RETURN AND MOTION TO DISMISS
 MOTION TO ALTER OR AMEND
 DENIAL OF PCR PETITION

This matter comes before the Court by way of the Applicant's Motion pursuant to Rule 59(e), SCRPC, in which he asks the Court to alter or amend its Order dismissing his Application for post-conviction relief (PCR). The Respondent (the State) would submit the following:

I.

The Order of Dismissal of this Court, dated August 12, 2011, contains the required findings of facts and conclusions of law as required by S.C. Code Ann. § 17-27-80 (1976), and Rule 52(a) SCRPC. See also, McCray v. State, 305 S.C. 329, 408 S.E.2d 241 (1991). Specifically, the Order of Dismissal explains that the Applicant's claims are for the most part illusory because of the plain and simple fact that his testimony was not credible (for example, his claim that he shot in self defense, or that he did not know he could plea guilty and receive less than life, etc.).<sup>1</sup> Additionally, the Applicant's claims were addressed in the Court's Order of Dismissal because the Applicant failed to satisfy his burden of proof and demonstrate any prejudice – the evidence against the Applicant is overwhelming. See Order of Dismissal, p. 16 –

<sup>1</sup> The Applicant claims that the Order does not reconcile the "objective testimony of the Applicant's father and sister" who claimed that trial counsel was drinking. The Order of Dismissal adequately explains that no credible evidence was presented that trial counsel was drinking alcohol during the trial.

17. As explained in the Order of Dismissal, Strickland expressly allows a PCR to be dismissed for lack of prejudice without having to address purported claims of deficient performance.

Respondent respectfully requests that he be allowed to brief any issues raised in Applicant's subsequent memorandum that may warrant response.

II.

The State therefore requests that the relief requested by the Applicant be denied and that his Motion be dismissed.

WHEREFORE, having made its Return to the motion, the State requests that the relief requested in the Motion be denied and that said Motion be dismissed.

Respectfully submitted,

THERE WERE NO EXHIBITS MARKED TO THIS PROCEEDING.

1 (The defendant, together
2 with counsel, was personally present in the 3 courtroom.)

4 THE COURT: Permission to alter or amend
5 the judgment filed by Mr. Blume.

6 MR. BLUME: Mr. Blume.

7 THE COURT: Yes, sir, Mr. Blume.

8 MR. BLUME: If it please the Court, Your 9 Honor, we filed the motion to alter or amend the 10 judgment because we felt that the Court's order
11 which was proposed by the Attorney General's Office 12 didn't address some very specific issues that we 13 raised.

14 I am also cognizant of the fact that these 15 types of proceedings, if you don't bring what may be 16 some very specific issues to the attention of this 17 Court, the Appeals Court may deem that we've waived 18 those. And we certainly didn't want that to happen 19 in the case.

20 I won't repeat all the motion to alter or 21 amend the judgment. It is some 20 pages, and we lay 22 out our argument there. But I think specifically 23 I'd like to address two things, one some more recent 24 case law that has come down both from the U.S.
25 Supreme Court as well as the South Carolina Supreme

1 Court which had not been issued at the time we filed 2 this motion, and we want to call that to Your 3 Honor's attention, and then some very specific 4 motions and issues in the motion to alter or amend.

5 Your Honor, first the motion to alter or 6 amend itself -- again, I won't repeat everything, 7 and certainly if I leave something out that's 8 contained in the written motion, we're not waiving 9 that -- but just to highlight for the Court, we feel 10 we raised a number of issues of ineffective 11 assistance of counsel which pointed to trial 12 counsel's error.

13 For example, some of the issues which we 14 list in our motion on pages one and two and again in 15 more detail from pages 10 through 12 of my motion 16 are things such as trial counsel's failure to 17 properly prepare and develop an adequate self-18 defense theory and request such an instruction;
19 also, failure to move or suppress statements by Mr.
20 Childers made at the time of his arrest which were 21 pre-Miranda.

22 Next, failure for trial counsel to raise 23 certain Fifth and Sixth Amendment issues regarding 24 Mr. Childers' invoking his right to counsel and that 25 testimony in effect being elicited by trial counsel

1 himself while Mr. Childers was on the witness stand.

2 We also list in our motion numerous missed
3 evidentiary and testimonial objections by trial 4 counsel. We also listed trial counsel's failure to 5 object to the State's closing argument.

6 We also listed trial counsel's failure to 7 move to suppress the boots that were placed in 8 evidence. We felt those were important because they 9 prejudiced the defendant in that they seemed to 10 corroborate without any forensic evidence one of the 11 State's witnesses.

12 In that regard, I would point out in going 13 back and looking at the transcript and my transcript 14 notes of the trial itself, at one point the trial 15 judge did in fact suppress the boots as evidence.
16 So I think that goes to the fact that it's a pretty 17 good Fourth Amendment and illegal search and seizure 18 issue as to those.

19 Later on, the State in cross-examining Mr.
20 Childers asked him simply to identify if the boots
21 are his, and he honestly answered yes. The State 22 then moved to introduce them again. And at that 23 time, there's still no objection by trial counsel 24 under the Fourth Amendment for illegal search or 25 seizure.

1           I think that's important, because just 2 because the defendant can identify an object that 3 may belong to him, that does not vitiate the Fourth
4 Amendment violation as to the object.

5           And, lastly, we listed trial counsel's 6 failure to advise Mr. Childers that he could have 7 pled guilty, and it would have been up to the trial
8 judge whether or not to sentence him to something 9 less than life without parole.

10           And on that last issue, I would note, Your 11 Honor, that there have been two U.S. Supreme Court 12 cases recently. I'm sure Your Honor is familiar 13 with them, but I have copies to hand up if you'd 14 like. One is Lafler versus Cooper -- and Lafler is 15 spelled L-A-F-L-E-R; its citation is 132 Supreme 16 Court 1376; it's a U.S. Supreme Court decided March 17 21, 2012 -- and its companion case on the same date
18 is Missouri versus Frye -- F-R-Y-E.

19           If I may approach, I'll hand them up. I'm 20 sure Your Honor is familiar with these recent cases.
21 Missouri versus Frye and Lafler, Your Honor, of 22 course talk about the Sixth Amendment right to 23 effective assistance of counsel in plea negotiations 24 and in a guilty plea.

25           Obviously, I know the State's first

1 response, because I would make it if I were in their 2 shoes, quite frankly, is that there was no plea 3 bargain in this case, there was no plea offer. But 4 that really misses the point of Lafler and Frye.

