QUESTIONS PRESENTED

- I. Did the Court of Appeals err in holding that after a mistrial is declared, for whatever reason, a criminal defendant is entitled to a completely new immunity hearing under the Protection of Persons and Property Act?

- II. Did the Court of Appeals further err in misapprehending the facts of record, not reviewing Judge Russo's denial of immunity after the 1st immunity hearing, and in directing the lower court to make certain findings and conclusions upon remand?

STATEMENT OF THE CASE

Kieren M. Dennis (“Dennis”) was indicted for Murder and Possession of a Weapon during the Commission of a Violent Crime in 2014 by the Lexington County Grand Jury. The case was prosecuted by the current Solicitor Samuel “Rick” Hubbard, III, Deputy Solicitor Shawn Graham, and Assistant Solicitor Rhonda Patterson. Dennis was represented by Todd Rutherford, Simone Martin, and Nicole Simpson, Esquires. (Nov. 2014 R. 1; Oct. 2016 R. 619; Aug. 2017 R. 1657; Sept. 2017 R. 2041; Aug. 2019 R. 2095).

The 1st Immunity Hearing

Prior to trial, Dennis made a motion for immunity from prosecution pursuant to the Protection of Persons and Property Act, S.C. Code Ann. §§ 16-11-410 to 450 (2006), and a hearing took place pursuant to the procedure set forth in State v. Duncan, 392 S.C. 404, 709 S.E.2d 662 (2011), from November 17 to 19, 2014 before Circuit Court Judge Thomas Russo (“the 1st immunity hearing”). (Nov. 2014 R. 1-618). Fourteen (14) witnesses were called at the hearing. On February 4, 2015, Judge Russo denied Dennis immunity by Order. (R. 2905-14).

The 1st trial

The case proceeded to trial by jury on October 3, 2016, which concluded in a mistrial due to an 11-1 hung jury on October 11, 2016. It was reported by the jury that the alignment was 11-1 to convict. (Oct. 2016 R. 1656).

The 2nd Immunity Hearing

Dennis moved for a new or second immunity hearing in June of 2017, alleging new evidence. The State objected that Dennis was not entitled to a new or second immunity hearing. A second immunity hearing (“the 2nd immunity hearing”) was held before Circuit Court Judge Robert E. Hood on August 22 and 24, 2017 and September 18, 2017. (June 2017 Motion, R. 1665; Aug. 2017 R. 1657; Sept. 2017 R. 2041). Seven (7) more witnesses were called at this hearing.

Dennis was allowed to present his so-called new evidence. On October 11, 2017, Judge Hood issued a 2nd Order denying immunity. (Oct. 2017 Order, p. 2915; Aug. 2019 R. 2901-2902).

The 2nd trial

The case proceeded to a jury trial from August 19 to 27, 2019, after which Dennis was found guilty of murder. He was sentenced by the trial judge, the Honorable Eugene C. Griffith, to 30 years' imprisonment. (Aug. 2019 R. 2904)

The Direct Appeal to the Court of Appeals / the Award of a 3rd Immunity Hearing

Dennis appealed his conviction and sentence and subsequently submitted a brief in support of his appeal. Respondent filed a responsive brief. After oral argument, a three (3) judge panel of the Court of Appeals issued a published opinion granting Dennis a new immunity hearing [a 3rd immunity hearing] in the Circuit Court below. State v. Kieren Marcellus Dennis, Opinion No. 6082 (Ct. App. Filed August 14, 2024). The Court did not reach Dennis's 2 trial issues raised in his brief nor did it reverse Dennis's conviction of murder. In its Opinion, the Court of Appeals held that "after a mistrial," without any determination of an error occurring within the 1st immunity hearing, that a criminal defendant is entitled to a new immunity hearing before his re-trial.

The Petition for Rehearing

The State filed a timely Petition for Rehearing and Rehearing En Banc. In the Petition, the State argued the Court of Appeals' Opinion contained factual errors, wrong legal conclusions, misapprehended certain facts and law, and overlooked certain facts and law. On October 30, 2024, the Court of Appeals denied the Petition for Rehearing stating it had not overlooked any matter or misapprehended any fact, but the Court withdrew its original opinion and re-filed the Opinion.

State v. Kieren Marcellus Dennis, Opinion No. 6082 (Ct. App. Re-Filed October 30, 2024).<sup>1</sup> In the Opinion, the Court clarified that it did not reverse Dennis’s conviction for murder, it only granted him a 3rd immunity hearing before another Circuit Judge. Id.

RESPONDENT’S STATEMENT OF FACTS

Dutch Fork High School (“DFHS”) played its long-time rival Lexington High School (“LHS”) in basketball on the evening of February 17, 2014. (Nov. 2014 R. 8, 227, 246). DFHS won the rowdy game. Kierin Dennis (“Dennis”) left the gym with his 4 friends: Keith Adams, Ketura “Lucky” Cook, Will Zander, and Morgan Zander, Will’s sister, all of whom were current or former students of LHS.<sup>2</sup> (Nov. 2014 R. 8-9, 161; Aug. 2019 R. 2127-28). Students from the 2 high schools had post-game altercations before, so extra security was on hand to separate students after the game. (Nov. 2014 R. 9-13, 160-161, 482-483). LHS students were directed to exit the gym out the front door, while DFHS students were directed out the back. (Nov. 2014 R. 9, 160; Aug. 2019 R. 2125, 2134-35). Students from DFHS were celebrating by dancing in a loosely-formed circle in the parking lot when Dennis approached them and interrupted their celebrations. (Nov. 2014 R. 161, 178, 252; Aug. 2019 R. 2181, 2598-99). Things got tense, and Dennis challenged them to meet up at the local Cook-Out restaurant later to settle things as the police ordered everyone to leave the parking lot. (Nov. 2014 R. 247, 359-362; Aug. 2017 R. 2007-08; Aug. 2019 R. 2139, 2168-69).

