SC Court of Appeals

THE STATE OF SOUTH CAROLINA
In The Court of Appeals

APPEAL FROM GREENVILLE COUNTY
Court of Common Pleas The Honorable Bently D. Price, Circuit Court Judge

Appellant Case No. 2024-001197
Civil Action Case No. 2022-CP-23-05339

John M. Hornbeck, IIIRespondent

v.

Milton A. GatlinAppellant

ANSWER TO RESPONDENTS 2ND MOTION TO DISMISS

Appellant, Milton A, Gatlin hereby requests Respondent's 2nd Motion To Dismiss be denied based on the following.

Regardless of the case law, etc Respondent's Attorney tries to use playing smoke and mirrors with the Court, Respondent's Attorney has never been able to refute the actual facts of the case which began over 7 years ago. Those facts include but are not limited to the following:

1. The Respondent Custom Castles Roofing and Construction, Inc. was not licensed in accordance with the State of South Carolina to perform the work they proposed to do at Appellant's house.
2. It was illegal for Custom Castles Roofing and Construction, Inc. to offer to do the work and submit a Contract for the work based on the South Carolina Residential Builders Commission - SCLLR.
3. The illegal Contract submitted was also fraudulent due to claims on the Contract that were not true and were included to directive customers (Attachment C).

- a. Respondent claimed to be licensed for both residential and commercial work when they weren't licensed for either (Attachment C).
- b. Respondent claimed to be bonded as required but they were not (Attachment C).
- c. Respondent claimed to be insured but they had neither general liability or worker's compensation (Attachment C).

4. By starting work on Appellant's house they committed breach of contract because the South Carolina Residential Builders Commission - SCLLR. said it was illegal for them to be on site without a license..

5. Respondent Custom Castles Roofing and Construction, Inc. broke the law by hiring an unlicensed roofing contractor.

6. The roofing and siding work was not done in accordance with the South Carolina adopted 2015 International Residential Building Code.

7. The roofing and siding was not installed in accordance with the manufacturers' written instructions.

8. Respondent Custom Castles Roofing and Construction, Inc. broke the law by not complying with SC OSHA regulations when installing the siding.

9. Due to the Respondents not properly installing the roof and siding which caused leaks in the roof and siding and the siding not meeting the wind load of 70 mph required by the building code, Appellant expended over $68,000 including interest but not including Attorney fees of approximately $30,000.00.

Respondents' Attorney's Exhibit A, ORDER GRANTING DEFENDANTS' MOTION FOR SUMMARY JUDGEMENT was written by the Respondents' Attorney and filed March 20, 2023. Appellant's Appeal is based on the Judge's order denying Plaintiff's Motion For Reconsideration or Reopening dated June 28, 2024.

However since Attorney included Exhibit A, ORDER GRANTING DEFENDANTS' MOTION FOR SUMMARY JUDGEMENT, Appellant is attaching , Attachment A, DISCUSSION OF ORDER GRANTING DEFENDANTS' MOTION FOR SUMMARY JUDGEMENT. This discussion was included in Plaintiff's MOTION FOR RECONSIDERATION OR REOPENING which the Judge denied.

ATTACHMENT A

DISCUSSION OF ORDER GRANTING DEFENDANTS' MOTION FOR SUMMARY JUDGEMENT

a. Breach of Contract

Defendants' Attorney argues: "Plaintiff's claim of Breach of Contract against one or more of Defendants fails for three reasons: (1) Plaintiff Breached the Contract first; (2) Plaintiff's anticipatory breach of the Contract excused further performance of Defendants; and (3) Plaintiff prevented CCRC from performing its duties under the contract." (Order, p. 2, line 7-10)

Attorney's argument fails for the following reasons:

1. Defendants Breached the Contract first by performing illegal acts. Defendant Custom Castles Roofing and Construction, Inc. was not licensed/listed in accordance with SC Code of Laws Title 40 Article 1 Section 40-59-30 License requirement, enforcement of contracts, restraining orders; to perform the roofing and siding replacements on Plaintiffs' home. Therefore from the first day CCRC was on the Plaintiffs' property they were performing illegal acts.
2. Attorney stated "Mr. Gatlin testified in his deposition that he has never paid CCRC in full for the siding." Attorney left out the fact the siding was not complete and never has been completed. (Order, p. 2, line 28-29)
3. Attorney stated "Furthermore, Plaintiff did not endorse over the check from its insurance company to CCRC and therefore breached its Contract with CCRC." (Order, p.2, line 29, p, 3, line 1) The attorney made that statement without knowing whether it was true or false, which amounts to Attorney misconduct for false or misleading statements. The check referred to was not issued by Plaintiffs' Insurance Company until ~3 weeks after CCRC submitted the invoice for the remaining contract amount. (Exhibit O, Payments) The amount paid was a partial payment, from Plaintiffs' personal funds, with the amount remaining being retainage for uncompleted work. The retainage was never paid due to CCRC never completing the work and Defendant Hornbeck's reneging on correcting work he promised to correct, just as soon as he received Plaintiffs' personal funds check.

4. Attorney stated "It is further evident that the Plaintiffs committed an anticipatory breach of the Contract by only partially paying CCRC for the siding and then "running them (CCRC) off.'" (Order, p. 3, line 7-8) The Attorney committed fraudulent misrepresentation by changing Plaintiffs deposition testimony to include (CCRC) in the quoted part of the statement which says "running them (CCRC) off". By doing so Attorney intentionally intended to change the deposition to include everyone associated with the work when the deposition actually says, we got into an argument and I told them to get off of my property, which was referring to Mr. George Huth and Mr. John Von der Lieth. In addition the date inferred by the statement was not included because Attorney did not know what the date was. His inferred date was October 21, 2017, which he didn't know. The actual date was October 14, 2017, which he didn't know. Also, Plaintiff can prove he didn't "run them (CCRC) off" by copy of a check paid to the siding installers for helping Plaintiff with lawn reconstruction after stopping work on the siding when Hornbeck told them he wasn't paying for any items on the agreed upon corections list. (Exhibit M, Siding Installers Check) Plaintiff also has proof of who was run off and when in a text message from Mr.George Huth. (Exhibit L, Mr. George Huth, et al, Texts)
5. Attorney stated "Furthermore, Plaintiffs prevented CCRC from performing it's statutory right to cure pursuant to the South Carolina Notice and Opportunity to Cure Construction Dwelling Defects Act, S.C. Code of Laws § 40-59-810. (Order, p. 3, Line 12-14) It was determined under the previous case number the Defendants had no statutory right to cue because they were not licensed and the Residential Builders Commission would not allow CCRC back on Plaintiffs' site to complete any work. Attorney should have known that before making this false statement.

6. Attorney's statement saying "Because of the breach and anticipatory breach of contract, the Defendants were relieved of any further duty under the contract and Defendants are entitled to Summary Judgment." (Order, p. 3, line 19-21) failed, therefore Defendants are not entitled to Summary Judgment on Breach of Contract.

b. Quantum Meruit

Defendants argued that Plaintiffs never conferred a benefit upon Defendants.(Order, p. 4, line 2)

Plaintiffs disagree for the following reasons:

1. The Plaintiff conferred a benefit upon the Defendants in the form of payments for work never completed & work that was faulty and never corrected. (Exhibit F, Plaintiff Losses, Exhibit G, Uncomplete Items, Exhibit H, Siding Installation Defects & Exhibit I, Roofing Installation Defects)
 - (a) Roofing and Siding were not installed in accordance with the 2015 International Residential Code and the Manufacturers' Installation Instructions (Exhibit K, Code Requirements & Installation Instructions) which resulted in roof leaks even after replacement of the roof and wall leaks even after replacement of the siding.Defendants never corrected the defective work.
 - (b) Defendants never reinstalled downspouts removed by them.
 - (c) Defendants never reinstalled shutters removed by them.
 - (d) Plaintiffs replaced the undersized furnace vent cap installed by Defendants.
 - (e) Defendants never repaired ceiling damage from a water leak caused by Defendants.
 - (f) Plaintiffs reinstalled exterior lights knocked off the wall by Defendants.

