RE: Barbara B. Clark, et al.
vs.
Fred H. Moore
Appellate Case No. 2012-213391

RECEIVED

DEC 17 2012

SC COURT OF APPEALS

Dear Ms. Kitchings:

I have thoroughly consulted the rules, and I am unaware of any of the Court rules that address the present procedural status of this case. By way of background, on November 6, 2012, this writer filed a Notice of Appeal on behalf of the Appellant relative to the above-referenced matter. Subsequent thereto, on November 21, 2012, this writer received a letter from this Court to address by way of Memorandum the Issue of Appealability of the Order.

Unfortunately, much to my chagrin, I was ill and could not file the Memorandum within the ten (10) day period of time as set mandated by the letter. Therefore, on November 28, 2012, I forwarded to this Court a Motion for Extension of Time in which to file a Memorandum Addressing the Issue of Appealability.

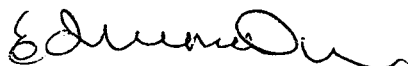

However, in the mean time, the client filed Pro Se and Pro Tem, an Application For An Emergency Stay with this Court on December 5, 2012. While I am persuaded that there is some merit to the Application For An Emergency Stay, I am not sure there is a proper record before this Court from which an adequate ruling can be made. When this Application For An Emergency Stay was made, I was pretty much bed ridden.

There has not been a ruling issued by this Court on my Motion for an Extension of Time in which to address the issue of appealability. I am in a quandary regarding the procedural status of this case. However, while it is my desire to perfect this Appeal in a normal manner and compose the Memorandum to address the issue of appealability, I will proceed in any direction that is mandated by this Court in regards to this Appeal.

Yours very truly,
