ARGUMENT7

 I. The circuit court erred in denying the Motion to Compel Arbitration and, in turn, denying the Motions to Stay.7

 A. The circuit court erred in finding the language of the Power of Attorney dispositive.9

 B. The circuit court should have granted the Underlying Motions based on the Facility’s merger/equitable estoppel argument. More specifically, it should have found (1) that the Admission Agreement and the Arbitration Agreement merged and (2) that, because Mr. Stroud effectively embraced and directly benefitted from the Admission Agreement, Plaintiff is estopped to deny the enforceability of the Arbitration Agreement merged therewith.10

 C. The circuit court erred in characterizing the Arbitration Agreement as a “mandatory” agreement that “Defendants’ representative” “required” Mrs. Stroud to sign as a “condition” of Mr. Stroud’s residency at the Facility and, in turn, finding that the Arbitration Agreement runs afoul of federal law governing Medicare and Medicaid reimbursements.24

 D. The circuit court erred in finding that the Arbitration Agreement is not supported by sufficient consideration.26

 E. The circuit court erred in finding that the Facility was not sufficiently diligent in determining whether Mrs. Stroud had authority to sign the Arbitration Agreement for Mr. Stroud.28

F. At a minimum, the circuit court should have granted the Facility’s alternative request for permission to conduct limited discovery to address gaps in the evidentiary record bearing on the Arbitration Agreement’s enforceability under an agency theory.32

STATEMENT OF THE CASE

With Mrs. Stroud's help, Mr. Stroud was admitted as a resident of the Facility in March of 2017 and later readmitted to the Facility in October of 2018, following a two-week hospital stay. Mrs. Stroud handled the paperwork both times, and both times she signed an Admission Agreement⁷ and an Arbitration Agreement⁸ on Mr. Stroud's behalf.

Representing to the Facility that she was authorized to act on behalf of Mr. Stroud, Mrs. Stroud identified herself as Mr. Stroud's attorney-in-fact pursuant to a

⁶ This issue, and the corresponding argument, includes the circuit court's error in conflating Defendants and disregarding their status as separate and distinct entities.

Durable Power of Attorney (the “Power of Attorney”), a copy of which she provided to the Facility at the time of Mr. Stroud’s admission. (R. p. 83:2–3, pp. 96–115, p. 189.) But unbeknownst to the Facility—and although it grants Mrs. Stroud broad authority over Mr. Stroud’s affairs, to expressly include over his legal affairs, indeed, to expressly include the power to “arbitrate” on his behalf⁹—the Power of Attorney contains a provision, located near the end, that prohibits Mrs. Stroud from entering into arbitration agreements on Mr. Stroud’s behalf and disavows any other provision to the contrary.¹⁰

⁸ (R. p. 95, p. 187.) The Arbitration Agreement that Mrs. Stroud signed in 2017 is the same as the one she signed in 2018. Hereinafter, for the sake of convenience, this brief simply refers to “the” Arbitration Agreement, in the singular.

⁹ See footnote 10, infra.

¹⁰ All told, the Power of Attorney is 20 pages long. (R. pp. 96–115.) The provision that prohibits Mrs. Stroud from entering into arbitration agreements on Mr. Stroud’s behalf and disavows any other provision to the contrary does not begin until page 14. It is in Article VII(6), and it states, “[n]otwithstanding any provision herein to the contrary . . . I reserve unto myself and do not grant unto my Attorney in Fact the power to waive my right to jury trial and enter into Arbitration Agreements. I do not favor Arbitration, and for that reason I do not grant unto my Attorney in Fact the power to enter Arbitration Agreements.” (R. pp. 109–110.) Earlier, however, on page 5, in Article I(12), headed “Power with Respect to Legal and Other Actions” (R. p. 100 (original bold print and underlining omitted)), the Power of Attorney expressly states that Mrs. Stroud has the power to “arbitrate” on Mr. Stroud’s behalf. (R. p. 100 (granting Mrs. Stroud the power “[t]o institute, supervise, prosecute, defend, intervene in, abandon, compromise, arbitrate, settle, dismiss, and appeal from any and all legal, equitable, judicial or administrative hearings, actions, suits, proceedings, attachments, arrests or distresses, involving [Mr. Stroud] in any way . . ..”) (emphasis added).) Additionally, on page 3, in Article I(6), headed “Power to Operate Businesses” (R. p. 98 (original bold print and underlining omitted)), the Power of Attorney expressly states that Mrs. Stroud has the power “to defend, submit to arbitration, settle or compromise any action or other legal proceeding to which

Besides the Power of Attorney, Mrs. Stroud also represented herself to the Facility as authorized to act for Mr. Stroud via the Admission Agreement and the Arbitration Agreement. Mrs. Stroud signed both the Admission Agreement and the Arbitration Agreement as “‘Resident’s^[11] Durable Power of Attorney for Health Care’/‘Resident’s Legal Guardian’/‘Resident’s Responsible Party.’” (R. p. 95, p. 163, p. 175, p. 187.) In signing the Admission Agreement, Mrs. Stroud “verifie[d] that all information submitted to [the] Facility . . . is true and correct”¹² and expressly acknowledged that the “promises and representations [she made therein were] in order to induce [the] Facility to enter into this Agreement” and that the “Facility [wa]s relying upon the truthfulness of the promises and representations [she] made.” (R. p. 174, p. 186.) And in signing the Arbitration Agreement itself, Mrs. Stroud expressly “represent[ed] that . . . she ha[d] authority to sign on [Mr. Stroud’s] behalf so as to bind [him] as well as [herself].” (R. p. 95, p. 187.)

[Mr. Stroud is] a party because of [his] membership in [a] partnership.” (R. p. 98 (emphasis added).) Also on page 3, in Article I(8), headed “Power to Demand and Receive” (R. p. 98 (original bold print and underlining omitted)), the Power of Attorney expressly states that Mrs. Stroud has the power “[t]o demand, arbitrate, settle, sue for, collect, receive, deposit, expend for [Mr. Stroud’s benefit] benefit, reinvest or make such other appropriate disposition of as [Mrs. Stroud] deems appropriate, all cash, rights to the payment of cash, property . . . rights and/or benefits to which [Mr. Stroud is] now or may in the future become entitled” (R. p. 98 (emphasis added).)

