STATEMENT OF ISSUES ON APPEAL

- I. THE TRIAL COURT PROPERLY GRANTED SUMMARY JUDGMENT ON CAROLINA CONCRETE'S MOTION FOR SUMMARY JUDGMENT.

STATEMENT OF THE CASE

This case stems from alleged construction defects at the Shipwatch Condominiums located on the Isle of Palms. Shipwatch was originally constructed in 1985. None of the defendants were involved in original construction. Rather this suit stems from a series of repairs conducted over the 2002 through 2011 time period

Charleston Glass Company, Inc., (“Charleston Glass”), replaced certain sliding glass doors and windows at the direction of Carolina Concrete, the general contractor for the repairs, and the on-site property managers for Shipwatch. Charleston Glass’ work on the project occurred primarily between 2003 and 2005, with a limited amount of additional work in 2008-2011.

Appellant Oscar Mendiondo, as class representative and a companion case by the HOA, was filed against Carolina Concrete, Charleston Glass and other defendants involved in the repairs on June 13, 2012. (R. pp. 10-29).

On September 12, 2014, Carolina Concrete filed a motion for summary judgment based on the statute of limitations. (R. pp. 32-33). A supporting memorandum with exhibits was filed on October 27, 2014 (R. pp. 36-89). A hearing on Carolina Concrete’s motion was held before Judge Dennis on October 27, 2014. At the hearing, counsel for Carolina Concrete and Appellant presented arguments with regard to the motion for summary judgment.

Judge Dennis issued an oral ruling granting Carolina Concrete partial summary judgment passed on the statute of limitations for any work performed at the property prior to 2010. (R. p. 467, lines 20-22). Judge Dennis also signed a Form 4 Order granting partial summary judgment to Carolina Concrete. (R. p. 4). While the Form 4 stated formal order to follow, prior to the submission of the formal order to the court, Appellant filed a motion to reconsider. (R. pp. 145-148). On December 1, 2014, the court issued an order denying Appellant's motion for reconsideration. (R. p. 5).

Appellant then filed a notice of appeal on December 30, 2014, appealing the order granting partial summary judgment.

Respondent Charleston Glass filed motions for summary judgment on November 18, 2014, and a memorandum in support on January 15, 2015. (R. pp. 245-399). Various other parties' motion for summary judgment were also pending at this time. The motions were scheduled for a hearing on January 15, 2015. However, counsel for Appellant took the position that the motions had been stayed by this appeal because the order dismissed a substantial portion of damages claimed against each defendant. (R. pp. 679 – 685).

Judge Dennis instructed the parties to be prepared to argue their respective motions in the event he found a stay was not applicable. However, Judge Dennis ruled that the matter was stayed and did not hear arguments on any of the pending motions.

As Appellant has named Charleston Glass as a Respondent in the appeal, and has taken the position that the order dismisses claims against Charleston Glass, Charleston Glass hereby submits this brief in support of the order granting partial summary judgment to Carolina Concrete. Carolina Glass also incorporates the arguments contained in the other respondent's brief by reference.

STATEMENT OF FACTS

As stated above, Shipwatch consists of four oceanfront buildings constructed around 1985 with EIFS exterior cladding. None of the Respondents/Defendants in this litigation had any involvement with the original construction.

From 2002-2010, Carolina Concrete acted as the general contractor for various piece-meal repairs and renovations to the buildings at the direction of the Shipwatch Homeowners' Association ("HOA") and various on-site property managers. Charleston

Glass was a subcontractor of Carolina Concrete who replaced certain sliding glass doors and windows, primarily in 2003-2005, with a limited amount of work performed in 2008-2011.

Specifically, the buildings contain 344 windows and 264 sliding glass doors. Charleston Glass's scope of work consisted of the following: 2003 – replace 12 small windows on 5th floor endwalls; 2004 – replace 36 small sliding glass windows (endwalls), and 16 bays windows; 2005 – remove and replace 72 master bedroom sliders floors 1-3 all buildings; 2008 – remove and replace 14 sliders; 2009 – remove and replace 17 sliders; 2010 – remove and replace 72 store front windows, install 11 sliders, 2011 – reflash sliders in units 412 and 413.

While the problems with the sliding glass doors were well known prior to Charleston Glass's involvement, Appellants were on notice that leaking sliding glass doors continued to be a problem after Charleston Glass began to work on the project.

Appellants received communication from their expert, Robert Sisnroy in 2006, that water intrusion at sliding glass doors continued to be a "chronic" problem. (R. pp. 169-170).

On January 20, 2007, the Shipwatch Building Committee issued a report stating that a number of units on the fourth and 5th floors were experiencing leaking sliding glass doors. (R. pp. 613-617).

Plaintiffs also had notice of other construction defects not related to Charleston Glass's scope of work, including problems with the originally installed EIFS, the leaks to DEFS which was installed as part of the ongoing repairs, roof flashing deficiencies. (R. pp. 47-89). Despite this knowledge Appellant's elected not to investigate the extent of the problems or to address the problems with complete repairs until January 2012, when it hired SKA, its expert in the current litigation.

