

ALAN WILSON
ATTORNEY GENERAL

RECEIVED

JUL 19 2017

S.C. SUPREME COURT

July 19, 2017

Honorable Daniel E. Shearouse
Clerk, South Carolina Supreme Court
Post Office Box 11330
Columbia, SC 29211

Re: James D. Robertson v. State of South Carolina
C.A. No. 2011-CP-46-00072

Dear Mr. Shearouse:

In light of the factors expressed by Honorable Lee S. Alford's attached e-mail, the State would request that another Circuit Court Judge be appointed judge to hear the remand in the above-captioned York County death penalty PCR case, unless the Chief Justice deems otherwise.

On May 31, 2011, the Court appointed the to hear the successive Application in this case and it granted him exclusive jurisdiction to do so. (A copy of that Order is attached). Judge Alford heard arguments and entertained briefing from the parties, and he filed an Order dated September 20, 2011 summarily dismissing the Application. Mr. Robertson filed a motion to reconsider, pursuant to Rule 59(e), SCRCivP. However, Judge Alford denied the motion to reconsider. Through counsel, Mr. Robertson appealed these orders. This Court subsequently granted his Petition for Writ of Certiorari and, following arguments by the parties, filed a December 14, 2016 Opinion in which a majority of the Court reversed Judge Alford's Order and remanded for a hearing to determine whether prior PCR counsel were statutorily qualified to represent Mr. Robertson under S.C. Code Ann. §17-27-160(B)(2014). Robertson v. State, 418 S.C. 505, 795 S.E.2d 29 (2016).

Until I received the attached correspondence from Judge Alford stating that he was now only hearing a limited number of cases, I was under the mistaken impression that he would hear the matter on remand. Based upon my communication with opposing counsel, Keir Weyble, Esquire, it appears that opposing counsel were under the same mistaken impression. I have not made this request of the Chief Administrative Judge for the Sixteenth Circuit because this is a capital PCR.

Honorable Daniel E. Shearouse
Clerk, South Carolina Supreme Court
July 19, 2017
Page 2

Therefore, by this letter, with a copy to opposing counsel, I am requesting that another judge be appointed to hear the remand.

Sincerely,

William Edgar Salter, III
Senior Assistant Attorney General

WES:dmd

Enclosures

cc: The Honorable Lee S. Alford (w/copy of encls.)
Keir Weyble, Esq. (w/copy of encls.)
Emily Paavola, Esq. (w/copy of encls.)
Tracy Garrett, South Carolina Court Administration (w/copy of encls.)
Trisha Allen, Victim Advocacy Division (w/encls.)

Ed Salter

To: Melody Brown; Don Zelenka; Keir Weyble; Emily Paavola
Subject: FW: James D. Robertson v^. State of South Carolina, C.A. No. 20U-CP-46-00072

All,
Here is the response that Judge Alford sent to me last night.
Ed Salter

From: Alford, Lee S. [mailto:LAlfordj@sccourts.org]
Sent: Tuesday, July 18, 2017 8:13 PM
To: Ed Salter
Subject: RE: James D. Robertson v^. State of South Carolina, C.A. No. 20U-CP-46-00072

- Mr. Salter: I retired due to age requirement on December 31st, 2015. I assumed therefore that the hearing would be assigned by the Chief Administrative Judge for the 16th Judicial Circuit to an active judge in the circuit. I have taken senior active retired status but hold court on a very limited basis and have no jurisdiction other than that specifically give to me by the Chief Justice by written order. I do not have an administrative assistant nor a law clerk. I do not have an office other than my home and no office supply expense which has to come out of my pocket. I also do not get paid for holding court. Again, I have no jurisdiction to hear any matter anywhere in the state unless given jurisdiction by the Chief Justice. I assumed the matter would be heard by an active resident judge assigned by the Chief Administrative Judge for the 16th Judicial Circuit. I would suggest you contact him to have the hearing scheduled. Lee S. Alford

From: Ed Salter [mailto:ESalter@scag.gov]
Sent: Tuesday, July 18, 2017 4:35 PM
To: Alford, Lee S. <LAlfordj@sccourts.org>; Keir Weyble <keir@blumelaw.com>; Emily Paavola <Emily@justice360sc.org>
Cc: Zelenka, Don <dzelenka@scag.gov>; Melody Brown <MBrown@scag.gov>
Subject: James D. Robertson v^. State of South Carolina, C.A. No. 20U-CP-46-00072

Dear Judge Alford,

I am sending this email to Your Honor to request a status update on this case. On January 12, 2017, I mailed you a copy of South Carolina Supreme Court's Opinion in Robertson v. State, 418 S.C. 505, 795 S.E.2d 29 (2016), which was on filed December 14, 2016, as well as the Remittitur. In its Opinion, a majority of the Supreme Court reversed Your Honor's earlier Order summarily dismissing the 2011 Application and the judgment entered thereon. In pertinent part, the Supreme Court concluded that:

Despite this Court's express ruling in Kelly, Petitioner seeks to have the Court create a state remedy that is the equivalent of the federal remedy established by Martinez. We decline to do so. Instead, we reaffirm Kelly and extend its holding to encompass capital PCR cases. However, we conclude that Petitioner's allegation that prior PCR counsel were unqualified is not foreclosed by Aice or its progeny and constitutes a "sufficient reason" to avoid the prohibition of section 17-27-90 against successive PCR applications. Furthermore, we find that Petitioner's 2011 Application was filed within the one-year statute of limitations provided by section 17-27-45 as prior PCR counsel's alleged lack of qualification was not discovered until federal counsel was appointed in 2011. Additionally, we hold that the PCR judge erroneously construed section 17-27-160(6) as we conclude that at least one attorney appointed pursuant to this code section must have either (1) prior experience in capital PCR proceedings, or (2) capital trial experience and capital PCR training or education.

Because there is a genuine issue of fact as to whether prior PCR counsel were statutorily qualified. Petitioner should be afforded a hearing on this limited issue. Cf. McCoy, 401 S.C. at 370, 737 S.E.2d at 627 ("Although Petitioner's PCR claim may ultimately prove to be untimely, successive, or perhaps unsuccessful on the merits, the PCR judge erred in granting the State's motion for summary dismissal because genuine issues of material fact exist as to whether Petitioner's PCR claim is successive or untimely,"). If prior PCR counsel are deemed unqualified and, as a result, deficient, the PCR Judge must make a determination whether under Strickland, Petitioner was prejudiced. Accordingly, we reverse the PCR judge's order and remand the matter for a hearing.

In my earlier letter (a copy of which is attached), I requested a limited hearing on the issues outlined by the Supreme Court at Your Honor's earliest convenience. The current email is sent so that I can more accurately respond to a June 29 Text Order filed by the Honorable Mary Gordon Baker, United States Magistrate Judge, in Mr. Robertson's federal habeas corpus action, Robertson v. Ozmint, 2:11-cv-00063-TMC-MGB, in which she has directed the parties to file a Status Report in that case by July 31, 2017.