5 In this case at PCR, Mr. Rogers, the trial
6 attorney, testified that he advised Mr. Childers -- 7 and in fact this is in the signed order, that he 8 told Mr. Childers that the penalty for murder was a 9 minimum of 30 years up to life and the State was 10 seeking a life sentence.

11 By his own testimony, trial counsel never 12 gave the next piece of advice, which would be "But 13 the trial judge is not bound by that. The trial 14 judge can sentence you to less than life. He has to 15 sentence you to at least 30 years. But upon 16 pleading guilty, an acceptance of responsibility, 17 the trial judge can sentence you anywhere from 30
18 years, 31 years, 35, up to life."

19 Your Honor well knows in cases where 20 defendants plead guilty to murder, other than death 21 penalty cases, trial judges often sentence to 22 something less than life, just based on that 23 acceptance of responsibility and acknowledgment of 24 guilt. It is an extremely rare case.

25 In fact, I was trying to think of one

1 today on the way over here. I don't know of one 2 other than the death penalty context where the 3 defendant pleads guilty in exchange for the State 4 not seeking death, gets a life sentence, where upon 5 pleading guilty to murder, our trial judges, circuit 6 judges have sentenced the defendant in that 7 circumstance to the maximum penalty.

8 The trial courts often give some 9 recognition to the defendant for that acceptance of 10 responsibility. And, of course, under that statute, 11 what was not explained to Mr. Childers is that if he 12 had pled guilty as charged, because that was the 13 most serious charge, the trial judge could take that 14 into consideration and could sentence him to 15 something less than life, maybe 99 years, maybe 50, 16 25, 30, whatever.

17 But it certainly was not. Mr. Childers, 18 of course, testified that had he known that, he 19 would have pled guilty. Those facts meet, I submit, 20 the Lafler versus Cooper and Missouri versus Frye 21 test. And we would submit even though there was not 22 a plea bargain, Mr. Childers was never fully advised 23 of his right to waive a jury trial and plead guilty 24 to something potentially less than life, that just 25 because the State was seeking life, that didn't make

1 it automatic.

2 I think Mr. Childers' testimony at PCR was 3 clear that in his mind based on the limited advice 4 he got from trial counsel that the evidence he 5 received, what he understood, is if he pled guilty, 6 he'd get life, if he went to trial, he'd get life.
7 So I think the Frye case and the Lafler case clearly 8 apply in this circumstance. And I would ask Your 9 Honor to reconsider on that basis.

10 Next, the other case that has come down 11 since we met -- and I may have handed it up with 12 those two -- it is the South Carolina Supreme Court 13 case of State versus Justus -- J-U-S-T-U-S. Did I 14 hand that up with the other two, Your Honor? If 15 not, I have an extra copy. If not, I would be glad 16 to hand this up if it's not attached.

17 THE COURT: It's not up here.

18 MR. BLUME: I did not?

19 THE COURT: No, sir.

20 MR. BLUME: Okay. All right, if I may 21 approach and hand that up. Justus is a capitol
22 case, Your Honor, where the prosecution filed a 23 motion to recuse one of the defense attorneys 24 because she had represented a member of the 25 Solicitor's staff in a Family Court proceeding.

1           The opinion talks about that creates a 2           conflict of interest and goes to the fairness of the 3           proceedings. And in that case, a little different 4           from here, the defendant was objecting to the 5           recusal of his defense attorney.

6           Here, Mr. Childers wanted his defense 7           attorney recused because he had a connection to the 8           State's case. Trial counsel actually represented 9           one of the key State's witnesses in a case. And we 10          feel the Justus case is right on that point.

11          It creates divided loyalties and a 12          conflict of interest. And that issue never did get 13          raised. In the State Supreme Court opinion of this 14          case, they acknowledged that it was not preserved at 15          trial. And, thus, we think it has to now be 16          presented and preserved in PCR.

17          Lastly, according to our motion to 18          reconsider, Your Honor, we feel that and we 19          respectfully submit that if the Court takes a 20          cumulative review of the errors made by trial
21          counsel throughout this case under the Fret (PH)
22          standard or through other case law, including U.S.
23          Supreme Court law I've cited in our motion, that 24          cumulatively trial counsel made a number of critical 25          errors in here, Fifth and Sixth Amendment errors,

1 Fourth Amendment errors, errors of advice, errors of 2 failing to object to hearsay, and that cumulatively
3 the only conclusion is that trial counsel rendered
4 ineffective assistance of counsel.

5 The prejudice is that if the defendant had 6 still elected to going to trial, there could have 7 been a reasonable probability of a different
8 outcome. The Strickland standard under reasonable 9 probability is less than the preponderance of the 10 evidence, and we believe we've met that standard.

11 On the other hand, Mr. Childers clearly 12 testified that if he had understood his plea 13 options, he would have pled as charged to murder, 14 and accepted responsibility, and then requested the 15 trial judge to sentence him to something less than 16 life understanding the standard mandatory minimum 17 would be 30 years. That's clearly, we think, 18 within, of course, Lafler and Cooper.

19 Lastly, I would note since we have held 20 hearings on these matters -- and I'm not trying to 21 impugn trial counsel's character in any regard, but 22 it as matter of public record that trial counsel has 23 since been suspended from the practice of law.

24 It appears from the record and matters
25 related to that that it involves some of the same

1 behavior that we presented testimony on at trial 2 regarding his unfortunate misuse of alcohol, the 3 continued use of alcohol and inability to function 4 and be professional.

5 Our sympathies go to trial counsel in that 6 regard. Again, we're not trying to impugn him, but 7 I think those facts as well as if you look at his 8 disciplinary history which we pointed out during the 9 PCR hearing, it now lends additional credibility to 10 the testimony presented on that point.

11 That would also include the independent
12 testimony from the applicant himself, of two family
13 members, who smelled alcohol on trial counsel's 14 breath. This is the type of case, Your Honor, that 15 while I fully recognize and extend sympathies to the 16 victim's family, and I understand the hurt that they 17 have gone through.

18 Although I would acknowledge I've never 19 had a family member who was the victim of a violent 20 crime, I have lost a close family member to alcohol
21 and drugs. And it is always a hardship to lose a 22 family member.

23 But this trial is not the kind and the 24 advice that was not given and the advice that was 25 rendered, it is ineffective, I submit, is not the

1 type of standard we hold for trial counsel in South
2 Carolina. And I'm not asserting some higher 3 standard than Strickland or what our courts have 4 recognized.

