3. DID TRIAL JUDGE ERR IN DISMISSING PLAINTIFF'S AMENDED MOTION FOR NEW TRIAL AS UNTIMELY WHERE THE AMENDED MOTION FOR NEW TRIAL WAS FILED EIGHT (7) DAYS AFTER PLAINTIFF'S/APPELLANT'S COUNSEL RECEIVED A SIGNED AFFIDAVIT FROM A JUROR?

STATEMENT OF THE CASE

This case centered on an automobile collision occurring on or about December 10, 2013 in which the Plaintiff/Appellant alleged Defendant/Respondent was liable for the injuries and ensuing damages sustained by the Plaintiff/Appellant. This case was called before the Court on June 25, 2018 for a Jury Trial. On June 29, 2019, the Jury rendered its verdict, finding that both the Plaintiff/Appellant and Defendant/Respondent were negligent, but assigning 51% liability to the Plaintiff/Appellant.

At the close of the first day of Trial and upon adjournment—and confirming Plaintiff's/Appellant's own observations—Plaintiff/Appellant was alerted that throughout the entire line of questioning of Defendant/Respondent and Plaintiff/Appellant, the Presiding Judge made numerous and continuous, overt facial expressions and gestures; upon learning of same, Plaintiff/Appellant had immediate cause for concern. Arriving in the courtroom on Day 2 of trial, Plaintiff's/Appellant's counsel immediately requested a meeting with the Presiding Judge and Defendant's/Respondent's counsel in the Judge's chambers to discuss the matter. At this meeting, it was the Plaintiff's/Appellant's counsel's intention to attempt to cure any actions that may have biased or unduly influenced the jury while at the same time doing so in the least confrontational and in the most deferential manner possible. The meeting was contentious at best.

Upon return to the courtroom, the Presiding Judge stated that Plaintiff/Appellant had something to put on the record. Plaintiff/Appellant stated his objection to the facial expressions and other actions emanating from the bench; Plaintiff/Appellant specifically cited Canon 3 of Rule 501, SCACR.¹ Plaintiff/Appellant was promptly cutoff during his noting of objection on the record and accused of threatening the Presiding Judge; Plaintiff/Appellant was not afforded an opportunity to state his motion for mistrial, motion for recusal, or further develop his objection on the record.² No curative measures were taken by the Presiding Judge upon the Jury returning to the courtroom. Plaintiff/Appellant believed any further attempts to object on the various issues would have been futile considering the manner in which his prior objection was received by the Presiding Judge.

Trial proceeded, and the facial expressions and gestures continued throughout trial, however, without any further objection or statements from Plaintiff/Appellant. Other instances of note throughout trial included terse comments and ruling on objections against Plaintiff/Appellant where the Presiding judge admitted to having not heard the question(s) prompting the objection, to be developed more fully in Plaintiff's/Appellant's foregoing arguments. Following the Jury verdict, Plaintiff/Appellant made a post-trial Motion for New Trial "based on the impropriety that was alleged or, essentially, put on the record early Tuesday morning and the same grounds—the same ground for that motion," a reference to the previously stated objection regarding facial expressions and gestures during Plaintiff/Appellant counsel's direct examination of the Plaintiff/Appellant and Defendant/Respondent on day one of trial.³ Again, Plaintiff/Appellant was cutoff by the Presiding Judge, who ultimately denied the Motion for New Trial.⁴

Within two hours of the verdict being rendered, Plaintiff's/Appellant's counsel received an unsolicited email from a Juror. Two days removed from trial and after several conversations between the Juror and Plaintiff's/Appellant's counsel, the Juror sent an email to Plaintiff's/Appellant's counsel that included an attached Letter which depicted in detail (1) the Presiding Judge's actions and (2) their effect on the Jury.⁵ Upon receipt of the Letter from the Juror, Plaintiff's/Appellant's counsel prepared an affidavit which, if signed by the Juror, would adopt the Letter as his sworn statement; the Affidavit was signed on July 3, 2018. On July 10, 2018, only seven (7) days removed from receiving the signed Affidavit of the Juror, Plaintiff/Appellant filed his Amended Motion for New Trial.⁶

