescribed in [section 12].” Id.

Nothing in Appellant’s submissions to the Department suggests an attempt to utilize the problems with pay system established by Policy ADM 15.13 section 12.1.<sup>2</sup> None of Appellant’s submissions to the Department reference ADM 15.13 or any of its provisions. Inmate pay complaints are commenced using the ARTSM, the automated kiosk, but Appellant initiated his wage complaint using the standard internal grievance system. Decisions on pay complaints, including whether additional pay is owed, are made by the inmate pay designee. Decisions on inmate grievances are made by different personnel.

Appellant does not appear to dispute that he failed to follow Policy ADM 15.13, Section 12.1. Instead, his brief on appeal argues that Policy ADM 15.13 would not apply because he was not given notice of it. Appellant appears to argue that he should be excused from complying with ADM 15.13 because the Department was obligated to inform him of it and failed to do so.<sup>3</sup>

<sup>2</sup> The Court recognizes that, in some cases, an inmate’s grievance itself could be an attempt to invoke SCDC Policy ADM 15.13 section 12.1. In those cases, an inmate whose complaint was otherwise untimely might still have a claim to backpay for the fifteen-day period immediately preceding the filing of the grievance. Here, however, the Court cannot construe Appellant’s filing as an attempt to invoke provisions of the inmate pay policy. As discussed above, Appellant initiated the claim using the standard internal grievance procedure rather than the automated kiosk. Notably, the Court does not construe ADM 15.13 and the inmate grievance system as mutually exclusive alternatives. Department rules and policies are ordinarily construed in the same manner as statutes. See, e.g., Vector Marketing Corp. v. New Hampshire Dept. of Revenue Admin., 942 A.2d 1261, 1263 (N.H. 2008) (“We use the same principles of construction in interpreting administrative rules as we use with statutes”); Lewis v. Jacksonville Bldg. & Loan Ass’n, 540 S.W.2d 307, 310 (Tex. 1976); State ex rel. Staples v. Young, 418 N.W.2d 333, 336 (Wis. Ct.App.1987). The Court is therefore required to harmonize ADM 15.13 with the internal grievance system if possible. Hodges v. Rainey, 341 S.C. 79, 88–89, 533 S.E.2d 578, 583 (2000). ADM 15.13 can be construed so that both are effective. ADM 15.13(12.1) requires that inmates who question their rate of pay must report the issue through the Automated Request to Staff Member (ARTSM) within 15 days of the payroll date error. If, after doing so, the Department does not take proper corrective action as outlined in ADM 15.13, then the inmate may resort to the grievance system to address the Department’s violation of ADM 15.13. Both policies may be given effect in this manner. Were the Court to conclude otherwise, ADM 15.13 would simply cease to exist for cases involving the Prevailing Wage Act.

<sup>3</sup> Appellant cites no authority advancing that argument. To the extent that Appellant’s argument can be construed as arguing that he was not aware he was entitled to be paid a prevailing wage, the Court notes that all citizens are imputed to have knowledge of the law. Labruce v. City of North Charleston, 268 S.C. 465, 467, 234 S.E.2d 866, 867 (1977)(“Citizens are charged with knowledge of existing law. Accordingly, cognizance of city ordinances is presumed.” (internal citation omitted)).

Appellant asserts that in the absence of such notification, he was not aware of the need to register a complaint about his pay under ADM 15.13.

The Court construes this argument to be one asserting that the Department is equitably estopped from relying on ADM 15.13, or, alternatively that the Department waived compliance with ADM 15.13 by its conduct. Such arguments are flawed. As discussed in more detail below, section 1-23-380 statutorily requires that all administrative remedies available at the Department be exhausted before an aggrieved party is entitled to judicial review. It is unclear whether the doctrine of equitable estoppel applies in the Administrative Law Court, but, even assuming it does, no conduct by the Department, whether it be termed equitable estoppel or waiver, can vary or alter the terms of section 1-23-380. The Court must independently determine whether it has jurisdiction, even if no party contests jurisdiction or all parties agree that the Court has jurisdiction. See 4 Am. Jur. 2d Appellate Review § 75 (February 2024 Update) (“[t]he parties may not confer jurisdiction on an appellate court by waiver, acquiescence, consent, or estoppel”).

