RE: My book, The Fall of a Nurse, What is Wrong With Gerly.

RE: Trouble With Record of Appeals

Dear Ms. Kitchings,

In 2013, The Court gave me permission for my book to be sent over as part of the record from the Circuit Court. I checked on this after I had gotten permission and the girl from the Judicial Department stated that the book would be sent over. I never heard anymore and I forgot to include the book in my Designation of Matter. I am writing to see if it is alright to include the pages of the book in my Designation of Matter. I don't have fourteen (14) copies of the book to submit with The Records Of Appeal.

I was given an Order to file the Record On Appeal thirty days after I received the documents from the Respondents. I had to get two sets of records from the respondents and I may have to get some more. I had someone helping me with the Record on Appeal. Unfortunately, lots of the documents that were going to be included in the Records for the Appeal has gotten destroyed, disarranged, or lost. I have to start all over from scratch numbering and hunting through my piles of documents to find over the majority of them to recopy so that I can take them to the print shop. I had already made arrangement to have them printed for submission to the Court of Appeals on Thursday, November 6, 2014. The person who had the copies of my document had some trouble at his home and many of them got destroyed. I am trying hard as I can but the Record on Appeal will not be ready on November 6, 2014, which is thirty days from the first set of documents that I received from the Respondents. I am trying the best that I can to comply with the Order of the Courts of Appeals, but this is something beyond my control. I didn't know that there was a problem until I got what remained of the documents back to take them to the printer.

Yours truly,

Gertrude Shiver
