Dear Jamie:

Good afternoon! Thank you for your email. Unfortunately, I cannot give you legal advice. That said, you are free to file a motion with the court to request an extension of time to file the initial brief, along with your explanation below. I cannot predict how the court may rule on your motion, but historically we've been understanding of situations such as this one. Please don't hesitate to let me know if I can be of any further assistance.

Hi Jenny,

Happy New Year. My appellate brief is due today, however, my client will be dropping his appeal. I have had some trouble getting in touch with him, but anticipate having his affidavit in hand within the next week. I spoke with Bob Dudek and he suggested that I ask the Court to hold the case in abeyance for a period of days until I can submit the affidavit. Is this a possibility, and would you like for me to submit some type of formal request? I am sorry for the late notice!

Thank you!