5 But it's simply not a fair and effective
6 proceeding. Mr. Childers, we respectfully submit, 7 never had his fair day in court in. The entire 8 context of the trial record, the PCR record, 9 demonstrates that trial counsel through whatever 10 human foibles he had -- and I don't impugn him or 11 attack him in that regard, but this was not a good 12 day for justice in South Carolina. Thank you, Your 13 Honor.

14 THE COURT: All right.

15 Mr. Petrano.

16 MR. PETRANO: Thank you, Your Honor. I'll 17 start out with some of the allegations regarding the 18 plea. The applicant is correct. Lafler versus 19 Cooper and Missouri versus Frye did not exist, and 20 they are new cases.

21 The majority opinion in those cases tries 22 to explain that they're not really earth-shattering, 23 but I believe the dissent explains that basically 24 this is finding a new constitutional requirement 25 here as far as plea bargains being part of the 1 criminal justice system, which I think is obviously 2 true.

3 I'm not trying to deflate those opinions
4 or anything like that. I'm just trying to say that 5 they did not exist at the time. But also, if you 6 look at Lafler versus Cooper, which would be the 7 more applicable one -- they are, of course, 8 companion cases -- Missouri versus Frye is one where 9 there's a plea offer, and then ultimately the 10 defendant accepts another plea offer which is much 11 harsher.

12 And the Court says, "Well, he should get 13 the first plea offer. It's more beneficial to him."
14 Lafler versus Cooper is the case that's more 15 applicable here. It's the case that there was a 16 favorable plea offer, but the attorney somehow said, 17 "You know, you shot the guy below the waist, so 18 there's no way they'll be able to convict you.
19 Let's go to trial."

20 The defendant in that case got a perfectly 21 fair trial, and the State maintained that that was 22 all that was required under the constitution, the 23 Sixth Amendment. But the Supreme Court said, "No, 24 he was actually entitled to effective representation 25 as to the rejection of that original favorable plea

1 offer."

2 My point being with that diatribe, Your 3 Honor, is that there was no plea offer in this case.
4 The applicant's claim that if he had known -- 5 supposedly, he didn't -- if he had known that he 6 could plea and get less than life that he would have 7 done that, that claim in and of itself, Your Honor, 8 was found not credible by Your Honor in the PCR 9 order.

10 Granted, the State did draft that. I did 11 draft that, but I thought that that was a piece of 12 testimony that was extremely relevant and would 13 deflate that plea claim, if that claim was not 14 credible.

15 I mean, you kind of have a situation where 16 all of a sudden, now that he's got life, he wants to 17 claim, "Yeah, yeah, I did do it." But I'd like to 18 expand on that as far as the underlying guilt here, 19 whether there be an admission or not.

20 As the Supreme Court and the Court of 21 Appeals in an awkward, but ultimately as the Supreme 22 Court explained in this case, our Supreme Court, 23 there is really no defense here. There's no legal 24 defense here.

25 He admits to shooting the victim. He just

1       says it was an accident, it was self-defense,
2       whatever you want to massage as far as the defense.
3       But that was specifically rejected by the jury. "We 4       believe this is a murder," and that's what the 5       Supreme Court said, by his own testimony.

6               Your Honor, there's overwhelming here. It
7       wasn't -- he admits he was there. There's no 8       problem with that. That's just not what we have 9       here, Your Honor. The order of dismissal is very 10      thorough. It covers everything.

11             I will note that, of course, Lafler versus 12      Cooper had not come out at the time, so those are 13      developments. But I don't think they're 14      particularly applicable because, like I said, there 15      was no plea offer.

16             As far as the Justus case -- and I always 17      like to spell it; it's J-U-S-T-U-S, not justice like 18      justice and order, because I can never find it when 19      I look for it -- anyway, that case and Gregory is 20      the case that Justus relies on. Those talk about an 21      ongoing representation that is the basis of the 22      conflict.

23             There was no ongoing representation here 24      regarding trial counsel and one of the witnesses in 25      this case. And as the order thoroughly explained,

1 there's not a hint of impartiality or bias on the 2 part of trial counsel.

3 Trial counsel frankly grills that witness
4 at the trial, reveals a couple of good gems out
5 there. Considering what this case was, trial
6 counsel did a great job. There's not much that can 7 be done here. There was no indication that the 8 applicant wanted to admit his guilt.

9 He maintained that he, you know, shot as 10 he was running away because someone shot at him.
11 Now, of course, at a trial level, the test is any 12 evidence as to whether there's a lesser. So those 13 lesser offenses were submitted to the jury, even 14 though they were completely overwhelmed by the other 15 credible.

16 The jury rejected those claims. Here, at 17 PCR, as explained in the order, the test is not in 18 any evidence that was submitted. The test is a 19 prejudicial analysis test. And I think this is page 20 17 of the order.

21 Strickland itself, which is the case we 22 rely on here, Strickland versus Washington, they say
23 -- and I'm quoting here; these aren't my words -- 24 "If it is easier to dispose of an ineffectiveness 25 claim on the ground of lack of sufficient prejudice,

1       which we expect will often be so, that course should 2       be followed."

3               Your Honor, that's the course that was 4       followed in this case. It's an overwhelming
5       evidence case, Judge. You don't really have to get 6       into the ins and outs of the ineffectiveness claim 7       if the evidence against the defendant -- the 8       applicant now -- is overwhelming. That's where we 9       are, Judge.

10              The order does cover the failure to 11       properly prepare claims that were made, the motion 12       to reconsider the self-defense statement, the 13       request for counsel, the closing arguments, the 14       evidence that came in, the boots, the Fourth 15       Amendment issue with the shoes.

16              I think the shoes and the boots are kind 17       of the same thing. They get intermixed at times.
18       The cumulative error issue, once again, I think we 19       go back to that statement in the order from 20       Strickland. We can just dismiss this if it's an 21       overwhelming evidence case. There's really nothing 22       to diffuse that.

23              I think that's pretty much it, Judge. I'm 24       basically relying on the order, distinguishing 25       Lafler versus Cooper and Missouri versus Frye, as

1 well as distinguishing Justus and Gregory as being 2 applicable to the case at hand, once again
3 maintaining that it is an overwhelming evidence case
4 of murder, as the Supreme Court said.

