A I'm a lawyer.
Q How long have you been ma lawyer?
A 21 years.
Q And where did you start your legal career? What were doing?
A I started out as a law clerk for Justice Finney at the South Carolina Supreme Court. After that I came here and practiced law with Chip Finney for a little while. And then I was a public defender and just been in private practice since then.
Q When did you start private practice?
A In 93.
Q Okay. And that's the practice you have with your wife.
A Actually that practice was -- that firm was started in 98.
Q Okay.
A But I have been in private practice since 93.
Q Okay. So Clark law firm started in 98?
A Yes.
Q And what is the Clark law firm? What is your area of expertise? Do you have more than one?

A We mostly do injury cases, worker's compensation cases and through a lesser extent, criminal cases.

Q Okay. And you certainly it sounds like you started out your earlier career was in the field of criminal law.

A Right.

Q Okay. And so I take it you are on the criminal defense list for appointment purposes?

A Yes.

Q Okay. And that was here in Sumter County?

A Yes.

Q Have you always practiced in Sumter?

A Yes.

Q And at some point did you come to represent Stephen Corey Bryant?

A Yes, ma'am.

Q What were you appointed, which charges were you appointed to represent him on; do you recall?

A I believe it was on all the charges.

Q All being, various homicides and related--

A Right.

Q ---incidents?

A Right.

Q And so that would include the Teitjen homicide.

A Yes.

Q Do you recall about when you where appointed to represent Mr. Bryant?

A Well it was very late in the game. I was actually substituted for Mr. Babb.

Q Okay. And that was because Mr. Babb was -- had become I guess---

A Ill.

Q ---medically disabled.

A Right.

Q If I told you July 18th 2008, you were appointed in Lexington would you agree?

A That sounds right.

Q Does that sound right?

A Yes.

Q And that was Judge Thomas Russo?

A Yes.

Q Now I think you've already made note of the fact that Mr. Babb had been involved and it was only because of some unexpected medical condition that he sort of just had to get out?

A Right.

Q Where was the case as far as it being prepped for whatever outcome, trial or plea? Where was it in that process when you were pulled in?

A Well when I was pulled in, Mr. Babb and Mr. Howle, well I was advised that they had come to the conclusion that along with Mr. Bryant, that he would plead guilty to underlying charges, and there would be a sentencing phase on the Teitjen case.

Q Okay. So when you walked in pretty much they said we have already made this decision and this is what we are doing. Don't let me mischaracterize it.

A Well, that was the thought at that time; yes.

Q Okay. Do you recall when you first met Mr. Bryant? Would it been at the hearing or?

A I can's remember if it was at my office. He was actually brought to my office one day. Or whether it was at the Lexington courthouse. I can't remember. I think it was Lexington courthouse might be the first meeting.

Q Okay. And you think that was the day of the appointment hearing?

A Yes.

Q Okay. How did your relationship with him attorney/client, how was that? Do you recall what it was like as far as your interactions with him?

A Well he didn't say much. And I was coming to the game at the late stages. And I did talk with him but as I said, it was a -- it was an appropriate relationship.

Q He didn't do anything that stood out as being---

A No.

Q ---noteworthy?

A Not that I can remember.

THE COURT: May I ask a question? What does Lexington courthouse, is that just happened to be where the judge was?

A I believe that's it.

MS. ARMSTRONG: Yes, sir.

THE COURT: I didn't know whether Lexington had anything to do with it or not. I assume the judge was there.

MS. ARMSTRONG: Sorry, I was just looking at the transcript. And apparently Judge Russo was there, and they needed this appointment to happen.

THE COURT: I just wanted to be sure that that was the reason and I wasn't missing some other jurisdiction I didn't know about. Thank you. I am sorry.

MS. ARMSTRONG: No, I think the judge had statewide. So they---

THE COURT: I understand.

MS. ARMSTRONG: The case followed him.

A Right. That's my understanding.

Q And in fact the plea, the actual guilty plea took place in Florence rather than Sumter.

A Right.

Q Now that guilty plea was on August 18th.

A August 18th.

Q So basically 31 days after you were appointed on August 18th, he pleaded guilty to---

A Yes.

Q And that was in Florence.

A Yes.

Q Okay. And you were present for that.

A Yes.

Q Okay. Do you recall who prepared Mr. Bryant from a plea? Or let me back up one step. Do you recall Mr. Howle ever showing you what is called a plea tender? And I will show it to you.

A I think so.

Q Let me pull it so you don't have to go on on my memory. Okay. May I approach the witness, Your Honor?

THE COURT: Yes.

Q I am going to hand you Plaintiff's Exhibits 12, 13 and 14. These are three what are called Tender of a Guilty Pleas inferred or signed at different, and ask if you recognize any of those documents.

A I was looking for signatures on these documents. I don't specifically remember them.

Q Okay. All right. And I am sure you notice that these documents were prepared in connection with the guilty plea. And I think you've said that that decision had pretty much been addressed before you came on?

A Yes.

Q Okay. So the production of the Tender of Guilty Plea would have been something you were not, that was not part of your role.

A I believe Mr. Babb prepared those documents.

Q Okay. And let me ask you this. And I've already asked a couple of times. But thinking back, do you ever remember wondering or questioning the wisdom of having a client plead essentially straight up to capital murder? In other words, no deals, no promises, no indications of leniency from any source.

A What was your question again.

Q At the time like prior to the plea or during your representation, did you ever remember considering, you know, or sort of questioning the wisdom of the advice to plead straight up; is that something?

A Well not questioning it, I thought about. But as I remember it, I don't think there was a great likelihood that he was going to get any offers from the state.

Q Okay.

A And in that case I think what our reasoning was is that that was going to be his gesture of accepting responsibility. And that could be somewhat of a mitigation for him.

Q Okay. So pleading guilty rather than going to trial.

A Right which we didn't feel he had the likelihood of prevailing at trial. Didn't think he was going to get any offers or any plea offers.

Q Okay.

A And so I thought that that would be of some benefit to him in the nature of accepting responsibility.

Q Did you have any discussions, do you recall any discussions with Mr. Bryant about the decision to plead guilty, or was that something that was discussed between he and another member of the team?

A Well I think it's both. I think he talked with the other members. And then when I came on, we talked about it as well.

Q Okay. Do you remember discussing the plea tender advice with him?

A I am sure we did. If he -- if that was something that was assigned at the plea hearing.

Q It was not. Now those documents were prepared and submitted to him but they were not made a part of the report. They were simply in counsel's file.

A And they are dated August 8th, aren't they?

Q One of them was.

A So August 8th, may have been the day he was brought to my office to meet me with me and Mr. Howle. I could be wrong. But if I was appointed in July then he was brought to the office shortly after that.

Q Okay. But you don't remember specifically seeing those tender pleas?

A I can't say for certain.

Q Okay. One thing we discussed a lot in this hearing, I don't know how familiar you are with it, but during the process of preparing the post conviction relief, sled there was discovered that there was evidence of pornography having been found on the Teitjen computer. And I am wondering, do you ever recall seeing anything documenting what Mr. Bryant had recorded, which was that there were discussions between he and Mr. Teitjen about pornography and later on at the him seeing the pornography? Do you ever remember getting any of that disclosed to you at the time?

A I can't remember for sure.

Q Okay.

A If it's not in the file, then I don't think I had if it is not in the file.

Q Okay. If it wasn't in the file then you didn't have it.

A No, I don't think I was told. You know, I mean my expectation was that all the evidence would be provided in some written format.

Q Okay.

A In some report or something.

Q So you don't have any independent knowledge of ever seeing any pornography?

A No. Well have I ever seen it? Well no, I never saw it. Whether it was reported whether it was there or not I can't remember for sure.

Q All right. But the discovery you received is it, and correct me if I am wrong, you received that from Mr. Howle and Mr. Babb. They had the discovery and they provided it to you?

A Yes.

Q I believe that's correct. So if they didn't have it you didn't have it.

A That's correct.

Q And I think that was discussed on -- on the date of your appointment, they were going to hand over everything.

A Correct.

Q Let me ask you this. If how much interface or how much involvement did you have with the psychiatrist and the psychologist who were working on the mitigation phase?

A None at all.

Q So if the form was relevant to what they were doing, that would have been something to address with Mr. Howle?

A Right.

Q Okay.

A Because we decided. We divided up the responsibility.

Q Okay.

A He was going to do certain things. I was going to do certain things.

Q All right. And do you recall exactly what your sort bucket list was for trial?

A I think I did a lot of cross examination.

Q Okay. All right. So cross examine the state's---

A Right.

Q ---the people that they?

A Yes.

Q And then the mitigation would have been primary on Mr. Howle.

A Right.

Q Now Mr. Babb even though he was relieved, he was still there in an unofficial capacity?

A At times. Not the entire time. At times he did.

Q Do you ever remember having any discussions at all with Dr. Watts? I think you've answered that question but let me just confirm it.

A No.

Q And what about the reports of these medical experts? Again, I think you've already answered that. I just want to make sure. Do you recall seeing them and discussing the sexual abuse issues and that sort of thing? Or is that something?

A I think that's what Mr. Howle did.

Q All right. And if I'm repetitive, bear with me.

A That's fine.

Q Let me ask you this in sort of a general way. If I'm looking at the evidence and the statements that Mr. Bryant made were this issue of pornography coming up. Obviously if it was out there, is that the sort of thing you would have wanted the state to hand over to you?

A Yes.

