I have not received any feedback from the change of ownership and ruling by the judge on May 23rd. I found this online which is not what the judge ruled at all. And I wanted to know about the month to month after the lease is up. I just dont want to be screwed im confused on thia whole process. The judge stated something different from online and I have not received anything from the court yet. After speaking with the Supreme Court on May 23rd.

I am trying to find in my lease the terms that the court said is upheld in change of ownership. I cannot find anything is it possible to request this agreement that they still have ownership of lease terms until it expire and can be renewed through the old owners on a month to month basis? I would like a copy of such agreement about my lease term in the event it is sold.

the judge today told me that I am still in a lease agreement with Summerville station, even though I have try to provide proof that there has been a change of ownership, they no longer own the property. The judge refused to take the document and stated that that It did not matter. I was in fact still in agreement with them. I still need to pay them on the 1st of June and not the new owners . Also lease up on June 9th. The property is now lake city living, and I would need to make payments to them after my lease is up in June. I really need to look into this.
