CERTIFICATE OF COUNSEL

Counsel for petitioner certifies that the Petition for Rehearing was made and finally ruled on by the Court of Appeals on March 22, 2018.

QUESTIONS PRESENTED

1. Whether the jury should have been permitted to hear testimony that the preparer of the deed at issue had been disbarred, where Petitioner contended that the former attorney had rendered incorrect advice to the deceased.

2. Whether a fiduciary or confidential relationship existed as a matter of law, such, as raised in the motion for a directed verdict, that the question should not have been given to the jury as a question of fact.

3. Whether, contrary to the holding of the Court of Appeals, the motion for a directed verdict preserves the issue for appellate review.

4. Whether the plaintiff was entitled to a directed verdict, or judgment notwithstanding the verdict, as the evidence showed that the donee of the deed was in a confidential relationship with the plaintiff, as her daughter upon whom she relied and the holder of a power of attorney, plaintiff was influenced by her old age, hearing and eyesight, disabilities, and threats of living alone, so that a presumption of undue influence arose and was not rebutted as a matter of law.

STATEMENT OF THE CASE

In a complaint filed on or about May 25, 2012, Plaintiff, Ms. Mamie F. Nichols ("Ms. Nichols") brought this action to Set Aside Deed for Unilateral Mistake, Set Aside Deed for Undue Influence and to Set Aside Deed for Lack of Consideration. Defendants filed an answer and counterclaim on July 5, 2012. Plaintiff filed a reply on August 3, 2012.

On August 03, 2012, Plaintiff also filed a Motion for Summary Judgment on the Second Cause of Action of Undue Influence. Counsel for Defendants, Demal Mattson was granted two continuances to respond to Plaintiff's motion, once on November 16, 2012 and February 15, 2013. On March 4, 2013, Defense counsel responded to the motion and filed a cross-motion to amend the answer.

Following oral argument on March 13, 2013, Judge Nicholson denied Plaintiff s motion, finding genuine issues of material facts for a jury.

On May 10, 2013, Plaintiff sought leave to file an amended complaint. By order filed June 5, 2013, leave to file amended pleadings was granted. An amended complaint was filed on June 20, 2013. The answer and amended counterclaim was filed on July 3, 2013.

Defendants then made a motion for summary judgment on January 7, 2014. Plaintiff filed opposition and the reply to the counterclaims on February 27, 2014. The motion was not decided prior to trial.

The matter was then set down for trial before Judge McDonald at the conclusion of which the jury returned a verdict for the defendants on March 7, 2014. A motion for judgment notwithstanding the verdict was denied on July 20, 2015. Plaintiff filed a timely notice of appeal.

Plaintiff filed her final brief. No brief was filed by the defendants.[1] The Court of Appeals affirmed in an unpublished opinion and denied rehearing.

STATEMENT OF FACTS

This litigation concerns real property located at 84 Sheppard Street in Charleston, South Carolina. R. 29, 100. The property was initially owned by the Plaintiff-Appellant Mamie Nichols ("Ms. Nichols"), but later deeded to one of her daughters, Donna Thompson ("Mrs. Thompson" or "Thompson"), on April 22, 2006. R. 127-131. Thompson later died of breast cancer. R. 44, line 19. Ms. Nichols had three other children, Emily Colette Nichols Felder ("Colette Felder"), Allen Nichols and another son, now deceased. R. 62, 100.

The deceased Mrs. Thompson, along with her entire family, namely husband, Albert Napoleon Thompson Jr. ("Al Thompson") and her three children, Thaddeus Thompson ("Thaddeus"), Titus Sherod Thompson ("Titus") and Asia Rachal Thompson ("Asia") resided with her mother, Ms. Nichols. R. 81. Mrs. Thompson's children are her heirs and defendants in this action.

