Ms. Kitchings,

I represent the Respondent in the above-referenced appeal. I am reporting to the court that as of mail delivery today (Friday, May 24) I have not received the Record on Appeal that Appellant has represented to the court was mailed to me on Monday, May 20. This is standard operating procedure for the pro se Appellant. He is no doubt baiting me to ask for an extension for filing my final brief, but I will not do so. I have repeatedly called to the court's attention the Appellant's stunts with respect to mailings and deadlines and last minute frivolous motions, all designed to delay the appeal. Does the court even care about this? My clients are also parties to this appeal and their rights and interests do not seem to matter.

My address, as indicated on all filings herein, is 133 Brookspring Rd., Columbia, 29223. Appellant knows my correct address as evidenced by past mailings.

Since Appellant will not favor me or the court with an email address, I will mail a hard copy of this email to him at his Lancaster post office box.

Thank you.

Mike Brackett