Sincerely,
Ed Salter

~~~ CONFIDENTIALITY NOTICE ~~~ This message is intended only for the addressee and may contain information that is confidential. If you are not the intended recipient, do not read, copy, retain, or disseminate this message or any attachment. If you have received this message in error, please contact the sender immediately and delete all copies of the message and any attachments.

Robertson v. State

Supreme Court of South Carolina. | December 14, 2016 | 418 S.C. 505 | 795 S.E.2d 29

Document Details

standard Citation: Robertson v. State, 418 S.C. 505, 795 S.E.2d 29 (2016)
All Citations: 418 S.C. 505, 795 S.E.2d 29

Search Details

Search Query: adv: TI(james /2 robertson)
Jurisdiction: South Carolina

Delivery Details

Date: July 18, 2017 at 2:33 PM
Delivered By: William Edgar Salter, III
Client ID: MEGGETT
Status Icons:

Outline

Synopsis (p.1)
West Headnotes
(p.1)
Attorneys and Law
Firms (p.2)
Opinion (p.2)
Dissenting Opinion
(p.11)
Concurring In Part /
Dissenting In Part
(p.10)
All Citations
(p.12)

418 S.C. 505
Supreme Court of South Carolina.

James D. ROBERTSON, Petitioner,
v.
STATE of South Carolina, Respondent.

Appellate Case No. 2012-205909

Opinion No. 27691

Heard October 8, 2015

Filed December 14, 2016

Synopsis

Background: After defendant was convicted of murder and sentenced to death, defendant filed successive application for post-conviction relief (PCR). The Circuit Court, York County, Lee S. Alford, J., summarily dismissed application. Defendant petitioned for writ of certiorari.

Holdings: After grant of certiorari review, the Supreme Court, Beatty, J., held that:

[1] allegation by defendant that his prior PCR counsel was not statutorily qualified, under the South Carolina Effective Death Penalty Act, for representation of a death-sentenced inmate was sufficient to permit a successive PCR application;

[2] genuine issue of fact as to whether defendant's prior PCR counsel met qualification requirements precluded summary dismissal of application; and

[3] non-compliance with statutory qualification requirements for PCR representation of death-sentenced defendant constitutes deficient performance per se, in an ineffective assistance claim.

Reversed and remanded.

Pleicones, C.J., concurred in part, dissented in part, and filed opinion.

Toal, J., filed dissenting opinion.

West Headnotes (9)

[1] Criminal Law
⇒ Nature of Remedy

Criminal Law
⇒ Successive Post-Conviction Proceedings
All defendants are entitled to a full and fair opportunity to present claims in one post-conviction relief (PCR) application; successive PCR applications and appeals are generally disfavored because they allow a defendant to receive more than one bite at the apple, as it were. S.C. Code Ann. § 17-27-90.

Cases that cite this headnote

[2] Criminal Law
⇒ Particular issues and cases
Merely alleging ineffective assistance of prior post-conviction relief (PCR) counsel did not afford defendant the right to file a successive PCR application in state court. U.S. Const. Amend. 6; S.C. Code Ann. § 17-27-90.

1 Cases that cite this headnote

[3] Criminal Law
⇒ Particular issues and cases
Allegation by defendant, who had been convicted of murder and sentenced to death, that his prior post-conviction relief (PCR) counsel was not qualified, under the South Carolina Effective Death Penalty Act, for representation of a death-sentenced inmate, was sufficient to permit a successive PCR application. S.C. Code Ann. §§ 17-27-90, 17-27-160(B).

Cases that cite this headnote

[4] Criminal Law
⇒ Particular issues and cases
Genuine issue of fact as to whether death-sentenced defendant's prior post-conviction relief (PCR) counsel met qualification requirements of South Carolina Effective Death Penalty Act for representation of defendant precluded summary dismissal of defendant's successive PCR application, which alleged that prior PCR counsel did not meet such qualifications. S.C. Code Ann. § 17-27-160(B).

1 Cases that cite this headnote

[5] Criminal Law

⇒ Necessity for Hearing

When considering the State's motion for summary dismissal of a motion for post-conviction relief (PCR), where no evidentiary hearing has been held, the PCR judge must assume facts presented by the applicant are true and view those facts in the light most favorable to the defendant. S.C. Code Ann. § 17-27-70(b).

Cases that cite this headnote

[6] Criminal Law

⇒ Judgment, sentence, and punishment

When reviewing the propriety of a summary dismissal of a motion for post-conviction relief (PCR), appellate court must view the facts in the light most favorable to the defendant. S.C. Code Ann. § 17-27-70(b).

Cases that cite this headnote

[7] Criminal Law

⇒ Exhaustion and procedural default

Where a defendant alleges, in a successive post-conviction relief (PCR) application, facts that would establish an exception to either the statute of limitations or the prohibition against successive PCR applications, and those facts are not conclusively refuted by the record before the PCR court, a question of fact is raised which can only be resolved by a hearing. S.C. Code Ann. §§ 17-27-45(A), 17-27-70(b), 17-27-90.

Cases that cite this headnote

[8] Criminal Law

⇒ Prejudicial effect

Under the second prong of a Strickland analysis of an ineffective assistance claim, a defendant applying for post-conviction relief (PCR) must show that there is a reasonable probability that, but for counsel's unprofessional errors, the result of the proceeding would have been different. U.S. Const. Amend. 6.

Cases that cite this headnote

[9] Criminal Law

⇒ Post-conviction relief and error coram nobis

Non-compliance with the qualification requirements of the South Carolina Effective Death Penalty Act for post-conviction relief (PCR) counsel for a death-sentenced defendant constitutes deficient performance per se, in an ineffective assistance claim. U.S. Const. Amend. 6; S.C. Code Ann. § 17-27-160(B).

Cases that cite this headnote

**30 ON WRIT OF CERTIORARI

Appeal From York County, Lee S. Alford, Circuit Court Judge

Attorneys and Law Firms

Keir M. Weyble, of Cornell Law School, of Ithaca, New York, and Emily C. Paavola, of Justice 360, of Columbia, both for Petitioner.

Attorney General Alan McCrory Wilson, Chief Deputy Attorney General John W. McIntosh, Senior Assistant Deputy Attorney General Donald J. Zelenka and Senior Assistant Attorney General William Edgar Salter, III, all of Columbia, for Respondent.

Opinion

JUSTICE BEATTY:

*508 In this capital Post-Conviction Relief ("PCR") case, James D. Robertson ("Petitioner") filed a second PCR application alleging, among other things, that his prior PCR counsel were not qualified under section 17-27-160(B) of the South Carolina Code<sup>1</sup> and failed to competently represent him. Without a hearing, the PCR judge dismissed the application on the grounds that it was successive and barred by the one-year statute of limitations and laches. This Court granted certiorari to review the circuit court's dismissal of Petitioner's application. Petitioner contends his second PCR application should not have been summarily dismissed as successive because his case presents unique circumstances warranting review of prior PCR counsel's assistance under Martinez v. Ryan, 566 U.S. 1, 132 S.Ct. 1309, 182 L.Ed.2d 272 (2012).<sup>2</sup> We reverse and remand.

<sup>1</sup> S.C. Code Ann. § 17-27-160(B) (2014) (identifying requisite qualifications for counsel appointed to represent an indigent, capital PCR applicant).

<sup>2</sup> See Martinez v. Ryan, 566 U.S. 1, 132 S.Ct. 1309, 182 L.Ed.2d 272 (2012) (holding that a state procedural default will not bar a federal habeas court from hearing a substantial claim of ineffective assistance of counsel if, in the initial-review collateral proceeding, there was no counsel or counsel in that proceeding was ineffective).

I. Factual / Procedural History

On March 26, 1999, Petitioner was convicted and sentenced to death for the 1997 murder of his parents, armed robbery, and financial transaction card fraud. Over the course of the next four years, Petitioner filed a direct appeal through appointed counsel, moved to relieve appointed appellate counsel, and filed a pro se appeal to this Court on July 25, 2003. Ultimately, following a judicial determination of competency, Petitioner waived his right to direct appeal. On June 3, 2005, this Court dismissed Petitioner's direct appeal after conducting the proportionality review mandated by section 16-3-25<sup>3</sup> of the South Carolina Code.

<sup>3</sup> S.C. Code Ann. § 16-3-25 (2003) (identifying procedure Supreme Court must use in reviewing cases involving a sentence of death).

*509 On July 7, 2005, this Court granted Petitioner's request for a stay of execution to pursue PCR. This Court also appointed then Circuit Court Judge John Few to preside over the PCR proceedings. Judge Few appointed Michael Langford Brown, Jr., and **31 Joseph D. Matlock, both of Rock Hill, to represent Petitioner.<sup>4</sup>

<sup>4</sup> The State maintains that Judge Few appointed Brown by order dated September 9, 2005 and confirmed the appointment during a hearing held on September 23, 2005. Petitioner disputes that such a hearing took place. The parties agree, however, that any tape of the hearing no longer exists.

On March 1, 2006, Petitioner filed a PCR application (the "2006 Application") generally alleging ineffectiveness of trial counsel. At the beginning of the PCR hearing, Petitioner's counsel verbally amended the application to include twelve grounds of ineffectiveness of trial counsel. Following a three-day hearing, Judge Few denied relief and issued an Order of Dismissal on March 24, 2008. In a letter dated October 6, 2010, this Court denied Petitioner's request for a writ of certiorari.

On January 7, 2011, Petitioner, with the assistance of federally appointed counsel,<sup>5</sup> simultaneously filed a second PCR application in state court and a Petition for a Writ of Habeas Corpus in the United States District Court for the District of South Carolina. By order dated April 8, 2011, a federal magistrate stayed the federal proceedings pending the exhaustion of Petitioner's state court remedies.

<sup>5</sup> The federally appointed attorneys are also representing Petitioner before this Court.

In his second PCR application (the "2011 Application"), Petitioner sought to have his convictions and sentences reversed based on trial court error as well as ineffective assistance of trial counsel, appellate counsel, and prior PCR counsel. With respect to PCR counsel, Petitioner alleged that his prior PCR counsel were not qualified under section 17-27-160(B)<sup>6</sup> and failed to competently represent him.<sup>7</sup> The State *510 filed a Return and a Motion to Dismiss alleging, among other things, that the 2011 Application was barred by the one-year statute of limitations,<sup>8</sup> impermissibly successive to the 2006 Application, barred by laches, and lacked merit. In Reply, Petitioner urged the PCR judge to deny the motion to dismiss and (1) allow the case to proceed to an evidentiary hearing and final adjudication, or (2) hold the case in abeyance until Martinez and Maples<sup>9</sup> were resolved by the United States Supreme Court.

6 Section 17-27-160(B) provides in relevant part:

If the applicant is indigent and desires representation by counsel, two counsel shall be immediately appointed to represent the petitioner in this action. At least one of the attorneys appointed to represent the applicant must have previously represented a death-sentenced inmate in state or federal post-conviction relief proceedings or (1) must meet the minimum qualifications set forth in Section 16-3-26(B) and Section 16-3-26(F) and (2) have successfully completed, within the previous two years, not less than twelve hours of South Carolina Bar approved continuing legal education or professional training primarily involving advocacy in the field of capital appellate and/or postconviction defense.

S.C. Code Ann. § 17-27-160(B) (2014) (emphasis added).

7 In support of this contention, Petitioner cited Martinez which, at that time, was pending before the United States Supreme Court.

8 S.C. Code Ann. § 17-27-45(A) (2014).

9 Maples v. Thomas, 565 U.S. 266, 132 S.Ct. 912, 181 L.Ed.2d 807 (2012) (concluding, in capital case, that applicant who was abandoned by his attorney in state PCR proceedings established the requisite cause to excuse procedural default in federal habeas action).

By order dated September 20, 2011, Circuit Court Judge Lee S. Alford summarily dismissed the 2011 Application. In so ruling, the PCR judge found Petitioner's allegation of ineffectiveness of original PCR counsel was not a cognizable state claim that justified filing an untimely, successive PCR application.

Specifically, the judge held: (1) the 2011 Application was barred by the one-year statute of limitations as it was filed more than five years after Petitioner's direct appeal was dismissed on June 22, 2005 and the appointment of original PCR counsel on September 23, 2005; (2) the 2011 Application was impermissibly successive because an allegation that original PCR counsel were ineffective is not a sufficient reason to allow a successive PCR application;

(3) Petitioner waived his right to challenge whether his original PCR counsel were statutorily qualified by failing to object to lead counsel's qualifications during the 2006 PCR hearing; (4) Petitioner *511 failed to **32 prove that original PCR counsel were not statutorily qualified to represent him given there was no evidence to the contrary and Petitioner erroneously construed the statutory requirements for appointment of PCR counsel in a capital case;<sup>10</sup> (5) Petitioner failed to prove that his original PCR counsel had not performed competently under Strickland v. Washington, 466 U.S. 668, 104 S.Ct. 2052, 80 L.Ed.2d 674 (1984) because the mere allegation that new PCR counsel would have raised different grounds in the 2006 PCR action did not establish deficient performance or prejudice; (6) no due process violation occurred during the 2006 PCR action because Petitioner was provided counsel and meaningful access to the courts; (7) no equal protection violation occurred during the 2006 PCR action because Petitioner could not show disparate treatment based upon his status as an indigent defendant; (8) the decision of the United States Supreme Court to grant certiorari in Martinez and Maples did not mandate the relief sought by Petitioner given a favorable decision in those cases would only address whether a procedural default may be excused in federal court not state court; (9) laches barred relief; (10) Petitioner's allegations of trial court error are not cognizable PCR claims; and (11) Petitioner's *512 allegations of ineffective assistance of original PCR counsel are not cognizable PCR claims.