Ms. Nichols is an elderly woman and has a long history of hearing disabilities. R. 64-68. Around the time she conveyed the property to Mrs. Thompson in 2006, she suffered from 71

[1]. In accordance with SCACR 208(4), "Upon the failure of respondent to timely file a brief, the appellate court may take such action as it deems proper." Such action may include reversal. Turner v. Santee Cement Carriers, Inc., 277 S.C. 91, 96, 282 S.E.2d 858, 860 (1981); Robinson v. Hassiotis, 364 S.C. 92, 93 n.2, 610 S.E.2d 858, 859 n.2 (Ct. App. 2005); see also Wierszewski v. Tokarick, 308 S.C. 441, 444 n.2, 418 S.E.2d 557, 559 n.2 (Ct. App. 1992) (stating where respondent failed to file a brief, "it [was] proper to reverse on the points presented rather than to search the record for reasons to affirm."). Cf. Fed.R.App.P. 31(c) ("appellee who fails to file a brief will not be heard at oral argument unless the court grants permission[.]") The Court of Appeals did not take any such action in this case. On the motion for rehearing, counsel submitted opposition, which, it is submitted, should not have been considered and should not be considered by this Court.

decibels of hearing loss, only 19 decibels away from "profound deafness." R. 64. Even with the support of an analog hearing aid, at her level of decibel loss, she would still suffer from speech reception problems. R. 66. Thus, in order to communicate with Ms. Nichols, her daughter would occasionally write her letters. R. 107-110.

In 2006, Ms. Nichols also suffered from diminished mental capacity and eyesight, although not incapacitated. R. 59-60. Mrs. Thompson's husband had a long-standing criminal history and a very prevalent substance abuse issue. R. 61, line 4, R. 63, lines 16-20. When the husband would reside with his wife and Ms. Nichols, the family's relationship would become tumultuous. Id.

On one occasion, shortly before the deed was executed, Ms. Nichols called her other daughter and her husband, who reside in Atlanta, to come to her home because she was having problems with Al Thompson. R. 61-62. There was a physical altercation between Al Thompson and Colette Felder's husband, which led to Al's arrest Id. Al was then prohibited from residing with Ms. Nichols. Id.

In the meantime, Mrs. Thompson hired Russell Brown to advise Ms. Nichols and prepare the documents to effect a transfer of the property. R. 57, lines 13-16, 58, 88. Brown purported to be an attorney, but had been disbarred on consent by order of the Supreme Court. See Matter of Brown, 356 S.C. 10, 587 S.E.2d 110 (2003); Rule 201, SCRE. Soon thereafter, on April 22, 2006, Ms. Nichols conveyed a remainder interest in her property to Mrs. Thompson and her heirs for an amount of five dollars ($5.00), reserving a life estate to herself.. R.57, lines 13-16, R. 58, R. 88. She was almost 81 years old at the time. R. 48, line 20.

After the property was conveyed, Colette Felder, during one of her visits to Charleston, received a copy of a letter written by Mrs. Thompson to their mother suggesting that she would leave Ms. Nichols to live alone if she did not agree to convey interest in the property to her. R. 44-47, 107-110. In the letter, Mrs. Thompson also suggested that Plaintiff seek legal counsel of Russell Brown to draft the conveyance. R. 46-48, 107-110. Ms. Nichols relied on Donna's communication with Mr. Brown rather than communicating with him herself. R. 112-119.

Three days previous to the signing of the deed, on April 19, 2006, Ms. Nichols gave Mrs. Thompson a Power of Attorney over her. R.120-126. Donna sent a letter to Colette Felder prohibiting her from future visitation. R. 52, 111.

ARGUMENT

I. THE JURY SHOULD HAVE BEEN PERMITTED TO HEAR TESTIMONY THAT THE PREPARER OF THE DEED AT ISSUE HAD BEEN DISBARRED SINCE PETITIONER CONTENDED THAT THE FORMER ATTORNEY HAD RENDERED INCORRECT ADVICE TO THE DECEASED

The trial court limited testimony concerning the fact of Russell Brown's disbarment on the grounds of hearsay as well as the impact of that disbarment. R. 53-55, 87-88. Of course, the fact that a witness obtained knowledge through hearsay does not make that knowledge inadmissible. Obviously, one's knowledge of one's date of birth is obtained through hearsay, yet there is no question that one may testify to it. In any event, the disbarment and its date is clearly a matter of which judicial notice may be taken pursuant to Rule 201, SCRE.