On July 12, 2018, Defendant/Respondent filed her Brief in Opposition to Plaintiff's Amended Motion for New Trial.⁷ On July 17, 2018, Plaintiff/Appellant filed his Response to Defendant's Brief in Opposition to Plaintiff's Amended Motion for New Trial.⁸ Finally, on July 19, 2018, the Court issued an Order denying Plaintiff's Amended Motion for New Trial on the ground that the filing was untimely, and therefore, the Court did not have jurisdiction to grant a new trial. The Court also filed a memorandum opinion with its Order dated July 19, 2018.⁹

STANDARD OF REVIEW

The grant or denial of new trial motions rests within the discretion of the trial judge and his decision will not be disturbed on appeal unless his findings are wholly unsupported by the evidence or the conclusions reached are controlled by error of law.¹⁰ An appellate court may only reverse a trial court's decision regarding a new trial if the trial court abused its discretion in deciding a motion for new trial to the extent an error of law results.¹¹ Further, in general, the conduct of a trial is left largely to the sound discretion of the presiding judge, and the appellate court will not interfere unless it clearly appears that rights of the complaining party were abused or prejudiced in some way.¹² However, reference by a trial judge to an attorney's age, gender, or competence are improper and constitute reversible error upon a showing of prejudice.¹³

Whether Facial Expressions and Gestures Amount to Influence or Tend to Bias Jury

Whether overt facial expressions and gestures have the potential to create bias or unduly influence a jury cannot be denied. Canon 3 of Rule 501, SCACR reads in pertinent part (emphasis added):

B. Adjudicative Responsibilities.

(4) A judge shall be patient, dignified and courteous to litigants, jurors, witnesses, lawyers and others with whom the judge deals in an official capacity, and shall require similar conduct of lawyers, and of staff, court officials and others subject to the judge's direction and control.

Commentary:

The duty to hear all proceedings fairly and with patience is not inconsistent with the duty to dispose promptly of the business of the court. Judges can be efficient and businesslike while being patient and deliberate.

(5) A judge shall perform judicial duties without bias or prejudice. A judge shall not, in the performance of judicial duties, by words or conduct manifest bias or prejudice, including but not limited to bias or prejudice based upon race, sex, religion, national origin, disability or age, and shall not permit staff, court officials and others subject to the judge's direction and control to do so.

Commentary:

A judge must refrain from speech, gestures or other conduct that could reasonably be perceived as sexual harassment and must require the same standard of conduct of others subject to the judge's direction and control.

A judge must perform judicial duties impartially and fairly. A judge who manifests bias on any basis in a proceeding impairs the fairness of the proceeding and brings the judiciary into disrepute. Facial expression and body language, in addition to oral communication, can give to parties or lawyers in the proceeding, jurors, the media and others an appearance of judicial bias. A judge must be alert to avoid behavior that may be perceived as prejudicial.

Canon 3 of Rule 501, SCACR specifically warns that a judge who manifest bias on any basis in a proceeding impairs the fairness therewith, and further, that facial expressions and body language, in addition to oral communications, can give jurors an appearance of judicial bias. It is well settled that a trial judge must act with absolute impartiality in the performance of judicial duties.¹⁴ Motions for a new trial have been granted where the remarks of a trial judge tended to impugn the credibility of counsel and to diminish her in the eyes of the jury.¹⁵ It is respectfully submitted that a judge must be alert to avoid behavior that may be perceived as prejudicial. The oral communications, facial expressions and gestures, and body language in the instant matter were all of a nature that had the potential to give an appearance of judicial bias.

Appellant recognizes that it has long been held that by failing to move for mistrial or recusal or requesting a curative instruction, Plaintiff may waive any error, failing to give the court the opportunity to cure or correct any perceived error.¹⁶ Appellant further recognizes that it has long been held that even attempting to make a motion for new trial after the verdict is rendered comes too late to avoid a waiver of the alleged error.¹⁷ However, Appellant points to State v. Pace as controlling on the instant matter.¹⁸

¹⁶ Adams v. Orr, 260 SC 90, 194 SE2d 232 (1973).

