Good afternoon. I just want to document that I have sent in several maintenance requests about the mold in my apartment. I have children who has asthma and are constantly out of school because of sickness. The office manager refuses to let maintenance fix anything in my apartment and it is unacceptable. The last guy to attempt to fix the leakage only put a patch on the ceiling and painted over it, in which it did nothing for the mold. Now that, my children's bathroom is getting worse by the day, the mold is also forming in the master's bathroom as well. You can see the actual spots where the leakage is starting to form mold and nothing is being done about it. I have enclosed pictures of both bathrooms along with the stove that she refuse to let maintenance replace by ordering a new one. It is a safety hazard all around the board because the eye on the stove gets extremely hot just by turning the oven on. Not to mention, the big eye has been out for a few months now and the door of the oven has came completely off. I've reported everything and still nothing has been done.