Because the Department’s conduct cannot excuse compliance with ADM 15.13 and ADM 15.13 applies to Appellant’s claim, the Court now turns to the effect of Appellant’s undisputed noncompliance with ADM 15.13. The Court concludes that Appellant’s noncompliance divests the Court of jurisdiction to entertain the appeal. ADM 15.13 provides an administrative remedy for disputes regarding an inmate’s rate of pay.<sup>4</sup> Appellant did not avail himself of this avenue for relief in a timely manner.

The failure to timely avail oneself of an administrative remedy constitutes a failure to exhaust administrative remedies. As the United States Supreme Court explained in the Woodford v. Ngo:

Because exhaustion requirements are designed to deal with parties who do not want to exhaust, administrative law creates an incentive for these parties to do what they would otherwise prefer not to do, namely, to give the agency a fair and full opportunity to adjudicate their claims. Administrative law does this by requiring proper exhaustion of administrative remedies, which “means using all steps that the agency holds out, and doing so properly (so that the agency addresses the issues on the merits)." Pozo, 286 F.3d, at 1024 (emphasis in original). This Court has described the doctrine as follows: "[A]s a general rule ... courts should not topple over administrative decisions unless the administrative body not only has erred, but has erred against objection made at the time appropriate under its practice." United States v. L.A. Tucker Truck Lines, Inc., 344 U.S. 33, 37, 73 S.Ct. 67, 97 L.Ed. 54 (1952) (emphasis added in Woodford). See also Sims v. Apfel, 530 U.S. 103, 108, 120 S.Ct. 2080, 147 L.Ed.2d 80 (2000); id., at 112, 120 S.Ct. 2080 (O'Connor, J., concurring in part and concurring in judgment) ("On this underlying principle of administrative law, the Court is unanimous"); id., at 114–115, 120 S.Ct. 2080 (BREYER, J., dissenting); Unemployment Compensation Comm'n of Alaska v. Aragon, 329 U.S. 143, 155, 67 S.Ct. 245, 91 L.Ed. 136 (1946); Hormel v. Helvering, 312 U.S. 552, 556–557, 61 S.Ct. 719, 85 L.Ed. 1037 (1941); 2 K. Davis & R. Pierce, Administrative Law Treatise § 15:8, pp. 341–344 (3d ed.1994). Proper exhaustion demands compliance with an agency's deadlines and other critical procedural rules because no adjudicative system can function effectively without imposing some orderly structure on the course of its proceedings.

<sup>4</sup> SCDC Policy ADM 15.13 section 12.1 expressly provides that no back pay will be given if the inmate’s notification is untimely. In contrast, section 12.1 does not specify what penalty will be imposed upon an inmate’s request to adjust his pay rate to the correct amount for future pay periods if the inmate’s request is untimely. The Court concludes, however, that section 12.1’s requirement that inmates must report problems in their pay to their institution’s inmate pay designee within 15 days of the payroll date error applies equally to all payroll complaints. An inmate whose complaint is untimely is therefore entitled to no relief. Of course, any bar would apply solely to the pay period about which an inmate has complained. Complaints associated with future pay periods, including requests to adjust the pay rate for future pay, would not be affected by the untimeliness of a complaint about a prior pay period.

Woodford v. Ngo, 548 U.S. 81, 90–92, 126 S. Ct. 2378, 2385–86 (2006).

The facts of Woodford are similar to the facts of this case. Woodford involved a California inmate. Although the time frames differ slightly, the inmate grievance process in California is similar to that contained in SCDC Policy GA. 01.12(13.2). To initiate an inmate grievance in California, an inmate must fill out a simple form. Id. at 85-86. Then, as explained on the form itself, the prisoner "must first informally seek relief through discussion with the appropriate staff member." Id. The staff member fills in part C of the form under the heading "Staff Response" and then returns the form to the inmate. Id. If the prisoner is dissatisfied with the result of the informal review, the inmate may pursue a formal review process which involves a written complaint on a specified form. Id. The inmate then must submit the form, together with a few other documents, to the appeals coordinator within fifteen working days of the action taken. Id. If the prisoner receives an adverse determination at this first level the inmate may proceed to the second level of review conducted by the warden by completing section F of the form and submitting the form within fifteen working days of the prior decision. Id. In Woodford, the United States Supreme Court held that an inmate failed to exhaust administrative remedies because the inmate filed his formal grievance well after the applicable fifteen working day deadline. Id. at 102.