(g) Defendants never replaced the light fixture globe broken by Defendants.

2. The Defendants realized a benefit in the form of work stated on the contract that was never done. (Exhibit C, Contract & Exhibit F, Plaintiff Losses)
 - (a) Remove Trash From Roof, Gutters & Yard
 - (b) Protect Landscaping Where Applicable
 - (c) Roll Yard With Magnetics Roller
 - (d) Quality Control Inspection
 - (e) Valley Ice & Water Shield
 - (f) Ridge Vents
 - (g) Emergency Repair (Tarps on Roof)
3. Plaintiffs paid for supervision that was not done. Project manager Mr. George Huth was out of town the entire week siding was being installed and only came by the first day roofing started and at the end of roofing installation to collect payment and advise Plaintiffs they ran out of shingles and would complete the roofing as soon as they could get additional ones. The other person involved, other than Hornbeck, was Mr. John Von der Lieth who told Plaintiffs he was a salesman and new nothing about construction. (Exhibit F, Plaintiff Losses)
4. Plaintiffs did not receive payment for costs incurred by Plaintiffs for completing work in the contract not done by Defendants or for completing work that was promised to be corrected by Defendants that was never done. (Exhibit F, Plaintiff Losses)
5. There is a statement that says the Defendants were never fully paid. The amount Defendants were not not paid was retainage for work never completed but costs were incurred by the Plaintiffs for having to complete the work themselves..(Exhibit F, Plaintiff Losses)

Therefore, the Motion for Summary Judgment on the Quantum Meruit cause of action should not be granted.

c. Breach of Contract Accompanied by a Fraudulent Act

Plaintiff erred in thinking Defendants' Attorney was required to take into account all previous testimonial or documentary evidence.

Attorney stated:

"With respect to Plaintiffs' cause of action for Breach of Contract Accompanied by a Fraudulent Act, Defendants argued that the damages claimed by the Plaintiffs for this cause of action are the same as under their Breach of Contract cause of action. Plaintiffs have not identified any separate damage specific to this cause of action."

"Moreover, in order to support an allegation of fraud, the basis of such claim must be plead with particularity (emphasis added). Rule 9(b), SCRCF provides the following:

(b) Fraud, Mistake, Condition of Mind. In all averments of fraud or mistake, the circumstances constituting fraud or mistake shall be stated with particularity. Malice, intent, knowledge, and other condition of mind of a person may be averred generally (emphasis added).

Plaintiffs' cause of action fails to meet this pleading requirement. No specific facts are alleged. Plaintiffs cause of action is a mere recitation of the elements."

"Plaintiffs' cause of action fails to meet the "particularity" requirements of SCRCF 9(b), fails to allege the fraudulent acts that accompanied the breach and there is no proof that any fraudulent act was intended to deceive the Plaintiffs".

"Furthermore, there is a heightened burden of proof for Fraud. Fraud is not presumed, but must be shown by clear, cogent, and convincing evidence. Ardis v. Cox, 314 S.C. 512, 515, 431 S.E.2d 267, 269 (Ct. App. 1993). Plaintiffs have asserted fraud, but have failed to provide any evidence which is clear, cogent and convincing to prove such allegations." (Order, p. 4, line 19-31, p. 5, line 1-18)

Plaintiffs aver as follows:

: "To recover for breach of contract accompanied by a fraudulent act, a plaintiff must establish (1) the contract was breached; (2) the breach was accomplished with a fraudulent intention; and (3) the breach was accompanied by a fraudulent act. Minter, 322 S.C. at 529-30, 473 S.E.2d at 70.

1. The contract was breached by John M Hornbeck III by stating on the contract, CCRC was Licensed, Bonded and Insured. (Exhibit C, Contract)

2. The breach was accomplished with fraudulent intention based on Defendants proposing to do the work when Defendants knowingly knew it was illegal to propose to do the work without being licensed/listed. In addition the Defendants knowingly submitted a contract that was illegal to submit without a license/listing and knowingly submitted a contract that included fraudulent information about CCRC being licensed, bonded, insured and the types of work they legally did. (Exhibit C, Contract)
3. The fraudulent information on the contract was intentionally included to deceive potential clients.. The contract was a custom preprinted multicopy form with fill in the blanks and check boxes. Obviously, the contract was designed to be used on a regular basis by Defendants with knowledge of the fraudulent content which would unjustly benefit the Defendants monetarily and be unfair to legally licensed contractors. (Exhibit C, Contract)

"In an action for breach of contract accompanied by a fraudulent act, the fraudulent act element is met by any act characterized by dishonesty in fact, unfair dealing, or the unlawful appropriation of another's property by design." Perry v. Green, 313 S.C. 250, 254, 437 S.E.2d 150, 152 (Ct. App. 1993).

4. The breach was accompanied by a fraudulent act when CCRC knowingly started working on contract stated items without being licensed/listed and by hiring an unlicensed/listed roofing subcontractor. Plaintiffs had to complete contracted items that were never done. (Exhibit F, Plaintiff Losses)
5. Defendants promised to do corrective work in order to receive payment for faulty work then reneged and never corrected the work which Plaintiffs then had to pay for.(Exhibit F, Plaintiff Losses)
6. The Defendants included fraudulent information on CCRC's website to deceive their potential clients. For example, Defendants bragged about work being done in Willmington, North Carolina, but intentionally did not tell they were not licensed to work in North Carolina. (Exhibit D, False Advertising)

Therefore, Defendants' Motion for Summary Judgment as to Plaintiff's cause of action for Breach of Contract Accompanied by a Fraudulent Act should not be granted.

d. Fraud or Fraud in the Inducement

Plaintiff erred again in thinking Defendants' Attorney was required to take into account all previous testimonial or documentary evidence.

Attorney stated:

"While the Plaintiffs successfully include each element of Fraud in their complaint, they again fail to plead with any particularity. "In order to prevail on a claim for Fraud, the Plaintiff must prove the following: A cause of action for fraud requires: (1) a representation of fact; (2) its falsity; (3) its materiality; (4) either knowledge of the falsity of the representation or reckless disregard of its truth or falsity; (5) the intent that the representation be acted on; (6) the hearer's ignorance of the falsity of the representation; (7) the hearer's reliance on the truth of the representation; (8) the hearer's right to rely on the representation; and (9) the hearer's consequent and proximate injury." Schnellmann v. Roettger, 373 S.C. 379, 645 S.E.2d 239 (2007). Hollman v. Woolfson, 384 S.C. 571, 579-80, 683 S.E.2d 495, 499 (2009).

Plaintiffs advanced no argument at the hearing that would overcome the Defendants' arguments for summary judgment on this issue and therefore, the Court grants Defendants' Motion for Summary Judgment of this issue. Plaintiffs have not articulated or provided evidence of any specific damages suffered as a result of the Defendants' misrepresentations. The Plaintiffs in this case rely upon a single allegation that the work performed by CCRC was deficient, nothing more. Also, this cause of action does not include the elements for Fraud in the Inducement. "In order to prevail on a claim for Fraud in the Inducement, the Plaintiff must prove the following: To establish a claim or defense of fraud in the inducement, a plaintiff must prove the nine elements of fraud as well as the following three elements: "(1) that the alleged fraudfeasor made a false representation relating to a present or preexisting fact; (2) that the alleged fraudfeasor intended to deceive him; and (3) that he had a right to rely on the representation made to him." Darby v. Waterboggan of Myrtle Beach, Inc., 288 S.C. 579, 584, 344 S.E.2d 153, 155 (Ct.App.1986). Moseley v. All Things Possible, Inc., 388 S.C. 31, 36, 694 S.E.2d 43, 45 (Ct. App. 2010), aff'd, 395 S.C. 492, 719 S.E.2d 656 (2011).

Again, there is a heightened burden of proof for Fraud. Fraud is not presumed, but must be shown by clear, cogent, and convincing evidence. Ardis v. Cox, 314 S.C. 512, 515, 431 S.E.2d 267, 269 (Ct. App. 1993). See also, Hancock, 381 S.C. at 330-31, 673 S.E.2d at 803 (2009) (stating in cases requiring a heightened burden of proof, the non-moving party must submit more than a mere scintilla of evidence to withstand a motion for summary judgment).