Q And you've probably already addressed this as well. But do you recall, and I believe this is when Mr. Babb was still serving in an official capacity. Do you recall ever dealing with a forensic computer analyst by the name of Jeff Nailer?

A I did not.

Q Last set of questions. And this takes up a very small part of the transcript. But after the judge had taken the case under advisement but before the sentencing was to officially start, I believe the night on the eve of sentencing, a gentleman by the name Edward Gause, contacted the judge and also the public defender's office. But you weren't a member of that office. But his name Edward Gause and he made himself known, because he had an encounter with Mr. Bryant where Mr. Bryant was shirtless and shoeless. And sort of acting in a very strange, kind of disoriented manner, asking for help. Do you recall that person surfacing in between?

A Vaguely.

Q Right. But he would have been a mitigation person. I believe that Mr. Howle addressed that issue. I just don't -- could not recall if you remember that happening.

A I remember the indictment but nothing about the person.

Q Okay. Just one final line here. I don't know if you were here during Mr. Jackson's testimony, but he mentioned something about presenting the victim impact testimony after the close of evidence. Do you recall anyone telling you that they were going to present this testimony after the close of evidence?

A I don't.

Q No one ever put you on notice that that was ever going to happen?

A I don't have any recollection of that.

Q Because it was in the sentencing phase, sort of would that have Mr. Howle's area to object to it or would have been yours? Or can you say?

A You mean after it was presented -- after the evidence was presented?

Q It was after the close of evidence. But the state presented additional victim impact testimony.

A I think It would have been a joint responsibility.

Q Okay. All right, can you, or do you recollect why there wasn't an objection to this additional testimony?

A I don't remember what the additional testimony was. And so it is hard for me to say why we didn't object. What he thought of it. I don't remember exactly what it was, whether it was a rehash of what was already testified to. I just don't remember.

Q Actually I have a -- I can show you the transcript. Maybe that will help.

A All right.

Q At page 1041, you just want to review that starting with Mr. Jackson?

A Okay. I don't know what Mr. Howle is referring to here when he said subject to our motion. Do you know what motion he is talking about?

Q Oh, the motion to be able to present the testimony of Mr. Gause. The gentleman who had made himself known sort of on the eve of sentence.

A I don't know why we didn't object to the victim impact statements.

Q Okay. I just have one -- have one final question. I don't know if you have had a chance to review it. But and I am not sure if you recall it, but Mr. Jackson made the argument that Judge Russo should send a message to the community with a sentence of -- sentencing of Mr. Bryant.

Now I was looking at the transcript. And it appeared that Mr. Howle was making a final, the final argument on behalf the defense. And so I don't know if it would have been proper for me to object. But can you think of any reason why the defense would not have objected to that type of argument?

A Well you are right, Mr. Howle was doing the closing. And I don't know why there wasn't an objection to that.

MS. ARMSTRONG: Okay. Thank you very much, Mr. Clark, I appreciate it. Please answer any questions.

A Okay.

Cross Examination by Mr. Zelenka:

Q Mr. Clark, how are you doing today?

A I'm fine, sir. How are you?

Q Doing good. When we met in preparation for your testimony, you disclosed to Ms. Brown and myself, material you had received in discovery and material you had received from co-counsel in the case; is that correct?

A That's correct.

Q And after you were appointed on the case in July of 2008, do you recall whether you received any additional direct discovery from the state or law enforcement in this case, if you can recall?

A I don't remember. I can't recall.

Q And in that discovery material included were some videos of various scene situations. Do you recall seeing those at the time of your trial prep?

A I can remember specifically.

Q Okay. But they were in your files that we reviewed with you last week; correct?

A Whatever is in the file is what we had.

Q Okay. And one of those files that you and I looked at partially together was a file that said Bryant DP case that I am holding in my hand.

A Yes.

Q And after reviewing those files or that document, you resolved that that was the compact disk that was given to you by Mr. Babb; is that correct? That he had prepared?

A It was given to me by somebody. I got the discovery from Mr. Babb.

Q Okay. And on that material were various files, subfiles of discovery material that had been placed on that CD by someone. Is that correct?

A That's correct.

Q In reviewing those -- the material that you had received from law enforcement it included the statements that the defendant had given; is that correct? Or statements the defendant had given.

A It included, I mean, I can't remember exactly all the evidence in this case. Whatever is in the file and is on the disk and whether it included, I can't say, in his statement or whatever.

Q Okay. After viewing the material and your discussions with co-defendant in the case, did you have an understanding of the facts and circumstances surrounding the state's case against your client Mr. Bryant?

A Yes.

Q And did that information give you an understanding or an impression of the likelihood of any success on a guilt defense in Mr. Bryant's behalf?

A Success in a guilt defense was unlikely.

Q Okay. why is that?

A The nature of the crime and the evidence.

Q Okay. And that evidence being his confessions to the multiple charges?

A His statements didn't help.

Q Okay. And the additional evidence and recovery of materials in the defendant's possession on his truck?

A Physical evidence; yes.

Q In your discussions with the defendant and co-counsel, you stated that there was an understanding when you got on the case although a plea had not been entered, that a guilty plea was the strategic path the defense team was going to take with Mr. Bryant's agreement; is that correct?

A That's the way they were leaning. It was explained to me. I reviewed the evidence. The ration -- they explained the rationale that they used to reset that decision. And it was discussed with Mr. Bryant and that's what happened.

Q Okay. Now if you can go back in time to the discussions that you had with Mr. Bryant or discussions that occurred within your presence with Mr. Bryant concerning his right to a guilty plea or should he choose to do so, to have a jury trial and jury sentencing. Do you recall those discussions?

A Not specifically. But I can tell you those discussions were very, very limited because of the time that I came into the case. And I did not go back and go over every piece of evidence with him. I just kind of confirmed what it -- what I advised had already been discussed with him.

Q Okay.

A So, you know, it's difficult. In hindsight looking back on it, it's difficult when you come into a case in the fourth quarter. It's very difficult because you do have an accurate part of the entire defense. And that's the difficulty.

Q Okay. During the time of the guilty plea you confirmed that you had had discussions with Mr. Bryant concerning his rights to a jury trial and the affect of his entry into a guilty plea that he would have the judge sentencing. Is that correct?

A It is correct. But as I said, in truthfulness and fairness to him and everyone else, It was very limited. It was less than what it would been had I been in the case from the beginning. And I am not saying he didn't understand or it wasn't communicated with him, but it wasn't what it would have been had I been on the case from the beginning. Because it just seems like if I had gotten on the case from the beginning, I would have gotten to know him a little better. I don't feel like I really got to know him as well as I normally would. So we did, but not as much as it would have been had I been on the case from the beginning.

Q Okay. In, let me step back one step. What was your understanding of the reasons why it was a better course for Mr. Bryant to be sentenced by Judge Russo in August of 2008, rather than have a jury sentence him? What was your reasoning as to why you thought that was a good course to take?

A Well it was already discussed. And that was the way that -- that was the strategy that defense counsel had adopted before I got involved. The rationale behind it was that because of the nature of the crime and all the circumstances that it would invoke sympathy, great sympathy from potential jurors and that because the judge and the judges deal with these issues all the time that it would not have the shock impact on a person who has presided over many violent cases, many death cases. But that people from the community were just outraged and overcome with sympathy. And one of reasons they felt that way is because they believed that people who weren't involved in the justice system they don't encounter these things all the time. So it is shocking to them. And that was the last word.

Q Okay. So clearly then it was your understanding that this wasn't an attempt at that time to actually get jury sentencing eventually for Mr. Bryant. It was your understanding that Judge Russo was going to be the best fact finder and sentencer for the defendant on these crimes on this case.

A Well I thought that there was an attempt to get a jury sentence. But after that was denied, I believe that was denied, once It was denied. And I think counsel understood that it was an uphill battle to get the jury sentencing. Some the rationale was the judge might be able to fairly evaluate the evidence.

Q Okay. But in August 2008, you didn't want a jury; isn't that correct?

A Not for the guilt phase.

Q Now with respect to the issue concerning the computer and existence of pornography or assertions of existence of pornography or visiting pornographic sites on the victim Teitjen's computer, is that -- are those matters that you would have wanted to present either to a judge or a jury about the existence of such things on a victim's computer when the statements were made by Mr. Bryant concerning his presence in looking at portions of the computer and possible seeing those sites? Why would that have been necessarily relevant or useful to you in your defense in mitigation?

A Are you asking me whether pornographic sites were on the computer already? Is that what you are asking me?

Q No, if you had that information, how would that have played in your mitigation if that information had been presented to you, what would you have done different?

A Well it's hard to say at this point. You know, I really don't know what we would have done differently at that particular time. I can't say for certain what we would have done differently.

Q Okay. With respect to the various roles that you had with Mr. Howle, how did you make the determination as to what witnesses during the sentencing proceeding you would take as opposed to Mr. Howle taking?

A We just agreed among ourselves. Some of the issues he was more familiar with. And some of the issues I could come up to speed on. And so that's how we decided who was going to do what.

Q Okay. But it was decided that at trial you would take an active role in the questioning of a number of witnesses; isn't that correct?

A Yes.

Q And you prepared for those witnesses in advance of trial?

A Yes.

Q Okay. And when they were presented the the month after the guilty plea was entered, you were working on preparing to take those witnesses?

A Yes.

