Motion For An Extension of Time.

3 of 5

To: The Court of Appeals et. al.

The appellant motions for an additional extension of time until March 13, 2015 to submit his appellant Brief. The appellant thanks the court for the first extension. The appellant is indeed ready to submit his Brief. The Brief is prepared and ready to go but the copy machine here at the institution is down. The appellant is not able to presently make copies of the Brief to serve on all parties. Also there are crucial attachments that must be copied to be submitted as evidence to support the issues being argued. All I have are my originals which will be needed for future appellate review which is why I must be given additional time to have them copied so I would not be deprived of crucial documentation that will be needed for future appeal. I was told that the copy machine may be operative in a few days but no one is certain. So in an abundance of caution the appellant is forced to request one last and final extension of Time until March 13, 2015. The appellant prays the court will grant this request -
