Appellate Case No 2014-000764

Dear Mr. Shearouse;

It has been almost 17 MONTHS since the Supreme Court heard the oral arguments in my case, and still no word on a ruling or on the bond petition! I know you are tired of hearing from me, but there have been 43 Wednesdays in 2017, and ONLY 18 rulings to date on criminal cases.

I can't imagine the court's backlog, it must be growing significantly each week. I would think the court would want to dispose of the other cases at the very least.

According to code 1976 18-9-290, "The Justices of the Supreme Court shall file their decisions within 60 days from the last day of the court term at which cases were heard." Obviously this time limit has long passed in my case. Does this code not apply?

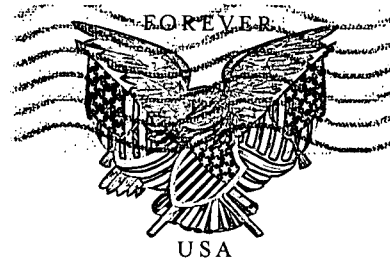

Thank you for your time and understanding and any information you can give in helping me understand this code and what it is not being followed if applicable. Please understand that Branch was quite certain we would have had a decision by the end of LAST YEAR - yet it looks dubious that I'll have one this year.

Thanks
Stephanie J. Greene