Woodford was decided under the federal Prison Litigation Reform Act but the South Carolina Supreme Court took a similar position in Brown v. James, a case involving a school board's authority to terminate a teacher under the Teacher Employment and Dismissal Act, S.C. Code Ann. § 59-24-420 (2004). Brown v. James, 389 S.C. 41, 48, 697 S.E.2d 604, 608 (Ct. App.

2010). The court in Brown stated that “[i]n order to fully exhaust [the teacher’s] administrative remedies, [the teacher] was required to request a hearing before the Board within the time frame prescribed by the Employment and Dismissal Act.” Id. 389 S.C. at 51, 697 S.E.2d at 609 (emphasis added). While the court in Brown concluded that the teacher’s circuit court action was not barred by exhaustion of administrative remedies, Brown is notable for its stance on compliance with applicable deadlines as part and parcel of exhaustion of administrative remedies. It is undisputed that Appellant did not timely avail himself of possible redress under ADM 15.13. The Court therefore concludes that Appellant failed to exhaust his administrative remedies.

The South Carolina Court of Appeals held that subject matter jurisdiction is distinct from the doctrine of exhaustion of administrative remedies. Cap. City Ins. Co. v. BP Staff, Inc., 382 S.C. 92, 100, 674 S.E.2d 524, 538-20 (Ct. App. 2009). As the Court of Appeals explained, “subject matter jurisdiction is the power of a court to hear and determine a class of cases.” Id., 382 S.C. at 100, 674 S.E.2d at 528 (quoting Skinner v. Westinghouse Elec. Corp., 380 S.C. 91, 93-94, 668 S.E.2d 795, 796 (2008)). In contrast, the failure to exhaust administrative remedies goes to whether a suit is premature. Id., 382 S.C. at 100, 674 S.E.2d at 529. The Capital City court described the doctrine of exhaustion of administrative remedies as a rule of policy and convenience rather than a rule of jurisdiction. Id.

Exhaustion of administrative remedies in Circuit Court is of course not generally jurisdictional. This case, however, is pending before the Administrative Law Court, which alters the analysis. Our Supreme Court has emphasized that in administrative matters, statutory provisions control. In Bone v. U.S Food Serv., the South Carolina Supreme Court stated:

[t]oday we reiterate that appeals in administrative agency matters are handled differently than appeals in other cases. The South Carolina General Assembly enacted the APA's mechanisms for review to provide uniform procedures after the exhaustion of administrative remedies; the APA's provisions are controlling in these agency matters and supersede any conflicting provisions.

399 S.C. 566, 585, 733 S.E.2d 200, 210 (2012) (adhered to on reh'g, 404 S.C. 67, 744 S.E.2d 552 (2013)).

This principle affects the application of exhaustion of administrative remedies in administrative matters. As the United States Court of Appeals for the District of Columbia has explained in addressing exhaustion of administrative remedies under federal administrative law:

the word “exhaustion” now describes two distinct legal concepts. The first is a judicially created doctrine requiring parties who seek to challenge agency action to exhaust available administrative remedies before bringing their case to court. We will call this doctrine “non-jurisdictional exhaustion.” . . .

The second form of exhaustion arises when Congress requires resort to the administrative process as a predicate to judicial review. This “jurisdictional exhaustion” is rooted, not in prudential principles, but in Congress' power to control the jurisdiction of the federal courts. Whether a statute requires exhaustion is purely a question of statutory interpretation.

Avocados Plus Inc. v. Veneman, 370 F.3d 1243, 1247–48 (D.C. Cir. 2004) (internal citations omitted). Our Court of Appeals has noted that the common law doctrine of exhaustion of administrative remedies is commonly and mistakenly conflated with the jurisdiction of an appellate court to entertain an administrative appeal. Adamson v. Richland Cnty. Sch. Dist. One, 332 S.C. 121, 125, 503 S.E.2d 752, 754 (Ct. App. 1998) (“[t]he requirement of exhaustion of administrative remedies vis-a-vis a court's authority to hear a case involving an agency, where a plaintiff has not asked the agency for relief, is often confused”). It has drawn a clear distinction between the two exhaustion requirements. In Vaught v. Waites, for example, the Court of Appeals discussed the common law doctrine of exhaustion of remedies, but, in doing so, also stated that “[w]e express no opinion whether failure to exhaust administrative remedies is jurisdictional under the Administrative Procedures Act.” 300 S.C. 201, 205 at n. 2, 387 S.E.2d 91, 93 at n. 2 (Ct.App. 1989) (overruled on other grounds by Paradis v. Charleston County Sch. Dist., 433 S.C. 562, 861 S.E.2d 774 (2021)).