Plaintiffs have asserted fraud, but have provided no proof of that and there is certainly no evidence which is clear, cogent and convincing to prove such allegations.” (Order, p. 5, line 24-25, p.6, line 1-31)

Plaintiff avers as follows:

“In order to prevail on a claim for Fraud, the Plaintiff must prove the following: A cause of action for fraud requires: (1) a representation of fact; (2) its falsity; (3) its materiality; (4) either knowledge of the falsity of the representation or reckless disregard of its truth or falsity; (5) the intent that the representation be acted on; (6) the hearer's ignorance of the falsity of the representation; (7) the hearer's reliance on the truth of the representation; (8) the hearer's right to rely on the representation; and (9) the hearer's consequent and proximate injury.”

In addition:

“In order to prevail on a claim for Fraud in the Inducement, the Plaintiff must prove the following: To establish a claim or defense of fraud in the inducement, a plaintiff must prove the nine elements of fraud as well as the following three elements: “(1) that the alleged fraudfeasor made a false representation relating to a present or preexisting fact; (2) that the alleged fraudfeasor intended to deceive him; and (3) that he had a right to rely on the representation made to him.”

Fraud in the inducement occurs when a person tricks another person into signing an agreement to one's disadvantage by using fraudulent statements and representations. Because fraud negates the “meeting of the minds” required of a contract, the injured party can seek damages or terminate the contract. Had the Plaintiff known about all the fraudulent and deceiving information Plaintiff would never have entered into an agreement with CCRC. (Exhibit C, Contract & Exhibit D, False Advertising) The Plaintiff had a right to believe Defendants. Plaintiff never would have signed a contract with the Defendants for the following reasons:

1. Plaintiff knew ahead of time based on nearly 50 years working as a professional in Engineering and Construction it was illegal for Plaintiff to hire an unlicensed/listed contractor for his work because of it's cost.

2. Plaintiff knew ahead of time it was illegal for a contractor to even propose to do work if contractor was not licensed/listed and bonded for the work.

3. Plaintiff knew ahead of time it was illegal for an unlicensed/unlisted contractor to offer a contract for doing Plaintiffs' work.

4. Plaintiff knew ahead of time licensed residential builders were required to purchase a Surety bond.

5. Plaintiff knew ahead of time it was not wise to hire an uninsured contractor.

6. Plaintiff knew ahead of time specialty subcontractors (Roofing) were required to have a license or be registered for the work and had to purchase a Surety bond unless a licensed residential builder accepted liability for the work and provided supervision and inspected the work to ensure the work met the required regulations, codes and accepted practice.

7. Plaintiffs knew ahead of time that experience counts and hiring an inexperienced or incompetent contractor could be disastrous.

Defendants proposed to do work knowing it was illegal to propose work without being licensed.

Defendants offered a contract knowing it was illegal to offer a contract without being licensed. work without being licensed.

Defendants offered a contract knowing it included fraudulent and misleading information. Plaintiffs had a right to believe the contract wording. (Exhibit C, Contract)

Defendants performed work without concern about laws, codes and installation requirements which produced installations with major defects which they refused to correct. The knowingly fraudulent activity placed a large financial burden on the Plaintiffs. (Exhibit F, Plaintiffs Losses)

Therefore, Motion for Summary Judgment as to this cause of action should not be granted.

d. Fraud or Fraud in the Inducement

Attorney Stated:

“While the Plaintiffs successfully include each element of Fraud in their Complaint, they again fail to plead with any particularity.

“In order to prevail on a claim for Fraud, the Plaintiff must prove the following: A cause of action for fraud requires: (1) a representation of fact; (2) its falsity; (3) its materiality; (4) either knowledge of the falsity of the representation or reckless disregard of its truth or falsity; (5) the intent that the representation be acted on; (6) the hearer's ignorance of the falsity of the representation; (7) the hearer's reliance on the truth of the representation; (8) the hearer's right to rely on the representation; and (9) the hearer's consequent and proximate injury.” Schnellmann v. Roettger, 373 S.C. 379, 645 S.E.2d 239 (2007). Hollman v. Woolfson, 384 S.C. 571, 579–80, 683 S.E.2d 495, 499 (2009). “

Plaintiffs advanced no argument at the hearing that would overcome the Defendants' arguments for summary judgment on this issue and therefore, the Court grants Defendants' Motion for Summary Judgment of this issue.

Plaintiffs have not articulated or provided evidence of any specific damages suffered as a result of the Defendants' misrepresentations. The Plaintiffs in this case rely upon a single allegation that the work performed by CCRC was deficient, nothing more. Also, this cause of action does not include the elements for Fraud in the Inducement.

“In order to prevail on a claim for Fraud in the Inducement, the Plaintiff must prove the following: To establish a claim or defense of fraud in the inducement, a plaintiff must prove the nine elements of fraud as well as the following three elements: “(1) that the alleged fraudfeasor made a false representation relating to a present or preexisting fact; (2) that the alleged fraudfeasor intended to deceive him; and (3) that he had a right to rely on the representation made to him.” Darby v.

Waterboggan of Myrtle Beach, Inc., 288 S.C. 579, 584, 344 S.E.2d 153, 155 (Ct.App.1986). Moseley v. All Things Possible, Inc., 388 S.C. 31, 36, 694 S.E.2d 43, 45 (Ct. App. 2010), aff'd, 395 S.C. 492, 719 S.E.2d 656 (2011).

Again, there is a heightened burden of proof for Fraud. Fraud is not presumed, but must be shown by clear, cogent, and convincing evidence. Ardis v. Cox, 314 S.C. 512, 515, 431 S.E.2d 267, 269 (Ct. App. 1993). See also, Hancock, 381 S.C. at 330–31, 673 S.E.2d at 803 (2009) (stating in cases requiring a heightened burden of proof, the non-moving party must submit more than a mere scintilla of evidence to withstand a motion for summary judgment).

Plaintiffs have asserted fraud, but have provided no proof of that and there is certainly no evidence which is clear, cogent and convincing to prove such allegations. For these reasons, Defendants' Motion for Summary Judgment as to this cause of action is granted." (Order, p. 5, line 24-25, p. 6, line 1- 31, p. 7, line 1-2)

Plaintiffs avers as follows:

1. The Defendants' made representations to the Plaintiff.
2. The representations were false. (Exhibit C, Contract)
3. The representations were material to the Plaintiffs decision to enter into the contract.
4. The Defendants had knowledge of the representations' falsity or exhibited a reckless disregard of its truth or falsity.
5. Defendants' intent was that the representations be acted upon by the Plaintiff.
6. Based on Defendants' website, Facebook pages and standardized contract Defendants had been using the false representations for quite some time with much success.
7. The Plaintiff was ignorant of its falsity.
8. The Plaintiff relied on the representations' truth.
9. The Plaintiff had a right to rely on the truth of the representations.
10. Damage was suffered by the Plaintiff as a direct and proximate result of the Defendants' misrepresentation.
11. Plaintiffs relied on their insurance settlement to provide the funds to repair the hail storms damage.
12. Plaintiffs had a right to rely on their insurance settlement.
13. Plaintiffs suffered considerable losses due to Defendants representations on the contract and throughout the project. (Exhibit F, Plaintiff Losses, Exhibit, Exhibit, G Uncomplete Items, Exhibit H, Siding Installation Defects, Exhibit I, Roofing Installation Defects)

For these reasons, Defendants' Motion for Summary Judgment as to this cause of action should not be granted

e. Negligent Misrepresentation

Attorney stated:

"Defendants also seek Summary Judgment as to Plaintiffs cause of action for Negligent Misrepresentation. Again, Plaintiffs have failed to identify any damages specific to this cause of action. Moreover, Plaintiffs have failed to prove how any damages claimed in this case were proximately caused by any alleged representation made by the Defendants. “To prove a claim for the common law tort of negligent misrepresentation, the following elements must be established:

(1) the defendant made a false representation to the plaintiff; (2) the defendant had a pecuniary interest in making the statement; (3) the defendant owed a duty of care to see that he communicated truthful information to the plaintiff; (4) the defendant breached that duty by failing to exercise due care; (5) the plaintiff justifiably relied on the representation; and (6) the plaintiff suffered a pecuniary loss as the proximate result of his reliance on the representation.” West v. Gladney, 341 S.C. 127, 134, 533 S.E.2d 334, 337 (Ct.App.2000) (emphasis added).