10 In reaching this conclusion, the PCR judge referenced a memorandum issued by then Chief Justice Toal on August 13, 2003 that was sent to all circuit court judges. <http://www.sccourts.org/whatsnew/displaywhatsnew.cfm?indexID=165>. In the memorandum, Chief Justice Toal opined that counsel is qualified to represent a capital PCR applicant under section 17-27-160(B) if counsel is qualified to represent a capital defendant at trial under section 16-3-26(B). To be qualified to represent a defendant in a capital trial, at least one attorney must have at least five years' experience as a licensed attorney and at least three years' experience in the actual trial of felony cases. S.C. Code Ann. § 16-3-26(B) (2003); Rule 421(b), SCACR. Chief Justice Toal construed section 17-27-160(B) to permit qualification of counsel who has twelve South Carolina Bar approved CLE hours or has professional training in capital appellate or PCR defense rather than requiring twelve hours of education or training in capital appellate or PCR defense. Chief Justice Toal believed that this construction avoids the absurd result that an attorney qualified to represent a defendant in the trial of a capital case would not necessarily be qualified to represent a capital PCR applicant. Accordingly, Chief Justice Toal concluded that "anyone who is qualified to represent a capital defendant at trial, and has completed their CLE requirements should be deemed qualified to represent a petitioner in a capital PCR proceeding under § 17-27-160."

Petitioner filed a motion to reconsider pursuant to Rule 59(e) of the South Carolina Rules of Civil Procedure. Petitioner objected to, among other things, the PCR judge's dismissal without a hearing, particularly where there was a disagreement between the parties regarding whether original PCR counsel met the statutory qualifications to be appointed in a capital PCR case. In support of this assertion, Petitioner supplemented the motion with: (1) affidavits confirming that neither Brown nor Matlock were qualified; and (2) a published opinion wherein Brown was publicly reprimanded for professional misconduct, which stemmed from substance abuse that occurred in July 2007.

The judge denied the motion, finding Brown had death penalty experience and there was no evidence that Brown's substance abuse problems affected his effectiveness in representing Petitioner in the 2006 PCR action. Additionally, the judge found that any failure to comply with section 17-27-160 did not violate Petitioner's constitutional rights because the statute does not create an independent, constitutional right. Finally, even assuming the State did not comply with section 17-27-160, the judge concluded that Petitioner failed to demonstrate prejudice. This Court granted Petitioner's request for a writ of certiorari to review the PCR judge's order.

II. Discussion

A. Arguments

Petitioner seeks for this Court to vacate the PCR judge's order summarily dismissing his 2011 Application and remand for a hearing. As the basis for this relief, Petitioner asserts that this Court, in response to Martinez, should amend existing state court PCR proceedings to permit Petitioner to file a second PCR application. While acknowledging the existing prohibition against successive **33 PCR applications under section 17-27-90 and cases interpreting the statute, Petitioner maintains that this law should be re-evaluated based on Martinez. Additionally, because Petitioner claims that prior PCR counsel were not qualified under section 17-27-160(B) and were ineffective, he contends that these reasons were sufficient to allow *513 him to file a timely, successive PCR application and require a hearing on the merits. Due to the alleged deficiencies in prior PCR counsel's representation, Petitioner avers that he was denied a full and fair opportunity to present his claims.

B. Procedural Default in PCR Proceedings

The South Carolina Legislature enacted the Uniform Post-Conviction Procedure Act to govern all aspects of PCR, including strict time deadlines and the appointment of counsel in capital PCR proceedings. S.C. Code Ann. §§ 17-27-10 to -160 (2014). A PCR application must be filed within one year after the entry of a judgment of conviction, or if there is an appeal, within one year after the sending of the remittitur to the lower court from an appeal or the filing of the final decision upon an appeal, whichever is later. Id. § 17-27-45(A). However, "[i]f the applicant contends that there is evidence of material facts not previously presented and heard that requires vacation of the conviction or sentence, the application must be filed under this chapter within one year after the date of actual discovery of the facts by the applicant or after the date when the facts could have been ascertained by the exercise of reasonable diligence." Id. § 17-27-45(C).

[1] "All applicants are entitled to a full and fair opportunity to present claims in one PCR application." Odom v. State, 337 S.C. 256, 261, 523 S.E.2d 753, 755 (1999). "Successive PCR applications and appeals are generally disfavored because they allow an applicant to receive more than 'one bite at the apple as it were.'" Id.

Section 17-27-90 of the South Carolina Code generally prohibits the filing of successive PCR applications, stating:

All grounds for relief available to an applicant under this chapter must be raised in his original, supplemental or amended application. Any ground finally adjudicated or not so raised, or knowingly, voluntarily and intelligently waived in the proceeding that resulted in the conviction or sentence or in any other proceeding the applicant has taken to secure relief, may not be the basis for a subsequent application, unless the court finds a ground for relief asserted which for sufficient reason was not asserted or was inadequately *514 raised in the original, supplemental or amended application.

S.C. Code Ann. § 17-27-90 (2014) (emphasis added). In Aice v. State, this Court interpreted section 17-27-90 to forbid “a successive PCR application unless an applicant can point to a ‘sufficient reason’ why the new grounds for relief he asserts were not raised, or were not raised properly.” Aice v. State, 305 S.C. 448, 450, 409 S.E.2d 392, 394 (1991). The Court in Aice acknowledged that there may be “unique” circumstances,<sup>11</sup> where a PCR counsel’s assistance could be challenged in a successive application. Id. at 451, 409 S.E.2d at 394. However, the Court expressly held “the contention that prior PCR counsel was ineffective is not per se a ‘sufficient reason’ allowing for a successive PCR application under § 17-27-90.” Id.

<sup>11</sup> See, e.g., Washington v. State, 324 S.C. 232, 478 S.E.2d 833 (1996) (permitting successive PCR application where multiple procedural irregularities, including the denial of a direct appeal, prohibited applicant the benefit of due process); Carter v. State, 293 S.C. 528, 362 S.E.2d 20 (1987) (authorizing a successive PCR application where the applicant did not have PCR counsel that differed from his trial counsel); Case v. State, 277 S.C. 474, 289 S.E.2d 413 (1982) (allowing a successive PCR application where applicant’s first PCR application was dismissed without assistance of legal counsel and without a hearing).

Despite the express holding in Aice, Petitioner argues that Martinez excuses the procedural bar of section 17-27-90. In Martinez, the “precise question” addressed by the United States Supreme Court (“USSC”) was “whether ineffective assistance in an initial-review collateral proceeding on a claim of ineffective assistance at trial may provide cause for a procedural default in a federal” **34 habeas proceeding.” Martinez, 132 S.Ct. at 1315. The USSC answered this question by holding that:

[w]here, under state law, claims of ineffective assistance of trial counsel must be raised in an initial-review collateral proceeding, a procedural default will not bar a federal habeas court from hearing a substantial claim of ineffective assistance at trial if, in the initial-review collateral proceeding, there was no counsel or counsel in that proceeding was ineffective.

*515 Id. at 1320. In reaching this conclusion, the USSC recognized that federal habeas courts reviewing the constitutionality of a state prisoner’s conviction and sentence are governed by rules designed to ensure that state-court judgments are accorded finality and respect necessary to preserve the integrity of legal proceedings within the system of federalism, including the doctrine of procedural default. Id. at 1316.

The USSC explained:

Allowing a federal habeas court to hear a claim of ineffective assistance of trial counsel when an attorney’s errors (or the absence of an attorney) caused a procedural default in an initial-review collateral proceeding acknowledges, as an equitable matter, that the initial-review collateral proceeding, if undertaken without counsel or with ineffective counsel, may not have been sufficient to ensure that proper consideration was given to a substantial claim. From this it follows that, when a State requires a prisoner to raise an ineffective-assistance-of-trial-counsel claim in a collateral proceeding, a prisoner may establish cause for a default of an ineffective-assistance claim in two circumstances. The first is where the state courts did not appoint counsel in the initial-review collateral proceeding for a claim of ineffective assistance at trial. The second is where appointed counsel in the initial-review collateral proceeding, where the claim should have been raised, was ineffective under the standards of Strickland v. Washington, 466 U.S. 668, 104 S.Ct. 2052, 80 L.Ed.2d 674 (1984). To overcome the default, a prisoner must also demonstrate that the underlying ineffective-assistance-of-trial-counsel claim is a substantial one, which is to say that the prisoner must demonstrate that the claim has some merit. Cf. Miller-El v. Cockrell, 537 U.S. 322, 123 S.Ct. 1029, 154 L.Ed.2d 931 (2003) (describing standards for certificates of appealability to issue).

Id. at 1318–19.

One year after Martinez was decided, this Court explicitly stated that “the holding in Martinez is limited to federal habeas corpus review and is not applicable to state post-conviction relief actions.” Kelly v. State, 404 S.C. 365, 365, 745 S.E.2d 377, 377 (2013).

*516 Appellate courts have continued to adhere to this Court’s holding in Kelly. See, e.g., Salter v. State, 184 So.3d 944 (Miss. Ct. App. 2015) (discussing Kelly and holding that Martinez does not apply to Mississippi PCR proceedings), cert. denied, 185 So.3d 385 (Miss. 2016); Brown v. McDaniel, 331 P.3d 867, 871–72 (Nev. 2014) (citing Kelly and declining to alter Nevada PCR procedures based on Martinez). Significantly, courts from other jurisdictions have also extended the holding in Kelly to encompass capital PCR proceedings. See State v. Hessler, 288 Neb. 670, 850 N.W.2d 777, 786 (2014) (citing Kelly and concluding in a capital PCR case that “[n]othing in Martinez prevents state courts from enforcing procedural defaults in accordance with state law”).

[2] We find that Petitioner has offered no legitimate legal or policy reason to depart from our holding in Kelly. Notably, Petitioner has never moved to argue against precedent. Moreover, because the PCR Act is a legislatively created scheme, any post-Martinez change to PCR proceedings must be instituted by the Legislature. See Brown, 331 P.3d at 875 (“Whether or how a rule similar to that adopted in Martinez should be adopted in state post-conviction proceedings is a matter of policy and lies in the hands of the Legislature.”); Hessler, 850 N.W.2d at 787 (declining to extend Martinez to state court PCR proceedings and noting that it was for the Legislature to determine the consequences of Martinez). Accordingly, we hold that Martinez does not afford Petitioner a right to file a successive PCR application by merely alleging ineffective assistance of prior PCR counsel.

[3] **35 However, Petitioner’s 2011 Application also alleged, as a separate and distinct ground not addressed by Aice,<sup>12</sup> that prior PCR counsel were not qualified under section 17-27-160(B). We conclude Petitioner’s allegation that he was denied a state-created right to qualified counsel constitutes a “sufficient reason” to permit a successive PCR application under section 17-27-90.<sup>13</sup> Furthermore, we find that Petitioner’s 2011 *517 Application was filed within the one-year statute of limitations provided by section 17-27-45 as prior PCR counsel’s alleged lack of qualification was not discovered until federal counsel was appointed in 2011. Contrary to the State’s position, we find Petitioner did not waive his challenge to counsel’s lack of qualification by failing to raise this issue during the 2006 PCR proceeding. We believe it is unreasonable to think that an indigent PCR applicant, who relies on the State to appoint qualified counsel, would have the knowledge to question counsel’s qualifications at the onset of the proceeding.

12 The dissent cites Aice to support its position that Petitioner’s application is impermissibly successive. The dissent’s reliance on Aice is misplaced as this case was decided by this Court in 1991 before the Legislature identified the qualifications for capital PCR counsel in 1996.

13 The dissent disagrees that Petitioner’s allegation he was denied a state-created right to qualified counsel constitutes a “sufficient reason” to permit a successive PCR application under section 17-27-90. Instead, the dissent characterizes Petitioner’s challenge to his capital PCR counsel’s qualifications as “merely” a “routine ineffectiveness argument.” We question how Petitioner’s challenge could be “routine” as his allegation is based on a distinct statute that is only applicable to capital PCR applicants. Further, the dissent cites no authority for its position but, rather, acknowledges cases where this Court permitted a successive application. Finally, the dissent claims a petition brought pursuant to Butler v. State, 302 S.C. 466, 397 S.E.2d 87 (1990) is adequate to address Petitioner’s challenge. While the dissent may believe a Butler petition is the “ultimate safety net,” it seems nonsensical to require a capital PCR applicant to exhaust all state and federal relief with the assistance of counsel who may ultimately be found unqualified. In the interest of judicial economy and fundamental fairness, we believe an allegation that capital PCR counsel is unqualified should be resolved at the earliest point in the proceedings and not after an applicant has exhausted all permitted relief.