ARGUMENT

I. THE TRIAL COURT PROPERLY GRANTED SUMMARY JUDGMENT ON CAROLINA CONCRETE'S MOTION FOR SUMMARY JUDGMENT.

A. Standard of Review

When reviewing the grant of a summary judgment motion, this court applies the same standard of review as the circuit court under Rule 56, SCRCP. Cowburn v. Leventis, 366 S.C. 20, 30, 619 S.E.2d 437, 443 (Ct. App. 2005). Summary judgment is proper when there is no genuine issue as to any material fact and the moving party is entitled to a judgment as a matter of law. Pringle v. SLR, Inc., 382 S.C. 397, 403 (S.C. Ct. App. 2009). Rule 56(c), SCRCP. To determine whether any triable issues of fact exist, the reviewing court must consider the evidence and all reasonable inferences in the light most favorable to the non-moving party. Law v. S.C. Dep't of Corr., 368 S.C. 424, 434, 629 S.E.2d 642, 648 (2006).

B. The trial court properly granted Carolina Concrete's motion for partial summary Judgment based on the Statute of Limitations.

The statute of limitations starts to run when the "cause of action shall have accrued." S.C. Code Ann. § 15-3-20. "Generally, a cause of action accrues under South Carolina law 'the moment the defendant breaches a duty owed to the plaintiff.'" Barr v. City of Rock Hill, 330 S.C. 640, 644, 500 S.E.2d 157, 159-60 (Ct. App. 1998). In some circumstances, however, the "discovery rule" provides an exception to the general rule and tolls the statute of limitations until such time as "the person knew or by the exercise of reasonable diligence should have known that he had a cause of action." S.C. Code Ann. § 15-3-535.

A person has constructive notice of a cause of action if he or she knows of “facts and circumstances of an injury [that] would put a person of common knowledge and experience on notice that some right . . . has been invaded or that some claim against another party might exist.” Id. “The statute of limitations begins to run from this point and not when advice of counsel is sought or a full-blown theory of recovery developed.” Snell v. Columbia Gun Exchange, Inc., 276 S.C. 301, 303, 278 S.E.2d 333, 334 (1981).

The analysis is an objective one, focusing not on the subjective knowledge of the individual plaintiff, but on whether a reasonable person with knowledge of the facts and circumstances should have been placed on notice of an injury. As stated in Wiggins v. Edwards, 314 S.C. 126, 442 S.E.2d 169 (1994), the “[f]ailure of the injured party to comprehend the full extent of damages ... is immaterial.” Wiggins, 442 S.E.2d at 170. In Carolina Marine Handling, Inc. v. Lasch, 363 S.C. 169, 609 S.E.2d 548 (Ct. App, 2005), the Court wrote:

Statutes of limitations embody important public policy considerations in that they stimulate activity, punish negligence, and promote response by giving security and stability to human affairs.” The cornerstone policy consideration underlying statutes of limitations is the laudable goal of law to promote and achieve finality in litigation. Significantly, “statutes of limitations provide potential defendants with certainty that after a period of time, they will not be hailed [sic] into court to defend time-barred claims. Moreover, limitation periods discourage plaintiffs from sitting on their rights.” Statutes of limitations are, indeed, fundamental to our judicial system. Id., 363 S.C. at 175-176, 609 S.E.2d at 552 (citations omitted).

The applicable statute of limitations is three years.¹ Charleston Glass does not dispute that any work performed after the applicable date for statute of limitations purposes should not be included with the lower court's order.

¹ S.C. Code Ann. § 15-3-530 applies a three-year statute of limitations to Plaintiffs’ claims of negligence, breach of contract, common-law warranty, and strict liability in tort.

However, as detailed above, Appellants had knowledge of numerous construction problems with the buildings over the years, including Mr. Sisroy's July 10, 2006 report (R. pp. 169-170); Shipwatch Building Committee Reports (R. pp. 613-615; R. pp. 611-612); Carolina Concrete's Exterior Building inspection report dated May 10, 2007 (R. pp. 616-617); Mr. Sisroy's August 23, 2008 report to Appellant entitled "Roof Flashing Installation Deficiencies and Exterior Cladding Failure investigation. (R. pp. 196-202).

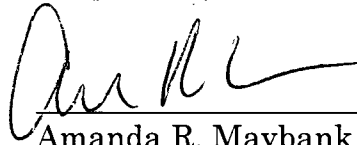

On August 28, 2008, at the latest, Appellant clearly had notice that there were continued construction issues at the project well after repairs had begun. Whether Appellants fully comprehended the extent of the claims or extent of damage is immaterial. See Wiggins, 442 S.E.2d at 170; Dean v. Ruscon Corp., 321 S.C. 360, 468 S.E.2d 645 (1996). Appellants failure to investigate or take action with regarding to the known construction issues until January 2012, nearly six (6) years following Mr. Sisroy's July 10, 2006, report on continued "chronic leaking" at sliding glass doors, does not constitute the exercise of reasonable diligence as contemplated by S.C. Code Ann. § 15-3-535.

As such, the lower court properly granted Carolina Concrete's motion for partial summary judgment.

CONCLUSION

Based on the reasons set forth above, as well as the briefs filed by other Respondents, Charleston Glass, respectfully requests that the decision of the trial court be affirmed.

Respectfully Submitted,