There can be no question that Brown was disbarred. Matter of Brown, 356 S.C. 10, 587 S.E.2d 110 (2003) There also can be no question that his preparation of a deed by one who is not an attorney constitutes the unlawful practice of law. See State v. Buyers Service, 292 S.C. 426, 357 S.E.2d 15 (1987). "The attorney's role pursuant to this policy, therefore, is to protect the participants in real estate transactions from the numerous potential problems that may arise. When an attorney is aware of such a potential problem, it is the responsibility of the attorney to ensure that the potential never materializes." Inglese v. Beal, 403 S.C. 290, 296, 742 S.E.2d 687 (S.C. App. 2013).

Since Mrs. Thompson hired Brown and Brown gave Appellant incorrect advice that she relied upon, that testimony should not have been precluded.

Although we have found no case directly on point, we believe that the principles enunciated in Matrix Financial Services Corp. v. Frazer, 394 S.C. 134, 714 S.E.2d 532 (2011) and Wachovia Bank v. Coffey, 389 S.C. 68, 698 S.E.2d 244 (Ct.App.2010) call for that result. In both cases, it was held that engaging in the unlawful practice of law by the plaintiffs precluded the Plaintiffs from obtaining equitable relief in a court of law.

This case involves different facts, the principle should be the same. Mrs. Thompson hired Brown. She was responsible for his actions because she reaped a benefit from his unlawful practice of law. Cf. Keels v. Powell, 207 S.C. 97, 34 S.E.2d 482 (1945) (recognizing action for wrongful interference with an attorney-client relationship). And, Brown gave Plaintiff incorrect advice.

II. THERE WAS NO WAIVER OF THE ISSUE OF THE ERROR IN SUBMITTING THE ISSUE OF CONFIDENTIAL RELATIONSHIP TO THE JURY AS A QUESTION OF FACT SINCE APPELLANT MADE A MOTION FOR A DIRECTED VERDICT

The decision of the Court of Appeals states that Appellant "has waived the issue of submitting the question of the existence of a confidential relationship to the jury" because she did not object to the verdict form or the jury charge. This conflicts with settled law.

In her motion for a directed verdict (and in the motion for summary judgment[2]), Appellant requested, among other things, that there be a finding of a confidential relationship as a matter of law, thus raising a presumption of undue influence. R. 89, 97. 101 ("Donna Thompson maintained communications with Attorney Russell Brown for me."). The trial court "respectfully disagree[d]" and submitted the issue as one of fact to the jury. R. 90

On appeal from a judgment denying a directed verdict or judgment NOV, reversal is required "where there is no evidence to support the rulings or where the rulings are controlled by an error of law." Hinkle v. National Cas. Ins. Co., 354 S.C. 92, 96, 579 S.E.2d 616 (S.C. 2003) (citing Sabb v. South Carolina State Univ., 350 S.C. 416, 567 S.E.2d 231 (2002)) (emphasis added).

The directed verdict preserves the issue for appeal and there is no need to object to the verdict form. See Allegro, Inc. v. Scully, 409 S.C. 392, 413, 762 S.E.2d 54 (S.C. App. 2014). Since no evidence was received following the trial court's ruling, it was "not preliminary, but instead [was] clearly a final ruling, there [was[no need to renew the objection." State v. Kromah, 401 S.C. 340, 352-53, 737 S.E.2d 490, 496 (2013); see State v. Mueller, 319 S.C. 266, 268-69, 460 S.E.2d 409, 410-11 (Ct. App. 1995).

The decision of the Court of Appeals is in conflict with these authorities.

[2]. Appellant agrees that the order denying summary judgment is not reviewable on appeal, Holloman v. McAllister, 289 S.C. 183, 345 S.E.2d 728 (1986), but cites it to show that the argument was consistently raised before the trial court.

