Appellant

Appellant Wendell Don Cooper, appearing pro se, respectfully submits this Emergency Supplemental Notice concerning developments occurring on October 9, 2026, and requests immediate consideration of his pending Petition for Rehearing and Request for Three-Judge-Panel Review and his request for emergency protective relief.

Appellant's petition challenging the September 25, 2026, dismissal remains pending. The administrative deficiency previously identified by the Clerk has been cleared. As of this filing, Appellant has received no order resolving the petition.

On October 9, 2026, Danette Hanks, Court Reporter for the Greenville County Master-in-Equity, advised Appellant in writing that Judge Charles B. Simmons, Jr., had reviewed Appellant's correspondence and the court record and determined that the October 12, 2026, hearing would proceed. The communication further stated that "all issues will be addressed on the record at that time." A copy is attached as Exhibit A.

The hearing was originally noticed for consideration of whether the underlying foreclosure proceedings should be stayed pending appeal. The October 9 communication leaves uncertain whether additional motions, claims, defenses, or potentially dispositive issues will be addressed. Appellant is prepared to argue the noticed emergency stay but has not received specific notice identifying additional motions to be heard.

Appellant respectfully submits that the approaching hearing creates an immediate need for judicial consideration of his pending requests. Rules 221, 240, and 241, SCACR, provide the applicable procedural framework for rehearing, motions, and requests for stay or supersedeas. Appellant recognizes that a pending rehearing petition does not automatically stay all lower-court proceedings.

Appellant therefore respectfully requests that this Court consider his pending petitions before October 12, 2026, at 9:30 a.m., and, to the extent authorized, grant temporary protection against dispositive foreclosure proceedings or enforcement of the contested loss-mitigation forfeiture provision pending resolution of the emergency stay issues.

Appellant further requests that this supplemental notice and Exhibit A be received and included in the appellate record as documentation of the subsequent development and his continuing efforts to obtain judicial consideration before Monday's hearing.

Appellant expressly preserves all pending claims, defenses, motions, and appellate objections and does not waive or abandon any such matters by appearing prepared to argue the emergency stay.

Respectfully submitted,

/s/ Wendell Don Cooper