“Evidence of a mere broken promise is not sufficient to prove negligent misrepresentation.” Sauner v. Pub. Serv. Auth. of S.C., 354 S.C. 397, 407, 581 S.E.2d 161, 166 (2003) (quoting Winburn v. Ins. Co. of N. Am., 287 S.C. 435, 443, 339 S.E.2d 142, 147 (Ct.App.1985)). Ordinarily, to be actionable, a statement must relate to a present or preexisting fact, and cannot be predicated on unfulfilled promises or statements as to future events. Davis v. Upton, 250 S.C. 288, 291, 157 S.E.2d 567, 568 (1967). Turner v. Milliman, 392 S.C. 116, 123, 708 S.E.2d 766, 769–70 (2011) (emphasis added).

Because Plaintiffs have failed to identify any misrepresentations or damages related to this cause of action, Defendants are entitled to Summary Judgment.” (Order, p. 7, line 4-28)

Plaintiffs avers as follows:

1. Defendant Hornbeck made promises followed by “We trusted you, now you need to trust us “. The promises were reneged on as soon as payment was received and Plaintiffs ended up paying for the work associated with the broken promises. (Exhibit F, Plaintiff Losses)
2. When the Plaintiff told Defendant Hornbeck Mr. Huth had way overpurchased siding, pointing to the leftover stack of material (HardiPlank, fasteners provided by the Distributor that were never used and two cases of caulking that were never applied), and asking for the excess materials to be removed, Mr. Hornbeck told Plaintiff, Mr. Huth did not order the material but that he did. After Mr. Hornbeck said that, Plaintiff made the comment, I know your company did, after which Mr. Hornbeck said he meant he had personally ordered the material. Later Mr. Hornbeck denied making the statement. Who would bother denying making a statement like that unless they had become concerned about their personal liability. (Exhibit F, Plaintiff Losses)

3. When told by the Plaintiff, Hardi Plank starter strips were not installed, Mr. Hornbeck said many of his clients didn't want starter strips installed. Who in their right mind would believe such a statement when it clearly states in the installation instructions starter strips are to be installed. Undoubtedly Mr. Hornbeck has never read the Hardi Plank installation instructions or seen the instructions that are printed on the HardiPlank wrapper. (Exhibit I, Siding Installation Defects & Exhibit F, Plaintiff Losses)
4. When told by the Plaintiff the Hardi Plank was not properly fastened in most cases, Mr. Hornbeck said Contractors new better ways of installing materials than the manufacturers. Again that is unbelievable since the 2015 International Residential Code includes requirements for installing fiber cement siding planks, including fastener types and spacing, that were not followed by CCRC. Also, Hardi Planks' installation instructions follow the building code which requires the installation to be capable of withstanding 70 mph winds (in the Greenville County area & 110 mph in some other areas of the state). The installation requirements were also confirmed in discussions with a Hardi Plank technical representative. (Exhibit H & Exhibit F, Plaintiff Losses)
5. When Plaintiff told Mr. Hornbeck the workers were not following OSHA's requirements for sawing HardiPlanks Mr. Hornbeck said he wasn't worried about OSHA because he had plenty of money and plenty of lawyers. The reason Plaintiff told Mr. Hornbeck about the OSHA requirements wasn't to keep Mr. Hornbeck out of trouble but was for Plaintiff's concern about the workers exposure to Silica dust which is a known carcinogen. Obviously Mr. Hornbeck only had himself in mind. In addition Plaintiffs had to clean up the silica dust left behind from the sawing operation.(Exhibit G, Uncomplete Items)

For these reasons, Defendants' Motion for Summary Judgment as to this cause of action should not be granted

f. Negligence

Attorney stated:

“Plaintiffs’ negligence claim is barred by the Economic Loss Rule. “A breach of a duty which arises under the provisions of a contract between the parties must be redressed under contract, and a tort action will not lie.” Tommy L. Griffin Plumbing & Heating Co. v. Jordan, Jones & Goulding, Inc., 320 S.C. 49, 54–55, 463 S.E.2d 85, 88 (1995). In the case at hand, the Contract sets for the duties of CCRC and the Plaintiff. Plaintiff’s sole remedy is under contract law and the Negligence claim is duplicative and barred by the Economic Loss Rule and Defendants are entitled to Summary Judgment on this issue.” (Order, p. 7, line 28-31, p. 8, line 1-3)

Plaintiffs avers as follows:

Attorney’s argument fails in the residential homebuilding context. The SC Supreme Court recognized two exceptions to the economic loss rule.

”In creating the new exceptions, the court rejected the majority view of the economic loss doctrine, stating that view “employs a legal framework that focuses on consequence, not action.” Id. at *3. The South Carolina Supreme Court in 1989 had recognized exceptions to the economic loss rule in the residential homebuilding context. In Kennedy v. Columbia Lumber & Mfg. Co., South Carolina recognized tort liability for builders who ”place defective and inferior construction into the stream of commerce” if the construction violates industry standards or poses a serious risk of physical injury. Id. at *4 (Hunton & Williams, Emerging Issues In Consumer Litigation, September 2008)

CCRC performed defective, faulty and inferior construction by intentionally sidestepping the 2015 International Residential Code, the siding manufacturers’ and roofing manufacturers’ installation instructions and not meeting accepted industry standards for construction.

The following results are due to the faulty construction, lack of supervision, followup and inspection by CCRC.

1. GAF, the roofing manufacturer, would not honor their warranty.
2. James Hardie Company, the siding manufacturer, would not honor their warranty.

3. After CCRC said they had completed the roof and had been paid the full amount, Plaintiffs had continuing leaks in two bathrooms, a bedroom, the dining room and den. Due to the incorrect installation strong winds would eventually begin to blow shingles off the roof. After CCRC said they had completed the siding, Plaintiffs had two continuing interior leaks around the windows in a bedroom. Due to the damage to the exterior sheathing during the siding being installed wrong, moisture and air infiltration would begin reducing energy efficiency, by allowing increased cold/hot air and moisture into the home, reduce the wall's insulation value, set up conditions for mold and mildew growth and allow for insect infestations. Also by not coating the sawed edges of the siding, delamination of the siding would eventually begin. Also the home's curb appeal was reduced by CCRC not repairing and reinstalling the two exterior lights knocked off the wall by the siding installers, not reinstalling the downspouts removed by the siding installers, by not reinstalling the window shutters removed by the siding installers, by not installing siding with the correct exposure, by leaving a length of siding removed exposing the sheathing, by installing shingles that curved over the eave and rake, by not installing ridge vents, by not installing drip edge in some areas. In addition, CCRC installed an undersized furnace vent cap filled with caulking that caused a backpressure on the furnace. That backpressure would reduce the furnaces life by causing moisture accumulation and rusting of the furnace due to incomplete combustion. The backpressure would cause a life safety issue by increasing the chance of carbon monoxide excaping from the furnace and entering the homes' bedrooms through the attic. Carbon monoxide tests have shown it easily penetrates sheetrock, even painted sheetrock because carbon monoxide moleules are 1,000 times smaller than the pores in sheetrock.and paint barely makes any difference. It's estimated the above items could devalue the Plaintiffs home by as much as 30%, or approximately $100,000.00. Also, code violations could affect insurance claims.resulting in thousands of dollars out of the Plaintiffs' pocket.