III. BECAUSE A FIDUCIARY OR CONFIDENTIAL RELATIONSHIP EXISTED AS A MATTER OF LAW, SUCH, AS RAISED IN THE MOTION FOR A DIRECTED VERDICT, THAT THE QUESTION SHOULD NOT HAVE BEEN GIVEN TO THE JURY AS A QUESTION OF FACT

Once again, in her motion for a directed verdict, and in the motion for summary judgment, Plaintiff requested, among other things, that there be a finding of a confidential relationship as a matter of law, thus raising a presumption of undue influence. R. 89, 97. 101 ("Donna Thompson maintained communications with Attorney Russell Brown for me."). The trial court "respectfully disagree[d]" and submitted the issue as one of fact to the jury. R. 90. This was error.

There is no dispute that three days prior to the signing of the deed, on April 19, 2006, Ms. Nichols gave Mrs. Thompson a Power of Attorney over her. R. 120-126. Power of Attorney. Irrefutable documentary evidence also establishes that Mrs. Thompson also suggested that Plaintiff seek legal counsel of Russell Brown to draft the conveyance. R. 107-110. Letter from Donna Thompson. Ms. Nichols relied on Donna's communication with Mr. Brown rather than communicating with him herself. See R. 112-119.

In accordance with Loftis v. Eck, 288 S.C. 154, 157, 341 S.E.2d 641, 642 (S.C. App. 1986), once a power of attorney is given "a fiduciary relationship exists under such a power of attorney as a matter of law." (Citing S.C. Code Ann. § 32-13-10 recodified at S.C. Code Ann. § 62-5-501). And the fiduciary relationship is not limited to transactions involving the power itself. See In re Estate of Cumbee, 333 S.C. 664, 672-73, 511 S.E.2d 390, 394 (S.C. App. 1999) ("A confidential or fiduciary relationship exists when one imposes a special confidence in another, so that the latter, in equity and good conscience, is bound to act in good faith and with due regard to the interest of the one imposing the confidence.").

"A fiduciary relationship between the grantor and grantee may give rise to a presumption of undue influence, thus shifting the burden of proof to the grantee to rebut the presumption." Hudson v. Leopold, 288 S.C. 194, 196, 341 S.E.2d 137, 138 (1986); see also Middleton v. Suber, 300 S.C. 402, 405, 388 S.E.2d 639, 641 (1990) (recognizing that where a "confidential relationship" exists between a grantor and a grantee, the deed is presumed invalid and the burden is upon the grantee to establish the absence of undue influence); Bullard v. Crawley, 294 S.C. 276, 280-81, 363 S.E.2d 897, 900 (1987) ("Undue influence in the procurement of a deed may be shown in two ways. The party challenging the deed may show the existence of a confidential relationship between the grantor and the grantee. Once a confidential relationship is shown, the deed is presumed invalid. The burden then shifts to the grantee to affirmatively show the absence of undue influence.").

"'A confidential relationship exists between grantor and grantee wherever there is a trust reposed by the former and dominant influence obtained by the latter, irrespective of the formal fiduciary character of their relationship. The existence of a confidential relationship between the parties demands close scrutiny of a deed executed by the subservient grantor and may render it invalid for presumed undue influence when otherwise it would be sustained, although deeds between those in a confidential relationship will be upheld if fair and expressive of the free will of the grantor.'" Page v. Lewis, 209 S.C. 212, 39 S.E.2d 787, 799 (1946) (quoting 26 C.J.S. Deeds § 63).

"Undue influence in the procurement of a deed may be shown in two ways. The party challenging the deed may show the existence of a confidential relationship between the grantor and the grantee. Once a confidential relationship is shown, the deed is presumed invalid. The burden then shifts to the grantee to affirmatively show the absence of undue influence." Bullard v. Crawley, 294 S.C. 276, 280-81, 363 S.E.2d 897, 900 (1987).

