This matter came before the Court for a bench trial held July 17th, 2026. Aaron Kolzolski appeared on behalf of the Plaintiff and John Sullivan appeared pro se. During the hearing, Mr. Sullivan admitted to receiving funds from Plaintiff and making payments on the account. Mr. Sullivan stated that he entered the agreement with a third party entity to secure the loan with Plaintiff and was making payments through this third party. While Mr. Sullivan may have been taken advantage off by this third party, he admitted to entering the loan agreement with the Plaintiff and that he owed the debt, even if he disputed the exact amount. The Court finds that Plaintiff has met their burden of proof showing that Defendant owed the Plaintiff a debt and the debt is still outstanding.

Judgment shall be entered in favor of the Plaintiff against the Defendant. Plaintiff shall provide the Court with an order within twenty (20) days of this ruling.

IT IS SO ORDERED.