The ALC is a creature of statute and must depend entirely upon constitutional and statutory provisions for its authority and jurisdiction. See generally S.C. Code Ann. §§ 1-23-500, et seq. (Supp. 2023). “The General Assembly has the authority to limit the subject matter jurisdiction of a court it has created; therefore, it can prescribe the parameters of the ALC's powers.” Amisub of S.C., Inc. v. S.C. Dep't of Health & Env't Control, 403 S.C. 576, 585, 743 S.E.2d 786, 791 (2013). It follows that where the Legislature has prescribed requirements which must be satisfied before the ALC may address a matter, those requirements are jurisdictional.

Whether exhaustion of remedies is jurisdictional in the ALC therefore depends upon whether exhaustion of remedies is statutorily mandated. See S.C. Dep't of Health & Env't Control v. Blocker, No. 15-ALJ-07-0554-CC, 2016 WL 5867852 at 6 (S.C. Admin L. Ct. Oct. 3, 2016) (stating discretion whether to apply doctrine of exhaustion of remedies disappears when the administrative remedies are prescribed by statute). See generally Responsible Econ. Dev. v. S.C. Dep't of Health & Env't Control, 371 S.C. 547, 553, 641 S.E.2d 425, 428 (2007) (“[R]egulatory bodies...have only the authority granted them by the legislature.”).

This matter is an appeal from a decision by the Department. The Court has authority to preside over all appeals from final decisions of contested cases from the Department of Corrections. S.C. Code Ann. § 1-23-600(D) (Supp. 2023). Review of such decisions must be conducted in the same manner as prescribed by Section 1-23-380 for judicial review of final agency decisions. S.C. Code Ann. § 1-23-600(E) (Supp. 2023). Section 1-23-380 in turn provides in pertinent part that: “[a] party who has exhausted all administrative remedies available within the agency and who is aggrieved by a final decision in a contested case is entitled to judicial review pursuant to this article and Article 1.” S.C. Code Ann. § 1-23-380 (Supp. 2023) (emphasis added). This statute expressly refers to exhaustion of all administrative remedies as a condition precedent to judicial review. The statute is titled “Judicial review upon exhaustion of administrative remedies.” Id. (emphasis added). By acknowledging that judicial review is available upon exhaustion of administrative remedies, the section’s title confirms the exhaustion of administrative remedies is a statutory condition precedent to judicial review. See Lindsay v. S. Farm Bureau Cas. Ins. Co., 258 S.C. 272, 277, 188 S.E.2d 374, 376 (1972) (“It is ‘proper to consider the title or caption of an act in aid of construction to show the intent of the legislature’”).

The South Carolina Supreme Court construes section 1-23-380 in this fashion. Discussing section 1-23-380, our Supreme Court has stated that “the statute also provides that the appealing party must exhaust their administrative remedies before resorting to judicial review.” Nucor Steel v. S.C. Pub. Serv. Comm'n, 312 S.C. 79, 83–84, 439 S.E.2d 270, 272 (1994) (emphasis added). Or, as Justice Hearn explained:

Exhausting one's administrative remedies is a threshold requirement to obtaining review in the courts. Thus, prior to appealing to the circuit court or the court of appeals, the appellant must have already exhausted his administrative remedies and obtained a final decision from the agency. This is the effect of sections 1–23–380 and 1–23–610.

Bone, 399 S.C. at 585, 733 S.E.2d at 210 (emphasis added) (Hearn J., dissenting); see also Wright v. S.C. Dep't of Soc. Servs., No. 2008-UP-316, 2008 WL 9843964, at *1 (S.C. Ct. App. June 25, 2008) (“[a]fter an aggrieved party ‘has exhausted all administrative remedies available’ within the Department, he may seek judicial review of the decision”).

