any crime a necessary element of which as determined of another to commit a serious crime the Supreme Court of South Carolina has jurisdiction, adopted Jan. 1st 1997 and up dated May 11th 2016 The Supreme Court has jurisdiction of the Judicial Commission who investigates judges and has jurisdiction of the South Carolina Court administration who has investigated clerks of court - they themselves should be investigated. The honorable Judge Robin B. Stivell action goes beyond discretion of South Carolina immunity.

Federal Tort Claims Act (FTCA) 28 U.S.C. § 1346 et seq. (1946) did away with discretionary immunity.

The South Carolina office of Judicial Investigation's Commission who investigates judges in South Carolina for mis conduct, the Supreme Court oversees. Judge Stivell, order, Judge Stivell's staff embezzlements remain clear and present.

what is also clear and present is the way the South Carolina Court administration Director Rosalyn W. Frieson, herself handled the investigation into clerks of court deleting court records and more than that and that she discriminated against my complaint, she carried over since June 7th 2012.

The Supreme Court commission should investigate. In the meantime, Common Pleas Court case # 0007-CP-24-1175 be made part of this record. cc end. Thomas R. Finkbe 11 addie Court Greenville S.C. 29605
