I'm not sure what you are saying, because I didn't receive information indicating what you've requested. This just seems as if I've been setup by the system. I paid more money than I had in my account to get this resolved and I presented everything that I was aware of and that you guys requested. I need to know what you guys have requested that I didn't get . I presented everything on time, but someone dropped the ball and I can tell from emails from your office that were redacted that were already presented
