Dear Ms. Ballard:

Thank you for your email. We appreciate your giving us the opportunity to respond. It is our understanding that motions of this nature are directed to the staff attorneys office. We wanted to provide the staff attorneys office with a courtesy copy for their review as soon as possible. Please let us know if you have any other questions.

Thanks,
Thomas

Importance: High

It was just called to my attention that you did the same thing last week, while I was on vacation (see attached).

What authority possibly exists for you to communicate directly to the staff attorney's office?

Susan, I'm sorry to include you on this, but we are replying to everyone included. I will wait for Mr. Twombly's response before we decide what next steps to take next on behalf of our client. We are certainly not asking for a response from your office.