For these reasons, Defendants' Motion for Summary Judgment as to this cause of action should not be granted

g. Unfair Trade Practices Act Violation

Attorney stated:

"Plaintiffs' SCUTPA claim fails as a matter of law because it is a private dispute that does not affect the public interest. "Our courts have made it clear that UTPA is not available to redress a private wrong where the public interest is unaffected. UTPA is not an alternative vehicle to pursue an alleged breach of contract. Even an intentional breach of a contract does not rise to the level of a violation of UTPA." Dove Data Prod., Inc. v. DeVeaux, 2008 WL 98641167 at (Ct. App. 2008) (internal citations omitted). This matter is a private dispute between a homeowner and contractor for which Plaintiffs cannot seek recovery under the SCUTPA. Moreover, Plaintiffs failed to properly plead this cause of action."

"To recover in an action under the UTPA, the plaintiff must show: (1) the defendant engaged in an unfair or deceptive act in the conduct of trade or commerce; (2) the unfair or deceptive act affected [the] public interest; and (3) the plaintiff suffered monetary or property loss as a result of the defendant's unfair or deceptive act(s)." Wright v. Craft, 372 S.C. 1, 23, 640 S.E.2d 486, 498 (Ct.App.2006).

Plaintiffs failed to allege that the unfair or deceptive act affected the public interest. Moreover, Plaintiffs fails to allege that they suffered monetary damage or property loss as a result of the Defendant's unfair or deceptive acts. Plaintiff has provided no proof or law in this hearing to refute the Defendants' allegations in the motion and therefore Defendants' Motion for Summary Judgment as to Plaintiffs' cause of action for South Carolina Unfair Trade Practice Act Violation is granted." (Order, p. 8, line 5-24)

Plaintiffs disagree and aver as follows:

"In South Carolina, as in most jurisdictions, unfair methods of competition and unfair or deceptive acts or practices in the conduct of any trade or commerce are unlawful. See South Carolina Unfair Trade Practices Act (the "Act"), S.C. Code Ann. §39-5-10, et seq. In order to be actionable, an act must be unfair or deceptive, and must have an impact upon the public interest. Impact on public interest may be established if the act or practice has the potential for repetition. Potential for repetition may be demonstrated by showing the same kind of action previously occurred, making it likely it will continue to occur without deterrence, or by showing a company's procedures create the potential for repetition of the unfair and deceptive act. (Author, Cheryl D. Shoun, Nexen/Pruitt)

SECTION 39-5-20. Unfair methods of competition and unfair or deceptive acts or practices unlawful; application of federal act.

(a) Unfair methods of competition and unfair or deceptive acts or practices in the conduct of any trade or commerce are hereby declared unlawful.

(b) It is the intent of the legislature that in construing paragraph (a) of this section the courts will be guided by the interpretations given by the Federal Trade Commission and the Federal Courts to Section 5(a) (1) of the Federal Trade Commission Act (15 U.S.C. 45(a)(1)), as from time to time amended. (SC Code of Laws, Title 39, Chapter 5, Unfair Trade Practices, Article 1, General Provisions)

Defendants Unfair Trade Practices that affect licensed, law abiding diligent, and honest Residential Builders includes:

1. Inferring CCRC has three offices, one in Anderson and two in Greenville County when they don't have any. According to contract employees all meetings are held at Hornbeck's house.
2. By getting away with utilizing a fraudulent contract.
3. Pretending they have direct employees engaged in supervising, performing and inspecting their work when they don't. According to two of Hornbecks' contract employees, John Hornbeck is the only payroll employee of Custom Castles Roofing and Construction, Inc. and Custom Castles Construction, Inc.

4. Operating CCRC for years without being licensed/listed, not being bonded and not carrying general liability or workers compensation insurance which opens clients up to numerous types of claims.
5. For not providing services in accordance with building codes, manufacturers installation requirements and not following accepted practice.
6. By negligent hiring of contract employees and subcontractors.
7. By making false advertising claims on Facebook and the Defendants website.

For these reasons, Defendants' Motion for Summary Judgment as to this cause of action should not be granted

h. Disregard of Corporate Entity

Attorney stated:

“Plaintiffs have brought a cause of action against the Defendants seeking to hold John Hornbeck personally liable for the acts of CCRC. It is generally recognized that a corporation is an entity that is separate and distinct from, and its debts are not the individual debts of, its officers and stockholders. Hunting, 359 S.C. at 223, 597 S.E.2d at 806 (citing DeWitt Truck Brokers, Inc. v. W. Ray Flemming Fruit Co., 540 F.2d 681, 683 (4th Cir.1976)). Although the corporate entity may be disregarded in some situations, piercing the corporate veil is not a doctrine to be applied without substantial reflection. Baker v. Equitable Leasing Corp., 275 S.C. 359, 367, 271 S.E.2d 596, 600 (1980) (“However, ‘piercing the corporate veil’ is not a doctrine to be applied without substantial reflection.”). Mid-S. Mgt. Co. Inc. v. Sherwood Dev. Corp., 374 S.C. 588, 597, 649 S.E.2d 135, 140 (Ct. App. 2007).

The only contract at issue in this case is the one between CCRC and Plaintiffs dated July 31, 2017. Moreover, Plaintiff, Milton Gatlin, testified in his deposition that he never even met John Hornbeck until after the siding and roof was replaced by CCRC at his house.

Plaintiffs have submitted no evidence or law at this hearing to support this cause of action.

In order to determine whether the corporate formalities were observed under the first prong of the Sturkie test, the courts consider eight factors:

- (1) whether the corporation was grossly undercapitalized;
- (2) failure to observe corporate formalities;
- (3) non-payment of dividends;

- (4) insolvency of the debtor corporation at the time;
- (5) siphoning of funds of the corporation by the dominant stockholder;
- (6) non-functioning of other officers or directors;
- (7) absence of corporate records; and
- (8) the fact that the corporation was merely a façade for the operations of the dominant stockholder. Mid-S. Mgt. Co. Inc. v. Sherwood Dev. Corp., 374 S.C. 588, 598, 649 S.E.2d 135, 140–41 (Ct. App. 2007).

During his deposition, Milton Gatlin, admitted to having no personal knowledge about the “Sturkie factors” and Defendant entities. Plaintiffs presented no evidence to pursue this case of action. For this reason, Defendants’ Motion for Summary Judgment on disregarding the corporate entity is granted.” (Order, p. 9, line 1-32)

The Plaintiffs avers as follows:

Defendants Hornbeck and CCC argue, in their old motion to dismiss, that they are not parties to the contract at issue in this action and that Defendants CCC and CCRC are legally separate entities. As such, Defendants Hornbeck and CCC should be dismissed as it is their opinion that no claim has been made that can reach them under Rule 12(b) (6) of the South Carolina Rules of Civil Procedure. These are grossly inaccurate legal conclusions for the following reasons.”

A. The Corporate Veil Should Be Pierced

Plaintiffs allege in paragraph 4 of their complaint that Defendant companies are under the same corporate umbrella. Defendants CCC and CCRC are corporate shells of Defendant Hornbeck, thus the corporate veil should be pierced. It is Plaintiffs' belief that piercing the veil will reveal that Defendant Hornbeck is in reality a sole proprietor instead of merely the owner and/or majority shareholder and/or officer of Defendant companies; that Defendant CCC was not in reality a limited liability company, but rather a sole proprietorship; and that Defendant CCRC is not in reality a corporation, but rather a sole proprietorship.

Under the two-prong test laid out in Sturkie v. Sif7y, 280 S.C. 453, 313 S.E.2d 316 (Ct. App. 1984), eight factors must be considered in determining whether corporate formalities are being observed by the dominant shareholders for the first prong. The factors are:

- 1) whether the corporation was grossly undercapitalized;

- 2) failure to observe corporate formalities;
- 3) non-payment of dividends;
- 4) insolvency of the debtor corporation at the time;
- 5) siphoning of funds of the corporation by the dominant stockholder;
- 6) non-functioning of other officers or directors;
- 7) absence of corporate records;
- 8) the fact that the corporation was merely a facade for the operations of the dominant stockholder.