¹¹ Mr. Stroud is the referenced “Resident.”

¹² (R. p. 163, p. 175.)

Plaintiff commenced this action in the Greenville County Court of Common Pleas on March 19, 2020, alleging Defendants are liable for money damages because of deficient care/treatment Mr. Stroud received during his residency at the Facility. (R. pp. 15–25.)

On February 12, 2021, the Facility moved to compel Plaintiff’s claims against it to arbitration based on the Arbitration Agreement (the “Motion to Compel Arbitration”),¹³ and the Other Defendants moved to stay this lawsuit pending the outcome of the Motion to Compel Arbitration and of any resulting arbitration between Plaintiff and the Facility, i.e., until the issue of arbitrability is finally determined and any arbitration proceedings resulting from that determination are themselves finally concluded (collectively, the “Motions to Stay”). (R. pp. 116–

¹³ (R. pp. 93–94, pp. 125–162.) Without question, Plaintiff’s claims against the Facility are within the scope of the Arbitration Agreement. (R. p. 95, p. 187 (“[A]ny controversy or dispute between the parties arising out of or relating to [the] Facility’s Admission Agreement, or breach thereof, or relating in any way to [Mr. Stroud’s] stay at [the] Facility, or to the provisions of care or services to [Mr. Stroud], including but not limited to any alleged tort, personal injury, negligence or other claim; or any federal or state statutory or regulatory claim of any kind; or whether or not there has been a violation of any right or rights granted under State law (collectively ‘Disputes’), and the parties are unable to resolve such through negotiation, then the parties agree that such Dispute(s) shall be resolved by arbitration”)) This plain language clearly embraces the subject matter of Plaintiff’s claims against the Facility, but even if there were “any doubts concerning the scope of arbitrable issues[,] [they] should be resolved in favor of arbitration” Towles v. United HealthCare Corp., 338 S.C. 29, 41, 524 S.E.2d 839, 846 (Ct. App. 1999); see also Zabinski v. Bright Acres Assocs., 346 S.C. 580, 597, 553 S.E.2d 110, 118 (2001) (“[U]nless the court can say with positive assurance that the arbitration clause is not 119.)¹⁴ Together, the Motion to Compel Arbitration and the Motions to Stay are referred to collectively as the “Underlying Motions.”

Following a hearing on the Underlying Motions on June 29, 2021, the circuit court, the Honorable Alex Kinlaw, Jr., presiding, directed counsel (i.e., all counsel, Plaintiff’s and Defendants’) to submit proposed orders, which they did. (R. pp. 1–3, pp. 52–92, pp. 188–213.) The circuit court then denied the Underlying Motions by order filed August 17, 2021. (R. pp. 4–13.) On August 27, 2021, pursuant to Rule 59(e), SCRCF, Defendants timely moved the circuit court to alter, amend, and/or reconsider its decision. (R. pp. 214–228.) The circuit court denied the motion by order filed March 1, 2022. (R. p. 14.)

By notice served and filed March 30, 2022, this appeal timely follows. (R. pp. 229–235.)

STANDARD OF REVIEW

A circuit court’s determination of whether a claim is subject to arbitration is reviewed de novo on appeal. Gissel v. Hart, 382 S.C. 235, 240, 676 S.E.2d 320, 323 (2009). This includes de novo review of the determination of whether an arbitration susceptible to an interpretation that covers the dispute, arbitration should be ordered.”).

agreement is enforceable against a nonsignatory. Wilson v. Willis, 426 S.C. 326, 334, 827 S.E.2d 167, 172 (2019). “Under de novo review, a circuit court’s factual findings will not be reversed on appeal if any evidence reasonably supports those findings.” Id. Issues of law, however, are reviewed without any particular deference to the circuit court. See, e.g., Duke Energy Corp. v. S.C. Dep’t of Revenue, 415 S.C. 351, 782 S.E.2d 590 (2016). Even where a ruling is on a matter within circuit court’s discretion, if the ruling is based on a misunderstanding of the law, rather than upon the exercise of discretion, the question presented on appeal is one of law. See Bain v. Self Mem’l Hosp., 281 S.C. 138, 152, 314 S.E.2d 603, 611 (Ct. App. 1984).

ARGUMENT

I. The circuit court erred in denying the Motion to Compel Arbitration and, in turn, denying the Motions to Stay.

The relationship between the Motion to Compel Arbitration and the Motions to Stay is such that, insofar as the circuit court was concerned, the denial of the former mooted the latter. The fates of these motions are similarly intertwined in this Court: If the Motion to Compel Arbitration was properly denied, so too were the Motions to Stay, but if the Motion to Compel Arbitration should have been granted—and, respectfully, it should have—so too should have the Motions to Stay. See 9 U.S.C. § 3 (“If any suit or proceeding be brought in any of the courts of the United States upon any issue referable to arbitration under an agreement in writing for such arbitration, the court in which such suit is pending, upon being satisfied that the issue involved in such suit or proceeding is referable to arbitration under such an agreement, shall on application of one of the parties stay the trial of the action until such arbitration has been had in accordance with the terms of the agreement, providing the applicant for the stay is not in default in proceeding with such arbitration.”) (emphasis added); Stokes v. Metro. Life Ins. Co., 351 S.C. 606, 612, 571 S.E.2d 711, 715 (Ct. App. 2002) (“[The] FAA clearly requires a court stay ‘any suit or proceeding’ pending the arbitration of ‘any issue referable to arbitration under an agreement in writing for such arbitration’ upon the application of one of the parties.”); see also Episcopal Housing Corp. v. Federal Ins. Co., 269 S.C. 631, 641, 239 S.E.2d 647, 652 (1977) (“The fact that Federal is not a party to an arbitration agreement does not prevent an order staying the judicial proceedings pending arbitration between those who are parties to such an agreement.”). Accordingly, the within argument not only shows that the circuit court erred in denying the Motion to Compel Arbitration but also shows that the circuit court erred in denying the Motions to Stay, which are not properly viewed as moot but rather should have been granted along with the Motion to Compel Arbitration.