Moreover, had Mrs. Thompson employed the power of attorney, there is no question that the deed would have been void. See Loftis v. Eck, 288 S.C. at 156, 341 S.E.2d at 642 ("An agent acting for a principal pursuant to a power of attorney may not make a substantially gratuitous conveyance of the property of the principal to himself unless the power to do so is expressly granted by the instrument itself.") (citing Fender v. Fender, 285 S.C. 260, 329 S.E. 2d 430 (1985)). In Loftis, an almost identical deed was voided on $5.00 consideration. Mrs. Thompson should not be in any better position because she enlisted the assistance of a disbarred attorney to carry out the scheme

If the jury were instructed that Mrs. Thompson was a fiduciary as a matter of law, as effectively requested in the motion for a directed verdict, the jury might very well have come to a different verdict. After all, they could have concluded, albeit erroneously, that, because a fiduciary duty is not implicated from a family relationship by itself, Mrs. Thompson was not in a confidential relationship. The presumption remained in the case, even if contrary evidence was adduced, in accordance with Rule 301, SCRE, which, as the commentators note, is the same as Fed.R.Evid. 301. See Wright & Graham, Federal Practice & Procedure: Evidence § 5126..

IV. PLAINTIFF WAS ENTITLED TO A DIRECTED VERDICT, OR JUDGMENT NOTWITHSTANDING THE VERDICT, AS THE EVIDENCE SHOWED THAT THE DONEE OF THE DEED WAS IN A CONFIDENTIAL RELATIONSHIP WITH THE PLAINTIFF, AS HER DAUGHTER UPON WHOM SHE RELIED AND THE HOLDER OF A POWER OF ATTORNEY, PLAINTIFF WAS INFLUENCED BY HER OLD AGE, HEARING AND EYESIGHT, DISABILITIES, AND THREATS OF LIVING ALONE, SO THAT A PRESUMPTION OF UNDUE INFLUENCE AROSE AND WAS NOT REBUTTED AS A MATTER OF LAW.

Plaintiff established a confidential relationship, thus raising the presumption of undue influence and review of the record shows that there was no evidence rebutting that presumption. Indeed, the evidence confirmed it. Thus, Plaintiff is entitled to judgment as a matter of law.

An action to set aside a deed is a matter in equity. Bullard v. Crawley, 294 S.C. 276, 278, 363 S.E.2d 897, 898 (1987). Generally, on appeal from an equitable action, an appellate court may find facts in accordance with its own view of the evidence. Buffington v. T.O.E. Enter., 383 S.C. 388, 391, 680 S.E.2d 289, 290 (2009). Under the rule set forth in Johnstone v. Matthews, 183 S.C. 360, 366, 191 S.E. 223, 225 (1937), however, where issues of fact in equity cases are tried to a jury and findings of fact are made, they must be sustained if there is any evidence to support them. See North American Rescue Prods., Inc. v. Richardson, 396 S.C. 124, 720 S.E.2d 53 (S.C. App. 2012). Even as to that there is a caveat. Where an advisory jury is impaneled, this Court "review[s] the evidence as if the trial judge sat without a jury and thus find facts in accordance with [its] view of the preponderance of the evidence." Neal v. Darby, 282 S.C. 277, 284, 318 S.E.2d 18 (S.C. App.1984).

Inasmuch as a motion for summary judgment was made and denied, it may be that independent review of the facts. No matter, the verdict cannot stand under either standard. Cf. Neal.

To prove undue influence, it is not necessary to show insanity or a state of mental imbecility. See Zeigler v. Shuler, 87 S.C. 1, 68 S.E. 817, 819(1910). It is only necessary to show that the grantor was susceptible to undue influence as a result of old age, mental weakness, or some other cause. Atkinson v. Belser, 273 S.C. 296, 255 S.E.2d 852, 854 (1979).

Thus, where an aged, weak-minded mother conveyed her property to her son, who she wished to live with her and take care of her, the Court held the mother was unduly influenced. Wille v. Wille, 57 S.C. 413, 35 S.E. 804, 807 (1900). The mother, with little regard for business transactions and without an independent adviser conveyed the property to her son for $5.00. Id. at 804. Said the Court:

> A court of equity ought not to be, and is not, a shield or refuge for those who make improvident, or even reckless, contracts, but it would not deserve respect if it had not both power and willingness to shield an infirm helpless mother from her grasping son, who would take her all for nothing.

Id. at 809.