"The conclusion to disregard the corporate entity must involve a number of the eight factors, but need not involve them all." Dumas v. Infosafe Corp., 320 S.C. 188, 192, 463 S.E.2d 641 (Ct. App. 1995). Evidence currently in Plaintiffs' possession indicates that Defendants CCC and CCRC are merely facades for the operations of Defendant Hornbeck who, upon information and belief, is the majority shareholder.

Defendants allege that Defendant companies are separate and distinct. However, as Defendants have already admitted in their answer pleading, Defendant CCC did business as Defendant CCRC. At the time the contracted work took place Defendant CCRC did not have a contracting license registered to it, but Defendant CCC had Defendant Hornbeck's licensed to it, as stated in paragraph 10 of Plaintiffs' complaint. Defendant Hornbeck used his license to obtain the re-roofing permit in his name.

CCC was not listed on Greenville Counties website as contractor or subcontractor for a contract where Defendant CCRC was the promisor. If the Defendant companies are distinct and separate as Defendants allege then Defendant CCRC should have had its own registered contracting license. Upon information and belief, it was Defendant Hornbeck, solely and without consultation of any other officers/ directors of the Defendant companies that made the decision to do this. Defendant Hornbeck's actions indicate that he was and is using both Defendant companies as facades for his own operations as a general contractor which none of the Defendants are.....

The second prong of the test requires Plaintiffs to show that injustice or fundamental unfairness will occur if the veil is not pierced by proving "that (1) the defendant was aware of the plaintiff's claim against the corporation, and (2) thereafter, the defendant acted in a self-serving manner with regard to the property of the corporation and in disregard to the plaintiff's claim in the property." Dumas, 320 S.C. at 192, 463 S.E.2d at 644. "The essence of the fairness test is simply that an individual businessman cannot be allowed to hide from the normal consequences of carefree entrepreneuring by doing so through a corporate shell." Multimedia Publ'g of S. C., Inc. v. Mullins, 314 S.C. 551, 556, 431 S.E.2d 569, 573 (1993).

As to the first prong, Defendants were made aware of Plaintiffs' claim at least as far back as February 2018 when they initiated this suit. As to the second prong, Defendant Hornbeck acted in a self-serving manner in disregard to Plaintiffs' by dissolving Defendant CCC in March 2018. Plaintiffs believe it will show property that would otherwise have been subject to Plaintiffs' claim against Defendant CCC was either transferred to Defendant CCRC's or Defendant Hornbeck's possession. These are the actions of an "an individual businessman . . . to hide from the normal consequences of carefree entrepreneuring by doing so through a corporate shell." Id Therefore, it is necessary to pierce the corporate veil in order to insure fairness to Plaintiffs.

B. Defendants' Interests Are So Amalgamated As To Blur the Lines Between the Parties.

In the alternative, Defendants CCC, CCRC, and Hornbeck have interests that are amalgamated as to blur the lines between the parties. In Kincaid v. Landing Development Corp., 289 S.C. 89, 344 S.E.2d 869 (S.C. App. 1986), the Defendants of that case argued that the trial court erred in refusing to distinguish Defendant RMG from the other Defendants because they were merely the sales and marketing agent for the development. Kincaid vs Landing Development Corp., S.C. 89, 344 S.E.2d 869, 874 (S.C. App. 1986). The evidence showed that all of the Defendant companies had officers and shareholders that were mostly the same for each company; that all of the Defendant companies' offices were located at the same place concurrently; that when a Plaintiff called Defendant RMG regarding an issue with their house someone would show up to deal with it; and a letter with an RMG letterhead with the notation "A Development, Construction, Sales, and Property Management Company." Id. The Court held that "the evidence revealed^J an amalgamation of corporate interests, entities, and activities so as to blur the legal distinction between the corporations and their activities.'" Id. As a result, each of the Defendants were all held to be liable for the torts alleged. See Kincaid vs Landing Development corp., S.C. 89, 344 S.E.2d 869 (S.C. App. 1986).

Similarly, evidence already in Plaintiffs' possession reveals that such an amalgamation exists regarding the Defendants in this case. Both Defendants CCC and CCRC shared the same office and website concurrently at the time Plaintiffs entered into contract with Defendant CCRC. Indeed, even though Defendant CCC has dissolved since the beginning of this case they continue to have an active Facebook page that exists concurrently with Defendant CCRC's. Both of these Facebook pages have a website link for www.customcastles.net. Defendants CCC and CCRC used the same graphic logo concurrently. Defendant CCC has roofing listed as one of the services that it provides on its Facebook page concurrently with Defendant CCRC which has "Roofing" in its name. Defendant Hornbeck obtained the re-roofing permit required to perform the contract on his behalf and not that of the Defendant CCRC. Evidence in Plaintiffs' possession also tends to indicate that Defendant Hornbeck was the registered agent of each Defendant company concurrently and that they had the same physical location registered with the Department of Labor, Licensing, and Registration. Plaintiffs also believe that continued discovery will reveal that the Defendant companies have many if not all of the same officers or shareholders.

All of this evidence shows that the lines between the Defendants as separate entities is blurred and that Defendant Hornbeck's and Defendant CCC's interests and activities are amalgamated with Defendant CCRC's.

C. Defendant Hornbeck is individually Liable for SCUTPA Violation

Plaintiffs allege in paragraphs 57-60 of their complaint that Defendant(s) have engaged in activities in violation of the South Carolina Unfair Trade Practices Act (SCUTPA). SCUTPA makes directors and officers of companies that conduct unfair or deceptive trade practices liable for those acts if they directed, participated in, or exercised direct control over said activities. Code 1976, S 39-5-10 et seq. As an officer, director, or controlling person of the Defendant companies, Defendant Hornbeck is jointly and severably liable for violations of the SCUTPA because he has participated in or directed unfair or deceptive acts performed by the Defendant Companies. See Neeltec Enterprises, Inc. v. Long, 402 S.C. 524, 741 S.E.2d 767 (S.C.App. 2013). As the sole or majority shareholder and directing controlling officer of the Defendant CCC and Defendant CCRC. Upon information and belief, Defendant Hornbeck directed and participated in the following deceptive acts (Compl. 18 - 19):

1. False representations that Defendant CCRC was operating with a valid contractor's license at the time Plaintiffs entered into contract with Defendant CCRC (Compl. 156));
2. These false representations were made on the Custom Castles website;
3. These false representations are made on Defendant CCRC's form contracts;
4. False representations that Defendant CCRC has regular employees other than Defendant Hornbeck. Specifically, John Von der Lieth has business cards identifying him as the Director of Client relations and Defendant Hornbeck has acknowledged him as such on Defendant CCRC's Facebook page. Mr. Von der Lieth is in fact a sub-contractor hired by Defendant Hornbeck and not a regular employee of Defendant CCRC. In addition, George Huth presented himself as a project manager of CCRC and in fact he is also a sub-contractor; That Defendant Hornbeck used his residential builders license to obtain a re-roofing permit with the County of Greenville for Defendant CCRC's contract with Plaintiffs;
5. False representations that Defendant CCRC is registered with the County of Greenville to do business there; and
6. False representations that Defendant CCRC maintains an office at 33 Market Point Drive, Greenville, SC which is false and Defendant CCC maintains an office at 3300 N. Main St. Ste D in Anderson, SC which in fact is only a post office box at a UPS Store. Mr. Von Der Lieth told Plaintiffs that Defendant CCRC's real office is Defendant Hornbeck's house and he met Defendant Hornbeck there numerous times for business purposes.

7. Defendant Hornbeck did not apply for the re-roofing permit for Plaintiffs' home until October 25, 2017 which is after he stopped work on Plaintiffs' home.

The above-mentioned actions are also capable of repetition and thus have an adverse impact on the public interest. C+eSadigi v. Daghihfekr, 36 F. Supp. 2d 279 (D.S.C. 1999). As Defendant CCC and Defendant CCRC concurrently existed for some years it is likely that Defendant Hornbeck has repeated these deceptive acts with other customers. See Barnes v. Jones Chevrolet co., 292 S.C. 607, 358 S.E.2d 156 (Ct.App. 1987); York v. Conway Ford, Inc., 325 S.C. 170, 480 S.E.2d 726 (19%).