A. The circuit court erred in finding the language of the Power of Attorney dispositive.¹⁵

To be clear, the Facility duly raised its merger/equitable estoppel argument to the circuit court in support of the Motion to Compel Arbitration,¹⁶ and this argument is unscathed by the language in the Power of Attorney disallowing Mrs. Stroud authority to agree to arbitration on Mr. Stroud’s behalf. Conceptually, the Facility’s merger/equitable estoppel argument is not an argument for the enforceability of the Arbitration Agreement but rather for Mr. Stroud and, in turn, Plaintiff, his guardian ad litem, who is proceeding on his behalf, to be estopped to deny the enforceability of the Arbitration Agreement. See Coleman v. Mariner Health Care, Inc., 407 S.C. 346, 354, 755 S.E.2d 450, 455 (2014) (“Appellants contend that even if Sister lacked capacity to execute the [arbitration agreement] under the [Adult Health Care Consent] Act, she is nevertheless equitably estopped to deny the [arbitration agreement’s] enforceability.”) (emphasis added). In short, the idea is that the Admission Agreement and the Arbitration Agreement merged, and because Mr. Stroud effectively embraced and directly benefitted from the Admission Agreement, Plaintiff (who stands in place of Mr. Stroud) is estopped to deny the enforceability of the Arbitration Agreement merged therewith. Accordingly, any contention about the

¹⁶ (R. pp. 58:12–59:14, pp. 64:19–77:7, pp. 84:18–89:19, pp. 146–156, pp. 205–211.)

Arbitration Agreement's supposed lack of enforceability (whether because of Mrs. Stroud's lack of authority per the language of the Power of Attorney or because of another alleged defect in contract formation) is beside the point and unavailing to refute the Facility's merger/equitable estoppel argument, which, again, turns not on the question of whether the Facility showed that the Arbitration Agreement is enforceable but whether it showed that Plaintiff should be estopped to deny that the Arbitration Agreement is enforceable—and, most respectfully, the Facility did so.

B. The circuit court should have granted the Underlying Motions based on the Facility's merger/equitable estoppel argument. More specifically, it should have found (1) that the Admission Agreement and the Arbitration Agreement merged and (2) that, because Mr. Stroud effectively embraced and directly benefitted from the Admission Agreement, Plaintiff is estopped to deny the enforceability of the Arbitration Agreement merged therewith.

South Carolina recognizes numerous theories under which a nonsignatory can be bound to an arbitration agreement. See Wilson, 426 S.C. at 338, 827 S.E.2d at 174 (“South Carolina has recognized several theories that could bind nonsignatories to arbitration agreements under general principles of contract and agency law, including (1) incorporation by reference, (2) assumption, (3) agency, (4) veil piercing/alter ego, and (5) estoppel.”); Coleman, 407 S.C. at 355, 755 S.E.2d at 455 (acknowledging the possibility of enforcing an arbitration agreement against a nonsignatory via merger and equitable estoppel: “Appellants’ equitable estoppel argument is premised on their contention that, under state law, the admission agreements and the [arbitration agreements] merged. . . . Here, the documents were executed at the same time, by the same parties, for the same purposes, and in the course of the same transaction. Unless there is a contrary intention, appellants are correct that there was a merger.”).

Even though Mr. Stroud is a nonsignatory to the Arbitration Agreement, i.e., even though he did not sign the Arbitration Agreement himself, the circuit court should have nonetheless found it enforceable against him and, in turn, against his guardian ad litem, Plaintiff, via merger and equitable estoppel.

Merger

In Coleman, even though our Supreme Court found against merger on the particular facts of the case, it nonetheless confirmed the validity of the general proposition of law on which the Coleman appellants based their merger/equitable estoppel argument:

Appellants contend that even if Sister lacked capacity to execute the [arbitration agreement] under the [Adult Health Care Consent] Act, she is nevertheless equitably estopped to deny the [arbitration agreement’s] enforceability. The circuit court held there was no estoppel here, and we agree.

Appellants’ equitable estoppel argument is premised on their contention that, under state law, the admission agreements and the [arbitration agreements] merged. In South Carolina,

The general rule is that, in the absence of anything indicating a contrary intention, where instruments are executed at the same time, by the same parties, for the same purpose, and in the course of the same transaction, the courts will consider and construe the documents together. The theory is that the instruments are effectively one instrument or contract.

Klutts Resort Realty, Inc. v. Down'Round Dev. Corp., 268 S.C. 80, 88, 232 S.E.2d 20, 24 (1977).

Here, the documents were executed at the same time, by the same parties, for the same purposes, and in the course of the same transaction. Unless there is a contrary intention, appellants are correct that there was a merger.

407 S.C. at 354–355, 755 S.E.2d at 455 (emphasis added).

The merger question examines whether, “where instruments are executed at the same time, by the same parties, for the same purpose, and in the course of the same transaction,”¹⁷ as undoubtedly the Admission Agreement and the Arbitration Agreement were here,¹⁸ there is evidence to upset the presumption in favor of merger, i.e., the presumption that the instruments were intended to be construed

¹⁷ Coleman, 407 S.C. at 355, 755 S.E.2d at 455.

¹⁸ To be clear, Coleman unequivocally answers the question of whether the instant Admission Agreement and Arbitration Agreement were executed at the same time, by the same parties, for the same purposes, and in the course of the same transaction: they were. As the Coleman Court expressly observed regarding the admission and arbitration agreements before it (which in this respect—but not in respect of the material facts bearing on the question of whether the presumption of merger is rebutted—are no different from the instant agreements), “the documents were executed at the same time, by the same parties, for the same purposes, and in together as effectively one contract. This is a question of intention. Id. at 355, 755 S.E.2d at 455 (“in the absence of anything indicating a contrary intention . . .”) (emphasis added). And “in attempting to ascertain th[e] [parties’] intention,” our courts “endeavor to determine the situation of the parties, as well as their purposes, at the time the contract was entered into.” Klutts, 268 S.C. at 89, 232 S.E.2d at 25.