Q Okay. In the references made to the victim's impact evidence that was presented subsequent to the closing argument in the case, and the presentation was made referring you, I believe, to page 1041 through 1046. Let me ask you to refer to page 1046. Lines seven through 25.

A Okay.

Q And isn't it correct that after the state had presented it victim's impact evidence, the defense was also asked whether it had additional evidence that it wanted to present in addition to the defendant's family, and Mr. Howle made a brief presentation before elocution was offered to the defendant.

A Yes.

Q So both Mr. Howle and the judge and the state appeared to have been prepared to resolve and discuss additional presentation on those particular crimes; isn't that correct?

A The transcript is that Mr. Howle did contemplate it.

Q Okay. And certainly the court contemplated it in that order; isn't that correct?

A Yes.

MR. ZELENKA: Court's indulgence just one moment.

Q Mr. Clark, let me refer to you volume one of the record page 468 through 471, which is your cross examination of Mildred Teitjen. I am going to ask if you can review that so it refreshes your recollection.

A Okay.

Q From one's perspective it would appear that that cross examination was thought out in advance and was an attempt by you to express sympathy on behalf of your client towards the victims in this case. Is that a fair reading?

A Yes.

Q Was that a decision made in anticipation of this victim testifying in this particular case and preparing for that examination of Ms. Teitjen?

A Yes.

Q There is no reference at all during this examination concerning the victim's computer or material that had been referenced by your client about material that he had seen on the computer; is that correct?

A Yes.

Q Was that done intentionally on your part to avoid those particular circumstances?

A Yes, sir.

Q And if you would have presented information concerning those circumstances, do you think it would have worked to your client's detriment in this trial?

A Possibly, yes. And just so it is clear what I am saying, I didn't want to do anything to cause Ms. Teitjen any further pain. And I didn't want to cause the judge to resent my line of questioning and cause him to feel more harshly towards my client.

Q Okay. And you are aware of your client's statements about going on Mr. Teitjen's computer; is that correct?

A I can't remember exactly what his statements were. What I am saying is that, I didn't want to, I was just being very careful not to be critical of the victim, and cause Ms. Teitjen any embarrassment or pain or anything of that nature.

MR. ZELENKA: Okay. Court's indulgence. I have no further questions. Thank you.

THE COURT: Okay.

MS. ARMSTRONG: Thank Your Honor. May it please the court.

Redirect Examination by Ms. Armstrong:

Q I just wanted to confirm a few things. I think that had been mentioned on redirect, Mr. Clark. And that was as far as the mitigation witnesses and the presentation and mitigating evidence, using the psychiatrist and psychologist that was exclusively Mr. Howle's domain.

A That's my recollection of it; yes.
Q And so pornography would have been helpful to one of those experts. That was obviously Mr. Howle's call to make.
A Yes.
Q But you never got to have to make that call to begin with.
A If it's not in the file, I never got it. And as I said, it's impossible to say what you would have done with it.
Q I got you. Right.
A You know, but if it's -- whatever is in the file, is in the file. What we would have done with it, it's hard to say. I don't know what we would have thought at that time. It might have been an issue that we raised, I don't know.
Q Okay. But obviously the decision as to what to give the mitigating -- the experts in mitigation, that was Mr. Howle's call.
A Yes, yes.
Q You all made that decision. It was up to him. And if he said something was helpful or thought it was something, it was up to him to give it to them.
A That's my recollection of it.

Q Okay. Now as far as the calling of witnesses after the close of evidence obviously, there was a discussion on the record where Mr. Howle was given an opportunity to either object to or go along with that. And it seems clear to me from the record that was his call. He was addressed and he spoke to the defense.

A I believe that was after the state presented their case,---

Q Correct.

A Correct.

Q Yes, yes.

A So I mean I didn't read it and interpret it that he had had an opportunity to object to the state's additional evidence. He had an opportunity to present Mr. Bryant's mitigating evidence.

Q So the decision to object at that time or to make some sort of motion would that -- whose decision would that have been? I guess I'm just trying to make sure I understand the rules he made.

A You mean prior to the -- after the close of evidence?

Q Uh-huh. (affirmative.)

A I think It would have been a joint responsibility. I can't say that it was all Mr. Howle's responsibility.

Q I got you. I just want to make sure it is clear, because I know there are different roles and sometimes it's joint and sometimes---

A Well I---

Q ---it's---

A I don't know if we knew that was coming. I don't remember whether we knew that was coming.

Q Okay.

A So if it was something that we didn't anticipate, then I think we both had a responsibility to react.

Q Okay. And I apologize. But having not been there, I just have to rely on this cold record. And it's not clear if there was any in chambers discussions or notice or anything like that.

A And I don't remember specifically.

Q Okay. And I believe that the, excuse me, the attorney general asked you about the opportunity when Mr. Teitjen took the stand, you were able to because you had the right to cross examine her. Rather than get into anything that could be potentially inflammatory, you were able to use that as an opportunity to express sympathy?

A Right.

Q And to sort of, you know, present at least a sympathetic picture from the defense side of the courtroom by being pleasant and not getting into things that would be hurtful.

A Right, and she said she didn't say definitely that she wanted the death penalty.

Q Right.

A And I thought that was a plus for us.

Q Sure. So having witnesses take the stand so that you can try to create those opportunities is a good thing.

A She wasn't adamant about the death penalty. She said she was willing to accept whatever the court deemed appropriate. But she didn't want to punish.

Q Right.

A But she didn't say yes, I want him to be put to death.

Q Right. Now those three witnesses that didn't take the stand, if they had taken the stand obviously, you would have had an opportunity to kind of do the same sort of, we're sorry for your loss sort of.

A Yes.

Q Okay. And again I realize it didn't happen, but just drawing a parallel. And I believe that the attorney general also asked you about not getting into computer porn with Ms. Teitjen. Well obviously you had no corroboration if it existed, and didn't have that evidence. So obviously she is not the person to bring this up with. If it's relevant to a mitigation person, that would have been Mr. Howle' call; correct?

A Yes.

Q Okay. Thank you very much.

A You're welcome.

THE COURT: Anything from the state?

MR. ZELENKA: Nothing, Your Honor.

THE COURT: One point that I want to be sure I understand. It's my understanding that the plea was taken in Florence on August 18th. And the plea was taken on all charges. Not only this murder, but the other murders and the other charges pending against him.

MS. ARMSTRONG: That is correct, Your Honor.

THE COURT: And at that time, no victim impact statement or impact evidence was given to the judge as far as sentencing is concerned on the any of the other crimes.

MS. ARMSTRONG: No, Your Honor. Everything was deferred for a sentencing proceeding.

THE COURT: And so after all the evidence is in, now that he is standing before the judge to be sentenced not only on the death sentence, but on all the other murders that the state offers impact evidence as to the other crimes.

MS. ARMSTRONG: Well actually during the penalty phase, there was testimony from folks unrelated to the Teitjen homicide.

THE COURT: I understand that.

MS. ARMSTRONG: Right.

THE COURT: But whatever was offered from then at the time of sentencing, they, they, there wasn't any additional evidence offered on the death penalty case at that time.

MS. ARMSTRONG: Correct.

THE COURT: Only on the other crimes and murders; is that correct?

MR. TAYLOR: I don't believe that is correct, Your Honor. Mr. Burgess's brother spoke in the time period we are talking about.

THE COURT: Right. But Mr. Burgess' brother was dealing with another crime.

MR. TAYLOR: Yes, sir. But I believe it was also still, he was used in the, in the sentencing phase as well.

THE COURT: And then at the end, he was used again to give whatever victim impact evidence the judge needed to pass sentence on the other murders. Is that correct?

MR. TAYLOR: I think so. I think I misunderstood what was said.

THE COURT: So what is the defense's position as to when the judge should have received that information? What if at the time of sentencing in Florence? Should he have gotten all that information then?

MS. ARMSTRONG: Absolutely not. No. In a capital sentencing proceeding all of the evidence being presented by the state be it aggravating, circumstance evidence, characteristic evidence.

THE COURT: I understand this is not a capital case. I mean I understand that position. But a capital case it's all to be presented. Well so we are dealing with a capital case. We just happen to be running other cases with a capital case that is not a capital. Because these other, I mean I assume the argument is that if the judge would have known about this, it would have effected his decision somehow. But if he had heard the information back in Florence when the pleas were taken, what difference would that have made?

MS. ARMSTRONG: They would have been on -- presumably they would have been on the stand. They would have been---

THE COURT: I have never had a victim get on the stand and give an impact on any plea. Short of---

MS. ARMSTRONG: Oh, I'm sorry. You're talking about if they had just done the capital sentencing at that time.

THE COURT: Right. If they had pled guilty and he would have been sentenced on everything but the capital case. He would have heard all that information. He would have passed sentence whatever that was on the guilty plea. And then he would have reserved the capital evidence for the capital case; right?

MS. ARMSTRONG: Correct.

THE COURT: So that didn't happen at that time. So then he hears the capital case. If it would have happened at the time, it was a normal plea, he would have gotten all the information. He'd past sentence on everything but the capital case. And then he would gotten that information, and then he would have heard the capital case. And he then would have passed sentence on the capital case. In this particular situation, I guess, it was the strategy of the state and the defense to defer sentencing on everything. And he would not hear that other evidence until he passed sentence.

So they have got before he had enough time to pass, then he would have heard that evidence that he could hear then. I mean how is he going to sentence on the other murders without hearing that evidence?