Dennis left the high school driving his gold Ford Explorer Sport followed by Keith in his White Nissan Armada, and Will, Morgan, and Ketura in Will’s Silver Infinity Crossover. (Nov.

2014 R. 14-15; Aug. 2019 R. 2099). They initially drove to a gas station, then to Sonic, then to McDonald's, but finally ended up at the Cook-Out, even though it was noticeably full. (Nov. 2014 R. 14-15; Aug. 2019 R. 2442). Keith parked by a PetSmart while Will and Dennis parked their cars further down by a car wash. (Nov. 2014 R. 14, 119; Aug. 2017 R. 1931-33; Aug. 2019 R. 2218-28). One of Dennis's long-time friends, Austin Sanders, was leaving the Cook-Out when Dennis and his friends arrived, and he told the group, "Yeah, I was in the drive-thru and a whole bunch of Dutch Fork kids were just – started getting rowdy in the drive-thru, shaking people's cars, and stuff like that." (Nov. 2014 R. 250). Dennis and his friends chose to go into Cook-Out anyway. (Nov. 2014 R. 250). Inside were between 30 to 40 current and former DFHS students, including Devon Chatman, Alexis Brunson, Michael James, Lamar Butler, Kenneth Williams, and the 18-year-old victim, Da'Von Capers.<sup>3</sup> (Nov. 2014 R. 213, 592; Aug. 2019 R. 2100).

Once Dennis was inside the restaurant, Michael James, a current DFHS student, stood up and said, "Is that all y'all brought?" (Nov. 2014 R. 37, 428). Dennis replied, "We just came here to eat." (Nov. 2014 R. 251). Surveillance footage shows the students from the 2 high schools eating quietly inside Cook-Out for about 17 minutes before Dennis decided to go outside. (State's Ex. 12; Defense Ex. 3; See Aug. 2017 R. 1953-54; Aug. 2019 R. 2486-88). Dennis had previously texted his cousin, Tobias Davis, that DFHS students were "trying to fight [them] at Cook-Out" and stepped outside to take a phone call from him. (Nov. 2014 R. 16, 317-319). Dennis's 4 other friends followed him outside along with Michael James, who was seen on the surveillance footage dressed in a white, long-sleeved shirt. Michael James was walking to his car when Morgan Zander, <sup>3</sup> Devon Chatman, Alexis Brunson, and Kenneth Williams were DFHS graduates; Lamar Butler, Michael James, and Da'Von Capers were current DFHS students. (Nov. 2014 R. 442, 481, 502-503, 566; Aug. 2019 R. 2100).

Will's sister, said something to him, so he turned around and threw his hands up, and said, "Are y'all still salty?" (Nov. 2014 R. 16-18, 80).

Surveillance video shows the DFHS students then immediately came out of the restaurant. (Nov. 2014 R. 81-85, 323-324; Aug. 2017 R. 1925-33). Dennis and his friends walked to their cars, but no one assaulted or attempted to assault them as they were on their way. (Nov. 2014 R. 448, 463). Once they were in their 3 cars, Dennis and his friends pulled up next to each other and discussed for about 5 minutes how they would exit the parking lot. (Nov. 2014 R. 126-127, 257-258). Keith left the parking lot first and turned right toward Main Street. (Nov. 2014 R. 44-46). Will Zander drove next to the DFHS crowd and stopped his car, rolled down the window, and threw money out of the car, saying, "Hey, this what y'all are worth." (Nov. 2014 R. 544, 569). Dennis, in the PetSmart parking lot, maneuvered his vehicle to face the DFHS students while Will was doing this. (Nov. 2014 R. 51, 327-328). Dennis then pointed his car at the crowd of DFHS students and rapidly accelerated his vehicle into the wrong lane of traffic and almost hit 2 Dutch Fork students, Tyreke Farrow and Devon Chatman, before finally stopping his car by the opposite curb. (Nov. 2014 R. 451-452, 543-547). Xavier Holliday had to push Tyreke out of the way to prevent Dennis's car from hitting him. (Nov. 2014 R. 547).

DFHS students then gathered around Dennis's vehicle and heated words were exchanged because Dennis had almost hit two DFHS students. (Nov. 2014 R. 412-413, 506, 547). Will parked his car diagonally in front of Dennis's, exited his vehicle, and got a metal pipe out of his trunk. (Nov. 2014 R. 50, 62, 135, 151). After approximately a minute of this heated exchange, Dennis motioned in a "come here" fashion to 2 of the DFHS students, rolled his window down further, and told them, “You don’t want what I got. You don’t want what I got.”<sup>4</sup> (Nov. 2014 R. 436-438, 516, 548). Dennis was leaning over in his seat, slumped toward the center console with his right hand down and out of view when he rolled the window down further, grabbed a knife from the center console, and abruptly stabbed Da’Von Capers, who was outside his driver’s side window, in the chest. (Nov. 2014 R. 262-263, 285, 375-377, 453; 547-48; 553; Aug. 2019 R. 2230-34). Some witnesses testified that Da’Von Capers did not reach inside Dennis’s vehicle and others testified that he did, some saying it was only after Dennis stabbed Capers in the chest. (Nov. 2014; 547-51; 553; R. Aug. 2017 R. 1729-31, 1893-94). Dennis then sped out of the parking lot and the victim was pronounced dead at Lexington Medical Center shortly after. (Nov. 2014 R. 372; Aug. 2017 R. 1907-08; Aug. 2019 R. 2230-35).