It must be remembered that, where, as here, the instruments in question were executed at the same time, by the same parties, for the same purpose, and in the course of the same transaction, merger is presumed. For the merger presumption to mean anything in practice it cannot be upset based on mere conjecture, but only by actual evidence that—notwithstanding the concurrence of all the particular circumstances necessary for the presumption to even arise in the first place (same time, parties, purpose, and transaction)—can nonetheless support a reasonable, non-speculative inference that the parties’ intention was contrary to merger. Cf. The Huffines Co., LLC v. Lockhart, 365 S.C. 178, 188, 617 S.E.2d 125, 130 (Ct. App. 2005) (“[V]erdicts may not be permitted to rest upon surmise, conjecture, or speculation.”). No such inference can be drawn here. Indeed, under the circumstances, the idea that there would have been an intention contrary to merger does not make sense.

the course of the same transaction.” 407 S.C. at 355, 755 S.E.2d at 455 (emphasis added).

Unlike the arbitration agreement at issue in Coleman—and, for that matter, the arbitration agreements at issue in Coleman's progeny Thompson v. Pruitt Corp., 416 S.C. 43, 784 S.E.2d 679 (Ct. App. 2016), and Hodge v. UniHealth Post-Acute Care of Bamberg, LLC, 422 S.C. 544, 813 S.E.2d 292 (Ct. App. 2018), all of which cases involved arbitration agreements that contained a provision allowing them to be disclaimed or revoked within 30 days of signing while the corresponding admission agreements did not—the instant Arbitration Agreement has no disclaimer/revocation provision. (R. p. 95, p. 187.) Moreover, while the instant Admission Agreement does contain an “Entire Agreement” clause, it does not reference the Arbitration Agreement as a separate contract. (R. p. 174, p. 186.) Indeed, directly contradicting the idea of “separatedness” (in the parlance of the Coleman Court¹⁹), the “Entire Agreement” clause in the instant Admission Agreement expressly states that “other Admissions materials” are part of the Admission Agreement, thereby expressly contemplating the lack of its own supposed “separatedness.” (R. p. 174, p. 186.) Without question, the Arbitration Agreement is among these other materials. See Stott v. White Oak Manor, Inc., 426 S.C. 568, 571–72, 828 S.E.2d 82, 84 (Ct. App. 2019) (“The same day as Decedent’s admission to White Oak, Stott, acting as Decedent's authorized representative, signed White Oak's admission documentation—including the Arbitration Agreement.”) (emphasis added) (internal footnote omitted); Hodge, 422 S.C. at 550, 813 S.E.2d at 295 (“Her husband . . . executed various documents related to her admission, including an Arbitration Agreement and an Admission Agreement.”) (emphasis added)).

To be sure, the Arbitration Agreement was optional, i.e., agreeing to arbitration was not required as a precondition of Mr. Stroud's residency at the Facility. But all that this means is that the Arbitration Agreement did not have to be executed at all. It does not mean that the Arbitration Agreement did not become part of the admissions materials once it was in fact executed. Indeed, the fact that the Arbitration Agreement was not required for admission underscores its connectedness to the Admission Agreement. The two go together hand in glove. Without the hand (the Admission Agreement), there is no reason for the glove (the Arbitration Agreement).

Moreover, while it is true that the Arbitration Agreement is not necessary to the Admission Agreement, the converse is not true: The Admission Agreement is necessary to the Arbitration Agreement. That is, the Admission Agreement could have stood on its own, i.e., without the Arbitration Agreement ever having been executed, in which case no question of merger would have even arisen to begin with—but that is not what happened. The Arbitration Agreement was in fact executed, and it was executed under the particular circumstances that give rise to the presumption of merger—same time, parties, purpose, and transaction—but unlike the Admission Agreement, which is capable of making sense either standing alone or together with the Arbitration Agreement, the Arbitration Agreement only makes sense together with the Admission Agreement, which is its (the Arbitration Agreement’s) sole reason for being. (R. p. 95, p. 187 (providing for arbitration of “any controversy or dispute between the parties arising out of or relating to [the] Facility’s Admission Agreement, or breach thereof, or relating in any way to [Mr. Stroud’s] stay at [the] Facility, or to the provisions of care or services to [Mr. Stroud]”); id. (“This [Arbitration] Agreement shall remain in effect for all care rendered at [the] Facility”).)

Even though the Arbitration Agreement was not a condition of admission, it was agreed to in conjunction with admission; whereupon, it was intended to be considered and construed together with the Admission Agreement, such that the two were effectively one instrument governing various interrelated aspects of Mr. Stroud’s relationship with the Facility, the Admission Agreement setting forth the terms of his admission, the Arbitration Agreement providing for arbitration of disputes arising out of his admission. (Compare R. pp. 163–186 (setting forth the terms of Mr. Stroud’s admission to the Facility) with p. 95, p. 187 (providing for arbitration of disputes arising out of Mr. Stroud’s admission in the Facility).)

Also absent here is the type of discrepancy the Hodge Court pointed out with respect to the respective provisions of the admission and arbitration agreements before it as to the governing law. 422 S.C. at 562, 813 S.E.2d at 302. (Compare R. pp. 172, 184 (“This Agreement will be governed by and construed in accordance with applicable Federal regulations and those laws of the State in which Facility is located.”) with R. pp. 95, 187 (providing that, “because the services and reimbursement thereof effect a transaction involving interstate commerce, the enforcement of this Arbitration Agreement . . . shall be governed by the Federal Arbitration Action,” but also providing that arbitration shall be “as provided by the South Carolina Alternate Dispute Resolution/Mediation Rules”).) Essentially, both instruments provide that South Carolina law applies except where displaced by federal law. This provides no reasonable inference of an intent contrary to merger.