5           It's, of course, a plurality decision.
6 But all of the justices basically are on that point.
7 They just have their own different ways of finessing 8 the verdict, the opinion and the outcome. But 9 there's no debate this is overwhelming evidence of 10 murder. That's what it was, Judge. Is there 11 anything that you want now? I know I can't ask you 12 questions. Do you want me to follow up on anything 13 in particular?

14           THE COURT: No, I don't have anything.

15           MR. PETRANO: Thank you.

16           MR. BLUME: Very briefly, Your Honor. I 17 respectfully submit Lafler versus Cooper and 18 Missouri versus Frye are not new law for South 19 Carolina. I think the principles they enunciate in 20 there, however, are directly applicable to Mr.
21 Childers' case and are very helpful and instructive 22 in that regard.

23           The reason I say it's not new is we have a 24 long history, both in PCR hearings and PCR case law 25 from our state appeal courts, that guilty pleas can

1       involve ineffective assistance of counsel. And 2       that's essentially what Lafler and Frye are about,
3       is applying the Strickland standard to guilty pleas,
4       and plea bargains, and plea offers, and plea
5       negotiations.

6               We've had that standard in South Carolina 7       a long time. The Thrift Brothers case, which 8       discusses that complex plea bargaining and plea 9       offers should advisably be in writing. We also have 10      cases -- I cite Alexander versus State, Wray versus 11      State -- that both talk about counsel's advice can 12      potentially be ineffective in advising a client 13      about the right to trial versus pleading guilty.

14             We have a number of cases that talk about 15      ineffective assistance of counsel regarding 16      incorrect advice as to parole eligibility, things of 17      that nature. We have Gibson versus State -- G-I-B-18      S-O-N -- which talks about ineffective assistance of 19      counsel in advising the defendant to plead guilty
20      when there has been a Brady violation.

21             And if there's actually exculpatory 22      information, the defendant can vacate that plea and 23      come back and say, "Had I known this, I may not have 24      pled guilty." So we have a long history in our 25      state of applying the Strickland standard, the Sixth

1 Amendment, to pleas, plea offers, plea negotiations.

2 I think the importance of Lafler and Frye,
3 however, are the principals in that for the first 4 time our U.S. Supreme Court has acknowledged that if 5 a defendant says, "I would have pled guilty but for 6 the incorrect advice I received," that's a 7 Strickland violation.

8 Now, they have a number of steps to go
9 through, and I think the defendant has met all 10 those. Trial counsel testified at PCR that -- 11 again, I don't want to repeat myself, but I think it 12 bears refreshing -- and in the order itself, it says 13 trial counsel acknowledged he told the defendant 14 murder carries 30 to life, but the State was seeking 15 life.

16 There is an absence of any testimony by 17 trial counsel at PCR that he ever said the next 18 thing, "But you can plead guilty as charged. It's 19 your right to have a jury trial or not and ask the 20 judge for less than life." That's what didn't get 21 said, and I think that's the crux of the issue.

22 THE COURT: Did anyone ask him whether he 23 said it or didn't say it, or whether that discussion 24 took place?

25 MR. BLUME: Your Honor, I have to be fair.

1 I had to go back and look at my notes from the PCR
2 proceeding. I don't have a PCR transcript yet since 3 the case has not been appealed, and usually the 4 transcript is generated after that process is 5 initiated.

6 So I am going by my recollection right
7 now, as well as the order that the Attorney General 8 submitted and respectfully Your Honor signed. In 9 that, it recites that trial counsel said, "I told 10 him murder is 30 to life, and the State was seeking 11 life."

12 My recollection of the PCR proceeding is 13 Mr. Rogers never acknowledged he gave that 14 additional advice. And, quite frankly, since I 15 don't have the transcript and it's been a couple of 16 years, I can't remember the exact questions asked 17 Mr. Rogers and his exact responses.

18 But I know that that was a lingering
19 issue. And I think the Frye case and Lafler case go 20 directly to it. If I may just read a sentence from 21 Lafler, it states, "Even if the trial itself is free 22 from constitutional flaw, the defendant who goes to 23 trial instead of taking a more favorable plea may be 24 prejudiced from either a conviction on more serious 25 counts or the imposition of a more sentence."

1                   And I think that's what happened here, 2                   because the defendant clearly testified at PCR, "If 3                   I had known I could have asked the judge for 4                   something less than life, I would have accepted 5                   responsibility and pled guilty."

6                   And that's something, too, both Missouri
7                   and Frye state, that the defendant at post-8                   conviction or federal habeas has to be able to say, 9                   "Had I received proper legal effective advice, I 10                  would have pled and not gone to trial." I think 11                  that's how it applies to Mr. Childers' case.

12                  THE COURT: If the lawyer told him that he 13                  could get 30 years to life, "But the State is 14                  seeking life," you're arguing that he believed that 15                  he had no alternative but to go to trial or get 16                  life?

17                  MR. BLUME: That he -- yes, sir, that he 18                  would get life either way, so why not go to trial?
19                  And in fact, that was Mr. Childers' testimony, and I 20                  do specifically --

21                  THE COURT: If the lawyer said, "Well, you 22                  could get 30 years, or you can get life, or you can 23                  get up to life. It's up to the judge what you get."

24                  MR. BLUME: That was not the advice he 25                  gave. The advice he gave was murder carries to

1 life, and the State is seeking life. And so --

2 THE COURT: Does the State get what the 3 State seeks?

4 MR. BLUME: Well, Mr. Childers is not an 5 attorney. And from his testimony, his understanding 6 of that advice was "I'm going to get life, no matter 7 whether I plead guilty or go to trial." My 8 recollection of Mr. Rogers' testimony at PCR was he 9 did not dispute that, because it was clear --

10 THE COURT: How about the plea colloquy 11 with the judge, when the judge explains the range of 12 sentence?

13 MR. BLUME: But that never occurred,
14 because there was no plea. Mr. Childers didn't know 15 he could plead to something less than life. And 16 that's where I think Lafler and Frye do directly 17 apply to Mr. Childers' case, Lafler most especially, 18 because Lafler is in a similar position. He went to 19 trial in a murder case not understanding there was a 20 plea bargain to a lesser offense in that case. And 21 that was the crux of his issue.

22 THE COURT: You're arguing, then, that he 23 would have wanted to plead guilty, and then the 24 judge in the colloquy would have explained the 25 possible range of sentence, because his lawyer

1 didn't explain it, and that he has been prejudiced 2 because the likelihood is that based on your -- not 3 your research, but based on your never having heard 4 of someone pleading to guilty and getting life.