Having determined that Petitioner's 2011 Application was procedurally proper, we must next construe section 17-27-160(B) and identify the requisite qualifications for capital PCR counsel.

C. Statutorily Mandated Qualifications for Capital PCR Counsel

In 1996, Congress passed the Antiterrorism and Effective Death Penalty Act of 1996 ("AEDPA"). See Pub. L. No. 104-132 (1996). In the AEDPA, "Congress provided streamlined federal habeas procedures to those states that maintain mechanisms for the mandatory appointment and compensation of competent counsel during state postconviction proceedings." Celestine Richards McConville, *518 The Right to Effective Assistance of Capital Postconviction Counsel: Constitutional Implications of Statutory Grants of Capital Counsel, 2003 Wis. L. Rev. 31, 35 (2003) (footnote omitted). "By this act, Congress chose to restrict federal habeas corpus review in exchange for the states[] appointing competent counsel for indigent capital defendants for purposes of state postconviction review." Lee v. State, 367 Ark. 84, 238 S.W.3d 52, 56 (2006) (citing Burke W. Kappler, Small Favors: Chapter 154 of the Antiterrorism and Effective Death Penalty Act, the States, and the Right to Counsel, 90 J. Crim. L. & Criminology 467, 469 (2000)).

In response, the majority of death-penalty states addressed issues relating to capital PCR counsel. McConville, supra, at 35. South Carolina, one of ten states, "amended their rules to provide a mandatory right to counsel for capital defendants at the state postconviction stage." Id. In 1996, the South Carolina Legislature enacted the "South Carolina Effective Death Penalty Act of 1996." Act No. 448, 1996 S.C. Acts 2709, 2712-14. As a provision in this Act, the Legislature included section 17-27-160 to provide, in part, for "the appointment and compensation of counsel" in capital PCR proceedings. Id.

Taking into account the express purpose of section 17-27-160, we find the Legislature intended for an indigent capital defendant to be appointed counsel who: (1) has previous **36 experience representing a capital defendant in state or federal PCR proceedings, or (2) was qualified to try a capital case and successfully completed at least twelve hours of South Carolina Bar approved (a) CLE specifically involving capital appellate or capital PCR proceedings or (b) professional training specifically involving capital appellate or capital PCR proceedings. See fn. 6, supra. Simply stated, at least one attorney appointed pursuant to section 17-27-160(B) must have either (1) prior experience in capital PCR proceedings, or (2) capital trial experience and capital PCR training or education.

Furthermore, given the inclusion of section 17-27-160 in the South Carolina Effective Death Penalty Act of 1996 and specific designation as providing procedures for capital PCR, we find this construction comports with the intent of the Legislature for appointed counsel to be proficient in capital PCR proceedings and not just capital trial proceedings. See Charleston Cnty. Sch. Dist. v. State Budget & Control Bd., 313 S.C. 1, 5, 437 S.E.2d 6, 8 (1993) ("The cardinal rule of statutory construction is to ascertain and effectuate the intent *519 of the legislature."); S.C. State Ports Auth. v. Jasper Cnty., 368 S.C. 388, 398, 629 S.E.2d 624, 629 (2006) (stating that "the statute must be read as a whole and sections which are a part of the same general statutory law must be construed together and each one given effect").

D. Application to the Instant Case

[4] Based on our construction of section 17-27-160(B), we find the PCR judge erred in ruling that compliance with section 17-27-160(B) only required capital PCR counsel to have capital trial experience. Moreover, we agree with Petitioner that the PCR judge erred in summarily dismissing the 2011 Application because there was a genuine issue of fact as to whether prior PCR counsel met the qualifications of section 17-27-160(B).

[5] [6] Summary dismissal of a PCR application without a hearing is appropriate only when (1) it is apparent on the face of the application that there is no need for a hearing to develop any facts, and (2) the applicant is not entitled to relief. S.C. Code Ann. § 17-27-70(b), (c) (2014). "When considering the State's motion for summary dismissal, where no evidentiary hearing has been held, the PCR judge must assume facts presented by the applicant are true and view those facts in the light most favorable to the applicant.” McCoy v. State, 401 S.C. 363, 369, 737 S.E.2d 623, 626 (2013). “Similarly, when reviewing the propriety of a dismissal, this Court must view the facts in the same fashion.” Leamon v. State, 363 S.C. 432, 434, 611 S.E.2d 494, 495 (2005).

[7] “Where an applicant alleges facts that would establish an exception to either the statute of limitations or the prohibition against successive PCR applications and those facts are not conclusively refuted by the record before the PCR court, a question of fact is raised which can only be resolved by a hearing.” McCoy, 401 S.C. at 369, 737 S.E.2d at 626.

Here, Petitioner offered affidavits confirming that neither Brown nor Matlock were qualified as capital PCR counsel. Petitioner also notes that Judge Few’s summary order of September 9, 2005, appointing Brown as counsel, contained no reference to section 17-27-160 or a finding that counsel was qualified. In contrast, the State maintains that Judge Few *520 conducted a hearing on September 23, 2005 during which he confirmed the appointment of Brown. Both parties agree that there is no tape or transcript of the September 23, 2005 hearing.

Because the parties offered conflicting evidence as to whether Petitioner’s prior PCR counsel met the requisite qualifications, the PCR judge erred in dismissing the 2011 Application without a hearing. Consequently, we remand for a determination of whether prior PCR counsel were statutorily qualified. See Lee v. State, 367 Ark. 84, 238 S.W.3d 52 (2006) (remanding for circuit court to conduct further proceedings where capital PCR counsel, who admitted to being impaired by alcohol during capital PCR proceeding, may not have met the specific qualifications set forth in state rule providing for the appointment of counsel).

In the event that prior PCR counsel are deemed unqualified under section 17-27-160(B), the judge must decide the appropriate **37 remedy. Because we have yet to enunciate how this remedy is to be determined, we take this opportunity to do so.

E. Remedy for Lack of Qualified Counsel

[8] Although we have researched other states that have qualification statutes or rules similar to section

17-27-160(B), we have been unable to find a case that sets forth a test for non-compliance. However, based on our reading of Martinez, we find the Strickland<sup>14</sup> test is appropriate and should be applied to evaluate this type of case. See Martinez, 132 S.Ct. at 1318 (recognizing that effectiveness of counsel, who represented defendant in an initial-review collateral proceeding, should be evaluated under the standards of Strickland).<sup>15</sup>

<sup>14</sup> In Strickland, the USSC enunciated a two-pronged test to establish ineffective assistance of counsel by which a PCR applicant must show (1) counsel’s performance was deficient, and (2) the deficient performance prejudiced the defendant. Strickland v. Washington, 466 U.S. 668, 687, 104 S.Ct. 2052, 80 L.Ed.2d 674 (1984). Under the second prong, the PCR applicant “must show that there is a reasonable probability that, but for counsel’s unprofessional errors, the result of the proceeding would have been different.” Id. at 694, 104 S.Ct. 2052.

<sup>15</sup> See also Tucker v. Moore, 56 F.Supp.2d 611 (D.S.C. 1999) (holding that State’s failure to follow section 17-27-160 is not a violation of an applicant’s constitutional rights because the rights granted under that statute, if not given, do not penalize the applicant), aff’d, 221 F.3d 600 (4th Cir. 2000), cert. denied, 531 U.S. 1054, 121 S.Ct. 661, 148 L.Ed.2d 563 (2000); Aeschliman v. State, 132 Idaho 397, 973 P.2d 749 (Ct. App. 1999) (recognizing that trial counsel’s lack of qualifications under the ABA Guidelines for the Appointment and Performance of Counsel in Death Penalty Case did not constitute ineffective assistance of counsel per se; concluding that applicant must allege specific instances where trial counsel fell short of an objective standard of reasonableness); State v. Misch, 101 Ohio App.3d 640, 656 N.E.2d 381 (1995) (finding that lack of certification of defense counsel as experienced in capital cases under court rules does not automatically create a presumption that trial counsel has not provided effective assistance of counsel; recognizing that the effectiveness of counsel not qualified under court rule must be judged under the Strickland standard); State v. Maletta, 98 Or.App. 643, 781 P.2d 350, 354 (1989) (concluding that no legitimate policy is served by dismissal of a charge where trial counsel in a capital case was not qualified under a state statute if the defendant was not prejudiced; noting that “adequacy of counsel is measured by performance, not credentials”).

[9] *521 Applying the Strickland test, we conclude that non-compliance with section 17-27-160(B) constitutes deficient performance per se. To rule otherwise, we believe would render meaningless the Legislature's intent to have qualified counsel appointed to capital PCR applicants. See Tucker v. Catoe, 221 F.3d 600, 604-05 (4th Cir. 2000) (evaluating the State's failure to comply with section 17-27-160 and stating, "We accordingly conclude that a state must not only enact a 'mechanism' and standards for post-conviction review counsel, but those mechanisms and standards must in fact be complied with before the state may invoke the time limitations of U.S.C. § 2263" (emphasis added)).<sup>16</sup> Nevertheless, a PCR applicant would still maintain the significant burden of proving that he was prejudiced by counsel's lack of qualification.

<sup>16</sup> Also, by analogy, a violation of a statute in a civil proceeding constitutes negligence per se. See Fairchild v. S.C. Dep't of Transp., 398 S.C. 90, 727 S.E.2d 407 (2012) (recognizing that the violation of an applicable statute constitutes negligence per se).

III. Conclusion

Despite this Court's express ruling in Kelly, Petitioner seeks to have the Court create a state remedy that is the equivalent of the federal remedy established by Martinez. We decline to do so. Instead, we reaffirm Kelly and extend its holding to encompass capital PCR cases. However, we conclude *522 that Petitioner's allegation that prior PCR counsel were unqualified is not foreclosed by Aice or its progeny and constitutes a "sufficient reason" to avoid the prohibition of section 17-27-90 against successive PCR applications. Furthermore, we find that Petitioner's 2011 Application was filed within the one-year statute of limitations provided by section 17-27-45 as prior PCR counsel's alleged lack of qualification was not discovered until federal counsel was appointed in 2011. Additionally, we hold that the PCR judge erroneously construed section 17-27-160(B) as we conclude that at least one attorney appointed pursuant to this code section must have either (1) prior experience **38 in capital PCR proceedings, or (2) capital trial experience and capital PCR training or education.

Because there is a genuine issue of fact as to whether prior PCR counsel were statutorily qualified, Petitioner should be afforded a hearing on this limited issue. Cf. McCoy, 401 S.C. at 370, 737 S.E.2d at 627 ("Although Petitioner's PCR claim may ultimately prove to be untimely, successive, or perhaps unsuccessful on the merits, the PCR judge erred in granting the State's motion for summary dismissal because genuine issues of material fact exist as to whether Petitioner's PCR claim is successive or untimely."). If prior PCR counsel are deemed unqualified and, as a result, deficient, the PCR judge must make a determination whether under Strickland, Petitioner was prejudiced. Accordingly, we reverse the PCR judge's order and remand the matter for a hearing.

REVERSED AND REMANDED.

KITTREDGE and HEARN, JJ., concur. PLEICONES, C.J., concurring in part and dissenting in part in a separate opinion. Acting Justice Jean H. Toal, dissenting in a separate opinion.

CHIEF JUSTICE PLEICONES:

I concur in part and dissent in part. I agree with the majority's analysis of the Martinez issue and concur in its analysis<sup>17</sup> of S.C. Code Ann. § 17-27-160(B) (2014).

<sup>17</sup> I would simply add that where the attorney seeks to be qualified by virtue of training or CLE, that education must have been accomplished within the two years preceding the appointment.

*523 I disagree, however, that a capital PCR applicant must demonstrate Strickland<sup>18</sup> prejudice in order to be entitled to relief for a statutory violation of § 17-27-160(B). In 1991, a majority of the Court abolished the doctrine of in favorem vitae which required the Court to search the record in a capital appeal for legal error. State v. Torrence, 305 S.C. 45, 406 S.E.2d 315 (1991). The abolition of this common law doctrine was justified in large part because of the protections afforded by the Uniform Post-Conviction Procedure Act. That PCR is a poor substitute for in favorem review, however, was made explicit in Franklin v. Catoe, 346 S.C. 563, 552 S.E.2d 718 (2001). In Franklin, the capital PCR applicant contended trial counsel were ineffective in failing to inform him of his statutory right to argue to the jury in the guilt phase of his trial. The Franklin majority acknowledged that the applicant had been denied this statutory right, and that prior to the abolition of in favorem, this error would have warranted a new trial.

The majority held, however, that with PCR “replacing” in favorem review, a capital PCR applicant now bore the burden of proving not only error, but also constitutional prejudice. I dissented, and wrote:

In my opinion, we must honor the General Assembly's prerogative to establish the procedural safeguards which it deems necessary to the fair administration of the death penalty. Where the legislature has prescribed a departure from the procedures observed in “ordinary” criminal trials, those deviations should be scrupulously honored. I would thus not engage in a prejudice analysis where the undisputed facts do not demonstrate a conscious waiver or strategic decision to forego one of the special protections mandated by the capital statutes.