MS. ARMSTRONG: Well he did hear other evidence on the Burgess murder during---

THE COURT: Well I understand that. But that all focused on the capital case.

MS. ARMSTRONG: Now the Burgess murder was not related to the capital case.

THE COURT: Well if the evidence I guess, some aggravating and mitigating. Just like any other death related. In the sentencing phase, you usually hit everything that the person has ever done bad.

MS. ARMSTRONG: Well that's true, from the petty larceny to, you know, from....

THE COURT: And my position is unlike if he had been sentenced on the other murders and then he got additional impact evidence on the other murders at the time of this, it would seem that it violated the cases out of Florida and everything else. But in this particular case, he still had these crimes he had to be sentenced on. And the judge had to hear that impact. At one point---

MS. ARMSTRONG: Sure.

THE COURT: I was just trying to figure out if y'all's position is when he should have heard that.

MS. ARMSTRONG: I think he should have heard it when they were taking victim impact and aggravation evidence from the penalty phase. Just like they do in every other criminal or capital case I have been involved in.

THE COURT: Okay. Thank you. Anything else from either side? Do you all have a witness you can get up and down in 20 minutes? Or do you all want to run later or do we want to quit for the night? Do you all have somebody you need to put up? So 9:30 in the morning.

MS. ARMSTRONG: Dr. Watts, yes, sir. And Joseph Savitz and the defendant.

THE COURT: And then how many more witnesses do you have? Well that be basically up to the state after that? I'm just trying to figure out.

MS. ARMSTRONG: We may have a couple of other short witnesses.

THE COURT: Well do you think in all probability we will be through with most of the testimony tomorrow?

MS. ARMSTRONG: Yes. Absolutely.

MR. ZELENKA: You said you had something in reply?

MS. ARMSTRONG: A possible rebuttal witness. We may be able to do it by affidavit.

THE COURT: Okay. Then we will start back at 9:30 in the morning.

(Whereupon, the hearing commences on October 3, 2012 at 9:30 a.m.)

THE COURT: Before we get, February 5th and April 1st, are the only two dates I have got available in the next 6 months. February 4th, any problem with you all?

MR. ZELENKA: Judge, I don't have a calendar with me. I have placed it in my vehicle.

THE COURT: Maybe we can get something going. We'll set it and see what happens. Those are the only nonjury terms I have got in the next 6 months.

MS. BROWN: And it's February 4th?

THE COURT: Or April 4th.

MS. BROWN: And April 4th?

THE COURT: Unless Motte changes my schedule those all the only times I have available. Are you ready?

MS. ARMSTRONG: Yes, Your Honor. May it Please the Court, the petitioner calls Joseph Savitz.

Joseph Savitz, after being duly sworn, testified as follows:

THE CLERK: State your full name and spell your last for the record.

A Okay. My name is Joseph L. Savitz, S-A-V-I-T-Z, III.

DIRECT EXAMINATION by Ms. Armstrong:

Q Good morning.
A Good morning.
Q Mr. Savitz, how are you employed?
A Right now I am retired from the Office of Appellate Defense. Unemployed actually.
Q Retired?
A Yes.
Q Okay. And how were you previously employed?
A I was the chief attorney for a good little while at the Office of Appellate Defense. I was senior appellate defender for about three years after that.
Q And what were your duties when you were working as a chief attorney for appellate defense?
A Well I did a lot of stuff. But I guess relevant for what we're talking about here today is, I handled half of the capital appeals in the office. We did most of the criminal appeals in the state. Almost all the capital appeals, I did half of those and half of the noncapital murders.
Q All right.
A And a bunch of administrative stuff.
Q Okay. And did there come a time in your practice with appellate defense, that you came to represent Stephen Corey Bryant?

A Yes, I did.

Q Was this is on his direct appeal?

A Yes, It was.

Q And do you recall what issue or issues were raised on his behalf?

A This was, I think I remember this correctly. It was a guilty plea and the sentencing was conducted in front of a judge. And so that kind of narrowed it down, the available issues. The issue that I raised, was a single issue. And It was about -- there was some evidence that Mr. Bryant had been sexually abused by a family member. And there was another family member who would have corroborated that I thought. And that is, the judge refused to hear her testimony and that is the issue I raised. And that was error. Because it would have corroborated the testimony that Mr. Bryant had been abused. And which this case was all about his mental statement, I thought. We were sentencing basically when he pleaded guilty.

Q So there were no guilt phase issues.

A No. No.

Q It was all strictly, I got you. Okay. In preparing for your testimony here today, were you able to review a portion of the transcript? I beg the court's indulgence. On pages, pages 1037 through 1040?

A Yes.

Q And these pages and the record on appeal concerns the sort of after close of evidence, emergence of a potential mitigation witness; that being, Edward Gause?

A That is correct.

Q He is noted as Edwin Gause in the transcript, but it's actually Edward. The issue of his surfacing after the close of evidence and that issue being brought to the attention of the court and by Mr. Howle, did you consider that as a potential issue to be raised on direct appeal?

A No. To be honest with you, when we first talked about this, I did not recall that ever being an issue in the case. And since when I reviewed this this morning, I reread that when it was presented to the court. He had come forward, I believe, after being seen in the media. And came forward in concern, because he, you know, had run into Mr. Bryant at some point prior to the incidence. And that Mr. Bryant's mental state had concerned him. And I don't remember what I thought at the time in the transcript, but I do remember or today when I read it, what I would have thought, I think it would have been somewhat vague and unconnected to the actual incident itself that was being appealed. Having said that, I didn't abandon that issue as a matter of strategy or anything. But certainly if it's a notorious issue, I just missed it. But it certainly is no reason to abandon the meritorious issue in favor of an issue that did not prevail. So that was not a strategy, that was not a very strategic decision.

Q Okay. And so in other words, you didn't consider raising it under the Freddie Owens sort of model.

A I don't remember what I thought at the time. I do remember what, I mean I know what I thought today. I'm sure it's what I thought at the time, which was that it was just not, you know, just not connected enough to the crime itself. If there is a bunch of cases that say that if like you're drunk, it's not enough to be drunk a few hours before. There has to be testimony at the time of the incident. And I would have thought that there was just, was to attenuate I am sure, that that's what I thought. But having said that, I thought to myself, I am going to abandon this issue as a matter of strategy so that I missed it.

Q So you would agree with me that if it was helpful to the case mitigation, it should have been raised?

A Yeah. I mean if I had to do it over again, I would probably raise it. You know lost on the issue that I raised. You know, that's left a great issue we should have raised, but we didn't---

MS. ARMSTRONG: Thank you---

A ---prevail.

MS. ARMSTRONG: ---very much. Please answer any questions Mr. Zelenka may have.

A Okay.

Cross Examination by Mr. Zelenka:

Q Mr. Savitz.

A Mr. Zelenka.

Q In the brief before the South Carolina Supreme Court, the issue that you actually raised?

A Right.

Q Was, "The sentencing judge committed reversible error by excluding testimony that Bryant's aunt had been sexually abused by her father, Bryant's paternal grandfather; who the defense alleged also began abusing Bryant at the age of 7. Is this evidence relevant under rules 401 and 404, S.C. Re: in mitigating under the 8th and 14th Amendments of the United States Constitution. That's actually the issued raised; is that correct?

A That is correct.

Q That's the only issue you raised?

A Only one.

Q And this issue was raised in your brief after you had received the entire records of the guilty plea, the motion hearings that occurred the years before, and the sentencing proceeding which occurred almost a month after the entry of the guilty plea; is that correct?

A That's correct.

Q And is it also correct that as part of your practice, you would have reviewed the entire record.

A Yes, sir.

Q And in your view of the entire record, you would have read the pages immediately before the conclusion of the trial and the sentencing by the trial judge; is that not also correct?

A That's correct.

Q So it is not that you didn't read the matter back then.

A Yes.

Q It's at that time reading the matter as a whole, you decided that whatever you read, it's not an issue worth briefing before the South Carolina Supreme Court.

A That's well -- yeah, that's, I don't remember what I thought at the time. But I do remember or I do know what I thought when I read it just now which is exactly what was said. I didn't think -- I thought it was to attenuate from the crime. And I mean It just, you know, it was just too vague for me to do a whole lot with I thought.

Q Okay.

A But having said that, you know, I didn't have any abandonment issue on the sentence. I thought it would be a strategy decision not to raise It. I just didn't think it was an issue.

Q Let's go back to that.

A Okay.

Q It wasn't neglect on your part, but it wasn't presented; was it?

A No, I don't think so.

Q Okay. It wasn't because you failed to review the record.

A No.

Q And it wasn't because you thought you were limited to only presenting one issue before the court.

A No.

Q Correct?

A No, I think we are saying the same thing, I just didn't think it was an issue at the time.

MR. ZELENKA: Thank you. I have no further questions.

MS. ARMSTRONG: Your Honor, we would ask that Mr. Savitz be released from his....

THE COURT: Okay. Thank you, sir. Yes, ma'am.

MS. ARMSTRONG: Your Honor at this time, petitioner calls Dr. Donna Schwartz-Watts.

Donna Marie Schwartz-Watts, after being duly sworn, testified as follows:

Q By The Clerk)State your full name and spell your last for the record.

A Donna Marie Schwartz-Watts.

S-C-H-W-A-R-T-Z-W-A-T-T-S.

DIRECT EXAMINATION By Ms. Armstrong:

Q Good morning, Dr. Schwartz-Watts.

A Good morning.