Dennis went home and changed his clothes then decided to bury the knife. (Nov. 2014 R. 269-271, 343-344; Aug. 2017 R. 1908-12). Dennis did not call or talk to law enforcement until they picked him up from his house later and never told them he was afraid for his life or that he had to act in self-defense. (Nov. 2014 R. 270-271; State’s Exhibits 2 and 35). Dennis admitted he stabbed the victim but, at trial, claimed he did it in self-defense because the DFHS students were reaching into his car to attack him. (Nov. 2014 R. 277-355; Aug. 2019 R. 2663-64; State’s Exhibits 2 and 35). However, no DNA or fingerprints from DFHS students were found on or in Dennis’s vehicle. (Nov. 2014 R. 293-294, 403; Aug. 2019 R. 2753-62). Dennis did tell law enforcement that his car was blocked, and he could not leave the parking lot, but surveillance footage shows 1 or 2 cars driving past Dennis’s vehicle while it was parked by the curb. (Nov. 2014 R. 204-208, 276-277; Aug. 2019 R. 2228-29). Law enforcement arrested Dennis for Murder and Possession of a

<sup>4</sup> Dennis’s window was already rolled down partially before he accelerated toward the Dutch Fork crowd. (Aug. 2019 R. 2235, 2252, 2322, 2346, 2552, 2757-58).

Weapon during the Commission of a Violent Crime. (Indictments). Two different judges denied immunity, and the second jury convicted Dennis of murder.

I. The Court of Appeals erred in holding that after a mistrial is declared, for whatever reason, a criminal defendant is entitled to a completely new immunity hearing under the Protection of Persons and Property Act.

The Court of Appeals erred in determining the legal ramifications of a mistrial. A mistrial does not entitle a criminal defendant to another, 2nd, or 3rd immunity hearing. An immunity hearing is a statutory right to seek immunity from prosecution. S.C. Code §§ 16-11-410 to 450 (2006). It goes neither to evidence nor defense, nor is it renewed or reconsidered during the trial. See State v. Duncan, 392 S.C. 404, 410, 709 S.E.2d 662, 665 (2011) (“we find that, by using the words ‘immune from criminal prosecution,’ the legislature intended to create a true immunity, and not simply an affirmative defense.”). See also State v. Isaac, 405 S.C. 177, 183, 747 S.E.2d 677, 679 (2013) (“An order denying an immunity request is not an order involving the merits in that it does not finally determine a substantial cause of action or defense.”); id., at 184, 747 S.E.2d at 680 (“denial of a request for immunity under the Act is analogous to the denial of a motion to dismiss a criminal case on the ground of double jeopardy”); State v. Curry, 406 S.C. 364, 373, 752 S.E.2d 263, 267 (2013) (“the trial court had denied Appellant immunity, and section 16–11–440(C) should not have been charged to the jury”). Compare State v. Blackwell, 420 S.C. 127, 137, 801 S.E.2d 713, 718 n. 9 (2017) (Thus, like other pre-trial determinations, such as the denial of a defendant's claim of immunity under the South Carolina Protection of Persons and Property Act, we find the issue is proper for our review). Cf. Curry, 406 S.C. at 370, 752 S.E.2d at 266 (“A claim of immunity under the Act requires a pretrial determination using a preponderance of the evidence standard, which this court reviews under an abuse of discretion standard of review.”).

The denial of immunity under the Act by Judge Russo, by Order (R. 2905-2914), after the 1st immunity hearing, was appealable after Dennis was convicted of murder, by the second jury as he was in this case.<sup>5</sup> The Protection of Persons and Property statute does not provide for an interlocutory appeal because the defense is not precluded from arguing self-defense at trial. S.C. Code §§ 16-11-410 to 450 (2006). See Brown v. County of Berkely, 366 S.C. 354, 358, 622 S.E.2d 533, 362 (2005) (The trial court's interlocutory order denying the Appellant's Motion to Dismiss based on a qualified immunity claim was not an order involving the merits of the case or an order that affected a substantial right and as such could not be immediately appealed.); State v. Isaac, 405 S.C. 177, 187, 747 S.E.2d 677, 682 (2013) (Order denying the defendant's request for an immunity hearing on charges of murder under the Protection of Persons and Property Act was not a final determination and thus was not an immediately appealable interlocutory order.). As an immunity hearing ruling cannot be immediately appealed, Dennis certainly was not entitled to a new 2nd immunity hearing and ruling below before a final judgment had been rendered at all. Instead of waiting to exercise his legal remedy of a direct appeal after trial (if he had been found guilty at the 2nd trial), Dennis instead attempted to and halfway successfully convinced Judge Hood to redo the immunity hearing altogether, making superfluous Judge Russo's expenditure of time and effort and bypassing the direct appeal process. This confusion further led directly to the Court of Appeals' Opinion in this case reviewing the 2nd immunity hearing and what Judge Hood did or did not do. There was no and is no legal purpose to conduct a 2nd hearing and Dennis was not entitled to a 2nd ruling on whether he was entitled to immunity. Judge Hood improperly, yet harmlessly, held a 2nd immunity hearing and issued a 2nd judgment regarding Dennis's non-entitlement to immunity. Dennis was simply not entitled to a 2nd immunity hearing, a second bite at the apple, on the question of immunity because of a mistrial. The 2nd immunity hearing was gratuitous.

<sup>5</sup> The Court of Appeals wrongly understood the State to argue a procedural bar because the denial of immunity was not appealed sooner. (See discussion infra at 17).

The determination of immunity is not a determination of the admissibility of evidence such as drugs or a confession during the trial. See Keels v. Powell, 213 S.C. 570, 572–73, 50 S.E.2d 704, 705 (1948)(“The effect of the mistrial was to leave the parties in status quo ante, with the cause still pending for trial in the circuit court. The overruling of the motion for a directed verdict and the rulings made with reference to the admissibility and competency of the testimony resulted in no binding adjudication of the rights of the parties. Therefore, the appeal is prematurely brought, and jurisdiction thereof cannot be retained.”).