The Court therefore concludes that section 1-23-380 imposes a mandatory statutory requirement that all administrative remedies be exhausted before judicial review is available.<sup>5</sup> Accordingly, exhaustion of administrative remedies is jurisdictional in appeals at the Administrative Law Court.<sup>6</sup>

Because Appellant failed to exhaust his administrative remedies, and this failure deprives the Court of jurisdiction, dismissal is appropriate.<sup>7</sup> The Court recognizes that, if Appellant is correct,<sup>8</sup> the outcome of this order may be considered harsh. Unfortunately, the Court simply lacks the authority to address Appellant's claims.

<sup>5</sup> The Court is aware of that section 1-23-380 provides that a "preliminary, procedural, or intermediate agency action or ruling is immediately reviewable if review of the final agency decision would not provide an adequate remedy." However, this part of section 1-23-380 applies, by its terms, only to intermediate or interlocutory appeals.

<sup>6</sup> Appellant argues in a cursory manner that he should be excused from compliance with ADM 15.13 because compliance would be futile. Futility is an exception to the judicial doctrine of exhaustion of administrative remedies. E.g., Holman v. S.C. Educ. Lottery Comm'n, 441 S.C. 18, 32, 891 S.E.2d 701, 708 (Ct.App. 2023). However, futility is not an exception to jurisdictional or statutory exhaustion of remedies unless a particular statute expressly authorizes such an exception. Weinberger v. Salfi, 422 U.S. 749, 766-67 (1975) (statutory requirement for exhaustion of remedies cannot be dispensed with merely by a judicial conclusion of futility); Osage Producers Assoc. v. Jewell, 191 F.Supp.3d 1243, 1253 (N.D.Okla. 2016) (the court may not read futility or other exceptions into a statute not expressly provided by Congress); see also Ward v. State, 343 S.C. 14, 18-19, 538 S.E.2d 245, 247 (2000) ("[w]here exhaustion of remedies is statutorily mandated . . . legislative intent prevails").

<sup>7</sup> Some courts view the failure to exhaust administrative remedies in administrative cases as depriving an appellate court of subject matter jurisdiction. See e.g., Silverton Mountain Guides LLC v. U.S. Forest Serv., No. 3:22-CV-00048-JMK, 2023 WL 6148122, at *8 (D. Alaska Sept. 20, 2023); Abrons Fam. Prac. & Urgent Care, PA v. N. Carolina Dep't of Health & Hum. Servs., 810 S.E.2d 224, 228 (N.C. 2018). Issues relating to subject matter jurisdiction may be raised at any time and should be taken notice of by the court on its own motion. Ness v. Eckerd Corp., 350 S.C. 399, 402, 566 S.E.2d 193, 195 (Ct. App. 2002). However, even if the failure to exhaust administrative remedies is viewed as merely depriving the Court of appellate jurisdiction, the jurisdictional issue is still one which should be raised by the Court on its own motion. See e.g., Gateway Assocs. Ltd. P'ship v. Techna Corp., 966 F.2d 1452 (Table) (1992 WL 112287) (6th Cir. 1992) ("[i]t is therefore ORDERED that the plaintiff's appeal and the defendant's cross-appeal are dismissed sua sponte for lack of appellate jurisdiction."); Dieffenbach v. Att'y Gen. of Vermont, 604 F.2d 187, 199 (2d Cir. 1979) ("[w]e see no apparent reason for treating lack of appellate jurisdiction in any different manner [than subject matter jurisdiction], and the court may, on its own motion, dismiss the appeal"); Hamze v. Hall, 211 So.3d 47, 47 (Fla. Dist. Ct. App. 2016) (the "cause is sua sponte dismissed for lack of appellate jurisdiction."); Com. ex rel. Ransom Twp. v. Mascheska, 239 A.2d 386, 387 (Pa. 1968) ("[a]lthough this case was argued on its merits and neither party has objected to an assumption of jurisdiction by this Court, our lack of direct appellate jurisdiction can, and should, be raised sua sponte").

<sup>8</sup> The Court makes no determination one way or another regarding the propriety of the actions of the Department below. This order does not reach the merits of the case.

ORDER

IT IS THEREFORE ORDERED that this appeal is hereby DISMISSED.