5 I mean, I have given people that pled
6 guilty before me -- I haven't kept records of it,
7 but some cases are so bad that even with a guilty
8 plea, the person should be sentenced to life.

9 MR. BLUME: And I recognize that. But I
10 think even Your Honor would acknowledge that's the 11 rare circumstance than not. And certainly I think 12 the issue here is not what the sentence would have 13 been --

14 THE COURT: Right.

15 MR. BLUME: -- because I don't think we 16 can shake our crystal ball of 8-ball and say, "This 17 is what a sentence would have been." But the 18 defendant wasn't provided the proper and legal 19 information of the potential to plead guilty and 20 accept responsibility and get something less than 21 life, that in his mind, the advice he had been given 22 -- and my recollection is Mr. Rogers acknowledged 23 this at PCR -- that Mr. Childers believed he would 24 get life if he pled and life if he went to trial.
25 There was no in-between because the State was 1 seeking life either way.

2 THE COURT: That's a big burden on a 3 lawyer if you have a client who is going to have to 4 do this time and suffer the consequences of whatever 5 happens in court, and he's totally dependent on any 6 and everything that the lawyer tells him as to being 7 what's going to happen, and then if the record does 8 not reflect at a PCR that the lawyer engaged in all 9 of that conversation, then the presumption is that 10 the lawyer didn't do it.

11 MR. BLUME: Yes, sir. In my humble
12 recollection -- again, I don't have the transcript, 13 but in looking back at my notes -- Mr. Rogers 14 acknowledged that he did not specify in his advice 15 to Mr. Childers that just because the State was 16 seeking life that Mr. Childers could ask the judge 17 for something less, obviously with a mandatory 18 minimum floor of 30 years.

19 And my recollection is Mr. Rogers did not 20 provide that advice. And I think that's why Lafler 21 is critical to this. And I would point out that 22 this -- I would respectfully submit that this is not 23 viewed in isolation.

24 If you look at the number of cumulative 25 errors made by trial counsel, for whatever reason --

1 missing objections, missing Fourth Amendment
2 objections, substantial Fifth and Sixth Amendment
3 objections -- it gives a tenor to the whole
4 proceeding, for whatever reason, that trial counsel
5 was not prepared, and he was rendering ineffective 6 assistance of counsel, not just prior to trial but 7 throughout the proceedings.

8           If you look at the trial transcript -- 9 and, again, I've cited in my motion -- on the day of 10 trial when they're picking the jury and Mr. Childers 11 trying for the first time because he's been in jail 12 and can't just go to court whenever he wants to, 13 trying to get new counsel appointed, Mr. Rogers 14 acknowledges himself that he's not really ready to 15 proceed to trial.

16           I think the exact quote on page 86 of the 17 trial transcript, lines 23 to 25, is that Mr. Rogers 18 acknowledges that "Up until today, I've been 19 consumed with other matters." So I think that it 20 gives the Court a tenor that trial counsel, 21 unfortunately for whatever reason, was not 22 adequately prepared, made numerous mistakes at 23 trial, may have been engaging during the trial in 24 inappropriate behavior with alcohol, as we 25 presented.

1           And I don't take joy in presenting that 2 type of testimony. But the entire context and when 3 you look at the Lafler case, I think Mr. Childers in 4 this case received ineffective assistance of 5 counsel. And it's quite on that point, because, 6 again, my recollection is Mr. Rogers acknowledged he 7 did not further advise Mr. Childers that just 8 because the State was seeking life that the trial 9 judge had the option of something less with the 10 mandatory minimum.

11           THE COURT: All right.

12           MR. BLUME: As lawyers we know, of course, 13 that sometimes when the State seeks life that that 14 is mandatory, such as the two-strike and three-15 strike law. Obviously, Mr. Childers doesn't know 16 those subtleties because he's not an attorney. And 17 that was not the case here. We did not have a 18 defendant in a two-strike or three-strike situation.

19           But for whatever reason, that additional 20 adequate advice never went from Mr. Rogers to Mr.
21 Childers that the trial judge had discretion within 22 that 30 years to life. Mr. Childers, I think, has 23 met the Lafler and Frye burden by his testimony in 24 that he said he would have accepted a plea, he would 25 have pled, rather than exercise his right to a jury

1 trial had he known the trial judge had that 2 discretion.

3 THE COURT: All right.

4 How about that, Mr. Petrano?

5 MR. PETRANO: Very briefly, Judge, if I
6 could. First of all, the last thing that was said, 7 the testimony by Mr. Childers that he would have 8 accepted -- that he would have pled guilty if he had 9 known he could get less than life, Your Honor, that 10 was found to be not credible.

11 That's a key portion here that is unlike 12 Lafler versus Cooper. And also, Lafler versus 13 Cooper, if it's not new law, then it must abide by 14 Strickland versus Washington. Strickland versus 15 Washington requires prejudice -- actual prejudice, 16 not argument, not makeup, not make-believe prejudice
17 -- actual prejudice.

18 The prejudice in Lafler versus Cooper was 19 that there was an actual plea offer that was made.
20 That's a lot like our case of Davey where our 21 Supreme Court said that Mr. Davey is entitled to the 22 plea offer that he didn't get but for counsel's 23 ineffectiveness.

24 There was an actual plea offer, not just 25 "I could plead straight up and maybe get less time

1       than I got at trial." That's not what Lafler versus 2       Cooper stands for. That's not really what should be 3       spun about to apply to this case.

4               Also, as far as the applicant's claim that 5       he did not know judge would sentence him, Your 6       Honor, I would like to point out that this was not 7       his first rodeo. If you look at page 720 of the 8       transcript, the applicant had beat up a prior 9       girlfriend. He got an ABHAN conviction for that.

10              I assume he was sentenced, and I will 11       assume he understood how it worked. I don't have 12       any details on that conviction because it's not 13       really relevant here because he was found not 14       credible on the underlying premise of the 15       applicability of Lafler versus Cooper.

16              Second, Your Honor, trial counsel said, "I 17       told him it was 30 to life." Your Honor, that is 18       absolutely correct. It's 30 to life. That's not 19       incorrect advice. That is perfect advice.

20              If the only thing the applicant could get, 21       the trial counsel would have to say, "Well, the 22       sentence, sir, would be life." Otherwise, the "30 23       to" words would be superfluous. He could get 30 to 24       life. That's the penalty. That's what he could 25       have gotten.