In State v. Pace, the trial judge's comments to the jury regarding a lady defense counsel's age and gender were deemed to have deprived the defendant of a fair trial, where the remarks of the court tended to impugn the credibility of counsel and diminish her in the eyes of the jury. In camera, the judge "chastised" defense counsel that a broad question she asked amounted to a fishing expedition. The defense counsel in State v. Pace did not state a single objection on the record and did not make a motion for new trial at any point. In addressing the defense counsel's failure to state an objection or to make a motion for a new trial, the Supreme Court of South Carolina stated, "As to counsel's failure to raise an objection, the tone and tenor of the trial judge's remarks concerning her gender and conduct were such that any objection would have been futile. Accordingly, we find no waiver of this issue."¹⁹

The facts in State v. Pace bear stark resemblance to the instant matter. The Presiding Judge's overt facial expressions, gestures, and other actions diminished Plaintiff's counsel in the eyes of the jury and deprived the Plaintiff of a fair trial. The Affidavit of Chris Lee highlights the effect the alleged actions had on the jury. In chambers, Plaintiff's counsel attempted to discuss his concerns regarding the facial expressions, gestures, and other actions brought to his attention during adjournment and the undersigned's effort was met with great hostility and accusations of threatening the Court.²⁰ Unlike the defense counsel in State v. Pace, the Plaintiff's/Appellant's counsel, immediately upon returning to the courtroom, stated his objection and concerns on the record in a tone that could only be characterized as a demonstration of deference and discomfort with his position.²¹ Before the Plaintiff's/Appellant's counsel could finish his statement, he was interrupted by the Court. As the Plaintiff's/Appellant's attempted to step from behind his desk to address the Court, he was instructed to get back behind his desk with a shout.²² Plaintiff's/Appellant's counsel was accused of threatening the Presiding Judge in making his objection and cautioned to be careful of what he might accuse the Court moving forward.²³ After being accused a second time of threatening the Presiding Judge, Plaintiff's/Appellant's counsel, noticing that a motion for new trial and/or recusal was appropriate, stated, "May I respond?" The Presiding Judge responded with an emphatic, "No!"²⁴ Plaintiff/Appellant was not permitted to state any further objection or motion at that time. The Plaintiff/Appellant, being keenly aware of State v. Pace, believed any further discussion of the matter or any discussion of any further alleged impropriety on the part of the Presiding Judge would have been futile, and that the issues would not be waived in a subsequent motion for new trial or on appeal. Regardless, at the close of trial, the undersigned renewed his motion for a new trial citing the same grounds as his prior objection.²⁵ continued throughout Day 2 of trial in the presence of the Jury. Shortly after stating his objection regarding facial expressions and gestures, Plaintiff's/Appellant's counsel attempted to object to a line of questioning regarding the citation of a statute; Plaintiff's/Appellant's counsel was chastised regarding the use of speaking objections.²⁶ However, a pattern of allowing speaking objections had already been established by Defendant's/Respondent's counsel on Day 1 of trial.²⁷ The speaking objections by Defendant's/Respondent's counsel continued afterward as well without admonition from the Court.²⁸ This discrepancy in the way the attorneys were treated indeed occurred in the presence of the Jury.

Whether the Actions Complained of Indeed Influenced or Biased Jury

Canon 3 of Rule 501, SCACR and State v. Pace clearly highlight the potential prejudice that may inure from the use of facial expressions and gestures emanating from the bench. If taken as true, the Affidavit of the Juror depicts undue influence exerted upon the Jury and the bias that ultimately ensued to the extent that Plaintiff/Appellant was not afforded a fair and impartial trial. The Affidavit highlights undue influence and bias that permeated throughout the Jury from Day One of trial and continuing throughout. The Affidavit also lends credibility to Plaintiff's/Appellant's concerns as stated on the record on Day Two of trial. The actions complained of and objected to at the start of Day Two indeed influenced and biased the jury.

²⁸ Trial Transcript p. 235, line 4 through 6.

Even in the absence of the Affidavit, there is evidence of facial expressions and gestures emanating from the Court by the Court's own admission. It is worth noting that rather than denying or downplaying the use of facial expressions and gestures, the Presiding Judge instead chastised the Plaintiff's/Appellant's counsel stating, "You have no idea what my facial expressions are... You have no idea what is going through my mind."²⁹ While the Plaintiff/Appellant concedes that very point, the Plaintiff/Appellant would also argue that if Plaintiff/Appellant did not know what the Presiding Judge's facial expressions and gestures meant, then certainly the same can be said for the jury. It is highly unlikely that the Jury perceived the facial expressions and gestures as anything other than detrimental or prejudicial to the Plaintiff/Appellant and his counsel.