MS. ARMSTRONG: I believe we can stipulate to Dr. Schwartz-Watts' qualifications as a forensic psychiatrist.

MR. ZELENKA: Stipulate to---

MS. ARMSTRONG: Her qualification.

MR. ZELENKA: As?

MS. ARMSTRONG: A forensic psychiatrist.

MR. ZELENKA: No objection.

THE COURT: Okay. The court so finds.

Q Dr. Schwartz-Watts, were you involved in the trial proceedings involving Stephen Corey Bryant in Sumter County?

A I was.

Q When did you first get involved in that case?

A Actually I was retained by Richland County originally. He had some charges there. I think the assault and battery with intent to kill charges. And I was retained by the attorney there. I had gone to Lee County. Mr. Bryant was being housed at the time as a safekeeper. And then I was later contacted by his lawyer for his capital charges.

Q Okay. And that would be here in Sumter County?

A Yes.

Q And do you remember which lawyer contacted you?

A I believe it was Mr. Babb.

Q Okay. When you first got involved in the case, did attorney Babb give you any materials or information about this case so that you could sort of get a sense of what happened?

A Yes.

Q Okay. Do you recall what you were provided?

A Sure I had, and I had prepared the report for the court. And that's spend some time, so I am going rely on that if that's okay. But I certainly had the discovery. That was related to the statements of the various persons. I've got a got a whole list of them. I've reviewed the autopsy reports. I had Dr. Crawford having interviewed Mr. Bryant. I had a transcript of that interview. I had -- I interviewed. And then I saw Mr. Bryant, and performed evaluations of him. I met with his aunt and his grandmother. And then I remember other consultants on the case and then I met with them as well. Dr. Bally did a neurological testing. Dr. Morgan was a psychopharmacologist.

I met with two neurologists, Dr. Gains and Dr. Self. I met with Dr. Margaret Melikian. She was a forensic psychiatrist. And had been retained on this case as well. So I interviewed a number of people and have consulted.

Q And so you prepared a report?

A I did.

Q Dr. Schwartz-Watts, I am going to show you what is preposed as Petitioner's Exhibit 20, and ask you to take a look at that and ask if you can identify that document.

A This is a copy of the report I submitted. My original is a little bit different. It was probably reprinted on USC letterhead. And then I had my actual signature. But this an accurate word for word copy of my report.

Q Okay.

MR. ZELENKA: Let me double check to see what we've got.

MS. ARMSTRONG: We would offer Petitioner's 20.

THE COURT: In without objection.

(Dr. Schwartz-Watts report marked Plaintiff's Exhibit No. 20 into evidence.)

Q I will let you hold this if you need it. Okay so it's fair to say you reviewed quite a bit of material in formulating your final report as well as trying to figure out sort of what was going on with Mr. Bryant.

A I did. And I need to add, I am sorry, Ms. Armstrong. He had had, I think the court's aware of this, he had been to YMCA. He had a few evaluations prior to his offenses too. I also had D.J.J. records. Any time and place and time where he had had psychiatric evaluation, I reviewed those records. I also had the detention center records. So I had even more than just the discovery. I had medical records, school records. His D.J.J. prior evaluations. He had been seen by a forensic psychiatrist Dr. Tracy Gunter there. So I also had reviewed records of his prior care.

Q Can you describe your relationship? Your working relationship, patient, doctor relationship with Mr. Bryant? How did that work go?

A Well I saw him, let's see, one, two, three, four, about nine times prior to the time I testified in this hearing I saw him. I evaluated him. And then there were also times before his proceedings that I had met with him. I had seen him three times since then, Your Honor. And then briefly today. Now I would characterize our relationship, It's a good working relationship. He's able to communicate with me as much as he's able to communicate with anyone. He, there are periods of time where he is very distracted. He is paranoid and it's hard to redirect him. And then there are other times that he, even though he is agitated, he will be cooperative.

Q And as a result of all the information that you have reviewed and your interviews with Mr. Bryant, did you develop any professional conclusions or opinion diagnoses of Mr. Bryant?

A Absolutely.

Q And those are contained in your report?

A Yes.

Q And if I understand your report, it was post traumatic stress disorder secondary to some sexual abuse that he experienced in his past.

A Yes.

Q Did Mr. Bryant talk to you, if I may approach.

A Yes.

Q In your discussions with Mr. Bryant, did he discuss with you what he could recall of the incidents that gave rise to these charges; specifically, the capital murder charge which was just related to the Teitjen homicide?

A Yes, he did.

Q Okay. How did you find his accounts? I mean, was he, did you think he was forthcoming? Was he consistent? How would you describe that information?

A Well if you keep in mind Mr. Bryant has had a severe post traumatic stress disorder. One of the worst cases I have ever seen. And so it depends on what you talk to about him. And I -- he was forthcoming with me. I -- his statements were certainly consistent with the evidence that I was able to review at the time. His, based on the history that he given me, I felt that they were certainly consistent with his mental illness. But it took a long period of time. I saw him numerous times before. You have to have a relationship with him before he is going to disclose any of these kinds of things. And I felt he was forthcoming with me.

Q Okay. Now did the issue of pornography ever come up in your discussions with Mr. Bryant?

A Absolutely.

Q Okay. Now you've reviewed Dr. Crawford's interview as well as, seen some of the statements that Mr. Bryant gave concerning the Teitjen homicide?

A I did.

Q Okay. Did you ever get any corroboration or any evidence related to pornography?

A No.

Q Is that something you asked for?

A I begged for it. Your Honor, I felt like Mr. Bryant as you got to know him and the more times you spent, and of course, it always happens that way. As we were close to the trial, he began disclosing more information. And I knew at that point and time back around that period of time 2008, I knew that there were people that were able to analyze computers. And I asked almost every time I saw someone, has anyone got in the computer. Can we look at the computer. And I would say I was very pesky about it. And I routinely asked for it.

Q Why did you need it?

A I felt like there wasn't a lot of evidence to corroborate Mr. Bryant's sexual abuse. And I absolutely believe the reports he's giving me. But of course it's not to have evidence of those things. The grandfather wrote an affidavit and denied that he sexually abused him. The mother denied that there was some inappropriate sexual contact. So this was a case where there wasn't a lot of people that he alleged were the perpetrators would come forth and admit it. So I had to rely on corroborating evidence.

So I certainly had the statements from the, you know, before this crime; where he reported these same people abused him. So it's one of those cases where I felt like the more evidence that corroborated the things he told me, the more believable it would have been for the court.

Q And is it uncommon for people who perpetrated criminal acts on children to deny it from your experience?

A It can be certainly. But I've certainly seen death penalty cases where the perpetrators did do that. They care enough about the individual that they are willing to admit that. So even under the threat of prosecution. But in this case it did not happen.

Q Okay. And in the discussions that Mr. Bryant had in the interview with Dr. Crawford, what role do you think the pornography issue had?

A Oh, based on her, his interview with her and with me, I think clearly pornography had a role in this crime.

Q How so?

A It explained to me what the role of pornography was based on my interviews with him. It explained the mutilation of Mr. Teitjen' body.

Q The burning of the eyes?

A Absolutely. And in his statement to Dr. Crawford. I think at some point he says if your eye offends you, poke it out. So I think it clearly explains the things there were particularly heinous about this crime. And the torturing I think is directly related to it.

Q Okay. Now there has been a good deal of discussion about, and you weren't here for this. But as to the timing of Mr. Bryant's seeing the pornography, in the interview that he had with Dr.

Crawford, and I can show it to you if you need to -- if that help refresh your recollection. But essentially he says, get to the page. September, September 13th interview. I am sorry, October 13th interview. He talks about discussing pornography and with the victim. And then afterwards going to the computer and confirming that it was pornography.

How is that relevant?

A Yeah, and I am aware that that's consistent with my memory of what he told as well. It's very relevant that again, all of these crimes, Your Honor, in my opinion had some sexual motivation to them. In each of these instances he told me that he felt threatened by the victim in some way, shape or form. And just had -- just having very uncomfortable feelings and anxiety.

And so the fact that before the crime he states that they were talking about pornography, sex with younger children and that sort of thing. But the victim was saying that that was something he enjoyed that was a trigger for him.

Mr. Bryant told me then he asked to go to the bathroom. And there was a struggle that ensued. And then afterwards he had seen the pornography.

Q Okay. So when he saw it, it wasn't in and of itself depositive of the relevance.

A Oh, in my opinion, no. The fact that they had all -- I think what's the important what the trigger was, they were discussing those things even before he had gone to the bathroom. But to me the computer, it just verified, it gave some credibility to his accounts. And then in my opinion it certainly explained the mutilation of his body.

Q Okay. Do you think that was a significant factor?

A It was crucial.

Q Now after the close of evidence and prior to the actual imposition of sentence, there was an unexpected witness who popped up. That person being Edward Gause. Have you had a chance to look at the statement he gave to John Davis?

A I did.

Q Okay. You never saw this obviously. You weren't there in the courtroom when Mr. Gause became known?

A No.

Q Okay. Now defense counsel asked to reopen the case and that was denied. But Mr. Gause's testimony, his coming forward and saying what he saw which was approximately a month before, before the homicides began would that have been used by you in any way?

A Absolutely.

Q How?

A Again, we didn't have a lot of data points and time before these charges. And that's another instance where he doesn't have criminal charges at that time. There is no reason for him to be mentally or fabricated symptoms and a neutral person observes that something is very wrong with him.