1           The applicant knew fully well. He had 2           already pled guilty before. Before going to the 3           trial, I had dealt with the applicant prior to that.
4           He was found not credible when he said that he would 5           have pled guilty if he had known he could less than 6           life.

7           Your Honor, he was maintaining that this,
8           you know, was not a murder all along. That was 9           simply -- "absurd" is probably too strong of a word, 10          Your Honor, and I apologize if it denotes any 11          disrespect. But it's absurd to suggest now that he 12          would plead guilty to murder. Thank you, Judge.

13          MR. BLUME: I'll be very brief, sir. The 14          Attorney General knows that Mr. Childers' testimony
15          was found not to be credible. We all know how this 16          process works. The Attorney General in the proposed 17          order of course put that specific finding in there.

18          And obviously I can't tell the Attorney
19          General how to write his order or take things out.
20          I would ask Your Honor to reconsider even that, 21          because on that point, there is corroboration 22          between Mr. Childers and trial counsel, because 23          trial counsel, again, according to my humble
24          recollection, acknowledged that after he told Mr.
25          Childers the State was seeking life, trial counsel

1       didn't go the extra step and say, "But the trial 2       court has discretion."

3               So I think in that respect, Mr. Childers
4       and Mr. Rogers are consistent, and Mr. Childers'
5       testimony would have been credible. The prejudice 6       is, again, respectfully, while Your Honor knows that 7       some defendants who have pled guilty to murder are 8       still sentenced for life given circumstances that 9       warrant it, that is more greater.

10              And so I think the prejudice here is the 11       defendant lost the opportunity, the potential, to 12       make a case before the sentencing judge in 13       mitigation either in terms of the facts of the case, 14       or his background, or for whatever reasons to 15       sentence him something to life.

16              And Your Honor well knows on most guilty 17       pleas, whether it's murder, armed robbery, or any 18       other number of offenses that are recognized to be 19       violent, it is a rare occasion when the trial judge 20       pleas sentences to the maximum, that usually a 21       defendant is given some acknowledgement for 22       acceptance of responsibility.

23              Obviously, that's within each trial
24       judge's discretion. But Mr. Childers was denied 25       that opportunity. Lastly, for the Attorney General

1 to cite a prior conviction and the defendant knew 2 how this works, one can't compare apples and 3 oranges. And that prior offense in no way impacts 4 his understanding of the penalties for the 5 ineffective assistance of counsel that was rendered
6 to him regarding the murder charge. Thank you.

7 THE COURT: Mr. Petrano, regarding the 8 order that Mr. Blume attacked for being inadequate 9 and the court failed to address many issues that are 10 raised during the PCR, of course, I know that the 11 Attorney General did a proposed order in this case.

12 And whether I adopted and signed the exact 13 order that you prepared or modified it in some 14 points, I can't recall since it was at this point in 15 time some months ago when it was signed. But he 16 specifically addresses seven different things that 17 the Court's order is deficient in addressing. Can 18 you take those one by one and tell me what your 19 response is?

20 MR. PETRANO: Sure, Your Honor. And if I
21 may, just an overall response at first. My response 22 is -- gets into specifics. But, first, the 23 overarching, the main claim, Your Honor, the preface 24 to the applicant's motion to reconsider was that if 25 he does not point out the supposed lack of

1       addressing particular issues in his order, he may be 2       barred from pursuing those on appeal as they may be 3       deemed waived.

4               The Marler versus Pruitt, I believe, is 5       the case that that doctrine applied. I would just 6       point out that by doing so today, by claiming that 7       things were not addressed in the order, he is 8       preserving those issues in with Marler versus 9       Pruitt.

10              So that particular preface has been 11       deflated by the mere mechanism of today's hearing.
12       But that being said, Your Honor, the self-defense
13       issue I believe is covered in the order. If you 14       want me to just turn to the page and go through?

15              THE COURT: Yes, sir.

16              MR. PETRANO: Certainly, Your Honor, if 17       you'll just give me a moment.

18              THE COURT: All right.

19              MR. PETRANO: This is covered in part on 20       page 14, Your Honor, as to where the applicant was 21       found not credible. These aren't things that are 22       just put into the order just to be mean. These are 23       actually relevant things.

24              When someone testifies, there is 25       ultimately a credibility finding. That's Your

1 Honor's function. Obviously, the State was asked to 2 draft the order, so I drafted the order finding 3 those credibility findings in a manner that would 4 support our argument, which I believe is the point 5 of us drafting the order.

6 But, anyway, counsel explained that -- and 7 I'm paraphrasing, of course, and this is kind of, 8 again, around page 14, and it is accompanying with 9 some of the other recitations. But counsel 10 explained that the applicant during the 11 representation didn't really tell him anything.

12 It was only just a, you know, "I didn't do 13 it" kind of thing until the State started presenting 14 their case, and not just through discovery.
15 Remember, the applicant said he never even saw the 16 discovery, which trial counsel said, "No, we did go 17 over discovery. That's an error."

18 But as the trial is progressing, as the 19 State's witnesses are testifying, it's only then 20 that the applicant is giving trial counsel his 21 version of events. That's kind of makes it 22 difficult to "develop" a defendant's, a client's, 23 whatever you want to call him, self-defense theory 24 if you're kind of not working with him till in the 25 middle of the trial.

1           I think that is ultimately -- that lack of 2 cooperation is somewhat with the overall application 3 to a lot of the issues. I'm going to jump to the 4 end, Your Honor. I'm also going to point that the 5 order does address the issues in the sense that it
6 addresses them in compliance with Strickland versus 7 Washington, whereas if it is easier to dispose of an 8 ineffectiveness claim because of lack of prejudice, 9 i.e. overwhelming evidence, then that course should 10 be followed.

11           So in compliance with Strickland versus 12 Washington, the order does address those things.
13 But going back to the line items, counsel explained
14 about the shoes and the boots. And it's been a 15 while, and I don't have a transcript of the PCR.

16           But I think the order reflects that 17 counsel had a strategic reason where it was 18 something about the -- counsel knew that the boots 19 or the shoes were not properly taken into evidence, 20 and he was going to be able to exploit that.

21           And I believe that that's specifically 22 pointed out -- if I may, Your Honor. I believe 23 we've got that on page 11 and 12. Counsel explained
24 -- I'm talking the top of page 11. Counsel 25 explained that the boots/shoes were not a match in

1 the sense it was a SLED report.