Franklin v. Catoe, supra, Pleicones, J., dissenting.

- 18 Strickland v. Washington, 466 U.S. 668, 104 S.Ct. 2052, 80 L.Ed.2d 674 (1984).

Based upon my view of the Court's obligation to enforce statutes governing special procedures in capital proceedings, including those mandating the qualifications of attorneys, and based upon the assurances made in Torrence that “[O]ther mechanisms of protection and of relief have now been created for the [capital] defendant which safeguard [him] and render *524 the protections afforded by in favorem vitae surplusage,”<sup>19</sup> I would hold that a capital PCR applicant must be appointed counsel who meet the qualifications set forth in § 17-27-160(B). If upon remand it is determined that Petitioner was not represented by statutorily qualified counsel, then in my view the appropriate remedy is a new **39 PCR proceeding in which he is represented by such counsel.

- 19 State v. Torrence, 305 S.C. 45, 61, 406 S.E.2d 315, 324 (1991).

For the reasons given above, I concur in part and dissent in part.

ACTING JUSTICE TOAL:

I respectfully dissent. I would affirm the post-conviction relief (PCR) court's dismissal of Petitioner's second PCR application because Petitioner's allegation of ineffectiveness does not justify the filing of an untimely, successive PCR application. Further, I disagree with the majority's interpretation of section 17-27-160(B) of the South Carolina Code<sup>20</sup> and would find that an attorney who is qualified to represent a capital defendant at trial is likewise qualified to represent a capital defendant in PCR proceedings.

- 20 Section 17-27-160(B) requires the appointment of two attorneys in a PCR capital case, of which one attorney “must have previously represented a death-sentenced inmate in state or federal post-conviction relief proceedings or (1) must meet the minimum qualifications set forth in [s]ection 16-3-26(B) and [s]ection 16-3-26(F) and (2) have successively completed, within the previous two years, not less than twelve hours of South Carolina Bar approved continuing legal education or professional training primarily involving advocacy in the field of capital appellate and/or post-conviction defense.”

A. Successive Application

First, I would find that Petitioner has not set forth sufficient reasons in his application to overcome the prohibition against successive PCR applications. See S.C. Code Ann. § 17-27-90 (2014) (“Any ground finally adjudicated or not so raised, or knowingly, voluntarily and intelligently waived in the proceeding that resulted in the conviction or sentence or in any other proceeding the applicant has taken to secure relief, may not be the basis for a subsequent application, unless the court finds a ground for relief asserted which for sufficient reason *525 was not asserted or was inadequately raised in the original, supplemental or amended application.”); Aice v. State, 305 S.C. 448, 450, 409 S.E.2d 392, 394 (1991) (interpreting section 17-27-90 to prohibit “a successive PCR application unless an applicant can point to a ‘sufficient reason’ why the new grounds for relief he asserts were not raised, or were not raised properly”).

While I agree with the majority that Petitioner should not be afforded review pursuant to Martinez,<sup>21</sup> and that Kelly<sup>22</sup> should be extended to capital PCR cases, I disagree with the majority's holding that applications containing allegations regarding compliance with section 17-27-160(B) warrant automatic review of an otherwise successive application. See Aice, 305 S.C. at 451, 409 S.E.2d at 394 (“[T]he contention that prior PCR counsel was ineffective is not per se a ‘sufficient reason’ allowing for a successive PCR application under § 17-27-90.”). Even though Petitioner is challenging his PCR counsel's qualifications, he is merely asserting a routine ineffectiveness argument, which does not constitute a "sufficient reason" why the new grounds for relief he asserts were not raised, or were not raised properly. But see Washington v. State, 324 S.C. 232, 478 S.E.2d 833 (1996) (permitting a successive application where multiple procedural irregularities prohibited the applicant from receiving a direct appeal); Carter v. State, 293 S.C. 528, 362 S.E.2d 20 (1987) (permitting a successive application where trial counsel also served as PCR counsel); Case v. State, 277 S.C. 474, 289 S.E.2d 413 (1982) (permitting a successive application where a pro se PCR application was dismissed without a hearing).<sup>23</sup> I am hesitant to create another tier of *526 review in an already thorough process when procedures exist to deal with successive (but meritorious) **40 claims that may have slipped through the cracks of the normal review process.

21 Martinez v. Ryan, 566 U.S. 1, 132 S.Ct. 1309, 182 L.Ed.2d 272 (2012).

22 Kelly v. State, 404 S.C. 365, 745 S.E.2d 377 (2013).

23 Moreover, there is still the ultimate safety net provided by Butler petitions in cases in which a PCR applicant has exhausted all permitted relief but "where there has been a violation, which, in the setting, constitutes a denial of fundamental fairness shocking to the universal sense of justice." Butler v. State, 302 S.C. 466, 468, 397 S.E.2d 87, 88 (1990) (internal quotation marks omitted) (citation omitted); McWee v. State, 357 S.C. 403, 414, 593 S.E.2d 456, 461 (2004) (Pleicones, J., dissenting) (explaining a Butler petition provides the Court with "a final opportunity to review the fundamental fairness of a criminal proceeding").

B. Interpretation of Section 17-27-160(B)

Moreover, I disagree with the majority's interpretation of section 17-27-160(B). Since 2003, counsel has been held to be qualified to represent a capital PCR applicant if counsel is qualified to represent a capital defendant at trial<sup>24</sup> and has completed the continuing legal education requirements. See Re Appointment of Counsel in Capital Post-Conviction Relief Matters, dated August 15, 2003, found at <http://www.sccourts.org/whatsnew/displaywhatsnew.cfm?indexID=165>. I see no reason to depart from this interpretation now. In my opinion, the sound reasoning underlying that interpretation still holds true, and the adoption of the majority's interpretation of the statute would lead to the illogical result that an attorney meeting the qualifications to defend a capital defendant at trial may not be qualified to defend him in PCR proceedings. Id.

24 An attorney is qualified to represent a capital defendant at trial if he or she has at least five years' experience as a licensed attorney and at least three years' experience in the actual trial of felony cases. See S.C. Code Ann. § 16-3-26(B) (2015); Rule 421(b), SCACR.

C. Conclusion

For these reasons, I would affirm the decision of the PCR court.

All Citations

418 S.C. 505, 795 S.E.2d 29

ALAN WILSON
ATTORNEY GENERAL

January 12, 2017

The Honorable Lee S. Alford
South Carolina Circuit Court
1675-1J York Highway
York, South Carolina 29745

Re: James D. Robertson vs. State of South Carolina
C.A. No. 2011-CP-46-00072

Dear Judge Alford:

Enclosed please find a copy of the South Carolina Supreme Court's Opinion in Robertson v. State, Op. No. 27691 (S.C.S.Ct., Dec. 16, 2016), which was on filed December 14, 2016, as well as the December 14, 2016 Remittitur. In its Opinion, a majority of the Supreme Court reversed Your Honor's earlier Order summarily dismissing the 2011 Application and judgment entered thereon. In pertinent part, the Court concluded that:

Despite this Court's express ruling in Kelly, Petitioner seeks to have the Court create a state remedy that is the equivalent of the federal remedy established by Martinez. We decline to do so. Instead, we reaffirm Kelly and extend its holding to encompass capital PCR cases. However, we conclude that Petitioner's allegation that prior PCR counsel were unqualified is not foreclosed by Aice or its progeny and constitutes a "sufficient reason" to avoid the prohibition of section 17-27-90 against successive PCR applications. Furthermore, we find that Petitioner's 2011 Application was filed within the one-year statute of limitations provided by section 17-27-45 as prior PCR counsel's alleged lack of qualification was not discovered until federal counsel was appointed in 2011. Additionally, we hold that the PCR judge erroneously construed section 17-27-160(B) as we conclude that at least one attorney appointed pursuant to this code section must have either (1) prior experience in capital PCR proceedings, or (2) capital trial experience and capital PCR training or education.

Because there is a genuine issue of fact as to whether prior PCR counsel were statutorily qualified. Petitioner should be afforded a hearing on this limited issue. Cf. McCoy, 401 S.C. at 370, 737 S.E.2d at 627 ("Although Petitioner's PCR claim may ultimately prove to be untimely, successive, or perhaps unsuccessful on the merits, the PCR judge erred in granting the State's motion for summary dismissal because genuine issues of material fact exist as to whether Petitioner's PCR claim is successive or untimely."). If prior PCR counsel are deemed unqualified and, as a result, deficient, the PCR judge must make a determination whether under Strickland, Petitioner was prejudiced. Accordingly, we reverse the PCR judge's order and remand the matter for a hearing.

The Honorable Lee S. Alford
January 12, 2017
Page 2

Robertson, at p. 15.

Because the appellate proceedings have concluded, I am writing to request that a limited hearing in accordance with the Supreme Court's decision be scheduled at Your Honor's earliest convenience. By copy of this letter I am advising Mr. Robertson's counsel of my request.

Thank you for your assistance in this matter.

Sincerely,

William Edgar Salter, III

Senior Assistant Attorney General

WES/dmd
Enclosures

cc: The Honorable David Hamilton, Clerk of Court, York County
The Honorable Daniel E. Shearouse, Clerk, South Carolina Supreme Court
The Honorable Kevin S. Brackett, Solicitor, 16th Judicial Circuit
Emily Paavola, Esquire (with enclosures)
Keir M. Weyble, Esquire (with enclosures)
Trisha Allen, Victim Services

THE STATE OF SOUTH CAROLINA
In The Supreme Court

James D. Robertson, Petitioner,

v.

State of South Carolina, Respondent.

Appellate Case No. 2012-205909

---

ON WRIT OF CERTIORARI

---

Appeal From York County
Lee S. Alford, Circuit Court Judge

---

Opinion No. 27691
Heard October 8, 2015 – Filed December 14, 2016

---

REVERSED AND REMANDED

---

Keir M. Weyble, of Cornell Law School, of Ithaca, New York, and Emily C. Paavola, of Justice 360, of Columbia, both for Petitioner.

Attorney General Alan McCrory Wilson, Chief Deputy Attorney General John W. McIntosh, Senior Assistant Deputy Attorney General Donald J. Zelenka and Senior Assistant Attorney General William Edgar Salter, III, all of Columbia, for Respondent.

---

JUSTICE BEATTY: In this capital Post-Conviction Relief ("PCR") case, James D. Robertson ("Petitioner") filed a second PCR application alleging, among other things, that his prior PCR counsel were not qualified under section 17-27-160(B) of the South Carolina Code<sup>1</sup> and failed to competently represent him. Without a hearing, the PCR judge dismissed the application on the grounds that it was successive and barred by the one-year statute of limitations and laches. This Court granted certiorari to review the circuit court's dismissal of Petitioner's application. Petitioner contends his second PCR application should not have been summarily dismissed as successive because his case presents unique circumstances warranting review of prior PCR counsel's assistance under Martinez v. Ryan, 132 S. Ct. 1309 (2012).<sup>2</sup> We reverse and remand.

I. Factual / Procedural History

On March 26, 1999, Petitioner was convicted and sentenced to death for the 1997 murder of his parents, armed robbery, and financial transaction card fraud. Over the course of the next four years, Petitioner filed a direct appeal through appointed counsel, moved to relieve appointed appellate counsel, and filed a pro se appeal to this Court on July 25, 2003. Ultimately, following a judicial determination of competency, Petitioner waived his right to direct appeal. On June 3, 2005, this Court dismissed Petitioner's direct appeal after conducting the proportionality review mandated by section 16-3-25<sup>3</sup> of the South Carolina Code.

On July 7, 2005, this Court granted Petitioner's request for a stay of execution to pursue PCR. This Court also appointed then Circuit Court Judge John

---

<sup>1</sup> S.C. Code Ann. § 17-27-160(B) (2014) (identifying requisite qualifications for counsel appointed to represent an indigent, capital PCR applicant).

<sup>2</sup> See Martinez v. Ryan, 132 S. Ct. 1309 (2012) (holding that a state procedural default will not bar a federal habeas court from hearing a substantial claim of ineffective assistance of counsel if, in the initial-review collateral proceeding, there was no counsel or counsel in that proceeding was ineffective).

<sup>3</sup> S.C. Code Ann. § 16-3-25 (2003) (identifying procedure Supreme Court must use in reviewing cases involving a sentence of death).

Few to preside over the PCR proceedings. Judge Few appointed Michael Langford Brown, Jr., and Joseph D. Matlock, both of Rock Hill, to represent Petitioner.<sup>4</sup>

On March 1, 2006, Petitioner filed a PCR application (the "2006 Application") generally alleging ineffectiveness of trial counsel. At the beginning of the PCR hearing, Petitioner's counsel verbally amended the application to include twelve grounds of ineffectiveness of trial counsel. Following a three-day hearing, Judge Few denied relief and issued an Order of Dismissal on March 24, 2008. In a letter dated October 6, 2010, this Court denied Petitioner's request for a writ of certiorari.

On January 7, 2011, Petitioner, with the assistance of federally appointed counsel,<sup>5</sup> simultaneously filed a second PCR application in state court and a Petition for a Writ of Habeas Corpus in the United States District Court for the District of South Carolina. By order dated April 8, 2011, a federal magistrate stayed the federal proceedings pending the exhaustion of Petitioner's state court remedies.

In his second PCR application (the "2011 Application"), Petitioner sought to have his convictions and sentences reversed based on trial court error as well as ineffective assistance of trial counsel, appellate counsel, and prior PCR counsel. With respect to PCR counsel, Petitioner alleged that his prior PCR counsel were not qualified under section 17-27-160(B)<sup>6</sup> and failed to competently represent