Q So Mr. in other words, Mr. Gause's statement, his version of what he saw and when he saw it, that would been the corroboration?

A Absolutely. It's consistent with the way he presented to why, when to his aunt and his grandmother. And referred to Healthy Minds at the Y. It's consistent with his presentation here. And this was a case where he didn't have a lot of corroborating evidence to show that he had been abused. So again, it's just another point and time before the crime of someone giving you a history that's consistent with what my observations have been of him for over seven years now.

Q Okay. And obviously you remember your cross examination at trial.

A Yes.

Q Was corroboration an issue?

A Absolutely.

Q So any corroborating evidence, would it be fair to say that that would have been helpful to you?

A Absolutely. And in my opinion I think it would have bolstered the credibility of his statements and my testimony as well.

MS. ARMSTRONG: Thank you. Please answer any questions the attorney general may have.

A Sure.

Cross Examination by Mr. Zelenka:

Q Dr. Watts, before you prepared your September 3rd, 2008 report, you included in it sources of information.

A Yes, sir.

Q Correct?

A Yes, sir.

Q And the sources of information or this, not simply material you received, but it's material you actually reviewed; isn't that correct?

A Yes, sir.

Q Okay. And in that review of the material you had the various statements the defendant gave; as well as, the September, excuse me, October 13th, 2004, transcript of Dr. Crawford's interview of the defendant.

A I did.

Q As well as October 19th.

A Yes, sir.

Q Let me show you personal pages and ask if that appears to be the document that you reviewed concerning Dr. Crawford's evaluation.

A Yes, sir. That's familiar to me.

MR. ZELENKA: Your Honor, we would like to introduce this as respondent's exhibit in this matter.

THE COURT: What says the defense?

MS. ARMSTRONG: No objection.

THE COURT: What number is that?

COURT REPORTER: It will be 4.

THE COURT: Okay. It's in without objection.

(Defendant's Exhibit No. 4 marked into evidence.)

Q The diagnosis that you gave was post traumatic stress disorder, cannabis dependence in a controlled environment, hallucinogenic abuse, sedative abuse, amphetamine abuse by history, attention deficit hyperactivity disorder by history. Dysthymia by history, anti-social personality disorder, Axis III, sinusitis and weight loss. Axis IV problems with legal system problems related to social environment, occupational problems, economic problems. Problems with access to health care services. And Axis V No. 35 which you designate as permanent impairment several areas; correct?

A Yes, sir.

Q And you've testified on direct that you had met with the defendant approximately 9 times before you testified in September 2008.

A Yes, sir.

Q And in your discussions with the defendant, as I understood your direct examination and your testimony at the trial, you asserted that he had reported to you that at the Teitjen residence he had had a discussion with Mr.

Teitjen. That that discussion involved the discussion about young girls.

A Yes, sir.

Q He had, Mr. Teitjen, had viewed some young girls on some websites?

A Yes.

Q Correct?

A Yes, sir.

Q But did not include going into the computer at that stage with Mr. Teitjen and viewing the websites or any materials with Mr. Teitjen; is that correct?

A That's correct. Not that I recall. He told me they had some discussions before.

Q And then after a physical incident occurs with the defendant and Mr. Teitjen. Before he leaves, he goes on the computer; correct?

A Yes.

Q As being what he told you. And looked at the victim's interview history.

A I don't recall. I am sure that's what he did. But I just remember I think the gist of what I got is that he looked at the computer and saw pornography on it.

Q That's suggested.

A Yes, sir.

Q Okay. Let me ask you to refer to Defendant's Exhibit No. 3 page 5 in the last paragraph of the defendant's handwritten statement. And let me know when you have finished reading that.

A Yes.

Q In that portion of the statement, he is relaying that he went on and viewed the internet history and saw and or suggested that there were more sites on there than Mr. Teitjen had described; correct?

A Yes. Basically it says he turned on his computer, noticed the passwords written on a piece of paper. Typed in the password. The computer came on. He looked under the history to see if what he said was true. And there were more sites than I can count of nude young girls.

Q So the information that you were consistently receiving both from the defendant's earlier statements and the statements to you, was that he didn't go on Mr. Teitjen's computer at all until after the violence had been perpetrated on Mr. Teitjen.

A That's consistent with what he told me, yes.

Q Now at the trial even with that -- even armed with that information and your discussions with the defendant, it appears that you were presenting the masons as being more of a discussion that he was having with the victim. More is a basis as to why he was committing some violence towards the victim. Is that correct?

A Yes and no. That overall is correct. What happened was at that period of time, he had a lot of paranoid ideas about the masons. And it had to do with the court proceedings at the time too, Mr. Zelenka. But yes, what he states is he believes that Mr. Teitjen assaulted him because of his knowledge of the masons. But what he had told me is he had gone to the bathroom. And when he left the bathroom, he was punched in the back of the head. And he believed that that assault occurred because of the conversation of what happened about the masons. And the masonic knowledge he possessed, yes.

Q Just so we are clear about knowledge of the masons and maybe I am misunderstanding it. The knowledge of the masons that Mr. Teitjen had given the defendant about masonic secrets or what?

A No, no. To me, yes. But Mr. Bryant what his perception was is that Mr. Teitjen was upset that he knew so much. He had prior knowledge about the masons and so that that was the cause for the upset.

Q And is that what the defendant is telling you was the reason why he committed the assault on Mr. Teitjen?

A No, it certainly had to do with it. But he perceived that he was assaulted and so then he assaulted back as well. He thought he was in harms way.

Q Again, but that assault was not based upon Mr. Teitjen's statements about young girls or pornography.

A Based on what he told me, but who knows. Again there is, Mr. Bryant will tell you there were some things known as patchy during those periods of time. But I think it's very fair to say there was some sexuality involved and the masons were involved.

Q But he's not saying that was the basis for the strike.

A No, sir.

Q Never at any time? To you.

A Not that I recall. Certainly the other cases he later disclosed that. But then it had to do with, he was upset about the sexual conversations and he was upset about the masonic exchanges.

Q And there was no pornography in the other cases; was there?

A Not that I know of. I think those were out on the street. They were not -- they were literally out in public and not in a home environment.

Q Okay. Do you recall at trial how you explained or theorized about the damage that occurred to the victim's eyes? Or what was your assessment at particular time?

A Well I absolutely felt like it was related to his mental illness and his diminished capacity. But and I felt it was sexually related.

Q Now in your review of those materials, questions there were presented to you at the time of trial about the existence of planning and malice aforethought; is that correct?

A Yes.

Q And you were aware of a theme that had been presented through here deriving from the defendant's own telephone statements that he was the prowler.

A Yes.

Q Correct?

A Yes.

Q And being the prowler was related factually to a law enforcement belief and theory that the defendant had actually been present at the scene before and had been planing at least a criminal incident at the Teitjen house; correct?

A Yes.

Q And the information you have was supportive of that theory; isn't that correct?

A I don't know. I think that's what we got. I think Mr. Saleeby did a really good job of showing all the instances where there were -- my understanding was they -- it was going to be, his intent was to burglarize homes.

Q Okay. Well in making your mental health assessment of his criminal responsibility on that date, how did the fact that he was referring to himself as the prowler, how did that fall into your assessment?

A That's a good question. I guess having him charged with the burglaries that would have been more of an issue. But because of the fact that there was murder. But it certainly would say that one of legal reasons that he could have been in the house was to rob it.

What he told me, you have to keep in mind when I'm looking at his mental state, I have to base it on what he tells me. At the time back in 2006, he didn't have a memory of some of the mutilation. He was at a loss to explain some of the things. But certainly if someone has an intent to go in and rob that would indicate some kind of plan and some kind of forethought and an intent.

Q Okay. Did he explain to you why he stayed at the house throughout the day?

A Well he told me he had run out of gas. And that he had called Judy. Well basically what he told me, he had run out of gas. He had called Judy a number of times, and couldn't get a ride; that he went inside the victim's home. And that the victim was very nice to him. And they were talking and they exchanged knowledge about masons. And then the sexual innuendos came up and there was an assault and then the death.

Q Okay. In your discussions with the defendant, did you discuss with him his habits on going on the computers viewing pornography?

A I recall I read the report this morning and I saw that there was some, I think his girlfriend had complained about that.

Q Judy Justice?

A But I don't recall, I certainly didn't take any kind of sexual disorder of Mr. Bryant. You know, I screen for those things. But I don't, I'm sorry I don't know what details we would have discussed.

Q Okay.

A I would have put them in there had they been important.

Q You would have put them in there had they been important.

A Yes, I would hope so, or if I had that knowledge.

Q Well with the information you had, it is reflected that the defendant had some idea, some understanding of internet browsing history on a computer; correct?

A Sure. Sure. And I do recall that Mr. Bryant was computer savvy for that point and time, sure.

Q And Ms. Justice said the defendant's use of pornography was a problem in their relationship.

A She put that in the statement. The problem was, I was never able to talk with her. By the time I got on the case as you see, it was 2004 when the assault and battery. I wasn't retained for the death penalty case until 2006. And I think by that time she was no longer communicating with Mr. Babb on his team. And so I was never able to speak with her. But I know that she had written a statement indicating that that was a problem.

Q Okay.

A I would have loved to talk to her and tried to.

Q Do you know if the social worker retained on the case had any information in speaking with her, Dr. Marty Lorene?

A I can't recall if she did or not, I am sorry.