These acts were purposefully deceptive in concept and nature and either under the direction of Defendant Hornbeck or had his participation in them.

After filing the Complaint, the Plaintiffs have discovered evidence they believe show that each of the Defendant corporations are either alter egos of Defendant John M. Hornbeck, Ill or, alternatively, the lines distinguishing the parties is blurred to the point where they have amalgamated interests and activities.

i. All Tort Actions are Barred by the Economic Loss Rule

Attorney stated:

“All of Plaintiff’s tort claims are barred by the Economic Loss Rule. “A breach of a duty which arises under the provisions of a contract between the parties must be redressed under contract, and a tort action will not lie.” Tommy L. Griffin Plumbing & Heating Co. v. Jordan, Jones & Goulding, Inc., 320 S.C. 49, 54–55, 463 S.E.2d 85, 88 (1995). In the case at hand, the Contract sets forth the duties of CCRC and the Plaintiff. Plaintiff’s sole remedy is under contract law and any tort claim that arises out of the same circumstances, actions and facts are duplicative and barred by the Economic Loss Rule and Defendants’ Motion for Summary Judgment on dismissal of the tort actions is granted.” (Order, p. 10, line 1-10)

The Defendants’ Attorney erred based on the fact the Attorney did not do Due Diligence and used case law that was misleading. The Economic Loss Rule does not apply in South Carolina in the residential homebuilding context. The SC Supreme Court recognized two exceptions to the economic loss rule.

”In creating the new exceptions, the court rejected the majority view of the economic loss doctrine, stating that view “employs a legal framework that focuses on consequence, not action.” Id. at *3. The South Carolina Supreme Court in 1989 had recognized exceptions to the economic loss rule in the residential homebuilding context. In Kennedy v. Columbia Lumber & Mfg. Co., South Carolina recognized tort liability for builders who ”place defective and inferior construction into the stream of commerce” if the construction violates industry standards or poses a serious risk of physical injury. Id. at *4 Hunton & Williams, Emerging Issues In Consumer Litigation, September 2008)

Therefore, Defendants are not entitled to Summary Judgement on this issue.

Conclusion

Plaintiffs pray for the following

1. For the Defendants to be found to be unjustly enriched by the benefit conferred upon them by the Plaintiff;
2. For the Defendants to be found liable for breach of contract accompanied by fraudulent intent.
3. For the Defendants to be found liable for fraud or fraud in the inducement.
4. For the Defendants to be found liable for negligent misrepresentation.
5. For the Defendants to be found liable for negligence.
6. For the Defendants to be found in violation of the Unfair Trade Practices Act.
7. For the corporate veil of Defendants Custom Castles Construction, LLC and Custom Castles Roofing and Construction, Inc. to be pierced and allow personal liability against Defendant John M. Hornbeck, III.

8. That this matter be tried by jury.

9. For such other and further relief as the Court may deem just and proper.

ATTACHMENT B

Attorney Misconduct

Attorney misconduct may include: fraudulent misrepresentation, false or misleading statements, hiding evidence, failing to disclose all relevant facts, arguing a position while neglecting to disclose prior law which might counter the argument. A lawyer shall not make a statement that the lawyer knows to be false or with reckless disregard as to its truth or falsity.

The following are items that should be considered as possible misconduct by the Defendants' Attorney in this case.

1. The Defendants' Attorney committed fraudulent misrepresentation by changing Plaintiff's deposition testimony in Attorney's Memorandum. (Atty Mem p. 5, line 1-2)

Plaintiff's actual deposition testimony says,

"So, anyway, they came to the house. We got in an argument and I ran them off.

Q. What do you mean by ran them off?

I told them to leave my property, and I used some expletives that I can't say in front of you."

(Gatlin Dep. P. 43, line 15-20) (Attorney's Exhibit B)

Attorneys' Memorandum says, in quotation marks, "running them (CCRC) off".

(Atty Mem p. 5, line 2) By intentionally adding (CCRC) in the quotation, Defendants' Attorney tried to change the true meaning of Plaintiff's testimony, with the clear intent of misleading the Court to gain an advantage for his Defendants. Without, “(CCRC)” being inserted in Plaintiff’s testimony the Attorney’s argument, that appears four times, in one way or another, in his memorandum, saying, Plaintiffs did not allow CCRC to complete the work, fails and should be stricken. The truth about Plaintiffs’ testimony is supported by Mr. George Huth’s text message. (Exhibit L, Mr. George Huth, et al Texts)

2. The Defendants’ Attorney was negligent and misleading, by failing to disclose all relevant facts when referring to the “Contract” favorably for the Defendants numerous times and including it as Exhibit A. in his Memorandum knowing ahead of time, based on the original case, the contract was fraudulent, deceiving, illegal and unenforceable. The contract was fraudulent because it said Custom Castles Roofing and Construction, Inc. was licensed, bonded and insured which they were not. It was deceiving and fraudulent by misrepresenting that CCRC did Commercial and Residential projects they were not licensed to do. The contract was also illegal because CCRC would have to perform illegal activities and was in violation of SC Code of Laws Title 40 Article 1 Section 40-59-30 License requirement, enforcement of contracts, restraining orders. (Exhibit C, Contract)
3. Attorney stated “Plaintiff did not endorse over the check from its insurance company to CCRC and therefore breached its Contract with CCRC.” The attorney made that statement without knowing whether it was true or false, which amounts to Attorney misconduct for false or misleading statements. The check referred to was not issued by Plaintiffs' Insurance Company until 3 weeks after CCRC submitted the invoice for the remaining contract amount.

4. The Attorney's sentence in the first paragraph of BACKGROUND, "After CCRC performed the roof and siding replacement, Plaintiffs paid CCRC $19,546.64, a portion of the sum due under the contract." was misleading because by saying "performed" Attorney inferred "completed" which they never did and "paid a portion of the sum due under the contract" was as if the Plaintiffs had not paid the total amount for the completed work when in fact the work was not completed and the amount remaining was retainage for uncompleted items.

The Attorney's sentence "Plaintiffs' payment to CCRC was paid out of insurance proceeds received as a result of hail and wind damage." could not have been proven because it was not true.

4. Plaintiffs' payment of $8,200.00 was paid out of Plaintiffs' personal funds prior to Plaintiffs receiving payment from their insurance company. (Exhibit O, Payments)

Attorney states (Atty Mem p.6, lines 3-6) "Furthermore, Plaintiffs prevented CCRC from performing its statutory right to cure pursuant to the South Carolina Notice and Opportunity to Cure Construction Dwelling Defects Act, S.C. Code of Laws § 40-59810." knowing in the original case the Court had ruled against that argument which was confirmed by the Residential Builders Commission saying that it didn't apply to CCRC because CCRC was not licensed and had been performing illegal acts. That wouldn't change just because the case number changed.

5. In Atty argument against Plaintiffs' Negligent Misrepresentation action, Atty states "Defendants also seek Summary Judgment as to Plaintiffs cause of action for Negligent Misrepresentation. Again, Plaintiffs have failed to identify any damages specific to this cause of action. Moreover, Plaintiffs have failed to prove how any damages claimed in this case were proximately caused by any alleged representation made by the Defendants. In this cause of action,

Plaintiffs plead as follows:

48) The Defendants have made the following false misrepresentations to the Plaintiff:

g. That he was a general contractor accustomed to performing the nature, scope, and type of work which he was hired to perform.

h. That Defendant was the owner of the company, and the individuals performing the work on the Plaintiff's home were under the Defendant's direct scope and authority.

i. That the Defendant and his other agents would perform the work on the Plaintiff's home to the exact specifications required by the Plaintiff.

j. That the Defendant's would be using the materials requested by the Plaintiff, to their manufacturing specifications.

Attorney stated "Plaintiff did not endorse over the check from its insurance company to CCRC and therefore breached its Contract with CCRC." The attorney made that statement without knowing whether it was true or false, which amounts to Attorney misconduct.