Similarly, the termination provisions provide no evidence of “separatedness.” Again, the only reason for the Arbitration Agreement is the Admission Agreement, as the point of the Arbitration Agreement is to cover disputes relating to/arising out of the Admission Agreement. So yes, the Arbitration Agreement would remain in effect after termination of the Admission Agreement, but all this means is that any claims relating to/arising out of the Admission Agreement would still have to be arbitrated even if they are not asserted until after termination of the Admission Agreement. In other words, the Arbitration Agreement is still connected to the Admission Agreement even after the termination of the Admission Agreement. This is simply how arbitration agreements work. See Hooters of America, Inc. v. Phillips, 39 F. Supp. 2d 582, 612–13 (D.S.C. 1998) (“Under South Carolina arbitration law, the duty to arbitrate under an arbitration clause in a contract survives termination of the contract.”).

The fact that the Admission Agreement and the Arbitration Agreement have their own titles, are separately paginated, and are separately signed provides no reasonable inference of an intention contrary to merger. Respectfully, to point to such things is really to do no more than to point out that the Admission Agreement and the Arbitration Agreement are separate instruments, a fact which does not actually suggest anything probative about whether they are intended to be construed together. Indeed, the question of merger will not arise in the first place unless there are multiple instruments involved. Obviously, it cannot be the case that the mere existence of the necessary factual predicate for the question of merger to arise, i.e., separate instruments, shows an intention contrary to merger. The very nature of merger is to merge separate documents.

And—besides the fact that there is indeed no ambiguity in regard to the merger of the Admission Agreement and the Arbitration Agreement—to fall back on the idea that any ambiguity in this regard must be construed against the Facility as the drafter makes no sense in this context. Merger is presumed upon the occurrence of a particular set of circumstances, those being, as stated in the above-quoted passage from Coleman, where, as here, the instruments are executed at the same time, by the same parties, for the same purpose, and in the course of the same transaction. When all these align—same time, same parties, same purpose, same transaction—our courts will consider and construe the documents together unless there is evidence of a contrary intention. The plain language of the rule endorsed in Coleman is to the effect that to upset the merger presumption requires evidence “indicating [(i.e., affirmatively showing)] a contrary intention.” 407 S.C. at 355, 755 S.E.2d at 455. To allow the merger presumption to be upset based on evidence that is merely ambiguous—i.e., that does not even go so far as to clearly indicate a contrary intention, but at most might (or might not) reflect a contrary intention—is to allow the exception to devour the rule.

The presumption of merger arises from the concurrence of the four elements of time, parties, purpose, and transaction. Coleman, 407 S.C. at 354–355, 755 S.E.2d at 455. This is why for the merger presumption to mean anything in practice it cannot be upset based on mere conjecture, but only on actual evidence that—notwithstanding the concurrence of all the particular circumstances necessary for the presumption to even arise in the first place (same time, parties, purpose, and transaction)—can nonetheless support a reasonable, non-speculative inference that the parties’ intention was contrary to merger. Cf. Huffines, 365 S.C.

at 188, 617 S.E.2d at 130 (“[V]erdicts may not be permitted to rest upon surmise, conjecture, or speculation.”). The merger presumption is “earned,” so to speak, by the fact that for it even to arise in the first place there must be, as there is here, a concurrence of particular circumstances (same time, parties, purpose, and transaction). It is the very rarity of this concurrence that both safeguards against the overzealous application of the merger doctrine and justifies ascribing to it (the concurrence) the presumptive intent of merger.

The circuit court should have found that the Arbitration Agreement merged with the Admission Agreement. The instruments were executed at the same time, by the same parties, for the same purposes, and in the course of the same transaction, the whole of which related to Mr. Stroud’s admission to the Facility and would not have been done at all but for his admission to the Facility.

Equitable Estoppel

In Wilson, our Supreme Court observed that South Carolina has recognized a number of theories under which a nonsignatory can be bound to an arbitration agreement, including under the theory of estoppel. 426 S.C. at 338, 827 S.E.2d at 174. The Wilson Court favorably discussed the framework of the so-called direct benefits test—which test the Court of Appeals had applied in the decision then before the Wilson Court for review on writ of certiorari, which followed the Court of Appeals’ earlier decision in Pearson v. Hilton Head Hospital, 400 S.C. 281, 733

S.E.2d 597 (Ct. App. 2012), and under which the Facility contends that Plaintiff is estopped from refusing to comply with the Arbitration Agreement here, where Mr. Stroud received direct benefits (in the form of his admission to and care/treatment at the Facility) from the Admission Agreement with which the Arbitration Agreement was merged. Wilson, 426 S.C. at 340–345, 827 S.E.2d at 175–177; see also id. at 340, 827 S.E.2d at 175 n.6 (while expressing no opinion on the petitioner’s alternative argument based on the application of the state’s “traditional” six-factor test for estoppel, which the Wilson Court found unpreserved for review, observing nonetheless that that test, i.e., “[t]he traditional test referenced by [the] [p]etitioners,” “has been analyzed most-often in non-arbitration cases”) (emphasis added).

The key to determining when direct benefits estoppel may be applied is not whether the claims at issue rely on contract terms to impose liability but whether benefits to the nonsignatory are direct or indirect. Wilson, 426 S.C. at 340–41, 827 S.E.2d at 175 (“Under direct benefits estoppel, [a] nonsignatory is estopped from refusing to comply with an arbitration clause ‘when it receives a direct benefit from a contract containing an arbitration clause. In the arbitration context, the doctrine recognizes that a party may be estopped from asserting that the lack of his signature on a written contract precludes enforcement of the contract’s arbitration clause when he has consistently maintained that other provisions of the same contract should be enforced to benefit him. Stated another way, [u]nder the direct benefits theory of estoppel, a nonsignatory may be compelled to arbitrate where the nonsignatory knowingly exploits the benefits of an agreement containing an arbitration clause, and receives benefits flowing directly from the agreement”) (internal citations and quotation marks omitted); id. at 343, 827 S.E.2d at 176 (“It is important to distinguish direct benefits from indirect benefits because when the benefits to a nonsignatory are merely indirect, arbitration cannot be compelled. A benefit is direct if it flows directly from the agreement. In contrast, any benefit derived from an agreement is indirect where the nonsignatory exploits the contractual relationship of the parties, but does not exploit (and thereby assume) the agreement itself.”) (internal citations omitted). Direct benefits estoppel simply recognizes, and remedies, the patent inequity that would result if a party were able to enjoy direct benefits under an agreement containing an arbitration clause (which is the case here because the Admission Agreement and the Arbitration Agreement merge) while at the same time denying that the arbitration clause is enforceable.

