

The South Carolina Court of Appeals

The State, Respondent,

v.

Otis Robinson, Appellant.

Appellate Case No. 2013-002392

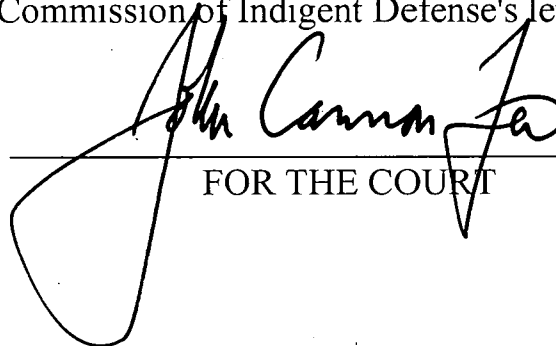

---

ORDER

---

Appellant served his notice of appeal on November 8, 2013. On November 13, 2013, this court sent Appellant's counsel a letter listing deficiencies in the notice of appeal and requiring that counsel cure the deficiencies within ten days. After receiving no response, this court issued an order on March 6, 2014, giving Appellant ten days to cure the deficiencies and ordering counsel to comply or appear before the court to explain why he had not complied. Appellant cured the deficiencies on March 20, 2014.

Although Rule 207 of the South Carolina Appellate Court Rules requires Appellant to order the transcript within thirty days of serving the notice of appeal, counsel has not provided proof with this court that he has made satisfactory arrangements with the court reporter for furnishing the transcript. Within ten days, Appellant shall provide proof that he has ordered the transcript or that he has adequately responded to the South Carolina Commission of Indigent Defense's letter dated July 11, 2014.