Q So you have no recollection even though you now believe that the sexual nature was important in the case; that the defendant has had discussions with the victim about pornography. So you never asked the defendant about his own habits about pornography?

A No, I'm saying I am sure I did. But it probably, if it was any kind of pathology, I would have included it. I just don't remember. I am sorry.

Q Okay.

A I would routinely do that. But I do remember enough that I didn't have any, I had no inclination that there was a sexual disorder. That he was a parapyelitic; that he was a sadist or masochist. I didn't have any preexisting knowledge of that or any deviant sexual practices on his part. And I don't remember the nature to of the pornography he looked at. But had it been defiant enough probably if I had that information I would have put that in the report.

Q Now in your report if you would go to medical history.

A Yes, sir.

Q And I ask you to review that and refresh your recollection on the existence of tattoos on the defendant at the time.

A Yes.

Q And what information did you have concerning the existence of tattoos?

A I put Mr. Bryant has a number of tattoos including a tribal falcon on his right hand. Which he said was a Cherokee sign. An hour glass. A sign, a cross. He states he got these about seven years ago, but does not remember why. And a fairy. And then I put in parenthesis which he says represents wicken.

Q In your determination of his metal capacity, did you view those tattoos?

A The ones that were visible; yes. And I think on his chest, you can in fact he showed us today even. He can turn his shirt over and you can see a portion of it.

Q A fairly large tattoo? Visible?

A Yes, sir.

Q Evident to anybody who would be viewing it?

A Unless he had a shirt, a long shirt.

Q And he had that tattoo back on the time you did your interview with him?

A Yes.

Q And now are you aware Mr. Gause didn't see any tattoos on the defendant?

A Mr. Bryant and I believe Ms. Armstrong relayed that me this morning.

Q Or he didn't see any tattoos on the person, that he saw one the month before.

A I would take your word for that.

Q Now with respect to begging for someone to look at the computer, were you aware that the defense team had retained Jeff Nailer?

A Yes.

Q And what was your relationship with Mr. Nailer back in 2008?

A We were married at that time, I believe. Yes, we were married.

Q And who were you begging to look at computer in 2008?

A Mr. Babb. I would call just each time. And Carolyn Graham who would have been a mitigation expert. I kept asking, please, I need to see the computer. I would like to see the computer. I think we also even asked for Mr. Bryant's computer too. I've learned over time that's a great source of information about somebody's mental state. You know, a lot of people put things on computers that are helpful.

Q Okay.

A So I believe I asked for any computers that they had. Because those will come up in a number of these cases now.

Q Okay. And do you know whether there was any viewing of the computers by either Mr. Nailer or Mr. Babb upon your request?

A I have no idea -- no recollection of what they did. I know that I kept asking and I was told it was not available.

Q And you're aware that Mr. Nailer a computer expert, had been retained by the defense in this case; correct?

A I didn't have a recollection of that, but I would have no reason to doubt that. That...

Q Okay. Court's indulgence. Dr. Watts, on Dr. Crawford's statement, let me ask you to refer to page 95. Lines---

A Yes, sir.

Q ---15 through is 24.

A Which interview statement are you talking about?

Q That would be the 10/13/2004 statement that's in evidence.

A Yes.

Q Is that information consistent with the the information that he had expressed to you?

A Yes.
Q And again that has him looking at the computer through the safed history in the computer?
A Yes, his words exactly. And somehow I remember, I am thinking it was afterwards that he was there; that I had somehow gotten on his computer and actually seen it for myself what all there was.
MR. ZELENKA: No further questions.
THE COURT: Thank you. Redirect.
MS. ARMSTRONG: Briefly, Your Honor.
REDIRECT EXAMINATION by Ms. Armstrong:
Q I just want to touch on a few things. On cross examination the solicitor, excuse me, the attorney general was asking you about masons, and the scuffle that occurred prior to the shooting. I just want to make it clear or get you to clarify for me. What I think your theory was about all these crimes was, that Mr. Bryant suffered sever post-traumatic stress disorder. And was very paranoid?
A Yes.
Q And the sexual abuse was the root of his mental illness?

A That's correct. And that in each of those cases he somehow felt he was going to be harmed.

Q And you're not suggesting this is rational thought. It's a product of his mental illness and paranoia?

A It's a complication from post-traumatic stress disorder. You get intermittent paranoid ideation. Which every time you meet with Mr. Bryant that's been an issue. Medications help, but there are many times a day where he becomes very mistrustful of others. Frightened, anxious, acutely paranoid.

Q And so discussion about masons and his paranoia about that he was -- that was sort of stemming from this post-traumatic stress disorder?

A I am not sure. I am sure -- Mr. Bryant has always had an interest in that. And that's been theme. He's certainly not talked about it in the last few years. But it was certainly germane. The reason why it was so prevalent at that period of time, he had some ideas about Judge Russo and this was causing him concern; that he was paranoid about the judge. So those issues were much more on the front burner in the last few years than I have seen them.

Q And if I understand your testimony. It was also your theory that the post mortem mutilation of the eyes was directly related to this discovering the discussion about porn and corroborating that on the computer. That that was his reaction to poke out the eye that used this evidence of young girls in sex acts. I mean that's sort of.

A Yes, that's exactly my finding. And I base that also Dr. Crawford saw him closer to the time of the crime. And he literally told her, I think I put it in the report. And I am quoting it. I was trying to find the exact quote. He reported, "If his eyes go astray poke them out." He also reported knowing there is more of them out there.

Q Okay. And it is also your testimony that you prior to trial, repeatedly asked for any evidence of pornography on the computers.

A I did.

Q And you were never provided pornography that was found on the Teitjen computer.

A No.

Q Nor were you provided with the evidence that there was no pornography found on the computers that Mr. Bryant had access to.

A That's correct.

MS. ARMSTRONG: Thank you.

MS. ZELENKA: Just one follow up.

Recross Examination by Mr. Zelenka:

Q But you were provided with information from the investigative discovery that the perpetrator had left a note at the scene and saying referring to, No more sick computer; correct?

A I do recall that.

Q Okay. So and in your report you were at that time with that information, and the information that Mr. Bryant had given to you about the computer, you were relating that at that time to the poking out, or the poking of the eyes; isn't that correct?

A I was. But in my opinion, I mean to have the evidence there would have been a lot more supportive of my opinion. I think it really opened me up on cross. And you know me well enough, I will speak my opinion anyway if I have it to a reasonable degree of medical certainty. But it was, I think it was very important. Okay.

MS. ARMSTRONG: Just one final question.

REDIRECT EXAMINATION by Ms. Armstrong:

Q Dr. Watts, and the record will speak to this. Do you feel like the absence of this pornography led to subject to the cross examination and the questions about corroboration?

A Sure. It was very important to have. Again it was because you don't have the people that he alleges perpetrated this abuse. And so any kind of evidence that you can show that he was being truthful or relating details if there was corroboration number one, would be important. And then the fact that they did have a sexual nature and it certainly was consistent with the symptoms he was reporting to me. It was more evidence for me. It would have in my opinion it was important.

THE COURT: Let me ask you one question.

A Yes.

THE COURT: During the trial in front of Judge Russo, what was his demeanor? And was it similar as it is today?

A Yes, sir. There were periods of time he would pay attention, and it was difficult for him. He was always nervous, as anxious as he is today. He was always shaking. And there were periods of time where he would blurt out. He might blurt out some things. But and you also see as you witnessed today. It was very similar. He will talk with his attorneys when he has issue. But it was very similar, Your Honor.

THE COURT: Thank you. I don't have anything further. You can step down.

MS. ARMSTRONG: I would ask that Dr. Watts be relieved.

THE COURT: Any problem?

MR. ZELENKA: No objection.

A Thank you.

THE COURT: You can call your next witness.

MS. ARMSTRONG: Thank you, Your Honor. May we have a very brief break?

THE COURT: Sure.

MS. ARMSTRONG: Thank you, Your Honor.

THE COURT: We will take 10 minutes.

(Whereupon, court breaks.)

MR. TAYLOR: At this time we would call Dudley Saleeby.

THE COURT: Okay.

Dudley Saleeby, Jr. being first duly sworn, testified as follows:

THE CLERK: State your full name and spell your last for the record.

A Dudley Saleeby, Jr S-A-L-E-E-B-Y.

MR. TAYLOR: May It Please the Court.

THE COURT: Yes, sir.

Direct Examination by Mr. Taylor:

Q Mr. Saleeby, my name is Heath Taylor. I don't know if we have had the pleasure of meeting one another.

A Yes, sir, we have.

Q But I have been appointed to represent Mr. Bryant in this post conviction relief matter. I am going to ask you a few questions and try not to keep you too long if that's okay.

A As much as you need, sir.

Q Solicitor Jackson testified yesterday that you were primarily handling the presentation and investigation from the solicitor's office standpoint of the Teitjen murder; correct?

A Yeah, the presentation. I marshaled those reports. And actually all the reports on all the cases. But in terms of presentation, my job was to present testimony as it related to the events at Mr. Teitjen's house.

Q And you were concerned about getting documents and things together, how were the responsibilities allocated among you and Solicitor Jackson?

A Everything that came in got stamped in and went into a central file. I usually prepared the drafts and then he and I reviewed them together. Methodically document by document to make sure that we were getting what needed to be distributed distributed.

Q If I can have a moment to pull a few exhibits out here. Mr. Saleeby, were you aware at some point that a computer that Mr. Bryant used, a computer that his I believe cousin or a family member of his used, as well as two computers from the Teitjen residence were and or consensually provided during this investigation?

