Re: The State v Marselina J. Feliciano

Appeal Case No. 2019-001165

This is an appeal from a Guilty Plea.

Ms. Feliciano was under the impression that she the plea was to a charge where at some point in the future she could have the charge and conviction expunged from her record.

After the plea, she was informed that the charge was not expungable. She states that had she known it was not expungable, she would have gone to trial.

At the plea, her Attorney and the Assistant Solicitor in the case were discussing future expungement and she may have been impressed and influenced that she could expunge the charge.

Thank you, and I hope this satisfactorily answers the inquiry.

Sincerely,

Timothy L. Griffith Esquire
