Why I'm not making a motion to the court is for a most important fact if I was standing the at time this 1000lb role fiber rolled out the back of this trailer this would have been a death benefit case and clearly if you visited Wilkinson versus palmetto State transportation what my family would have fighting for. And driver have been killed in this same situation so it not for the benefit of myself it's a decision the court should may to protect and safe guard the driver because the company like Evans delivery can demand that safety measures are in place to prevent products from rolling off the back of a trailer but that not a policy to f there's.
