Comes Now, the Appellant, Alexander Pastene, on this 5th day of March, 2018, and informs this Honorable Court that he is complying with the Court's Order of 02/28/2018, by striking all of the items listed therein from his designation of matter.

Notwithstanding, please observe that had the Respondent left his new address with the Easley Post Office or advised them of his move —Respondent admitted having an office at the Easley location at that time, see his statement during the hearing of September 16, 2015, Transcript by Vivian Cross, Page 12, lines 14, 15— it goes without saying that the Post Office would've automatically forwarded the Appellant's mail to the Respondent, and timely delivered.

Wherefore, the Defendant had no valid excuse ab initio to blame the Appellant, for a default that never existed, and subsequently bringing up a false claim for defamation, while purposely dragging the instant case unnecessarily for the last 5 years, evidently in an effort to avoid arguing the merits and paying his debt to the Appellant.

Respectfully submitted,

Signed:
Alexander Pastene, Pro se
Appellant
