Dear Ms Kitchings:

Recently the mailman must have made a mistake and accidentally placed an envelope in the post box from which I receive "without prejudice" my mail in South Carolina real geography but not political entity.

This envelope was addressed to a corporate ALL CAPITAL LETTER fiction entity with similar name as mine, and with some fiction place called "SC", and it was "Returned to Sender". I don't live in a fiction.

As I am not a corporate fiction, it is not intended for me.

As I spell my name in small letters, it is not intended for me.

As I am not a resident or resident agent, it is not intended for me.

As I do not have a permanent "address," but only a temporary mail location in real geography South Carolina, it is not intended for me.

As it was directed to some fictional place called "SC", it has no nexus or connection to anywhere.

fiction, and do not live in "SC", the mailman must have made a mistake.

As it is illegal for me to knowingly accept or keep mail intended for another, - it was returned to you for mistaken identity, incorrect venue, and no valid subject matter as pertains to me, an actual live flesh and blood American man.

Any mail intended for my attention may be directed as shown above.

November 28, 2014

Sincerely yours,

Joseph Thomas.