2 It was just a naked eye match. And 3 counsel explained that he strategically did not 4 object when the boots/shoes were first shown. And,
5 remember, they were kind of flashed. This is a 6 parenthetical here in the order. They were not 7 introduced but flashed to the jury because he -- 8 trial counsel -- knew the officer was incorrect, and 9 he would be able to expose that later.

10 And counsel ultimately testified during 11 cross that, sure, in hindsight maybe he should have 12 handled it a little differently, but there was a 13 strategic reason here. But, anyway, that's 14 addressed in the order, Your Honor.

15 Counsel explained -- and, you know, this 16 is getting to the closing argument as far as counsel 17 should have objected during the closing argument.
18 Counsel explained that he's always very hesitant to 19 object during closing.

20 And, Your Honor, something that I stumble
21 across once in a while when I'm reading the rules, 22 there's actually a specific rule that says an 23 attorney shall not interrupt another attorney's 24 argument. And I believe that's in the evidence 25 rules, one of the later ones.

1           But my point being that it's something
2 that is cautioned against. However, I'm not trying 3 to dismiss that and say an attorney does not have a 4 duty as far as Sixth Amendment in a criminal 5 representation to object when there's something 6 incorrect coming in. I'm just saying that that 7 caution is supported.

8           Counsel explained that he -- this is on 9 the bottom of 11 and top of page 12. Counsel did 10 move for a mistrial. Counsel was cautious and made 11 a strategic decision -- and this was in agreement 12 with the trial court. I think if you'll look on 13 transcript page 383 -- regarding a curative 14 instruction for some of these other items, some of 15 the evidence items that were not supposed to come in 16 but did come in.

17           Counsel also explained and Your Honor 18 found counsel credible -- although I drafted the 19 order, I'll admit that. But the order finds counsel 20 credible, and that's where the explanation is 21 regarding the request for counsel, that there was a 22 Doyle problem, that the defendant, when he was being 23 examined by his own attorney, kind of just went off 24 into -- and that's when I asked the lawyer 25 something.

1                   And I'm paraphrasing, "And it was during 2                   counsel's questioning that that happened. But 3                   counsel explained, "Look, I perhaps should have 4                   coached him better, but that did come out and that's 5                   where we are."

6                   And, you know, Your Honor, all these 7                   little things aren't really issues in and of 8                   themselves. And that's I guess where the 9                   applicant's current cumulative error argument goes.
10                  And I believe that's Greene -- G-R-E-E-N-E -- versus 11                  State.

12                  Our Court has explained that cumulative 13                  error is not really a ground for PCR. I don't think 14                  they come out and say it's not really, but it's 15                  something that they say we haven't said it is, 16                  leaving the door open. Perhaps one day they will 17                  say there's a cumulative error doctrine for 18                  ineffective assistance of counsel.

19                  I'm going all over the place here, Judge, 20                  and I'm not trying to be evasive or anything like 21                  that. But the order does address these issues. It 22                  does do so regarding the explanations by trial 23                  counsel and finding trial counsel credible.

24                  Also, it does so by the applicability of 25                  Strickland and simply dismissing the arguments as

1 Strickland instructs our PCR courts to do when the 2 case is overwhelming. Our Supreme Court has already 3 said that the case was overwhelming as far as the 4 murder of the victim in this case. I think I've 5 answered all your questions, Judge.

6 THE COURT: Okay.

7 MR. PETRANO: Again, I'm relying on the 8 testimony of trial counsel, which is in 11, and 12, 9 and 10, and there's conclusory statements on 14.
10 But the vast majority, if not all, of these issues 11 are covered I believe effectively, thoroughly, and 12 as they should be in compliance with Strickland in 13 the order. But I'd be more than happy to address 14 something specific if I have not done so, which is 15 kind of a non-reply, Your Honor.

16 THE COURT: Mr. Blume, any response?

17 MR. BLUME: Your Honor, briefly, just some 18 of the points Mr. Petrano made in regards to the 19 finding in the order that trial counsel stated that 20 some of Mr. Childers' defenses weren't told to trial 21 counsel until they're in court and in trial, I think 22 that's contradicted by trial counsel's own 23 admissions in the transcript where he's telling the 24 judge he's not really been up to speed on this case.

25 He's had a number of other cases he was

1       tending to. He hadn't seen Mr. Childers in jail all 2       that much. With Mr. Childers in jail, what is he 3       supposed to tell him if his trial attorney isn't 4       coming to see him in jail not often enough, where 5       trial counsel admitted he only got the case, a 6       murder case, a month before trial, and that they had 7       a disagreement from the beginning over Mr. Childers' 8       perception of trial counsel having conflicts in the 9       case.

10                So I would say trial counsel contradicts 11       himself in that regard, and that's not a proper 12       finding. The response by Mr. Petrano that trial 13       counsel knew that -- something with the boots or 14       shoes. The officer was incorrect, and trial counsel 15       could expose and exploit later, but the transcript 16       reflects he never did.

17                And so just because trial counsel offers a 18       purported strategic reason at PCR for not objecting 19       to anything, all one has to do is go back and look 20       at the trial transcript to see that strategic reason 21       is more a matter of hindsight than something he was 22       thinking at the time, because he didn't expose the 23       police officer in illegal or improper behavior.

24                And the boots were ultimately admitted 25       without objection when the trial court had

1       previously ruled it inadmissible under the Fourth
2       Amendment. The finding and argument that trial
3       counsel says he's hesitant to object to closing, Mr.
4       Petrano responds to a rule where we're not supposed 5       to interrupt.

6                I don't have that rule in front of me.
7       But my recollection is that applies that we're not 8       supposed to interrupt each other during argument to 9       the Court or proceedings at trial. We don't just 10      stand up and interrupt opposing counsel with our own 11      position.

12              There's nothing in the rule that a trial
13      attorney should not object when one side is making 14      proper or closing argument. We have case law where 15      objections have been made to closing argument, and 16      our appeal courts say, "Yes, the objection should 17      have been sustained."

18              I think the remaining from my points, Mr.
19      Petrano has acknowledged that we have preserved our 20      other issues by the hearing today and our written 21      motion. Nonetheless, Your Honor has some specific 22      questions about any particular issue. And that 23      would be my response, thank you.

24              THE COURT: All right.

25              MR. PETRANO: And if I may, just very,

1 very quickly.

2 THE COURT: Yes, sir.

3 MR. PETRANO: I'm in full agreement with 4 Mr. Blume. I was not trying to suggest that the 5 rule suggests that an attorney should not object. I 6 was just saying there's some support to trial
7 counsel's testimony that he's cautious to interrupt 8 an argument.

