Re: TD Bank, NA v. David H. Jacobs
Appellate Case No. 2015-000730

Dear Judge Lockemy and Ms. Kitchings:

I did not think I would have a problem with the April term of Court when the first notice for the term came to me. I apologize for this late request but I have just been called by my daughter, a member of our Bar, who lives in Los Angeles with her daughter and husband.

They have been given notice by their landlord that they are to leave their house by April 16, 2017. The week prior, which begins April 10, is spring break for her six-year-old daughter.

They very much need my wife and I to come help them prepare to move to another home.

Nancy and I did that several years ago, when they moved into their current house and there is no doubt that she needs our help.

I am writing this on Sunday night and have not yet been able to contact opposing counsel to see if they consent. I am sending a copy of this letter by email to get it to everyone as soon as possible and will follow up with mailed hard copies.

I hope they will consent but at this moment I cannot report one way or the other. If they do consent I am asking by copy of this letter that they let us know by email followed by regular mail so that we will know at the earliest time.

I have been around long enough to understand the complexities of putting together a docket and I do not make this request lightly. I practice alone and if I had any other way to solve this family matter I would do it.

If I could change the dates of the lease and the elementary schools spring break, I would do that.

I would be grateful beyond words if this case can be carried over from the April term so that I can help my family in Los Angeles.

Sincerely,

Charles E. Carpenter