---

<sup>4</sup> The State maintains that Judge Few appointed Brown by order dated September 9, 2005 and confirmed the appointment during a hearing held on September 23, 2005. Petitioner disputes that such a hearing took place. The parties agree, however, that any tape of the hearing no longer exists.

<sup>5</sup> The federally appointed attorneys are also representing Petitioner before this Court.

<sup>6</sup> Section 17-27-160(B) provides in relevant part:

If the applicant is indigent and desires representation by counsel, two counsel shall be immediately appointed to represent the petitioner in this action. At least one of the attorneys appointed to represent the applicant must have previously represented a death-sentenced inmate in state or federal post-conviction relief proceedings or (1) must meet the minimum qualifications set forth in Section 16-3-26(B) and him.<sup>7</sup> The State filed a Return and a Motion to Dismiss alleging, among other things, that the 2011 Application was barred by the one-year statute of limitations,<sup>8</sup> impermissibly successive to the 2006 Application, barred by laches, and lacked merit. In Reply, Petitioner urged the PCR judge to deny the motion to dismiss and (1) allow the case to proceed to an evidentiary hearing and final adjudication, or (2) hold the case in abeyance until Martinez and Maples<sup>9</sup> were resolved by the United States Supreme Court.

By order dated September 20, 2011, Circuit Court Judge Lee S. Alford summarily dismissed the 2011 Application. In so ruling, the PCR judge found Petitioner's allegation of ineffectiveness of original PCR counsel was not a cognizable state claim that justified filing an untimely, successive PCR application.

Specifically, the judge held: (1) the 2011 Application was barred by the one-year statute of limitations as it was filed more than five years after Petitioner's direct appeal was dismissed on June 22, 2005 and the appointment of original PCR counsel on September 23, 2005; (2) the 2011 Application was impermissibly successive because an allegation that original PCR counsel were ineffective is not a sufficient reason to allow a successive PCR application; (3) Petitioner waived his right to challenge whether his original PCR counsel were statutorily qualified by failing to object to lead counsel's qualifications during the 2006 PCR hearing; (4) Petitioner failed to prove that original PCR counsel were not statutorily qualified to represent him given there was no evidence to the contrary and Petitioner

---

Section 16-3-26(F) and (2) have successfully completed, within the previous two years, not less than twelve hours of South Carolina Bar approved continuing legal education or professional training primarily involving advocacy in the field of capital appellate and/or post-conviction defense.

S.C. Code Ann. § 17-27-160(B) (2014) (emphasis added).

<sup>7</sup> In support of this contention, Petitioner cited Martinez which, at that time, was pending before the United States Supreme Court.

<sup>8</sup> S.C. Code Ann. § 17-27-45(A) (2014).

<sup>9</sup> Maples v. Thomas, 132 S. Ct. 912 (2012) (concluding, in capital case, that applicant who was abandoned by his attorney in state PCR proceedings established the requisite cause to excuse procedural default in federal habeas action).

erroneously construed the statutory requirements for appointment of PCR counsel in a capital case;<sup>10</sup> (5) Petitioner failed to prove that his original PCR counsel had not performed competently under Strickland v. Washington, 466 U.S. 668 (1984) because the mere allegation that new PCR counsel would have raised different grounds in the 2006 PCR action did not establish deficient performance or prejudice; (6) no due process violation occurred during the 2006 PCR action because Petitioner was provided counsel and meaningful access to the courts; (7) no equal protection violation occurred during the 2006 PCR action because Petitioner could not show disparate treatment based upon his status as an indigent defendant; (8) the decision of the United States Supreme Court to grant certiorari in Martinez and Maples did not mandate the relief sought by Petitioner given a favorable decision in those cases would only address whether a procedural default may be excused in federal court not state court; (9) laches barred relief; (10) Petitioner's allegations of trial court error are not cognizable PCR claims; and (11) Petitioner's allegations of ineffective assistance of original PCR counsel are not cognizable PCR claims.

Petitioner filed a motion to reconsider pursuant to Rule 59(e) of the South Carolina Rules of Civil Procedure. Petitioner objected to, among other things, the PCR judge's dismissal without a hearing, particularly where there was a

---

<sup>10</sup> In reaching this conclusion, the PCR judge referenced a memorandum issued by then Chief Justice Toal on August 13, 2003 that was sent to all circuit court judges. <http://www.sccourts.org/whatsnew/displaywhatsnew.cfm?indexID=165>. In the memorandum, Chief Justice Toal opined that counsel is qualified to represent a capital PCR applicant under section 17-27-160(B) if counsel is qualified to represent a capital defendant at trial under section 16-3-26(B). To be qualified to represent a defendant in a capital trial, at least one attorney must have at least five years' experience as a licensed attorney and at least three years' experience in the actual trial of felony cases. S.C. Code Ann. § 16-3-26(B) (2003); Rule 421(b), SCACR. Chief Justice Toal construed section 17-27-160(B) to permit qualification of counsel who has twelve South Carolina Bar approved CLE hours or has professional training in capital appellate or PCR defense rather than requiring twelve hours of education or training in capital appellate or PCR defense. Chief Justice Toal believed that this construction avoids the absurd result that an attorney qualified to represent a defendant in the trial of a capital case would not necessarily be qualified to represent a capital PCR applicant. Accordingly, Chief Justice Toal concluded that "anyone who is qualified to represent a capital defendant at trial, and has completed their CLE requirements should be deemed qualified to represent a petitioner in a capital PCR proceeding under § 17-27-160."

disagreement between the parties regarding whether original PCR counsel met the statutory qualifications to be appointed in a capital PCR case. In support of this assertion, Petitioner supplemented the motion with: (1) affidavits confirming that neither Brown nor Matlock were qualified; and (2) a published opinion wherein Brown was publicly reprimanded for professional misconduct, which stemmed from substance abuse that occurred in July 2007.

The judge denied the motion, finding Brown had death penalty experience and there was no evidence that Brown's substance abuse problems affected his effectiveness in representing Petitioner in the 2006 PCR action. Additionally, the judge found that any failure to comply with section 17-27-160 did not violate Petitioner's constitutional rights because the statute does not create an independent, constitutional right. Finally, even assuming the State did not comply with section 17-27-160, the judge concluded that Petitioner failed to demonstrate prejudice. This Court granted Petitioner's request for a writ of certiorari to review the PCR judge's order.

II. Discussion

A. Arguments

Petitioner seeks for this Court to vacate the PCR judge's order summarily dismissing his 2011 Application and remand for a hearing. As the basis for this relief, Petitioner asserts that this Court, in response to Martinez, should amend existing state court PCR proceedings to permit Petitioner to file a second PCR application. While acknowledging the existing prohibition against successive PCR applications under section 17-27-90 and cases interpreting the statute, Petitioner maintains that this law should be re-evaluated based on Martinez. Additionally, because Petitioner claims that prior PCR counsel were not qualified under section 17-27-160(B) and were ineffective, he contends that these reasons were sufficient to allow him to file a timely, successive PCR application and require a hearing on the merits. Due to the alleged deficiencies in prior PCR counsel's representation, Petitioner avers that he was denied a full and fair opportunity to present his claims.

B. Procedural Default in PCR Proceedings

The South Carolina Legislature enacted the Uniform Post-Conviction Procedure Act to govern all aspects of PCR, including strict time deadlines and the appointment of counsel in capital PCR proceedings. S.C. Code Ann. §§ 17-27-10 to -160 (2014). A PCR application must be filed within one year after the entry of a judgment of conviction, or if there is an appeal, within one year after the sending of the remittitur to the lower court from an appeal or the filing of the final decision upon an appeal, whichever is later. Id. § 17-27-45(A). However, "[i]f the applicant contends that there is evidence of material facts not previously presented and heard that requires vacation of the conviction or sentence, the application must be filed under this chapter within one year after the date of actual discovery of the facts by the applicant or after the date when the facts could have been ascertained by the exercise of reasonable diligence." Id. § 17-27-45(C).

"All applicants are entitled to a full and fair opportunity to present claims in one PCR application." Odom v. State, 337 S.C. 256, 261, 523 S.E.2d 753, 755 (1999). "Successive PCR applications and appeals are generally disfavored because they allow an applicant to receive more than 'one bite at the apple as it were.'" Id.

Section 17-27-90 of the South Carolina Code generally prohibits the filing of successive PCR applications, stating:

All grounds for relief available to an applicant under this chapter must be raised in his original, supplemental or amended application. Any ground finally adjudicated or not so raised, or knowingly, voluntarily and intelligently waived in the proceeding that resulted in the conviction or sentence or in any other proceeding the applicant has taken to secure relief, may not be the basis for a subsequent application, unless the court finds a ground for relief asserted which for sufficient reason was not asserted or was inadequately raised in the original, supplemental or amended application.

S.C. Code Ann. § 17-27-90 (2014) (emphasis added). In Aice v. State, this Court interpreted section 17-27-90 to forbid "a successive PCR application unless an applicant can point to a 'sufficient reason' why the new grounds for relief he asserts were not raised, or were not raised properly." Aice v. State, 305 S.C. 448, 450, 409 S.E.2d 392, 394 (1991). The Court in Aice acknowledged that there may be "unique" circumstances,<sup>11</sup> where a PCR counsel's assistance could be challenged in a successive application. Id. at 451, 409 S.E.2d at 394. However, the Court expressly held "the contention that prior PCR counsel was ineffective is not per se a 'sufficient reason' allowing for a successive PCR application under § 17-27-90." Id.

---

<sup>11</sup> See, e.g., Washington v. State, 324 S.C. 232, 478 S.E.2d 833 (1996) (permitting successive PCR application where multiple procedural irregularities, including the denial of a direct appeal, prohibited applicant the benefit of due process); Carter v. State, 293 S.C. 528, 362 S.E.2d 20 (1987) (authorizing a successive PCR

Despite the express holding in Aice, Petitioner argues that Martinez excuses the procedural bar of section 17-27-90. In Martinez, the "precise question" addressed by the United States Supreme Court ("USSC") was "whether ineffective assistance in an initial-review collateral proceeding on a claim of ineffective assistance at trial may provide cause for a procedural default in a federal habeas proceeding." Martinez, 132 S. Ct. at 1315. The USSC answered this question by holding that:

[w]here, under state law, claims of ineffective assistance of trial counsel must be raised in an initial-review collateral proceeding, a procedural default will not bar a federal habeas court from hearing a substantial claim of ineffective assistance at trial if, in the initial-review collateral proceeding, there was no counsel or counsel in that proceeding was ineffective.

Id. at 1320. In reaching this conclusion, the USSC recognized that federal habeas courts reviewing the constitutionality of a state prisoner's conviction and sentence are governed by rules designed to ensure that state-court judgments are accorded finality and respect necessary to preserve the integrity of legal proceedings within the system of federalism, including the doctrine of procedural default. Id. at 1316.

The USSC explained:

Allowing a federal habeas court to hear a claim of ineffective assistance of trial counsel when an attorney's errors (or the absence of an attorney) caused a procedural default in an initial-review collateral proceeding acknowledges, as an equitable matter, that the initial-review collateral proceeding, if undertaken without counsel or with ineffective counsel, may not have been sufficient to ensure that proper consideration was given to a substantial claim. From this it follows application where the applicant did not have PCR counsel that differed from his trial counsel); Case v. State, 277 S.C. 474, 289 S.E.2d 413 (1982) (allowing a successive PCR application where applicant's first PCR application was dismissed without assistance of legal counsel and without a hearing).

---

that, when a State requires a prisoner to raise an ineffective-assistance-of-trial-counsel claim in a collateral proceeding, a prisoner may establish cause for a default of an ineffective-assistance claim in two circumstances. The first is where the state courts did not appoint counsel in the initial-review collateral proceeding for a claim of ineffective assistance at trial. The second is where appointed counsel in the initial-review collateral proceeding, where the claim should have been raised, was ineffective under the standards of Strickland v. Washington, 466 U.S. 668, 104 S. Ct. 2052, 80 L. Ed. 2d 674 (1984). To overcome the default, a prisoner must also demonstrate that the underlying ineffective-assistance-of-trial-counsel claim is a substantial one, which is to say that the prisoner must demonstrate that the claim has some merit. Cf. Miller-El v. Cockrell, 537 U.S. 322, 123 S. Ct. 1029, 154 L.Ed. 2d 931 (2003) (describing standards for certificates of appealability to issue).

