SC Court of Appeals

DENIED BECAUSE THERE IS NO NEED

Logically "DENIED" because "there is no need" as indicated by RULE 203 (b)(1), when a form or other order of judgment indicates that a more full and complete order or judgment is to follow, a party need not appeal until receipt of written notice of entry of more complete order or judgment. Therefore, the Rule direct, enters and orders default judgment and Rule 203(b)(1) application is now law.

Mr. Castro maintains that the appeal is "unnecessary". Accordingly, "denial" is the only rational applicability.

"Default Judgment remains eternally".
