That's correct. Looks like your math is better than mine. My multi-tasking is obviously not working of late. Of course, that amount is my best estimate, but I will not hold up your receipt of the transcript should there be anything remaining due. In fact, I will send it on to my typist today so that she get started on it.

Attached is, hopefully, my last attempt at getting the correct information to you.

No problem- it happens to the best of us. We would like to go ahead and purchase the transcript and have it expedited to the 10 day production. By my calculation that means we need to send you a check for $324.50 ($243.75 +

$5.75 + $75 for 10 day production). Please confirm this is correct, and we will mail you the check. Also, is the P.O. Box listed in your signature line where we need to send it?

Oh, goodness. I'm losing it. It must have saved it in a different location. I think I have the correct one now. Sorry for the inconvenience.

No problem. However, it looks like you attached the original letter again. Could you please forward the revised letter to me?

You're correct. I also noticed a couple other errors, the date and estimated expedited fees, so I have attached a corrected letter. This is a form letter, and in my haste to get it out, I failed to make some changes.

Thanks.

Renee:

Thanks for getting back to me. In your letter, you reference the case "before the Honorable J. Cordell Maddox, Jr. on July 30, 2013", however, this matter was heard by Judge Edward W. Miller on August 7, 2015. Please confirm if this was an error.

Also, if we need it expedited, do we include the additional fee with the initial $168.25?
Thanks.

I just mailed a letter out with that info on Friday. I am attaching it to expedite your receipt of the transcript. I do have approximately 800 pages ahead of this one, so it will may take the full 60 days more or less. If you need it more quickly than that, you might consider ordering it expedited and include the added charge. That would be the only way I can move it ahead of what I currently have.

Thanks.