Id. at 1318-19.

One year after Martinez was decided, this Court explicitly stated that "the holding in Martinez is limited to federal habeas corpus review and is not applicable to state post-conviction relief actions." Kelly v. State, 404 S.C. 365, 365, 745 S.E.2d 377, 377 (2013).

Appellate courts have continued to adhere to this Court's holding in Kelly. See, e.g., Salter v. State, 184 So. 3d 944 (Miss. Ct. App. 2015) (discussing Kelly and holding that Martinez does not apply to Mississippi PCR proceedings), cert. denied, 185 So. 3d 385 (Miss. 2016); Brown v. McDaniel, 331 P.3d 867, 871-72 (Nev. 2014) (citing Kelly and declining to alter Nevada PCR procedures based on Martinez). Significantly, courts from other jurisdictions have also extended the holding in Kelly to encompass capital PCR proceedings. See State v. Hessler, 850 N.W.2d 777, 786 (Neb. 2014) (citing Kelly and concluding in a capital PCR case that "[n]othing in Martinez prevents state courts from enforcing procedural defaults in accordance with state law").

We find that Petitioner has offered no legitimate legal or policy reason to depart from our holding in Kelly. Notably, Petitioner has never moved to argue against precedent. Moreover, because the PCR Act is a legislatively created scheme, any post-Martinez change to PCR proceedings must be instituted by the Legislature. See Brown, 331 P.3d at 875 ("Whether or how a rule similar to that adopted in Martinez should be adopted in state post-conviction proceedings is a matter of policy and lies in the hands of the Legislature."); Hessler, 850 N.W.2d at 787 (declining to extend Martinez to state court PCR proceedings and noting that it was for the Legislature to determine the consequences of Martinez). Accordingly, we hold that Martinez does not afford Petitioner a right to file a successive PCR application by merely alleging ineffective assistance of prior PCR counsel.

However, Petitioner's 2011 Application also alleged, as a separate and distinct ground not addressed by Aice,<sup>12</sup> that prior PCR counsel were not qualified under section 17-27-160(B). We conclude Petitioner's allegation that he was denied a state-created right to qualified counsel constitutes a "sufficient reason" to permit a successive PCR application under section 17-27-90.<sup>13</sup> Furthermore, we find that Petitioner's 2011 Application was filed within the one-year statute of limitations provided by section 17-27-45 as prior PCR counsel's alleged lack of qualification was not discovered until federal counsel was appointed in 2011. Contrary to the State's position, we find Petitioner did not waive his challenge to counsel's lack of qualification by failing to raise this issue during the 2006 PCR proceeding. We believe it is unreasonable to think that an indigent PCR applicant,

---

<sup>12</sup> The dissent cites Aice to support its position that Petitioner's application is impermissibly successive. The dissent's reliance on Aice is misplaced as this case was decided by this Court in 1991 before the Legislature identified the qualifications for capital PCR counsel in 1996.

<sup>13</sup> The dissent disagrees that Petitioner's allegation he was denied a state-created right to qualified counsel constitutes a "sufficient reason" to permit a successive PCR application under section 17-27-90. Instead, the dissent characterizes Petitioner's challenge to his capital PCR counsel's qualifications as "merely" a "routine ineffectiveness argument." We question how Petitioner's challenge could be "routine" as his allegation is based on a distinct statute that is only applicable to capital PCR applicants. Further, the dissent cites no authority for its position but, rather, acknowledges cases where this Court permitted a successive application. Finally, the dissent claims a petition brought pursuant to Butler v. State, 302 S.C. 466, 397 S.E.2d 87 (1990) is adequate to address Petitioner's challenge. While the dissent may believe a Butler petition is the "ultimate safety net," it seems nonsensical to require a capital PCR applicant to exhaust all state and federal relief with the assistance of counsel who may ultimately be found unqualified. In the interest of judicial economy and fundamental fairness, we believe an allegation that capital PCR counsel is unqualified should be resolved at the earliest point in the proceedings and not after an applicant has exhausted all permitted relief.

who relies on the State to appoint qualified counsel, would have the knowledge to question counsel's qualifications at the onset of the proceeding.

Having determined that Petitioner's 2011 Application was procedurally proper, we must next construe section 17-27-160(B) and identify the requisite qualifications for capital PCR counsel.

C. Statutorily Mandated Qualifications for Capital PCR Counsel

In 1996, Congress passed the Antiterrorism and Effective Death Penalty Act of 1996 ("AEDPA"). See Pub. L. No. 104-132 (1996). In the AEDPA, "Congress provided streamlined federal habeas procedures to those states that maintain mechanisms for the mandatory appointment and compensation of competent counsel during state postconviction proceedings." Celestine Richards McConville, The Right to Effective Assistance of Capital Postconviction Counsel: Constitutional Implications of Statutory Grants of Capital Counsel, 2003 Wis. L. Rev. 31, 35 (2003) (footnote omitted). "By this act, Congress chose to restrict federal habeas corpus review in exchange for the states[] appointing competent counsel for indigent capital defendants for purposes of state postconviction review." Lee v. State, 238 S.W.3d 52, 56 (Ark. 2006) (citing Burke W. Kappler, Small Favors: Chapter 154 of the Antiterrorism and Effective Death Penalty Act, the States, and the Right to Counsel, 90 J. Crim. L. & Criminology 467, 469 (2000)).

In response, the majority of death-penalty states addressed issues relating to capital PCR counsel. McConville, supra, at 35. South Carolina, one of ten states, "amended their rules to provide a mandatory right to counsel for capital defendants at the state postconviction stage." Id. In 1996, the South Carolina Legislature enacted the "South Carolina Effective Death Penalty Act of 1996." Act No. 448, 1996 S.C. Acts 2709, 2712-14. As a provision in this Act, the Legislature included section 17-27-160 to provide, in part, for "the appointment and compensation of counsel" in capital PCR proceedings. Id.

Taking into account the express purpose of section 17-27-160, we find the Legislature intended for an indigent capital defendant to be appointed counsel who: (1) has previous experience representing a capital defendant in state or federal PCR proceedings, or (2) was qualified to try a capital case and successfully completed at least twelve hours of South Carolina Bar approved (a) CLE specifically involving capital appellate or capital PCR proceedings or (b) professional training specifically involving capital appellate or capital PCR proceedings. See fn.6, supra. Simply stated, at least one attorney appointed pursuant to section 17-27-160(B) must have either (1) prior experience in capital PCR proceedings, or (2) capital trial experience and capital PCR training or education.

Furthermore, given the inclusion of section 17-27-160 in the South Carolina Effective Death Penalty Act of 1996 and specific designation as providing procedures for capital PCR, we find this construction comports with the intent of the Legislature for appointed counsel to be proficient in capital PCR proceedings and not just capital trial proceedings. See Charleston Cnty. Sch. Dist. v. State Budget & Control Bd., 313 S.C. 1, 5, 437 S.E.2d 6, 8 (1993) ("The cardinal rule of statutory construction is to ascertain and effectuate the intent of the legislature."); S.C. State Ports Auth. v. Jasper Cnty., 368 S.C. 388, 398, 629 S.E.2d 624, 629 (2006) (stating that "the statute must be read as a whole and sections which are a part of the same general statutory law must be construed together and each one given effect").

D. Application to the Instant Case

Based on our construction of section 17-27-160(B), we find the PCR judge erred in ruling that compliance with section 17-27-160(B) only required capital PCR counsel to have capital trial experience. Moreover, we agree with Petitioner that the PCR judge erred in summarily dismissing the 2011 Application because there was a genuine issue of fact as to whether prior PCR counsel met the qualifications of section 17-27-160(B).

Summary dismissal of a PCR application without a hearing is appropriate only when (1) it is apparent on the face of the application that there is no need for a hearing to develop any facts, and (2) the applicant is not entitled to relief. S.C. Code Ann. § 17-27-70(b), (c) (2014). "When considering the State's motion for summary dismissal, where no evidentiary hearing has been held, the PCR judge must assume facts presented by the applicant are true and view those facts in the light most favorable to the applicant." McCoy v. State, 401 S.C. 363, 369, 737 S.E.2d 623, 626 (2013). "Similarly, when reviewing the propriety of a dismissal, this Court must view the facts in the same fashion." Leamon v. State, 363 S.C. 432, 434, 611 S.E.2d 494, 495 (2005).

"Where an applicant alleges facts that would establish an exception to either the statute of limitations or the prohibition against successive PCR applications and those facts are not conclusively refuted by the record before the PCR court, a question of fact is raised which can only be resolved by a hearing." McCoy, 401 S.C. at 369, 737 S.E.2d at 626.

Here, Petitioner offered affidavits confirming that neither Brown nor Matlock were qualified as capital PCR counsel. Petitioner also notes that Judge Few's summary order of September 9, 2005, appointing Brown as counsel, contained no reference to section 17-27-160 or a finding that counsel was qualified. In contrast, the State maintains that Judge Few conducted a hearing on September 23, 2005 during which he confirmed the appointment of Brown. Both parties agree that there is no tape or transcript of the September 23, 2005 hearing.

Because the parties offered conflicting evidence as to whether Petitioner's prior PCR counsel met the requisite qualifications, the PCR judge erred in dismissing the 2011 Application without a hearing. Consequently, we remand for a determination of whether prior PCR counsel were statutorily qualified. See Lee v. State, 238 S.W.3d 52 (Ark. 2006) (remanding for circuit court to conduct further proceedings where capital PCR counsel, who admitted to being impaired by alcohol during capital PCR proceeding, may not have met the specific qualifications set forth in state rule providing for the appointment of counsel).

In the event that prior PCR counsel are deemed unqualified under section 17-27-160(B), the judge must decide the appropriate remedy. Because we have yet to enunciate how this remedy is to be determined, we take this opportunity to do so.

E. Remedy for Lack of Qualified Counsel

Although we have researched other states that have qualification statutes or rules similar to section 17-27-160(B), we have been unable to find a case that sets forth a test for non-compliance. However, based on our reading of Martinez, we find the Strickland<sup>14</sup> test is appropriate and should be applied to evaluate this type of case. See Martinez, 132 S. Ct. at 1318 (recognizing that effectiveness of counsel, who represented defendant in an initial-review collateral proceeding, should be evaluated under the standards of Strickland).<sup>15</sup>

---

<sup>14</sup> In Strickland, the USSC enunciated a two-pronged test to establish ineffective assistance of counsel by which a PCR applicant must show (1) counsel's performance was deficient, and (2) the deficient performance prejudiced the defendant. Strickland v. Washington, 466 U.S. 668, 687 (1984). Under the second prong, the PCR applicant "must show that there is a reasonable probability that, but for counsel's unprofessional errors, the result of the proceeding would have been different." Id. at 694.

Applying the Strickland test, we conclude that non-compliance with section 17-27-160(B) constitutes deficient performance per se. To rule otherwise, we believe would render meaningless the Legislature's intent to have qualified counsel appointed to capital PCR applicants. See Tucker v. Catoe, 221 F.3d 600, 604-05 (4th Cir. 2000) (evaluating the State's failure to comply with section 17-27-160 and stating, "We accordingly conclude that a state must not only enact a 'mechanism' and standards for post-conviction review counsel, but those mechanisms and standards must in fact be complied with before the state may invoke the time limitations of U.S.C. § 2263" (emphasis added)).<sup>16</sup> Nevertheless, a PCR applicant would still maintain the significant burden of proving that he was prejudiced by counsel's lack of qualification.

---

<sup>15</sup> See also Tucker v. Moore, 56 F. Supp. 2d 611 (D.S.C. 1999) (holding that State's failure to follow section 17-27-160 is not a violation of an applicant's constitutional rights because the rights granted under that statute, if not given, do not penalize the applicant), aff'd, 221 F.3d 600 (4th Cir. 2000), cert. denied, 531 U.S. 1054 (2000); Aeschliman v. State, 973 P.2d 749 (Idaho Ct. App. 1999) (recognizing that trial counsel's lack of qualifications under the ABA Guidelines for the Appointment and Performance of Counsel in Death Penalty Case did not constitute ineffective assistance of counsel per se; concluding that applicant must allege specific instances where trial counsel fell short of an objective standard of reasonableness); State v. Misch, 656 N.E.2d 381 (Ohio Ct. App. 1995) (finding that lack of certification of defense counsel as experienced in capital cases under court rules does not automatically create a presumption that trial counsel has not provided effective assistance of counsel; recognizing that the effectiveness of counsel not qualified under court rule must be judged under the Strickland standard); State v. Maletta, 781 P.2d 350, 354 (Or. Ct. App. 1989) (concluding that no legitimate policy is served by dismissal of a charge where trial counsel in a capital case was not qualified under a state statute if the defendant was not prejudiced; noting that "adequacy of counsel is measured by performance, not credentials").

<sup>16</sup> Also, by analogy, a violation of a statute in a civil proceeding constitutes negligence per se. See Fairchild v. S.C. Dep't of Transp., 398 S.C. 90, 727 S.E.2d 407 (2012) (recognizing that the violation of an applicable statute constitutes negligence per se).

