MOTION TO RECONSIDER PROBATION
REVOCATION SENTENCE

Denied
10-5-26

INTRODUCTION

Defendant Brandon Lee Wallace moves for reconsideration of his probation revocation sentence imposed on September 18, 2026 by the Honorable Lawton McIntosh. Mr. Wallace seeks reconsideration due to evidence overlooked during the hearing, which created a misleading impression regarding the probation violations at issue and specifically the restitution ordered. Mr. Wallace contends this evidence justifies a reconsideration and reduction of his sentence.

FACTUAL BACKGROUND

Brandon Lee Wallace pled guilty on November 13, 2019 to two counts of second-degree burglary (nonviolent); one count of obtaining property under false pretenses, $2,000 or less (enhanced); and one count of grand larceny, $2,000 to $10,000 (enhanced). The Honorable Letitia H. Verdin sentenced Mr. Wallace to 6 years' imprisonment suspended to 30 months' probation, with credit for time served of 93 days, hold for a bed for inpatient treatment of at least six months, random drug and alcohol testing, and payment of restitution totaling $444 ($370.00 plus 20 percent collection fee). Mr. Wallace was subsequently arrested on two probation violation warrants on April 4, 2021 and September 1, 2021. Greenville County Probation had a bench warrant outstanding since July 23, 2021.

Mr. Wallace later pled guilty in Anderson County to failure to stop for blue light and to possession of contraband by an inmate, and was sentenced to three years' incarceration, with a sentence start date of December 18, 2025. On September 15, 2026, Mr. Wallace was transported to the Greenville County Detention Center from the South Carolina Department of Corrections for his probation violation hearing, which was held on September 18, 2026. During the hearing, the Court found that Mr. Wallace violated his probation by failing to complete inpatient treatment, failing to report and absconding, his new convictions, and failing to pay restitution and other fees.

The Department recommended a four-year revocation and terminate probation. Mr. Wallace, by and through undersigned counsel, requested a three-year revocation, back dated to the start of Mr. Wallace's three-year sentence he is currently serving, all run concurrently, or at least since the probation violation hold was in place. The Court ultimately revoked Mr. Wallace in full, sentencing him to six years' imprisonment, with credit for time served of 93 days that he had served prior to the original sentencing. Mr. Wallace requested the credit because Mr. Wallace had been under a hold while incarcerated in Anderson County and then SCDC the entire time on the underlying probation violation warrant. The Court stated that Mr. Wallace was entitled to any credit to which he was lawfully entitled.

Mr. Wallace's failure to pay any amount toward his restitution was an emphasis in the Court's ultimate full revocation of Mr. Wallace's sentence. Following the hearing, undersigned counsel realized while re-reviewing the probation violation report presented to the Court that, while Mr. Wallace had not paid toward his restitution, he had paid $1,600 in probation supervision fees. Undersigned counsel had inadvertently overlooked this fact and did not raise it to the Court during the hearing. Mr. Wallace now moves for reconsideration of his sentence for the Court to account for the fact that Mr. Wallace paid four times the amount of the restitution ordered in probation supervision fees and to adjust the credit for time served.

ARGUMENT

I. Mr. Wallace's failure to pay restitution, a central component of the Court's determination that a full revocation was appropriate, created a misleading impression when Mr. Wallace had paid nearly four times the amount of restitution ordered in probation supervision fees

Admittedly, Mr. Wallace did not pay toward his $444 restitution obligation. However, according to the probation violation report prepared by the Department and submitted to the Court, Mr. Wallace had paid $1,600 in supervision fees. At all relevant times, Mr. Wallace has been indigent, having been consistently represented by the Thirteenth Circuit Public Defender Office. Mr. Wallace nonetheless made efforts to pay his financial obligations owed as part of his probationary sentence. See S.C. Code Ann. § 24-21-5(5) (defining "financial obligations" to mean "fines, fees, and restitution either ordered by the court or statutorily imposed").