6. Under h. Disregard of Corporate Entity, Attorney made the statement "During his deposition, Milton Gatlin, admitted to having no personal knowledge about the "Sturkie factors" and Defendant entities.

Plaintiff requests Attorney show Plaintiff where the words "Sturkie factors" show up in Plaintiff's deposition because his word search failed to.

During Plaintiffs short introduction to the Judicial System they have come to realize it's hard for justice to prevail over dishonesty, especially when the end justifies any means.

CUSTOMER AGREEMENT

In consideration of good and valuable consideration, the receipt, value, and sufficiency of which are hereby acknowledged, Customer and CCRC (hereinafter from time to time collectively referred to as the "Parties") agree as follows:

1. Customer acknowledges and appoints CCRC as its general contractor. As its compensation, CCRC will be entitled to ten percent (10%) as overhead, and ten percent (10%) as profit, for a total of twenty percent (20%) from the amount received by Customer from insurance, as allowed by insurance industry standards to be paid to CCRC, plus expenses or charges for bond insurance premiums or costs beyond normal insurance coverage. Any such additional expenses, premiums, or costs shall be added to the amount of the Contract (for example, performance bonds or maintenance bonds). Replacement of deteriorated decking, fascia boards, roof jacks, ventilators, flashing, or other materials, unless otherwise stated in this Contract, are not included and will be charged as extra charges for work and materials.
2. This Contract is subject to approval of CCRC's credit department. The CCRC representative executing this Contract must obtain the approval of the officer of CCRC for this Contract to be effective. If the Contract is not approved, CCRC will notify Customer.
3. BUYER'S RIGHT TO CANCEL: If you decide you do not want the goods or services, you may cancel this Contract by mailing notice to CCRC. The notice must say that you do not want the goods or services and must be sent "certified mail" before midnight of the third business day after you sign this Contract. The notice must be sent to: Custom Castles Roofing & Construction, Inc. at: 3300 N. Main St. Ste. D-194 Anderson, SC 29621. If cancellation is made after CCRC has met your adjuster, charges for travel, time, and estimating will be billed in accordance with line 14.
4. Upon full RCV payment, CCRC grants Customer a warranty for five (5) years on roof replacement, two (2) years on siding replacement, and one (1) year on gutter repairs. There is no warranty on temporary roof repairs. Extended service warranties are available for an additional charge, which must be in writing signed by both Parties.
5. CCRC is not and shall not be responsible for construction problems of Customer's home.
6. Customer understands that existing framing issues such as uneven rafters and bowed sheathing are not the responsibility of CCRC to fix and will only be repaired if needed and on a time and material basis to be agreed upon in writing by both Parties.
7. CCRC shall have no responsibility for damages from rain, fire, tornado, windstorm, or other perils as is normally contemplated to be covered by home owner's insurance or business risk insurance.
8. After ninety (90) days, CCRC reserves the right to revise its prices in accordance with costs in effect at the time. (For example, increases in material costs).
9. CCRC shall not be liable for failures or failure to performance due to labor controversies, strikes, fires, weather, inability to obtain materials from usual sources, or any other circumstances beyond the control of CCRC, whether of a similar or dissimilar nature.
10. CCRC is not responsible for any damage due to leaks by excessive wind, driven rain, ice, or hail during the period of warranty. (Excessive wind is 65 m.p.h.)
11. If material has to be reordered or restocked because of a cancellation by the Customer there will be a restocking fee equal to fifteen percent (15%) of the Contract price.
12. This Contract shall not be assigned except by or with the written permission of CCRC.
13. CCRC is not and shall not be responsible for any mold or interior damage resulting from mold.
14. If for any reason Customer does not permit CCRC to complete performance under this Contract other than by cancelling the Contract within five (5) business days after Customer has received written notification from its insurer that all or any part of its claim on this Contract is not a covered loss under the insurance policy, Customer shall pay CCRC for its inspection services, estimating, meeting with Customer, travel time, and working with adjuster at the rate of $100.00 per hour worked, plus all expenses spent on the job. If CCRC is required to collect any amounts owed under this Contract from Customer, it shall be entitled to recover from Customer its expenses, including its reasonable attorneys' fees, costs, and interest at eighteen percent (18%) per annum on all amounts owed. If Customer cancels this Contract in compliance with the Notice of Cancellation on the first page of this Contract, the Customer shall only be required to pay CCRC for its services and expenses that were acknowledged in writing by the Customer to have been necessary to prevent damage to the premises, i.e. emergency services and expenses.
15. This Contract shall be construed and interpreted in accordance with the laws of the State in which it was signed, without regard to its choice of law rules. Should any provision of this Contract require interpretation, the Parties agree that the individual, entity, or court interpreting or construing the same shall not apply a presumption that the terms hereof shall be more strictly construed against one Party by reason of the rule of construction that a document is to be more strictly construed against the Party who itself or through its agents prepared the same. In the event that any of the provisions of this Contract (including any provision within a single section or sentence) is held by a court to be invalid, void, or otherwise unenforceable, the remaining provisions are severable and shall remain enforceable to the full extent permitted by law.
16. This Contract represents the complete understanding among the Parties and supersedes and replaces any and all prior agreements and representations regarding the subject matter of the Contract. No prior or contemporaneous statements, representations, inducements, promises, or agreements, oral or otherwise between or among the Parties, not embodied herein shall have any force and effect.
17. This Contract and any of its provisions may not be modified, waived, or amended except by a subsequent writing executed by both Parties and making specific reference hereto. This Contract shall be binding upon and inure to the benefit of the executors, administrators, personal representatives, heirs, successors, and assigns of each Party hereto.
18. CCRC's maximum liability to Customer for any claimed negligence, default, or breach of this Contract by CCRC or for CCRC's negligence shall be an amount equal to the original cost of labor and materials for the repairs and/or replacement contemplated by this Contract.
19. During the duration of the work the Customer's homeowner's insurance will be responsible for any interior damage as long as CCRC has taken reasonable action to protect the roof during the repair of the roof.
20. If there are any solar panels on Customer's roof, CCRC will not be responsible for any damage during repairs and/or replacement. Customer agrees to have solar panel company take the appropriate action to protect it, if necessary.
21. CCRC is not responsible for any damage on or below the roof due to leaks from skylights unless CCRC completed the skylight replacement.
22. Payments by Customer are to be made as follows: One third down payment at the time this Contract is signed by Customer or receipt of the first insurance check, whichever is greater. CCRC reserves the right to bill proportionately based on percentage of work complete. Further, Customer agrees to endorse and turn over to CCRC any check received from an insurance company or third party within seven (7) days receipt thereof. Failure to do so will be a breach of this Contract. Customer hereby authorizes the insurance company and/or the mortgage company to make any checks payable jointly to Customer and CCRC. Customer agrees to pay in full at the time of the completion of Contract and/or change order(s).
23. Any hidden conditions or building code related issues which result in additional labor and/or material costs will require a change order signed by both Parties to proceed. Customer understands that CCRC may issue a stop work order if change order is not accepted. (For example, rotten decking, fascia, gas vents, HVAC lines or coils, etc.). CCRC is not responsible for damages to any of the foregoing.
24. Customer understands all insurance proceeds are to be paid to CCRC for insurance approved repairs unless noted in writing in this Contract or in a change order.
25. CCRC may enforce its right to payment by other means, including, but not limited to, filing of a lien against the property of Customer, reporting to appropriate credit reporting agencies, and any other legal remedies available at law or in equity.
26. Customer understands that CCRC subcontracts all dumpster work and such other work as CCC may in its sole discretion determine. Any flat tires due to nails left under the dumpster, driveway, or garage are the responsibility of the contracted dumpster company, not CCRC.
27. All notices to CCRC shall be sent via U.S. Mail to its administrative office addressed to: Custom Castles Roofing and Construction, Inc., 3300 N. Main St. Ste. D-194, Anderson, SC 29621.
28. The Parties agree to cooperate fully and execute any and all supplementary documents and to take all additional actions which may be necessary or appropriate to give full force and effect to the basic terms and intent of this Contract.
