re: Motion For A Sentencing Reconsideration / Appeal

SC Court of Appeal

This Syllabus Petitioner states that he was not nor has he been afforded his Constitutional rights and that under Strickland vs Washington, Cherry vs State, and Comax vs State are some of the violations done. He the Syllabus Petitioner states he can't read nor write and was grossly under the influence of Drugs and alcohol when these charges accrued. And because of his illiterad disfunctions and his total lack of education he fills this being his very first charge it should have been lesser included and he might should have been evaluated by mental health and possible screened for an alternative sentencing he asks that he be giving his just day in court. He knows there was a crime but he feels cause of his inability to read and write and lack of all of his Education he should be granted a reduced or even a Alternative sentencing. He thanks this Court for his chance.

Thanks Respectfully,