9 I agree that counsel, of course, has a 10 duty to make objections on the record, absolutely.
11 And I apologize if that was misunderstood. It's 12 not.

13 MR. BLUME: Thank you.

14 THE COURT: All right. We'll be in recess
15 for just a few minutes.

16 MR. BLUME: Thank you, Your Honor.

17 (Court in recess.)

18 THE COURT: All right, any other comments
19 that need to be made?

20 MR. BLUME: Nothing further on behalf of 21 the applicant.

22 MR. PETRANO: No, Your Honor, unless you 23 have anything specific.

24 THE COURT: Well, I have no additional 25 questions. Is there anything that either of you

1 would like to submit following this hearing for my 2 reconsideration?

3 MR. BLUME: No, sir. I think the three 4 cases I've cited are sufficient. I don't need to 5 submit them in a formal written memorandum. I think 6 my oral arguments in that regard are sufficient, so 7 thank you.

8 THE COURT: All right. In this case, the 9 date of the offense in this matter was when?

10 MR. PETRANO: One moment, Your Honor.

11 MR. BLUME: October 15, 2000.

12 THE COURT: 2000 -- October 15th, 11 and a 13 half years ago.

14 MR. BLUME: Yes, sir.

15 THE COURT: And the trial, the appeal, the 16 Appellate Court's reversal, and the Supreme Court's 17 reversal of the Appellate Court --

18 MR. BLUME: Yes, sir.

19 THE COURT: -- and all that?

20 MR. BLUME: That's what actually, for 21 whatever reason, took a significant amount of time
22 in the case, because the trial was in September 23 2001. Then the Court of Appeals' opinion and then 24 the South Carolina Supreme Court's review of that 25 was final I believe in 2007. So that took some time

1 for the Appellate Court to review.

2 THE COURT: All right. And is this a life
3 life or a 20-year life?

4 MR. PETRANO: This is a natural life, life
5 without parole.

6 THE COURT: Natural life?

7 MR. PETRANO: Yes, sir.

8 THE COURT: Well, I'd like to take the 9 opportunity to look at the cases and study them out 10 of an abundance of caution to ensure that current 11 law is being applied.

12 And also I wanted to hear your argument, 13 Mr. Blume, regarding the manner that you contend the 14 order issued was deficient or is deficient. So I 15 will take that under advisement. It will not be as 16 long as it was the last time, and I'll submit a 17 written order.

18 MR. BLUME: Did you want both sides to 19 submit an additional supplemental order or not?

20 THE COURT: Well, Mr. Petrano's position
21 is that his order that he submitted --

22 MR. BLUME: Yes, sir.

23 THE COURT: -- is fine. You would only 24 want to submit one if you were on the winning side, 25 I would think. Is that right --

1 MR. BLUME: Yes, sir.

2 THE COURT: -- or you want to modify his 3 order?

4 MR. BLUME: It would vacate his order if I
5 submitted something. So I'll do that if Your Honor 6 becomes so inclined, if you've been persuaded.

7 THE COURT: All right.

8 MR. BLUME: Otherwise, I'll just wait to 9 hear from you.

10 THE COURT: Right. I'll issue a written 11 order, unless I find some need to request something 12 from counsel.

13 MR. BLUME: All right, sir.

14 THE COURT: Perhaps the objections is the 15 reason why the judge used to write all the orders.
16 But it's just physically impossible in most 17 instances. Of course, I know a number of judges in 18 PCR cases -- is it Judge Keesley who writes 19 everything from scratch?

20 MR. PETRANO: Well, Judge Keesley submits 21 a memorandum order which is to be developed into an 22 actual order. But, yes, he does, but that's not --

23 THE COURT: That's not writing the entire 24 order.

25 MR. PETRANO: Yes, I'm not trying dilute

1 what you're saying about Judge Keesley, but it's 2 not --

3 THE COURT: I thought he was the gold
4 standard on this. Is there anyone else who writes 5 them?

6 MR. PETRANO: Judge Alford writes his own
7 orders, Your Honor, it's my understanding, in the 8 Upstate. I believe there is another judge. I think 9 the death penalty -- Mr. Blume can probably correct 10 me. But I believe that the judges write the orders.

11 MR. BLUME: Judge, not to be too abrupt
12 about it, but my experience in similar circumstances
13 is the Appellate Court is satisfied if there's imply 14 a one-page order that says the motion -- applicant's 15 motion to alter or amend the judgment is denied or 16 is granted.

17 THE COURT: Of course, yes.

18 MR. BLUME: Right. If it's granted, of 19 course, then, of course, the Court would then write 20 an additional proposed order.

21 THE COURT: I wasn't referring to the 22 order that I am to write.

23 MR. BLUME: Oh.

24 THE COURT: The reason I said I'm going to 25 write it, if your motion is denied, then there won't

1 be a -- well, wait -- if it's granted, then I will 2 have you draft it, and it may be 20-something pages
3 --

4 MR. BLUME: Yes, sir.

5 THE COURT: -- or more. The question was,
6 generally with judges around the state, do you know 7 of any who draft orders such as like these 19 pages
8 that Mr. Petrano --

9 MR. BLUME: I have not had that 10 experience. And Judge Keesley, as you mentioned, 11 will often revise either side's proposed order.
12 Occasionally, he will also prepare a memorandum 13 order which then he'll submit to the party who's 14 getting relief.

15 THE COURT: And I typically tweak and 16 change and delete some things, add some things as I 17 see fit. But a basic order, I'm not sure what 18 occurred with this and whether I --

19 MR. BLUME: But my experience is most 20 times Your Honor has a much bigger caseload, both 21 civil and criminal, than the Appellate Courts
22 obviously, no disrespect to those folks. And so it 23 is my experience that orders are submitted from 24 either side, and Your Honor simply elects which side 25 to grant relief based on your overall decision.

1                   MR. PETRANO: And just to follow up with 2 your question, not all of them, but Judge Lee does 3 write orders from scratch from time to time.

4                   THE COURT: All right. Okay, very good.
5 Thank you all.

6                   MR. BLUME: Thank you, Your Honor.

7                   THE COURT: Mr. Childers, are you doing 8 okay?

9                   MR. CHILDERS: Yes, sir.

10                  THE COURT: All right, good luck to you.

11                  MR. BLUME: Thank you for your 12 consideration, Your Honor.

13                  THE COURT: All right.

14                  MR. PETRANO: Thank you, Your Honor.
