Re: Corey Edmond v. State
Appellate Case No. 2018-001333

Dear Counsel:

As you know, this case has been held in abeyance since April 08, 2019. This has been done to give you an opportunity to obtain the client file from the Receiver.

I have spoken to the Receiver and, based on that conversation, I think it is unlikely that the client file will be found. Further, while I understand that the contents of the file may be helpful to you, this file appears to be irrelevant to this Court's consideration of this case since this Court can only consider materials that were submitted to the post-conviction relief judge, Jamison v. State, 410 S.C. 456, 765 S.E.2d 123 (2014), and only those issues raised to and ruled on by the post-conviction relief judge are usually preserved for appellate review. Plyler v. State, 309 S.C. 408, 424 S.E.2d 477 (1992).

Therefore, I ask that you please explain why this Court should continue to hold this case in abeyance. This explanation should be provided within ten (10) days of the date of this letter.

Very truly yours,