Properly viewing the Admission Agreement and the Arbitration Agreement as merged, Mr. Stroud received the benefit of his admission to the Facility, including, without limitation, the room, board, care, and treatment he received therein. To deny his receipt of such benefits is illogical. It would require wholly discounting every single aspect of his residency (every meal, every instance of care/treatment delivered, essentially every moment at the Facility). Even the allegations of Plaintiff's complaint do not go nearly so far as that. (R. pp. 16–25.)

The circuit court should have found Plaintiff equitably estopped to deny the Arbitration Agreement's enforceability, Mr. Stroud having effectively embraced and directly benefitted from the Admission Agreement merged therewith.²⁰

²⁰ To be clear, although the dispute here is about the Arbitration Agreement, as opposed to the Admission Agreement, to the extent there were any question about the enforceability of the Admission Agreement, the Facility's equitable estoppel argument applies with equal force to the Admission Agreement.

C. The circuit court erred in characterizing the Arbitration Agreement as a “mandatory” agreement that “Defendants’ representative” “required” Mrs. Stroud to sign as a “condition” of Mr. Stroud’s residency at the Facility and, in turn, finding that the Arbitration Agreement runs afoul of federal law governing Medicare and Medicaid reimbursements.²¹

As an initial matter, it is erroneous for the circuit court to refer to the Facility’s personnel as “Defendants’” representative.²² Defendants are separate and distinct entities. The Facility’s personnel are the Facility’s personnel and not the Other Defendants’ personnel, and there is no evidence otherwise.

²² To be clear, this goes not only for this specific instance but also for all other instances where Defendants’ separate and distinct nature is unduly disregarded or blurred.

Additionally, it is erroneous for the circuit court to state that Mrs. Stroud was “required” to sign the Arbitration Agreement—or other words to that effect, to include specifically, but without limitation, the circuit court’s reference to the Arbitration Agreement as a “mandatory” agreement that Mrs. Stroud had to sign as a “condition” of Mr. Stroud’s residency. The Facility denies that the Arbitration Agreement was required—for Mr. Stroud or any other resident—to gain admission to the Facility (or to remain admitted therein), and there is zero evidence in the record to the contrary.²³

Lastly, the circuit court’s finding that the Arbitration Agreement is founded on illegal consideration in violation of federal law governing Medicare and Medicaid reimbursements is plainly without merit. The essential premise of this finding is that the Arbitration Agreement was required as a precondition of Mr. Stroud’s residency and, therefore, constitutes improper additional consideration in violation of federal law that prohibits the Facility from “charg[ing], solicit[ing], accept[ing], or receiv[ing] . . . any other consideration as a precondition of admitting (or expediting the admission of) [a resident] . . . or as a requirement for the [resident’s] continued stay” 42 U.S.C. § 1396r(c)(5)(A)(iii) (emphasis added). This finding fails of its essential premise because, again, the Facility denies that the Arbitration Agreement was “required” for, or otherwise a condition of, Mr. Stroud’s residency, and there is nothing in the Arbitration Agreement itself or anywhere else in the record to support a reasonable conclusion otherwise.

²³ And to be clear, the record provides no support for the idea that the Facility required that Mrs. Stroud be the one who signed the Arbitration Agreement (or any other document). Rather, the record shows that, in acting on her husband’s behalf, Mrs. Stroud expressly represented to the Facility that she was authorized to do so in the Arbitration Agreement itself and that Mrs. Stroud further represented her authority to act on Mr. Stroud’s behalf by presenting the Power of Attorney to the Facility.

D. The circuit court erred in finding that the Arbitration Agreement is not supported by sufficient consideration.²⁴

With respect to consideration, the focus of the circuit court’s ruling is on the finding, refuted above, that the Arbitration Agreement constitutes improper consideration in violation of federal law governing Medicare and Medicaid reimbursements. To the extent, however, that the circuit court’s ruling can be read to include a finding that the Arbitration Agreement is not supported by sufficient consideration as a matter of contract law, it is erroneous. The Arbitration Agreement clearly contains the parties’ mutual promises to arbitrate, which is sufficient consideration. O’Neil v. Hilton Head Hosp., 115 F.3d 272, 275 (4th Cir. 1997) (“A mutual promise to arbitrate constitutes sufficient consideration for this arbitration agreement.”) (citing Rickborn v. Liberty Life Ins. Co., 321 S.C. 291, 468 S.E. 292 (1996)); see also Rickborn, 321 S.C. at 304, 468 S.E.2d at 300 (“Valuable consideration for a contract may consist of some forbearance given or detriment suffered.”).

Moreover, because the Arbitration Agreement is covered by the FAA,²⁵ to require more in the way of consideration because an agreement to arbitrate is involved would violate the FAA’s “equal footing” rule, which requires that agreements to arbitrate be placed on “equal footing” with all other contracts under state law. AT&T Mobility LLC v. Concepcion, 563 U.S. 333, 339 (2011) (Under the FAA, “courts must place arbitration agreements on equal footing with other contracts”) (emphasis added); see also Kindred Nursing Centers Ltd. P’ship v. Clark, 137

