

In The South Carolina Supreme Court

RECEIVED

Appeal from South Carolina Court of Appeals

OCT 26 2017

Mamie Jackson

v.

Clerk of Court of S.C. Court of Appeals Jennie Kitching

In the Case of Mamie Jackson,

Richland County Deputy P. Wilkes

Hanyan Fin et al 14-CP-40-7467

I, Mamie did go to the Court of Appeals to view two cases active on appeal to the S.C. Court of Appeals. The Clerk of Court had the file file one instance and the Clerk was out to lunch on 10/24/17 when I came.

The Clerk of Court came to the desk after the receptionist told me that both cases had been remitted. The certificate of service was filed 10/25/17.

The Clerk came and said the files were unavailable and then stated that I could see the files 10/30/17. I stated that the issue was time sensitive and that I had been trying to view the files for some time. She called a security guard. I took that as a threat to my safety. I asked for the Duty Judge for the Court of Appeals. She refused. I stated that should be a decision for the Judge.

This case is a challenge to the law that an order must be filed with an appeal. The Attorney General Wilson was properly served.

Request that the Court order the Clerk of the Court of Appeals to treat the case as all other cases that are filed, recall the remittor and proceed according to law.