Whether the Actions Complained of Were Prejudicial In Nature

The case was decided narrowly—51% liability to the Plaintiff and 49% to the Defendant. A 1% difference drastically changes the outcome of this case.³⁰ If the margins were not so narrow, the argument might stand that even though the Presiding Judge's actions unduly influenced the jury and created bias within the jury, the actions were ultimately not prejudicial and had no bearing on the outcome. Plaintiff rejects even that argument. However, that argument is not available in the instant action. Even the slightest undue influence or biasing of the Jury by the Presiding Judge had the potential to have a drastic effect on the outcome of this case. The actions complained of were prejudicial in nature.

III. TRIAL JUDGE ERRED IN DISMISSING PLAINTIFF'S AMENDED MOTION FOR NEW TRIAL AS UNTIMELY WHERE THE AMENDED MOTION FOR NEW TRIAL WAS FILED EIGHT (7) DAYS AFTER PLAINTIFF'S/APPELLANT'S COUNSEL RECEIVED A SIGNED AFFIDAVIT FROM A JUROR?

Timeliness of Amended Motion for New Trial and Timeliness of Subsequent Notice of Appeal of the Order Dated July 19, 2018

On or about July 3, 2018, Plaintiff/Appellant received notice of an Affidavit signed by a juror that, upon information and belief, related directly to the grounds stated for the prior oral motion for new trial made on June 29, 2018 following dismissal of the jury.³¹ In an abundance of caution, both in preserving the right to submit upon appeal as well as to allow the Court an opportunity to question the Jurors, Plaintiff/Appellant filed his Amended Motion for New Trial based on Newly Discovered Evidence. The Amended Motion for New Trial was filed on July 10, 2018, which was 11 days after the jury was dismissed, but only 7 days following notice of the existence of an Affidavit signed by a Juror. Plaintiff's/Appellant's position is that the Amended Motion for New Trial was timely pursuant to Gray v. Bryant.³²

In Gray v. Bryant, 298 S.C. 285, 379 S.E.2d 894 (1989), the Supreme Court held that amendment of a motion for new trial based upon newly discovered evidence is permissible if made within a reasonable time following discovery of new evidence even if made after the 10-day period allowed in S.C. Rules of Civil Procedure, Rule 59.³³ The Gray Court held that "Rule 59 and 60(b)

³¹ See Affidavit of Juror, Chris Lee.

³³ Gray v. Bryant, 298 S.C. 285, 379 S.E.2d 894 (1989).

must be read together.”³⁴ The Gray Court went on to cite Smith v. Quattlebaum, 223 S.C. 384, 76 S.E.2d 154 (1953):

“In Smith, defendant moved for a new trial because of an after-discovered relationship of juror to plaintiff. The court ruled that the trial court had jurisdiction to hear a motion for a new trial because of the after or newly-discovered evidence exception. The Court stated further:

‘It is the duty of the trial judge to ascertain the qualifications of the jurors, and when the discharge of this responsibility is thwarted by mischance, or otherwise, it is within the court’s inherent power to remedy the situation when brought to his attention, even after sine die adjournment of court, by the granting of a new trial, if in its discretion, necessary. Smith, 76 S.E. (2d) at 157.’”³⁵

In the instant matter, Plaintiff’s Amended Motion for New Trial filed on July 10, 2018 was made within a reasonable time following notice of the newly discovered evidence. The newly discovered evidence does not disclose discussions during deliberations, and instead, highlight both the potential bias of the jury as well as improper communications between jurors prior to deliberations. Because it is the duty of the trial judge to ascertain the qualification of jurors and when the discharge of this responsibility is thwarted by mischance, or otherwise, it is within the court’s inherent power to remedy the situation when brought to his attention. Irrespective of same, the trial judge dismissed the Amended Motion for New Trial by Order dated July 19, 2018 as untimely. It is respectfully submitted that dismissal of Plaintiff’s/Appellant’s Amended Motion for New Trial was error.

CONCLUSION

The facial expressions and gestures from the Court giving rise to this appeal were prejudicial in nature and constitute reversible error. Further, dismissal of the Plaintiff/Appellant's Amended Motion for New Trial as untimely was also error. It is respectfully submitted that a new trial should be granted in favor of the Plaintiff/Appellant and/or for any further relief the Court deems just and proper.