The Legislature could not have intended for the defendant to be granted a 2nd immunity hearing otherwise if the defendant received multiple mistrials, for whatever reasons, he would be entitled to two, three, four, five .... [innumerable] immunity hearings which would make no sense, would not serve judicial economy, and would be redundant. It could also result in the defendant being granted immunity after multiple mistrials, when multiple previous trial judges had denied immunity considering the same or similar evidence.

The denial of immunity is a determination separate from the trial of the case. In fact, it is a determination whether the defendant has to go through a trial or not. As a result, the Court of Appeals erred in ruling Dennis was entitled to a 2nd immunity hearing, and now actually a 3rd hearing. Dennis was only entitled to 1 immunity hearing, the 1 he had before Judge Russo and was appropriately denied immunity.<sup>6</sup> <sup>6</sup> In order to be entitled to a new immunity hearing after a mistrial or reversal, a defendant would have to show a previous Brady violation relevant to immunity before the 1st immunity hearing or newly or after discovered evidence as defined by the law. See Rule 29, SCRCrim.P. (motion for a new trial based on after-discovered evidence; S.C. Code Ann. Section 17-25-45(c)(2nd PCR action based on after-discovered evidence); McCoy v. State, 401 S.C. 363, 737 S.E.2d 623 (2013).

The Court of Appeals also erred in relying on 2 Georgia cases which it cited in its Opinion for the proposition that Dennis was entitled to a new immunity hearing after a mistrial. Those cases are not controlling, instructive, or even persuasive, because in neither of those cases did the appellant receive an immunity hearing before trial and an order denying immunity as Dennis did in this case. See State v. Hamilton, 839 S.E.2d 560 (Ga. 2020); State v. Remy, 840 S.E.2d 385 Ga. 2020). Here, Dennis received an immunity hearing before Judge Russo, an Order denying immunity from Judge Russo, a 2nd immunity hearing before Judge Hood, and another order denying immunity from Judge Hood. Further, the Court of Appeals cited Hamilton for one proposition but refused to follow Hamilton for another. (See Opinion). The cases cited from Georgia are simply not authoritative in this setting. Dennis is not entitled to another, third, hearing and another, third, determination of immunity.

Certiorari must be granted because this appeal involves a question of exceptional importance. The 3-judge panel of the Court of Appeals issued a published Opinion in this case, which has precedential value if it remains unaltered. The panel held for the first time that a criminal defendant upon mistrial or new trial is entitled to an entirely new immunity hearing regardless of the reason for reversal, mistrial, or grant of new trial; and, regardless of whether the defendant had a full immunity hearing and denial of immunity with no legal or factual error in regard to the same. The holding has severe implications for the South Carolina criminal justice system, the administration of justice, and an already overly crowded criminal docket and does not serve judicial economy. One can easily foresee lower courts being required to conduct a new immunity hearing when there has been no showing of newly or after-discovered evidence, or when the same evidence is to be presented again which was already presented once before and immunity denied. This would result in one circuit judge overruling another circuit judge. Or, one can foresee a trial judge being required to conduct a new immunity hearing when he heard the exact same evidence before and denied immunity and the grant of a mistrial or reversal had absolutely nothing to do with the pre-trial immunity hearing or the denial of immunity. The Court of Appeals' ruling must be reviewed to address these important concerns.

II. The Court of Appeals further erred in misapprehending the facts of record, not reviewing Judge Russo's denial of immunity after the 1st immunity hearing, and in directing the lower court to make certain findings and conclusions upon remand.

The Court of Appeals erred in citing to so-called "new" evidence in its Opinion to justify the grant of a new hearing, which was not newly discovered evidence at all, but evidence Dennis had or could have discovered and presented at the 1st immunity hearing but failed to do so. The evidence presented at the 2nd immunity hearing before Judge Hood, that Dennis claimed was "new" was not "newly discovered evidence" but evidence that was available through the discovery provided to Dennis before the 1st immunity hearing before Judge Russo and could have been presented at the 1st immunity hearing, but defense counsel chose not to or failed to present. State v. Spann, 334 S.C. 618, 619-620, 513 S.E.2d 98, 99 (1999). The so-called new evidence was evidence that could have been discovered by simple investigation by defense counsel [of which Dennis had 3] using the discovery provided by the State and interviewing witnesses.

For example, Elizabeth Bettini, specifically discussed in the Court of Appeal's Opinion, was called as a witness at the 1st trial by the defense. (R. 1621-1649). Bettini was available to be called as a witness at the 1st immunity hearing. Bettini gave multiple statements to police shortly after the crime. These were turned over to the defense before the 1st immunity hearing. Her police body camera statements referenced by the Court of Appeals in its Opinion were provided to defense counsel before the 1st immunity hearing as well. Yet, Dennis chose not to call Bettini at the 1st immunity hearing. Dennis either made a strategic decision not to call Bettini at the 1st immunity hearing or Dennis failed to interview Bettini before the 1st hearing. Regardless, the State did not prevent Dennis from interviewing Bettini and as noted in the Court of Appeal's Opinion, police only told Bettini shortly before trial not to talk to the media. (R. 1783, ll. 21-25). They did not tell Bettini at any time not to talk to defense counsel. (R. 1783, ll. 21-25). Bettini's testimony was not newly or after-discovered evidence as defined by the case law. State v. Spann, 334 S.C. at 619-620, 513 S.E.2d at 99.

