2 know, we have this introductory statement that we give to the
3 jury on the case. And real Gods?

4 MR. MORROW: I'm sorry, Your Honor? Living

5 THE COURT: This introductory statement that we give to
6 the jury before you all start -- on earth?

7 MR. FALK: Yeah. I stand

8 THE COURT: -- I'm going to just give them the one from
9 the civil side of it just because it's a little bit different
10 than the criminal one. If there's any issues in there

11 concerning burden of proof I'll address it accordingly.

12 MR. MORROW: Okay, Your Honor. Be forced

13 THE COURT: Okay. you All?

14 MR. FALK: Okay. All right. Is the jury here? Can you
15 tell them to bring them in? And you

17 the jury.) on the square

18 THE COURT: All right. Good afternoon, ladies and 19 gentlemen. I hope you all had a nice lunch and are ready to 20 proceed this afternoon. As you all come in and out of the 21 courtroom, Mr. Purcell, where are you, sir? All right. And

22 Mr. Hardwick, where are you, sir? Okay. Mr. Purcell, can you

23 switch places with this gentleman at the end here in the blue

THE COURT: That's fine. Any objection to that, Mr.

Morrow?

MR. MORROW: No, nothing, no, Your Honor.

THE COURT: Okay. Very well.

MR. FALK: Thank you.

THE COURT: Anything else?

MR. FALK: Not at this time.

THE COURT: Mr. Morrow, anything else?

MR. MORROW: Your Honor, the State noticed last night in looking over our, our jury charge there was a -- there's an error on page eight. I brought three copies because I didn't have access to, to email, to email a new charge to you, but on page eight of the charge it was, it was listed criminal sexual conduct with a minor in the second degree, and in this case it's assault with intent to commit criminal sexual conduct with a minor second degree.

THE COURT: All right. If you'll give me a copy and Mr. Falk a copy.

MR. MORROW: Thank you, Your Honor.

THE COURT: Thank you. All right. 2:30.

MR. FALK: Thank you.

1 What do you all -- any objections to that?

2 MR. FALK: I love the idea.

3 THE COURT: Mr. Morrow.

4 MR. MORROW: It doesn't bother me, Your Honor.

5 THE COURT: Well, I mean, it gives them the law and kind

6 of lets them at least be thinking about while you're making

7 your arguments, and I just -- I think Judge Cottingham used to

8 do that, and I just -- I tend to like that when they're

9 hearing the last word from you all. Okay?

10 MR. FALK: Just curious, do you notice any more questions

11 or less questions coming back on the law?

12 THE COURT: You know, when I first got on the bench I

13 didn't send the charge back. Then I started sending it back,

14 and then I've stopped again; and it just seems when you don't

15 send it back there are more questions that come back, and I

16 tried a case last -- was it week before last, week before last

17 in Florence, it was an attempted, attempted murder case,

18 wasn't it, ABHAN case. You know, that statute that they have

19 now, I mean, everything, ABHAN, A and B First, A and B Second,

20 A and B third, are all lesser included offenses, and the

21 statute says that, which necessitated I think based upon the

22 facts that came out during the course of the trial required

23 that I charge all of that, and after the third time bringing

24 the jury out and charging them on A and B first or A and --

25 and/or A and B second and third I sent it back. The lawyers

OFF THE RECORD

4 (On the record, October 23, 2018. The following takes
5 place outside the presence of the jury.)

6 THE COURT: All right. Anything before I bring the jury
7 out, Mr. Morrow?

8 MR. MORROW: Nothing from the State, Your Honor.

9 THE COURT: Mr. Falk?

10 MR. FALK: Nothing from the Respondent.

11 THE COURT: What I put in here pursuant to your objection
12 yesterday, Mr. Falk, I'm going to just read -- just listen to 13 this. You had an objection to mental health facility, and I
14 just put in here provided in a secure facility. where

15 MR. FALK: Thank you.

16 THE COURT: That's what the statute says. Okay. Bring
17 me the jury, please.

18 Well, hold on just a second. You're going to rest.
19 You're going to renew your motions. I'm going to recognize
20 you, Mr. Falk.

21 MR. FALK: Yes, sir.

22 THE COURT: You'll rest, renew your motions and we'll go
23 straight into closing arguments. Let me ask you all this
24 question, I kind of started doing this a little bit and that
25 is giving the charge before you do your closing arguments.