²⁵ The “FAA” is the Federal Arbitration Act, 9 U.S.C §§ 1–16. Without question, the Arbitration Agreement is governed by the FAA. For one reason, the Arbitration Agreement expressly states that the FAA applies. (R. p. 95, p. 187 (“The parties acknowledge and agree that, because the services and reimbursement thereof effects a transaction that involves interstate commerce, the enforcement of this Arbitration Agreement is not subject to the South Carolina Uniform Arbitration Act and shall be governed by the [FAA], notwithstanding any contrary provision of this Agreement or contrary state law.”). And this must be enforced like any other contract term. Damico v. Lennar Carolinas, LLC, 430 S.C. 188, 196, 844 S.E.2d 66, 70 (Ct. App. 2020) (“We first consider whether the FAA applies. We hold it does, for two reasons. First, the [subject contract] provides the parties ‘specifically agree that this transaction involves interstate commerce.’ We must enforce this agreement like any other contract term.”) (citing Munoz v. Green Tree Fin. Corp., 343 S.C. 531, 539, 542 S.E.2d 360, 363–64 (2001) (finding the FAA applied because the parties had agreed the subject contract involved interstate commerce)). Moreover, and in any event, the FAA applies “to any arbitration agreement regarding a transaction that in fact involves interstate commerce, regardless of whether or not the parties contemplated an interstate transaction.” Munoz, 343 S.C. at 538, 542 S.E.2d at 363; see also Allied-Bruce Terminix Cos., Inc. v. Dobson, 513 U.S. 265, 268 (1995) (holding that the reach of the FAA extends to the broadest permissible exercise of Congress’s power under the Commerce Clause). And our Supreme Court has expressly held that skilled nursing facility admission agreements implicate interstate commerce and, thus, the FAA. Dean v. Heritage Healthcare of Ridgeway, LLC, 408 S.C. 371, 381–82, 759 S.E.2d 727, 732–33 (2014).

S. Ct. 1421, 1423 (2017) (While a court may invalidate an arbitration agreement based on “generally applicable contract defenses,” it may not do so based on legal rules that “apply only to arbitration or that derive their meaning from the fact that an agreement to arbitrate is at issue.”); Allied-Bruce, 513 U.S. at 281 (“States may regulate contracts, including arbitration clauses, under general contract law principles and they may invalidate an arbitration clause ‘upon such grounds as exist at law or in equity for the revocation of any contract.’ What States may not do is decide that a contract is fair enough to enforce all its basic terms (price, service, credit), but not fair enough to enforce its arbitration clause. The Act makes any such state policy unlawful, for that kind of policy would place arbitration clauses on an unequal ‘footing,’ directly contrary to the Act’s language and Congress’ intent.”) (emphasis added) (internal citations omitted).

E. The circuit court erred in finding that the Facility was not sufficiently diligent in determining whether Mrs. Stroud had authority to sign the Arbitration Agreement for Mr. Stroud.²⁶

As an initial matter, while it is true that the Power of Attorney contains a provision, located toward the end of the document, prohibiting Mrs. Stroud from entering into arbitration agreements on Mr. Stroud’s behalf and disavowing any other

²⁶ (R. p. 10 (“Defendants’ representative had an obligation of due diligence to review the Power of Attorney to determine whether in fact Mrs. Stroud had authority granted to her to sign the Arbitration Agreement. A simple review of the Power of Attorney would make clear that such authority was simply beyond the scope of authority granted to Mrs. Stroud.”).)

provision therein to the contrary,²⁷ it cannot reasonably be said that the Power of Attorney is a “simple” document. As explained previously, all told, the Power of Attorney is 20 pages long. On page 5, in Article I(12), headed “Power with Respect to Legal and Other Actions” (original bold print and underlining omitted), it grants Mrs. Stroud the power “[t]o institute, supervise, prosecute, defend, intervene in, abandon, compromise, arbitrate, settle, dismiss, and appeal from any and all legal, equitable, judicial or administrative hearings, actions, suits, proceedings, attachments, arrests or distresses, involving [Mr. Stroud] in any way . . .” (emphasis added.) Additionally, on page 3, in Article I(6), headed “Power to Operate Businesses” (original bold print and underlining omitted), it grants Mrs. Stroud the power “to defend, submit to arbitration, settle or compromise any action or other legal proceeding to which [Mr. Stroud is] a party because of [his] membership in [a] partnership.” (emphasis added.) And, again on page 3, in Article I(8), headed “Power to Demand and Receive” (original bold print and underlining omitted), it grants Mrs. Stroud the power “[t]o demand, arbitrate, settle, sue for, collect, receive, deposit, expend for [Mr. Stroud’s benefit] benefit, reinvest or make such other appropriate disposition of as [Mrs. Stroud] deems appropriate, all cash, rights to the payment of cash, property . . . rights and/or benefits to which [Mr. Stroud is] now or may in the future become entitled” (emphasis added.)²⁸

²⁷ (R. pp. 109–110 (“Notwithstanding any provision herein to the contrary . . . I reserve unto myself and do not grant unto my Attorney in Fact the power to waive my right to jury trial and enter into Arbitration Agreements. I do not favor Arbitration, and for that reason I do not grant unto my Attorney in Fact the power to enter Arbitration Agreements.”).)

Beyond this, the Power of Attorney is not the only way in which Mrs. Stroud represented to the Facility her authority to act on Mr. Stroud’s behalf. She signed both the Admission Agreement and the Arbitration Agreement as “[Mr. Stroud’s] Durable Power of Attorney for Health Care”/ “[Mr. Stroud’s] Legal Guardian”/ “[Mr. Stroud’s] Responsible Party.” (R. p. 95, p. 163, p. 175, p. 187.) In signing the Admission Agreement, Mrs. Stroud “verifie[d] that all information submitted to [the] Facility . . . is true and correct”²⁹ and expressly acknowledged that the “promises and representations [she made therein were] in order to induce [the] Facility to enter into this Agreement” and that the “Facility [wa]s relying upon the truthfulness of the promises and representations [she] made.” (R. p. 174, p. 186.) And in signing the Arbitration Agreement itself, Mrs. Stroud expressly “represent[ed] that . . . she ha[d] authority to sign on [Mr. Stroud’s] behalf so as to bind [him] as well as [herself].” (R. p. 95, p. 187.)