The same is true of Zachary Lynch, the employee of Cookout discussed in the Court of Appeals Opinion. He was also available as a witness at the 1st immunity hearing before Judge Russo. In fact, Lynch was called as a witness at trial before Judge Griffith by Dennis. (Tr. 1448-1475). Police took a statement from Lynch shortly after the crime, and it was turned over to Dennis before the 1st immunity hearing before Judge Russo. Lynch can also be heard on Officer Caitlin Voravudhi's body camera footage the night of the crime which was also provided to defense counsel prior to the 1st immunity hearing. The State did not hide Lynch's purported testimony from Dennis. Despite having all this information available about Lynch prior to the 1st immunity hearing, Dennis chose not to call Lynch as a witness at the 1st immunity hearing. Dennis either strategically chose not to call Lynch at the 1st hearing or Dennis failed to interview Lynch before the 1st immunity hearing. Either way, this is not newly or after-discovered evidence as recognized by the law. Spann, 334 S.C. at 619-620, 513 S.E.2d at 99.

Further, Bettini's 911 call mentioned in the Court of Appeals' Opinion was never recorded, as the Court mentioned briefly. Importantly, the 911 call was not hidden from Dennis by the State or any government agency, because it was simply never recorded by the 911 agency involved. The 911 tape was not played at the 2nd immunity hearing either, because it did not exist. (R. 1702-1866). It was not suppressed by the State. Bettini's testimony about her 911 call recited by the Court of Appeals in its Opinion was available to Dennis before and at the 1st immunity hearing as her previous statements were provided to Dennis in discovery before the 1st immunity hearing. Dennis either made a strategic decision not to call her as a witness at the 1st immunity hearing or Dennis failed to interview Bettini before the 1st hearing. Either way, her testimony was not newly or after discovered evidence as defined by the law. Spann.

Officer Caitlin Varavudhi, also mentioned in the Court of Appeals Opinion, was also available before and at the 1st immunity hearing. Dennis simply failed to call her as a witness even though he had been provided with the police and investigative file, her name is listed on the police report, and her body cam footage of Bettini and Lynch was turned over to Dennis before the 1st immunity hearing. The State did not hide her existence or the substance of her testimony from Dennis. Dennis simply chose not to call her at the 1st immunity hearing. Both the State and Dennis chose to call her at the 1st trial (R. 630-31; 1439-44). Dennis either made a strategic decision not to call Varavudhi at the 1st immunity hearing or Dennis failed to interview her before the 1st hearing. Either way, her testimony was not newly discovered or after discovered evidence. Spann, 334 S.C. at 619-620, 513 S.E.2d at 99.

Further, Dr. Janice Ross, mentioned in the Court of Appeals Opinion, was available before and at the 1st immunity hearing as well. She was the pathologist who performed the autopsy on the victim. She was called as a witness in the 1st trial itself. (R. 1270-81). The State did not hide her testimony or findings from Dennis. Dennis simply chose not to call her as a witness at the 1st immunity hearing. Dennis made a strategic decision not to call Dr. Ross at the 1st immunity hearing or Dennis failed to interview Dr. Ross before the 1st immunity hearing. Either way, Dr. Ross's testimony is not newly or after-discovered evidence as defined by our case law. Spann.

Additionally, the Court of Appeals mentions in its Opinion that one of Dennis's arguments for a new [2nd] immunity hearing was information Ervin Meggett told police [actually the Solicitor] in August of 2016.<sup>7</sup> The Court of Appeals mentions nowhere in its Opinion what Meggett actually testified to at the 2nd immunity hearing. Meggett could not remember stating what was contained in a Solicitor's Officer's summary of speaking with him in August of 2016, that allegedly the victim was in the wrong when he approached Dennis's vehicle when Dennis was leaving the Cook Out. (R. 2020-2032). Regardless, it would not change the outcome at trial. Meggett testified at the 2nd immunity hearing that the victim did not lean or reach into Dennis's car and the victim was standing straight up or erect and outside of Dennis's vehicle when Dennis reached outside of his vehicle and stabbed the victim and then drove off. (R. 2020-2032). At the 2nd immunity hearing, Meggett actually contradicted the 2 other witnesses mentioned by the Court of Appeals in its Opinion, Bettini and Lynch. (R. 2020). The testimony from Meggett does not meet the definition of newly or after-discovered evidence either, because it would not have changed the result at trial. Spann. It would have further confirmed the State's case and contradicted Dennis's defense at trial. Of note, Dennis did not call Meggett at the 1st trial or at the 2nd trial.

In summary, the Court of Appeals Opinion is factually incorrect and misleading because it implies Dennis did not receive a fair 1st immunity hearing before Judge Russo because evidence was either hidden, not disclosed, or newly discovered before the 2nd immunity hearing before Judge Hood. This is incorrect as set forth in Respondent's brief to the Court of Appeals. (FBOR). The information Dennis presented at the 2nd immunity hearing from Bettini and Lynch, Dennis could have discovered simply by interviewing Bettini or Lynch before the 1st hearing or calling <sup>7</sup> Meggett was captured in a surveillance video from the time of the actual crime. He was with the victim when the victim was stabbed by Dennis. (R. 2023-2025).

Bettini or Lynch at the 1st hearing, or interviewing Officer Voravudhi or calling Officer Voravudhi at the 1st hearing. Dennis could have called Dr. Ross at the 1st immunity hearing as well. Dennis chose not to. These were decisions Dennis and his defense counsel made before the 1st hearing. They were not the fault of the State, the police, some agency, or circumstance.

