Re: Peggy Kandies v. City of North Charleston, et al.
Appellate Case No. 2024-000456

Dear Ms. Kandies:

I am writing to address your recent correspondence and to request that going forward, you correspond to my correct addresses of record. On September 23, 2024, I received two e-mails from “do-not-reply@ccpl.org,” each with a header titled “Scanned image from CCPL.” Neither the address nor the body of the emails contained any information that identified the message as coming from you. The only clues were that your email address was also copied and the emails had attachments with file names that appeared to be related to this appeal. I am concerned that I, and therefore my clients, may not receive emails if they are not sent from your own email address, as emails from generic addresses may get caught in my spam folder. Accordingly, I respectfully ask that you e-mail me from your own e-mail address.

Additionally, yesterday, I received mail from you at my street address. This mail appears to have been sent on September 23, 2024, and may have been delayed as you failed to include my firm’s suite number on the address. As noted in all my written and email correspondence with you, my official mailing address is firm’s PO Box listed at the bottom of my firm’s letterhead as shown below (this is also my address as listed with South Carolina courts). Going forward, please direct all mail to that address.

Thank you for your attention to this matter. With kind regards, I am

Sincerely,

J. Matthew Johnson