²⁸ With regard to Mrs. Stroud’s presentation of the Power of Attorney to the Facility, presumably she herself was unaware that the Power of Attorney did not actually give her authority to sign the Arbitration Agreement for Mr. Stroud—and this presumption is all the more compelling considering the Power of Attorney’s length and complexity and the potential for confusion relating to its express and affirmative language about power to “arbitrate,” and even power to “submit to arbitration.” But either way, i.e., whether Mrs. Stroud honestly or dishonestly presented the Power of Attorney to the Facility as evidence of her authority to sign the Arbitration Agreement, the Facility should not be faulted for taking her at her word.

Mrs. Stroud is “presumed to have read, understood, and assented to [the] terms” of the Arbitration Agreement, Gibson v. Epting, 426 S.C. 346, 352, 827 S.E.2d 178, 181 (Ct. App. 2019) (“[O]ne who has signed a contract is presumed to have read, understood, and assented to its terms.”), including, of course, the express representation therein of her authority to act on Mr. Stroud’s behalf. Moreover, there is an implied covenant of good faith and fair dealing in every contract, Adams v. G.J. Creel & Sons, Inc., 320 S.C. 274, 277, 465 S.E.2d 84, 85 (1995) (“There exists in every contract an implied covenant of good faith and fair dealing.”), and Mrs. Stroud is no less bound by this covenant than the Facility.

And in any event, the Subject Order cites no legal authority to support the proposition that the Facility was required to do the said “due diligence”—and to the best of the Facility’s knowledge, there is none—and, here again, to require more because an agreement to arbitrate is involved would violate the FAA’s requirement that arbitration agreements be placed on equal footing with all other contracts. Concepcion, 563 U.S. at 339; see also Kindred Nursing, 137 S. Ct. at 1423; Allied-Bruce, 513 U.S. at 281.

F. At a minimum, the circuit court should have granted the Facility’s alternative request for permission to conduct limited discovery to address gaps in the evidentiary record bearing on the Arbitration Agreement’s enforceability under an agency theory.

At a minimum, the circuit court should have allowed the Facility to engage in some appropriately limited discovery to fairly investigate the Arbitration Agreement’s enforceability under an agency theory, i.e., the theory that Mrs. Stroud was authorized to sign the Arbitration Agreement for Mr. Stroud as his lawful agent. This would entail, at the least, allowing the Facility to depose Mrs. Stroud and to follow up on any pertinent evidentiary leads revealed by her deposition. Otherwise, the Facility is in a Catch-22: vulnerable on the one hand to the argument that it has not presented sufficient evidence to prove the Arbitration Agreement is enforceable based on Mrs. Stroud’s agency, which is a necessarily fact-intensive question,³⁰ while at the same time vulnerable on the other hand to the argument that it waived its arbitration rights by making use of the tools of litigation (i.e., discovery) to prove them.

³⁰ A true agency relationship may be established by evidence of actual or apparent authority. R & G Const., Inc. v. Lowcountry Reg’l Transp. Auth., 343 S.C. 424, 432, 540 S.E.2d 113, 117 (Ct. App. 2000). “Agency is the fiduciary relationship that arises when one person (a ‘principal’) manifests assent to another person (an ‘agent’) that the agent shall act on the principal’s behalf and subject to the principal’s control.” Froneberger v. Smith, 406 S.C. 37, 49, 748 S.E.2d 625, 631 (Ct. App. 2013) (quoting Restatement (Third) of Agency § 1.01 (2006)). “An agreement may result in the creation of an agency relationship although the parties did not call it an agency and did not intend the consequences of the relationship to follow. Agency may be proved by circumstantial evidence showing a course of dealing between the two parties.” Peoples Fed. Sav. & Loan Ass’n v. Myrtle Beach Golf & Yacht Club, 310 S.C. 132, 145–46, 425 S.E.2d 764, 773 (Ct. App. 1992). The doctrine of apparent authority provides that a principal may be bound by the acts of its agent when the principal has placed the agent in a position such that third parties are reasonably led to believe the agent has certain authority and they in turn deal with the

It must be remembered that the Arbitration Agreement is valid on its face, bearing, as it does, Mrs. Stroud's express representation of authority to bind Mr. Stroud. (R. p. 95, p. 187 ("By . . . her signature below, the executing party [(i.e., Mrs. Stroud)] represents that . . . she has the authority to sign on [Mr. Stroud's] behalf so as to bind [Mr. Stroud] as well as [herself].").)³¹ It cannot be the case that the proponent of arbitration (who, it must be remembered, may well be attempting to vindicate a valid right to arbitrate that the arbitration opponent has wrongfully denied) has the burden to establish that right in a fact-based judicial proceeding in which it is disallowed use of the fact-finding tools (discovery procedures) available in other judicial proceedings.

Obviously, if this were an action to determine the validity of a contract other than an arbitration agreement there would be no question about the Facility's ability to conduct discovery relevant to the facts/circumstances bearing on the contract's validity. To force the Facility into a situation where it cannot conduct relevant discovery to vindicate its arbitration rights without risking a waiver of agent in reliance on this manifestation. Eadie v. H.A. Sack Co., 322 S.C. 164, 171, 470 S.E.2d 397, 401 (Ct. App. 1996).

³¹ Again, having signed the Arbitration Agreement, Mrs. Stroud "is presumed to have, read, understood, and assented to its terms." Gibson, 426 S.C.

those rights by the very act of attempting to vindicate them is not only patently unjust but also a violation of the FAA's requirement that arbitration agreements must be placed on equal footing with other contracts. Concepcion, 563 U.S. at 339; see also Kindred Nursing, 137 S. Ct. at 1423; Allied-Bruce, 513 U.S. at 281.

CONCLUSION

For the foregoing reasons, Appellants ask this Honorable Court to reverse the circuit court's denial of the Underlying Motions and to stay this lawsuit in favor of arbitration between Plaintiff and the Facility (or to remand this matter to the circuit court with instructions that it stay the lawsuit in favor of arbitration between Plaintiff and the Facility) or, alternatively, to reverse the circuit court's denial of the Underlying Motions and remand this matter to the circuit court for the additional discovery requested by the Facility to be conducted; for additional briefing to be submitted to the circuit court in light of such discovery; and, with the benefit of the same, for the circuit court to hear and decide the Underlying Motions anew.