However, Mr. Wallace understandably believed that the payments he made to the Department would be proportionally applied across the various financial obligations. It was outside of Mr. Wallace's control that the Department elected to apply the entirety of the $1,600 Mr. Wallace paid to the Department toward its own supervision fees. Had the Department applied just 27 percent of that amount to the restitution owed, Mr. Wallace would have fully paid off the restitution owed.¹ Even applying 10 percent of what Mr. Wallace paid toward restitution would have cut his restitution balance by 36 percent.

During the hearing, particular emphasis was placed on Mr. Wallace's failure to pay anything toward his restitution balance and that failure to pay was central to the full revocation of his probationary sentence. In light of Mr. Wallace's payment of $1,600 in supervision fees, Mr. Wallace's "failure" to pay restitution must be viewed in a different light. Once his significant payment toward supervision fees is taken into consideration, especially given his consistent indigency, a reduction in Mr. Wallace's probation revocation sentence to the 4 years recommended by the Department is appropriate.

II. Mr. Wallace seeks a correction in the amount of credit for time served ordered

Mr. Wallace was given credit for 93 days of pretrial detention served, and the Form 9 order fully revoking his six-year sentence grants him the same 93 days of time served. Mr. Wallace is entitled to all credit for time he has served "pretrial." See Hayes v. State, 413 S.C. 553, 777 S.E.2d 6 (Ct. App. 2015). Accordingly, Mr. Wallace contends he is entitled to the following additional time:

1. August 2, 2019 to November 21, 2019 (101 days – 93 days pretrial credit plus 8 days held in jail awaiting a bed at an inpatient treatment program)
2. April 9, 2021 to April 24, 2021 (15 days held on a probation violation warrant)
3. December 20, 2025 to September 18, 2026 (272 days) (probation violation hold in place while Mr. Wallace incarcerated in Anderson County and SCDC)

The Department issued a bench warrant for Mr. Wallace after he failed to appear for a probation violation hearing on July 3, 2021. Mr. Wallace was ultimately arrested in Anderson County on December 20, 2025. Undersigned counsel has confirmed with the Anderson County Detention Center that the Probation, Pardon and Parole Services had an active hold on Mr. Wallace since December 20, 2025 for that bench warrant. Mr. Wallace seeks credit for those additional 272 days since the hold for the arrest warrant was in place.

The Supreme Court's decision in Blakeney v. State is instructive. 339 S.C. 86, 529 S.E.2d 9 (2000). There, the Supreme Court held the PCR court correctly granted the applicant credit for time served from the date the arrest warrant and “hold” was in place for a different county’s robbery charge. The Court reasoned:

As of September 1, 1992, respondent was confined (through the “hold”) and charged with the Beaufort County robbery. If Beaufort County had executed the arrest warrant on September 1, 1992, respondent would have been entitled to bail; if unable to post a bond, he would have been given credit for time served in the Berkeley County jail while awaiting trial on the Beaufort County charge. Beaufort County’s decision not to execute the arrest warrant until December 2, 1993, fifteen months later, should not preclude respondent from receiving credit from September 1, 1992.

Id. at 88-89, 529 S.E.2d at 11.

Mr. Wallace is similarly entitled to the 272 days of credit from the date the “hold” for the probation violation warrant was put into effect on December 20, 2025 until the September 18, 2026 hearing. See also Hall v. State, S.C. Sup. Ct. Order (filed Jan. 28, 2015) (providing guidance on procedure for resolving unserved arrest warrants on prisoners incarcerated at the South Carolina Department of Corrections). Mr. Wallace accordingly seeks a total of 388 days of credit toward his probation violation sentence.

CONCLUSION

Mr. Wallace seeks a reduction of his probation revocation sentence in light of his payment of significant fees toward supervision, which the Department could have applied toward restitution, and seeks a correction of the time served to which he is entitled.