III. Conclusion

Despite this Court's express ruling in Kelly, Petitioner seeks to have the Court create a state remedy that is the equivalent of the federal remedy established by Martinez. We decline to do so. Instead, we reaffirm Kelly and extend its holding to encompass capital PCR cases. However, we conclude that Petitioner's allegation that prior PCR counsel were unqualified is not foreclosed by Aice or its progeny and constitutes a "sufficient reason" to avoid the prohibition of section 17-27-90 against successive PCR applications. Furthermore, we find that Petitioner's 2011 Application was filed within the one-year statute of limitations provided by section 17-27-45 as prior PCR counsel's alleged lack of qualification was not discovered until federal counsel was appointed in 2011. Additionally, we hold that the PCR judge erroneously construed section 17-27-160(B) as we conclude that at least one attorney appointed pursuant to this code section must have either (1) prior experience in capital PCR proceedings, or (2) capital trial experience and capital PCR training or education.

Because there is a genuine issue of fact as to whether prior PCR counsel were statutorily qualified, Petitioner should be afforded a hearing on this limited issue. Cf. McCoy, 401 S.C. at 370, 737 S.E.2d at 627 ("Although Petitioner's PCR claim may ultimately prove to be untimely, successive, or perhaps unsuccessful on the merits, the PCR judge erred in granting the State's motion for summary dismissal because genuine issues of material fact exist as to whether Petitioner's PCR claim is successive or untimely."). If prior PCR counsel are deemed unqualified and, as a result, deficient, the PCR judge must make a determination whether under Strickland, Petitioner was prejudiced. Accordingly, we reverse the PCR judge's order and remand the matter for a hearing.

REVERSED AND REMANDED.

KITTREDGE and HEARN, JJ., concur. PLEICONES, C.J., concurring in part and dissenting in part in a separate opinion. Acting Justice Jean H. Toal, dissenting in a separate opinion.

CHIEF JUSTICE PLEICONES: I concur in part and dissent in part. I agree with the majority's analysis of the Martinez issue and concur in its analysis<sup>17</sup> of S.C. Code Ann. § 17-27-160(B) (2014).

I disagree, however, that a capital PCR applicant must demonstrate Strickland<sup>18</sup> prejudice in order to be entitled to relief for a statutory violation of § 17-27-160(B). In 1991, a majority of the Court abolished the doctrine of in favorem vitae which required the Court to search the record in a capital appeal for legal error. State v. Torrence, 305 S.C. 45, 406 S.E.2d 315 (1991). The abolition of this common law doctrine was justified in large part because of the protections afforded by the Uniform Post-Conviction Procedure Act. That PCR is a poor substitute for in favorem review, however, was made explicit in Franklin v. Catoe, 346 S.C. 563, 552 S.E.2d 718 (2001). In Franklin, the capital PCR applicant contended trial counsel were ineffective in failing to inform him of his statutory right to argue to the jury in the guilt phase of his trial. The Franklin majority acknowledged that the applicant had been denied this statutory right, and that prior to the abolition of in favorem, this error would have warranted a new trial. The majority held, however, that with PCR "replacing" in favorem review, a capital PCR applicant now bore the burden of proving not only error, but also constitutional prejudice. I dissented, and wrote:

In my opinion, we must honor the General Assembly's prerogative to establish the procedural safeguards which it deems necessary to the fair administration of the death penalty. Where the legislature has prescribed a departure from the procedures observed in "ordinary" criminal trials, those deviations should be scrupulously honored. I would thus not engage in a prejudice analysis where the undisputed facts do not demonstrate a conscious waiver or strategic decision to forego one of the special protections mandated by the capital statutes.

Franklin v. Catoe, supra, Pleicones, J., dissenting.

---

<sup>17</sup>I would simply add that where the attorney seeks to be qualified by virtue of training or CLE, that education must have been accomplished within the two years preceding the appointment.

<sup>18</sup>Strickland v. Washington, 466 U.S. 668 (1984).

Based upon my view of the Court's obligation to enforce statutes governing special procedures in capital proceedings, including those mandating the qualifications of attorneys, and based upon the assurances made in Torrence that "[O]ther mechanisms of protection and of relief have now been created for the [capital] defendant which safeguard [him] and render the protections afforded by in favorem vitae surplusage,"<sup>19</sup> I would hold that a capital PCR applicant must be appointed counsel who meet the qualifications set forth in § 17-27-160(B). If upon remand it is determined that Petitioner was not represented by statutorily qualified counsel, then in my view the appropriate remedy is a new PCR proceeding in which he is represented by such counsel.

For the reasons given above, I concur in part and dissent in part.

---

<sup>19</sup> State v. Torrence, 305 S.C. 45, 61, 406 S.E.2d 315, 324 (1991).

ACTING JUSTICE TOAL: I respectfully dissent. I would affirm the post-conviction relief (PCR) court's dismissal of Petitioner's second PCR application because Petitioner's allegation of ineffectiveness does not justify the filing of an untimely, successive PCR application. Further, I disagree with the majority's interpretation of section 17-27-160(B) of the South Carolina Code<sup>20</sup> and would find that an attorney who is qualified to represent a capital defendant at trial is likewise qualified to represent a capital defendant in PCR proceedings.

A. Successive Application

First, I would find that Petitioner has not set forth sufficient reasons in his application to overcome the prohibition against successive PCR applications. See S.C. Code Ann. § 17-27-90 (2014) ("Any ground finally adjudicated or not so raised, or knowingly, voluntarily and intelligently waived in the proceeding that resulted in the conviction or sentence or in any other proceeding the applicant has taken to secure relief, may not be the basis for a subsequent application, unless the court finds a ground for relief asserted which for sufficient reason was not asserted or was inadequately raised in the original, supplemental or amended application."); Aice v. State, 305 S.C. 448, 450, 409 S.E.2d 392, 394 (1991) (interpreting section 17-27-90 to prohibit "a successive PCR application unless an applicant can point to a 'sufficient reason' why the new grounds for relief he asserts were not raised, or were not raised properly").

While I agree with the majority that Petitioner should not be afforded review pursuant to Martinez,<sup>21</sup> and that Kelly<sup>22</sup> should be extended to capital PCR cases, I disagree with the majority's holding that applications containing allegations

---

<sup>20</sup> Section 17-27-160(B) requires the appointment of two attorneys in a PCR capital case, of which one attorney "must have previously represented a death-sentenced inmate in state or federal post-conviction relief proceedings or (1) must meet the minimum qualifications set forth in [s]ection 16-3-26(B) and [s]ection 16-3-26(F) and (2) have successively completed, within the previous two years, not less than twelve hours of South Carolina Bar approved continuing legal education or professional training primarily involving advocacy in the field of capital appellate and/or post-conviction defense."

<sup>21</sup> Martinez v. Ryan, 132 S. Ct. 1309 (2012).

<sup>22</sup> Kelly v. State, 404 S.C. 365, 745 S.E.2d 377 (2013).

regarding compliance with section 17-27-160(B) warrant automatic review of an otherwise successive application. See Aice, 305 S.C. at 451, 409 S.E.2d at 394 ([T]he contention that prior PCR counsel was ineffective is not per se a 'sufficient reason' allowing for a successive PCR application under § 17-27-90."). Even though Petitioner is challenging his PCR counsel's qualifications, he is merely asserting a routine ineffectiveness argument, which does not constitute a "sufficient reason" why the new grounds for relief he asserts were not raised, or were not raised properly. But see Washington v. State, 324 S.C. 232, 478 S.E.2d 833 (1996) (permitting a successive application where multiple procedural irregularities prohibited the applicant from receiving a direct appeal); Carter v. State, 293 S.C. 528, 362 S.E.2d 20 (1987) (permitting a successive application where trial counsel also served as PCR counsel); Case v. State, 277 S.C. 474, 289 S.E.2d 413 (1982) (permitting a successive application where a pro se PCR application was dismissed without a hearing).<sup>23</sup> I am hesitant to create another tier of review in an already thorough process when procedures exist to deal with successive (but meritorious) claims that may have slipped through the cracks of the normal review process.

B. Interpretation of Section 17-27-160(B)

Moreover, I disagree with the majority's interpretation of section 17-27-160(B). Since 2003, counsel has been held to be qualified to represent a capital PCR applicant if counsel is qualified to represent a capital defendant at trial<sup>24</sup> and has completed the continuing legal education requirements. See Re Appointment of Counsel in Capital Post-Conviction Relief Matters, dated August 15, 2003, found at <http://www.sccourts.org/whatsnew/displaywhatsnew.cfm?indexID=165>. I see no reason to depart from this interpretation now. In my opinion, the sound

---

<sup>23</sup> Moreover, there is still the ultimate safety net provided by Butler petitions in cases in which a PCR applicant has exhausted all permitted relief but "where there has been a violation, which, in the setting, constitutes a denial of fundamental fairness shocking to the universal sense of justice." Butler v. State, 302 S.C. 466, 468, 397 S.E.2d 87, 88 (1990) (internal quotation marks omitted) (citation omitted); McWee v. State, 357 S.C. 403, 414, 593 S.E.2d 456, 461 (2004) (Pleicones, J., dissenting) (explaining a Butler petition provides the Court with "a final opportunity to review the fundamental fairness of a criminal proceeding").

<sup>24</sup> An attorney is qualified to represent a capital defendant at trial if he or she has at least five years' experience as a licensed attorney and at least three years' experience in the actual trial of felony cases. See S.C. Code Ann. § 16-3-26(B) (2015); Rule 421(b), SCACR.

reasoning underlying that interpretation still holds true, and the adoption of the majority's interpretation of the statute would lead to the illogical result that an attorney meeting the qualifications to defend a capital defendant at trial may not be qualified to defend him in PCR proceedings. Id.

C. Conclusion

For these reasons, I would affirm the decision of the PCR court.

The Supreme Court of South Carolina

DANIEL E. SHEAROUSE
CLERK OF COURT

BRENDA F. SHEALY
CHIEF DEPUTY CLERK

POST OFFICE BOX 11330
COLUMBIA, SOUTH CAROLINA
29211

1231 GERVAIS STREET
COLUMBIA, SOUTH CAROLINA 29201

TELEPHONE: (803) 734-1080

FAX: (803) 734-1489

www.sccourts.org

December 30, 2016

The Honorable David Hamilton
Clerk of Court, York County
PO Box 649
York SC 29745-0649

REMITTITUR

Re: James D. Robertson v. State
Lower Court Case No. 2011-CP-46-00072
Appellate Case No. 2012-205909

Dear Clerk of Court:

The above referenced matter is hereby remitted to the lower court or tribunal. A copy of the judgment of this Court is enclosed.

Very truly yours,

CHIEF DEPUTY CLERK

cc:

W. Edgar Salter, III, Esquire
Emily C. Paavola, Esquire
Donald J. Zelenka, Esquire
Keir M. Weyble, Esquire
The Honorable Lee S. Alford

The Supreme Court of South Carolina

James D. Robertson,                      Petitioner

v.

State of South Carolina,                      Respondent.

---

ORDER

---

Petitioner was convicted of murder, armed robbery, and credit card fraud. He was sentenced to death for each murder, thirty years for armed robbery, and one year for credit card fraud. After a determination of his competency, petitioner waived his right to a direct appeal. This Court conducted a proportionality review and dismissed the appeal.

Petitioner filed an application for post-conviction relief (PCR), which was denied. This Court denied his petition for a writ of certiorari in October 2010.

Petitioner filed a petition for a writ of habeas corpus in federal court; however, he has moved to stay that action and hold it in abeyance so that he can once again pursue PCR in state court.

In January 2011, petitioner filed a PCR application with Judge

Alford, as resident judge in the sixteenth circuit because Judge Hayes, who is the Chief Administrative Judge in the circuit, presided over petitioner's trial. The State filed a return and motion to dismiss, arguing the application should be summarily dismissed for a number of reasons. However, no action has been taken in the case because it is the position of petitioner's counsel that this Court must assign a circuit court judge to the case. The State has sent a letter to the Clerk of Court asking this Court for guidance as to whether the Court must appoint a circuit court judge to hear the case and if so, to appoint a judge to the case.

The Honorable Lee S. Alford is hereby assigned to the PCR action petitioner has filed. Judge Alford shall retain jurisdiction over this case regardless of where he may be assigned to hold court and may schedule such hearings as may be necessary at any time without regard to whether there is a term of court scheduled.

If the application is not summarily dismissed, Judge Alford shall, within sixty days of the date of the order denying the State's motion, issue a scheduling order setting forth the schedule that shall be followed in this matter, including the date of the hearing on the merits. The scheduling order may be amended as necessary. A copy of the scheduling order and any amended scheduling order shall be provided to counsel, this Court and Court Administration.

In addition to petitioner's obligation to notify the Clerk of this Court of the status of this matter every sixty days under In re Stays of Execution in Capital Cases, 321 S.C. 544, 471 S.E.2d 140 (1996), Judge Alford is requested to provide the Clerk of this Court and Court Administration with an update on the status of this matter every one hundred and twenty days.

IT IS SO ORDERED.

J.

FOR THE COURT

Columbia, South Carolina

May 31, 2011