Omission of critical facts also leads to a misleading impression. Chauncey Meggett testified he did not remember telling the Solicitor's Office what was contained in a Solicitor's summary of an interview with him, but he did clearly remember the victim was outside Dennis's car and standing straight up when Dennis stabbed the victim by Dennis reaching out his car window and stabbing the victim. Dennis was not denied a fair 1st immunity hearing, he simply chose to call different witnesses or not present certain evidence. The Court of Appeals Opinion fails to acknowledge or point this out. The Opinion implies Dennis was somehow deprived of this information and fails to acknowledge if this was not presented at the 1st immunity hearing it was Dennis's own fault. In fact no court, not Judge Russo, Judge Hood, or the Court of Appeals have found any of this so-called "new" evidence is actually newly discovered evidence under Spann and its progeny. Certiorari should be granted and the Court of Appeals' Opinion reversed.

The Court of Appeals also erred in not reviewing on direct appeal the denial of immunity by the 1st immunity hearing judge, the Honorable Thomas Russo, which was correct, and instead erroneously granted Dennis a 3rd immunity hearing, after only 1 conviction. Dennis was only entitled to 1 immunity hearing and Order, which he received from Judge Russo, (R. 2905-2914) which should have been reviewed on appeal by the Court of Appeals but was not.

The Court of Appeals erred when it ruled the 1st immunity hearing was a nullity without any finding of error, much less reversible error. Judge Russo held a complete immunity hearing on November 17-19, 2014. The record shows that testimony was received from multiple witnesses [14 in all]. Judge Russo denied immunity in an Order filed on February 10, 2015. (R. 2905-2914). A jury trial was held in October 2016. The jury could not return a verdict (reporting that they were 11 to 1 in favor of conviction). The 1st immunity hearing transcript, and the February 2015 Order denying immunity from that hearing, were contained in the record before the Court of Appeals. (See ROA 1-586 and 2905-2914). But the Court of Appeals erred in not reviewing Judge Russo's immunity determination and erred in determining that Dennis was entitled to "a new, full immunity hearing" simply because the first trial ended in a hung jury.

The Court of Appeals completely misunderstood the State's argument as to appealability. The Court of Appeals first stated that it rejected the State's argument that "...Dennis was precluded from receiving a new immunity hearing because he failed to appeal the denial of immunity after the first immunity hearing." (Opinion, p. 6). This statement is wrong. The Court of Appeals addressed an argument the State never made. The State submitted that the remedy was for Dennis to appeal the 1st immunity hearing Order after judgment, i.e. after conviction by the second jury that found him guilty, precisely what State v. Isaac, 405 S.C. 177, 182, 747 S.E.2d 677, 679 (2013), provides. The State's argument below and on appeal was and still is Dennis was only entitled to 1 immunity hearing, the hearing he had before Judge Russo, who denied him immunity under the Act by Order. Dennis was not entitled to the 2nd immunity hearing before Judge Hood, which was completely gratuitous.<sup>8</sup> The immunity hearing determination the Court of Appeals should have reviewed on appeal from Dennis's conviction was the 1st immunity hearing denial of immunity by Judge Russo in his Order (R. 2905-2914), which was all Dennis was entitled to.

<sup>8</sup> Instead, the Court of Appeals erroneously reviewed the 2nd immunity hearing and Judge Hood's denial of immunity. In that review, it criticized Judge Hood's use of the language "a quintessential jury issue." However, as noted above, Dennis already had a full hearing before Judge Russo. The 2nd hearing was unnecessary and gratuitous. A statement by Judge Hood could not undermine the finding of Judge Russo.

Instead, the Court of Appeals Opinion is misleading because in its recitation of the facts and procedural history of the case, the Court nowhere explains Dennis brought on the difficulty in this case by first challenging DFHS students to fight at *the Cookout restaurant while still at the high school just outside the basketball arena.<sup>9</sup> This critical fact, which drove both the decision of Judge Russo [and Judge Hood] to deny immunity, after a full immunity hearing, is completely left out of the Court's Opinion and is nowhere mentioned. Dennis, supra.

The Court of Appeals also omitted from its Opinion that Dennis then drove to several restaurants looking for DFHS fans or students and eventually intentionally drove his car to the Cookout looking for DFHS students or fans for the previously mentioned fight that he instigated while still at the high school while outside the basketball arena.<sup>10</sup> While the Court of Appeals mentioned Judges Russo and Hood found this fact, the Court of Appeals nowhere sets forth that there was actual testimony that this occurred supporting Judge Russo's [and Judge's Hood's] finding that Dennis brought on the difficulty. This is further aggravated by there was no mention in the Court's Opinion that Dennis began the conflict at the High School after the game by challenging DFHS fans or students to fight or settle this at the Cookout.

The Court of Appeals also omitted that after arriving at the Cookout, Dennis parked his car near the car wash, entered the Cook Out restaurant where numerous DFHS students and alumni were eating, left the restaurant, re-entered his car, drove to the PetSmart parking lot, communicated with his associates in their cars about how to leave the parking lot, watched his friend drive near the crowd and taunt the crowd by throwing money out the window, Dennis intentionally pointed his car directly toward a group of DFHS students, and then drove his car from the area of the PetSmart aggressively into a group of DFHS students or fans near the Cook Out almost striking 2 of them which further instigated and aggravated the conflict with the DFHS students started at the high school. And, Dennis then called 2 DFHS students over to his car and further instigated the conflict by taunting the group of DFHS students that they did not want what Dennis had in his car.<sup>11</sup> These facts were also critical in Judge Russo's [and Judge Hood's] determination that Dennis was not without fault in bringing on the difficulty, did not act reasonably, had other means of avoiding the danger than to act as he did, was not in a place where he had a right to be, and had not proved he was entitled to immunity under the Act by a preponderance of the evidence. These facts were also critical in the jury's determination Dennis was guilty of murder and did not act in self-defense. Yet, even though these facts drove the lower court's determination of immunity, these facts are not mentioned anywhere in the Court of Appeals' Opinion.

