SC Court of Appeals

THE SUPREME COURT OF SOUTH CAROLINA

APPELLATE CASE NO. 2026-000056

MOTION TO RECONSIDER YOUR DECISION

To Whom It May Concern:

On May 21, 2026, I received an email from Ashli Thompson that my case was dismissed for nonpayment. When I sent in the first payment, the court said they never received the payment. Luckily for me I had taken pictures of the envelope with the postage stamp and provided the receipt, at that time I spoke with Ashli Thompson and told her that I would put a stop payment and re issue payment again, which I did and I think the next day you received payment, the payment was sent back to me. When I reissued the second payment the funds stayed in the account, I called Ashli Thompson about my concern. She said she hadn't heard that anything was wrong, so I was like ok to keep me posted. I called back again and spoke with Ashli Thompson still about my concern at that time she informed me that she would reach out to the finance dept and let me know what she found out but she never did, I ended up calling her again this time I even offered to stop payment once again and to drive 3hrs to get Columbia and bring a certified check or a money I was informed by Ashli Thompson that I didn't have to do that everything was fine. I never received anything from my bank that was returned. I know the phone calls are recorded, so I suggest that someone pull those calls and listen to how concerned I was. The only notice that I received about something was wrong was when I received the order, what I don't like is being told that I didn't do something when I did and not being given the chance to find out what was wrong you just wanted to take upon yourself and dismissed my case. Didn't send me a letter saying this is what your bank is saying and you have this many days to correct the problem if not then your case will be dismissed, I received nothing. And to say that I haven't shown good cause you're completely wrong if I'm willing to drive 3hrs. What do you call that? If I'm constantly calling, what do you call that. I understand that you didn't know about these facts but now you do. I'm asking the court to reconsider the decision since you now have the facts about the situation with the fees. I still have no problem with bringing the funds to court. If you had online payment, this situation wouldn't happen. The Supreme Court can and has overturned their decisions on other cases I've done some research on it. Hope to hear from you soon.

Best Regards
