Ms. Railing, Please allow this email to document that Respondent does not have any objection to your amending the designations as indicated in your email. Deborah Sheffield

In a message dated 1/8/2013 11:32:07 A.M. Eastern Standard Time, rhondarailing@earthlink.net writes:

Mr. Buyck and Ms. Sheffield:

As you are aware the Record on Appeal in the above matter is due to the SC Court of Appeals on January 9, 2013. In reviewing the Designation of Matter that was submitted on the Appellant's behalf on December 10, 2012, (Appellant's Initial Reply Brief) the following typographical errors were made.

Number 11 reads: as Letter dated October 21, 2010 from Appellant to Judge James

It should read: Letter dated October 21, 2010 from Appellant to Respondent

Number 13 reads as: Letter dated February 3, 2011 from Appellant to Judge James

It should read: Letter dated February 18, 2011 from Appellant to Judge James

Number 13 (should be 14) reads as: E-mail dated February 11, 2011 from Judge James

It should read: 14. E-mail dated February 18, 2011 from Judge James.

I have spoken with Laurie at the Court of Appeals and she stated to me that we can file an amended Designation of matter with the above information with the consent of all parties. If all parties do not consent then we will need to file a Motion in order to have the Designation of Matter for Appellant to be correct.

If you will consent to our amending the typographical errors as outlined above, we would appreciate it if you would send an e-mail consenting to the same –or- faxing us a letter stating that you consent to the amending of the Designation of Matter so I can file the same with the Record on Appeal with the Court of Appeals.

If you have any questions please do not hesitate to contact our office.