The Protection of Persons and Property Act ("The Act") provides immunity from criminal prosecution for a person who has used deadly force if the trial court, after a Duncan hearing, finds the person was justified in using such force. S.C. Code Ann. §§ 16-11-410 to 450 (2006); Duncan, 392 S.C. at 410, 709 S.E.2d at 665 (setting forth the procedure, standard of review, and burden of proof for an immunity determination). To obtain immunity, a defendant must either satisfy all four (4) elements of self-defense by a preponderance of the evidence, to the trial court's satisfaction, or three (3) of the elements plus Sections (A) and (B) or Section (C) of the Act if it applies. State v. Glenn, 429 S.C. 108, 838 S.E.2d 491 (2019). A preponderance "stated simply is that evidence which convinces us as to its truth.” Semken v. Semken, 379 S.C. 71, 75, 664 S.E.2d 493, 496 (Ct. App. 2008). The trial court must consider the elements of self-defense in determining whether a movant has met his burden:

(1) he was without fault in bringing on the difficulty; (2) he actually believed he was in imminent danger of losing his life or sustaining serious bodily injury, or he actually was in such imminent danger; (3) if his defense is based upon his actual belief of imminent danger, a reasonably prudent man of ordinary firmness and courage would have entertained the same belief; and (4) the defendant had no other probable means of avoiding the danger of losing his life or sustaining serious bodily injury than to act as he did in this particular instance.

State v. Davis, 282 S.C. 45, 46, 317 S.E.2d 452, 453 (1984). If the judge finds a defendant has failed to satisfy one (1) of the first two (2) elements of self-defense, he may deny immunity and the case may proceed to trial. See State v. Bixby, 388 S.C. 528, 554, 698 S.E.2d 572, 586 (2010) (“It is an axiomatic principle of law that the defense has not been established if any one element is disproven.”). However, if a trial court finds a defendant has only failed to prove reasonable fear, if the defendant was attacked while attempting to remove another from a dwelling, residence, or occupied vehicle that belonged to him, the Act provides a rebuttable presumption of reasonable fear of imminent peril and the judge must apply it accordingly. S.C. Code §§16-11-440(A) and (B) (2006). However, if the place of the event was not a residence, dwelling, or occupied vehicle, and/or the victim also had an equal right to be where the defendant was when the event occurred, the defendant is not entitled to the presumption of reasonable fear and must apply and analyze Section (C) at his hearing and prove (1) he was not engaged in unlawful activity; (2) he was attacked; (3) he was in a place he had the right to be; and (4) he reasonably believed the use of deadly force was necessary to prevent death or great bodily injury to himself or others. S.C. Code § 16-11-440(C) (2006); Jones, 416 S.C. at 294–97, 301, 786 S.E.2d at 138–39, 142. If he proves all of the above elements, the court must conclude he had no duty to retreat and had the right to meet force with force, including deadly force. Id. The standard for determining whether the belief was reasonable is objective rather than subjective. Douglas, 411 S.C. at 320, 768 S.E.2d at 239.

Judge Russo properly found Dennis did not meet his burden of proving the elements of self-defense by a preponderance of the evidence. “Th[e elemental structure of self-defense] places the burden on the defendant to produce some evidence to support the existence of each element.” State v. Williams, 427 S.C. 246, 249, 830 S.E.2d 904, 906 (2019). Judge Russo properly and correctly found Dennis had not proven by a preponderance of the evidence that the victim was unlawfully entering his vehicle at any time before or while Dennis stabbed him as no fingerprints or DNA from the victim or any DFHS student or former student was found on or in Dennis’s vehicle. Further, the testimony of whether the victim had put his hand inside Dennis’s window varied wildly. That credibility determination was for Judge Russo. Judge Russo found Dennis’s testimony was not credible regarding his belief that unlawful or deadly force was about to or was occurring and that he had not proven by a preponderance of the evidence that he was not without fault in bringing on the difficulty.

Specifically, Dennis challenged the DFHS students to a fight at the Cook-Out while they were all still at the high school, he voluntarily went into the Cook-Out even though it was full of DFHS students, and he accelerated his vehicle directly at DFHS students, and he called DFHS students to his car and taunted them. Judge Russo found his actions were reasonably calculated to bring on the difficulty, that no reasonable man would have believed he was in danger, and, as a result, he had a duty to retreat before meeting force with force. And, the record showed he had numerous avenues of retreat and could have avoided the difficulty altogether by not going to Cook Out after instigating the conflict, by not going into the restaurant and antagonizing those he had challenged to fight at the high school, and by not driving his car into a group of DFHS students but simply leaving the parking lot where he parked, and by not calling DFHS students over to his car and taunting them and by pulling away before stabbing anyone. Judge Russo properly analyzed the elements of self-defense and Sections (A) and (C) of the Act and properly denied immunity. The Court of Appeals should have affirmed Judge Russo's determination.

Judge Russo appropriately denied immunity as Dennis instigated the conflict, further aggravated the conflict, goaded DFHS students, sought out the conflict, was not without fault in bringing on the difficulty, did not act reasonably or as a reasonable man in the circumstances, had other means of avoiding the difficulty than employing deadly force, could have retreated and failed to prove he was entitled to immunity under the Act by a preponderance of the evidence. The Court of Appeals erred in not reviewing Judge Russo's immunity determination. Certiorari must be granted to cure the error. This Court should grant certiorari, review Judge Russo's immunity determination, and based on the record evidence, affirm Judge Russo's denial of immunity because he did not abuse his discretion.

