Dear Counsel and Amanda:

I have been able to confirm through Amanda that Mr. Imhoff is available on Wednesday, January 7, 2015, at 12:00 pm to argue this case. I believe this was the date that was most agreeable for Mr. Lyles. Please mark your calendars accordingly.

Thank you for your assistance and Best Wishes for the Holidays.

Dear Judges:

As you will recall, this case was continued from December 10, 2014.

I have been able to communicate with counsel or their staff about rescheduling. As it looks now, the date of Wednesday, January 7, 2015, at 12:00 pm is good for counsel. Mr. Imhoff is out of state for the holidays so I talked to his assistant who seemed to have control of his calendar and confirmed he was available on the 7th. Opposing counsel, currently Mr. Robert T. Lyles, Jr., who has been substituted, said the 7th was best for him.

I will calendar the case for Wednesday, January 7, 2015, at 12:00 pm and immediately notify you if any changes occur.

Thank you,

Claire

Jason and Claire:

Obviously, I will do whatever suits Claire and the court best. Given the fact that your appearance next week is questionable, if there is a willingness on the part of Claire and the court to move the argument, it suits me (I have conflicts that I can resolve if we leave it as scheduled, but I previously asked, informally, that we carry the arguments over).

I would also note that the argument is for appeal 2013-001403. Also briefed and ready for argument are appeals 2013-001401 and 2013-001404 which involve you and me and substantially the same issues. It would make sense to have those three argued the same day.

Robert - thank you, but you've been incredibly patient so far so I'd prefer you decide how you'd like to proceed. Just let me know.

Jason,

I am sorry to hear all of that. It is my preference to move the argument but I want to accommodate you and the court so will just leave it up to you and Claire! In the meantime if I can do anything for you please let me know.

Claire and Robert,

This will sound incredible but it is true. I am out of state so that my family could be with my mother in law who has been battling cancer. She passed away the day after Christmas and the funeral is now scheduled for Wednesday. In the meantime my father remains in the hospital in South Carolina and suffered a heart attack 2 days ago and complications from surgery. If all goes well I will be back in South Carolina in time for these arguments assuming my father pulls through.

I fully intend to go forward; however, I wanted to give advance notice that I'm still dealing with family issues which could change at anytime.

Thank you for your patience and understanding.