As discussed above, Plaintiff adduced the following evidence: (1) Mrs. Thompson's letter to Ms. Nichols, influencing her to give her interest in the property and threatening that if she does not, Mrs. Thompson would leave her to live alone, (2) Ms. Nichols was 80 years old at the time the deed was executed; (3) Ms. Nichols was hard of hearing, more specifically, that she was only 19 decibels away from being deaf; (4) Mrs. Thompson's letter to her sister, informing her that she could not visit anymore; (5) Mrs.. Thompson's notes from communications with "Attorney Russell Brown," the disbarred attorney who drafted the deed; (6) testimony from Ms. Nichols's son that Ms. Nichols's health went"downhill" after a vehicular accident; and (7) testimony from Ms. Nichols's son-in-law Mrs. Thompson had been ordered by a South Carolina judge to never bring her husband back to Ms. Nichols' home, thus showing Mrs. Thompson's possible motive to want an interest in the property.

At this point, given that a confidential relationship has been proved and evidence has been provided to show "suspicious circumstances" surrounding the preparation of the deed, there is a presumption of undue influence and the burden then shifted to the Defendants to provide evidence that the deed was not procured by undue influence to rebut the presumption. See Bullard, 294 S.C. at 280.

The defendants did not present any evidence to rebut the presumption of undue influence. First, they offered a Petition for Conservatorship/Guardianship action in Probate Court, purportedly to prove "competence." As anyone in a will contest knows, "competence" and "undue influence" are quite different concepts. One may have "competence" and yet be the subject of "undue influence." Owens v. Sweat, 227 S.C. 112, 86 S.E.2d 886 (S.C.1955) discusses these two concepts in an action to set aside a deed. The concepts are again discussed in Blanford v. Mauterer, 252 S.C. 146, 165 S.E.2d 633 (1969), a will proceeding.

More important, the documents admitted from the Guardianship action did not address the deed or influence and only addressed competence a year after the deed had already been executed. Competence is at issue in this case as the Plaintiff was not trying to prove incapacitation.

Next, the defendants elicited the testimony of Mrs. Thompson's son, who testified that his mother did not discuss the home and business affairs with him and that the deed, power of attorney and medical power of attorney was a result of his mother's concern, not his grandmother's, Ms. Nichols. R. 83-85, Then the defendants called Barbara Gilliard who testified that Ms. Nichols wanted Mrs. Thompson to have the property and that she (Ms. Nichols) would live there until she died. R.69-70. Ms. Gilliard testified that she only talked to her about the property after Mrs. Thompson died. R. 75.

It bears emphasis that Ms. Gilliard testified that Ms. Nichols wanted to distribute all of her properties to all of her children, soon after her husband passed. R.69-70, 73-77. Then, after the death of Mrs. Thompson, also long after 84 Sheppard Street had already been deeded over to her, Ms. Gilliard claims that Ms. Nichols discussed her thoughts concerning 84 Sheppard Street with her for the first time. R. 77-78.

The evidence admitted by Defendants did not address influence at all. Ms. Gilliard admitted that she did not know about the letters from Mrs. Thompson nor did she know that Mrs. Thompson even asked for the property. R. 76.

Significantly, Ms. Gilliard did not testify as to any facts surrounding the execution of the deed or its purpose. Ms. Nichols simply told Ms. Gilliard what she had already done. Thus, because the Defendants did not present any evidence demonstrating Ms. Nichols' intentions, or evidence of communications between Mrs. Thompson and Ms. Nichols they did not refute the presumption of undue influence.

According to South Carolina law, the presumption justifies a judgment for Ms. Nichols as a matter of law since the Defendants did not come forward with evidence to rebut a presumption of undue influence. See Gordon v. Busbee, 397 S.C. 119, 140, 723 S.E.2d 822, 834 (S.C. App. 2012) (In will contest predicated on undue influence, the "presumption justifies a judgment for the contestant as a matter of law only if the proponent does not come forward with evidence to rebut the presumption.").

Not a single inference regarding influence or non-influence could be drawn from Ms. Gilliard's testimony because she did not know and could not testify as to any facts relevant to the procurement of the deed. Because Defendants failed to present evidence to rebut a presumption of undue influence, Plaintiff is entitled to a judgment as a matter of law and a judgment notwithstanding the verdict in accordance with Gordon.

CONCLUSION

For the reasons stated, petitioner asks the Court to grant the petition for a writ of certiorari.