The Court of Appeals also erred in making evidentiary findings on appeal as if it is a Circuit Court in an immunity hearing and instructing the Circuit Court on whether it should find certain facts favorable to Dennis on remand or grant Dennis certain inferences on remand. (See "Duty to Retreat/Avoid the Danger" section of the Opinion, pp. 11-15). First, this portion of the Opinion is entirely dicta as it was unnecessary to the decision made in this case. See Nash v. Tindall Corp., 375 S.C. 36, 40-41, 650 S.E.2d 81, 83 (Ct. App. 2007) (explaining "dictum 'is a statement on a matter not necessarily involved in the case, ... is not binding as authority ..., [and] is not the court's decision.'" (quoting 21 C.J.S. Courts § 227 (2006))). Dictum is not the law. Gordon v. Lancaster, 425 S.C. 386, 395, 823 S.E.2d 173, 177 (2018)(Few, J. concurring). This Court must grant certiorari and correct this portion of the Court of Appeals Opinion.

Second, and even more troubling, these evidentiary and legal findings of the Court of Appeals in this section of the Opinion and directions to the Circuit Court to follow them, Opinion pp. 11-15, would require the Circuit Court, which is the sole determiner of the facts and elements at an immunity hearing, to follow the factual findings and legal conclusions of the Court of Appeals which would abdicate the Circuit Court's statutory role in immunity proceedings to the Court of Appeals. S.C. Code Ann. Sections 16-11-410 to 450 (2006); State v. Manning, 418 S.C. 38, 43, 791 S.E.2d 148, 150 (2016); State v. Isaac, 405 S.C. 177, 187, 747 S.E.2d 677, 682 (2013); State v. Duncan, 392 S.C. 404, 709 S.E.2d 662 (2011); State v. McCarty, 437 S.C. 355, 878 S.E.2d 902 (2022). This Court has repeatedly held a Circuit Court may not abdicate its fact finding and legal conclusion determinations in an immunity hearing to another body. State v. McCarty, 437 S.C. 355, 372, 366, 878 S.E.2d 902, 911 (2022)("[T]he circuit court must weigh the evidence and make its own credibility and factual findings before reaching a decision as to immunity"); State v. Chhith-Berry, 437 S.C. 527, 542-43, 878 S.E.2d 352, 360 (Ct. App. 22)("[T]he [trial court's] [immunity ruling must be based solely on the evidence presented at the pretrial hearing[.]"); State v. Cervantes-Pavon, 426 S.C. 442, 452-27 S.E.2d 564, 569 (2019); State v. Glenn, 429 S.C. 108, 116, 838 S.E.2d 491, 495 (2019); McCarty, 437 S.Ct. at 375, 878 S.E.2d at 913 ("the circuit court is in the best position to assess witness credibility and make the necessary findings of fact"); State v. Gray, 488 S.C. 130, 141, 882 S.E.2d 469, 475 (Ct. App. 2022)("[T]he trial court must sit as the fact-finder at this hearing, weigh the evidence presented, and reach a conclusion under the Act." And, it must not abdicate its role); State v. Ford, 439 S.C. 261, 886 S.E.2d 710 ("[T]he circuit court, sitting as fact-finder, must make specific fact findings that support its immunity decision.").

The Court of Appeals duty was to conduct appellate review of the Circuit Court's immunity determination not to dictate to the Circuit Court what to find or what inference to grant to Dennis on remand. State v. Jones, 416 S.C. 283, 290, 786 S.E.2d 132, 136 (2016) (“A claim of immunity under the Act requires a pretrial determination using a preponderance of the evidence standard, which [appellate courts review []] under an abuse of discretion standard of review.”), quoting State v. Curry, 406 S.C. 364, 370, 752 S.E.2d 263, 266 (2013). Respectfully, the Court of Appeals exceeded its appellate review and authority in this section of the Opinion, and it must be corrected by this Court otherwise Circuit Court Judges will feel obligated to follow this language of the Opinion no matter what the facts are in a particular case.

Further, the Court of Appeals factual determinations are incorrect. Dennis began and instigated the difficulty between himself and DFHS students beginning at the high school where he challenged them to fight later at the Cook-Out. Dennis drove to the Cook-Out and further instigated the conflict by going inside in the presence of DFHS students after challenging them to a fight at the high school. He then walked to his car, parked near the car wash, and again sought out DFHS students or fans by driving to PetSmart, close to the Cook-Out, maneuvering his car to where it pointed at DHFS students, and drove his car directly into several DFHS students almost striking 2 near the Cook-Out. This action escalated the conflict Dennis started even further. There was also evidence presented the victim did not lean into or touch Dennis’s car. And Dennis signaled the DFHS students to come to his car and lured the victim to his car where Dennis was armed with a deadly weapon, a knife. Dennis provoked the stabbing. The stabbing also occurred where cars were visible passing Dennis’s parked car indicating the conflict that he started, he could have easily driven away from, i.e. he had other means of avoiding the difficulty. Dennis had already been inside the restaurant and returned to his car before he moved his car to a different area and then drove into the group of DFHS students or fans. He could have left long before the incident. Dennis failed to prove he was entitled to immunity because he instigated and brought on the whole difficulty and could have left Cook-Out before anything occurred. Instead, he remained and further instigated and brought about the whole conflict and murdered a human being.

The fact that Dennis was in his car does not mean he was in a place where he had a right to be. The Court of Appeals erred in giving the Circuit Court instructions on what it should find below and what inferences it must apply in Dennis's favor on remand, as the credible record does not support that Dennis was without fault in bringing on the difficulty, that he acted reasonably after instigating the conflict, that he had no other means of avoiding the difficulty, or that he even was in a place he had a right to be. This portion of the Court of Appeals' Opinion should be struck. The Petition for Writ of Certiorari must be granted.

CONCLUSION

For the above stated reasons, this Court must grant the Petition for Writ of Certiorari.