A Mr. Taylor, until I reviewed the file this morning, I only remembered the computers that came from the Mr. Teitjen's house. One, I remembered one. And one that came from the residence of Mr. Bryant. When I thumbed through it this morning, this is the first time I looked at it in four years. I realized that there were two other computers that were seized.

Q I understand. Now and I know we are in a different era with computers than we were in 2004.

We've come a long way so to speak. Everybody has to know a little something about computers.

A Mr. Taylor, I am probably where I was in 2004. I am proud of that.

Q I can certainly understand that and state that as well. But as far as these computers were concerned, you are aware that they were seized and analyzed by sled; correct?

A I was aware because we had the search warrants early on. And eventually we got a report from sled, their computer division whatever they call it.

Q Do you know what they did to analyze the computers as we sit here today?

A Not really. I mean I am thinking they download some things and look at them. Okay, but I don't know how or where.

Q As you were preparing this case for trial, or let me back up. Discovery to produce to defense counsel, was there ever any indication of anyone looking at pornography on any of these computers provided to you or the Solicitor Jackson?

A I don't recall any of the reports or receiving anything that indicated that.

Q I am going to ask---

A Well other than the defendant's allegations.

Q Yes, sir.

A I mean there were two or three statements that I briefly reviewed this morning where he said such a thing happened.

Q Yes, sir.

A What do you mean, did I receive anything else? No, sir.

Q I am going to ask you if you can identify Plaintiff's 1 and 2. Your Honor, may I approach?

THE COURT: Sure.

A One?

Q Yes, sir.

A Plaintiff's Exhibit No. 1 appears to be what would be the summary part of the sled case report. It was rather voluminous.

Q And it does not have the attachments, but it has an index referencing the attachments.

A Yes, sir. This is attachment 79. And I skimmed through this this morning. And this appears to be same the pages.

Q So based on what you have there at attachment 79, did you at that time in your position as assistant solicitor handling the Teitjen murder, I believe you had everything from sled?

A Yes, sir.

Q As far as computers were concerned.

A Yes, sir, I did. I did, yeah.

Q Now I am going to show you a document marked Plaintiff's Exhibit No. 3, Your Honor, may I approach?

THE COURT: Yes, sir.

A I have never seen this before.

Q Never seen that before.

A No, sir.

Q You've never seen that before.

A No, sir.

Q You've never seen the case management history prepared by Senior Agent David Givens.

A No, sir, I haven't. And I don't recall ever receiving a form from sled like this at any of their other forensic subdivisions.

Q And after -- and you've had the opportunity to see that earlier this morning; haven't you?

A Mr. Zelenka showed me this exhibit about 3 minutes ago. Right.

Q And you saw the portions where it referenced pornography on Mr. Teitjen's computer?
A Well I didn't look at that very quickly.
Q If you can go---
A I know there is a reference somewhere in here.
Q It's 10/26.
A 10/26. Is this the one that says---
Q I'm sorry.
A ---computer time was determined to be 13 hour fast.
Q That was---
A The time line was drafted.
Q Right.
A That's news to me. Is there another entry?
Q Yes, sir. Let me get back here to it.
A I see one on 11/2/04, which says reviewed it. Noted absence of pornography. Is there another one?
Q When you noted the absence of pornography, that was Mr. Bryant's computer; right?
A Okay. All right, well I don't know.
Q Well if you look up and where 11/2 starts says, received e-mail from W. Johnson. Bryant's

HDM images---

A Yeah, yeah, yeah, I got that.

Q Required image.

A Okay.

Q And then he obviously did it. And he noted the absence of pornography---

A Right.

Q ---on Mr. Bryant's computer. Now and you go on over 11/20 or 10/21. It's several pages back.

A Okay.

Q These are as Agent Givens testified, sort of his week ending notes. So they call kind of---

A Help me find that one. I am sure it is here.

Q It's going to be probably about six or eight pages back.

A All right. I'm not trying to be difficult here.

Q I understand. I understand. I think the only person that understands these fully are Agent Givens. Keep on going. One more or two more.

A This here?

Q Right there, yeah.

A Okay. You want me to read that?

Q Yes, sir, if you will.

A Hold on. I see something on 10/20/04, about Barton saying look at Mr. Teitjen's computer.

Q Right.

A Okay here it is. Reviewed gallery images. Located adult porn. No child or bestiality photos. Located several pornographic movies. Movies within the program files.

Q Okay. Mr. Saleeby, had you had these notes, do you think it would have, what is the proper word, prompted you to ask sled for further information for discovery purposes?

A Well I think the first thing I would have done is just go ahead and forward this to the defense attorneys to let them know that was there. You asked me a question if I knew some impression.

Q But certainly had you or Solicitor Jackson had that, you would have forwarded that as discoverable; correct?

A Yeah, yeah. It was just as I repeat, note here not to send it on.

Q Absolutely. Absolutely. So there wasn't anything you or Solicitor Jackson intentionally withheld.

A No, sir.
Q Okay. Because you never saw.
A Never got this report.
Q And you can understand how if a defense counsel had seen that they may have taken extra steps to try to get these internet histories and things of that nature.
A As I see, well, I'm not disagreeing with you, but I see it sort of cuts both ways. On the one hand, the no child or bestiality photo contradicts what he said. On the other hand, if it says there were some pornography it may corroborate and likewise put him on the scene. So it's the sort of thing that to me as a lawyer, that could be used both ways. But if your question is, pass this on, if we got it, sure.
Q I am sure I know the answer to this. But Plaintiff's, 5, 6 -- 4, 5, 6 and 7 are internet history dealing with pornography on Mr. Teitjen's computer. Have you ever see those documents?
A Absolutely not, sir.
Q And you would agree with me too, had those documents been in your possession, it would have been incumbent upon you to provide them to defense counsel. If they were in fact the Internet histories in Mr. Teitjen's computer.

A If that's what they are, there would be no reason not to send them. And I must tell you as I looked at them, I have no idea what I'm looking at.

Q Well I will just represent to you that---

A I trust what you say.

Q Senior Agent Givens testified that that was internet history. Did you yourself ever have any conversation with anyone at sled about what they found on any of the computers?

A I think I called Mr. Givens before we were getting ready to proceed with a jury trial some time to put him on standby to find out if he would be available. I don't remember much more other than that about, we don't think we'll have to use you as a witness. You may have be used in rebuttal. Can we get up with you.

Q Do you remember the portion in his report, that being Agent Givens, where he says nothing of evidentiary value was found?

A Yeah.

Q Now would you agree with me that finding pornography on these computers or the absence of the pornography on another computer was of evidentiary value?

A On the second part that the evidence of pornography on the other computer, if I recall what his girlfriend at the time Judy Justice said; was that, she had had some sort of problem and she had maybe dealt with that. But if there was anything that dealt with Mr. Teitjen's computer, why not pass that on.

Q Okay. So you would agree that would have evidentiary value.

A Yeah, both ways.

Q Yes, sir. And something that would have needed to be turned over.

A Yeah.

Q And Solicitor Jackson mentioned in his closing that Mr. Bryant had looked at pornography on the computer. What is your understanding of where that information came from?

A All right, first of all, I don't remember his argument. I am not disagreeing with you. And the only sources I know that he said he looked at pornography would have been his various statements that sometime after the fact that he had accessed the computer.

Q Right. And you would agree with me that had defense counsel or without having these internet histories defense counsel had absolutely no way to corroborate or refute that statement; did they?

A Nor did we. I would have preferred to have been able to corroborate it or refute it one way or the other. It would have been useful to us.

Q So you agree---

A So we pretty much were, I was resigned to the possibility we just have to accept what he said and deal with it whether it was the truth or not. There was no way we could contradict it.

Q So you would agree with me then these internet histories or this information would have been material for both the state and the defense?

A Useful, for sure. Material a judgment call.

MR. TAYLOR: Thank you, sir. That's all the questions I have.

Cross Examination by Mr. Zelenka:

Q Just a couple of things. Mr. Saleeby, with respect to who I believe you refer to it as Exhibit 79.

A The attachment 79; yes, sir.

Q Attachment 79. You provided those attachments from the sled report to the defense counsel prior to trial; isn't that correct?

A Yes, sir, we did.

Q And do you recall a situation where the judge ordered disclosure based upon a motion that was made by Mr. Babb and any materials that weren't disclosed were supposed to provided to the court for its review?

A I have a faint recollection of that.

Q Okay. Let me give you a document and see if this refreshes part of your recollection about that.

A Yes, sir. Yes, sir, I remember this now.

Q And let me provide you Plaintiff's Exhibit 17, which is a discovery order.

A I would say yes, sir, this is what it appears to be.

Q Okay. And what is that? Could you identify November 17th 2009? 2007 document.

A Yes, sir. This document is November of 2007, on the letterhead of a Solicitor's Office Third Judicial Circuit. Signed by Solicitor Jackson saying that in compliance with the judge's order of October 30th 2007, which I think is Plaintiff's Exhibit No. 17; that we are providing copies of discovery documents and then, "miscellaneous items," which don't pertain to a particular victim's case.

Q Okay. And who is that being provided to?

A Judge Russo. And as I recall, it was a batch of materials forwarded to him, I believe, in Florence.

Q Okay.

A But I don't recall who or where -- who or when.

MR. ZELENKA: Your Honor, we would move as Respondent's Exhibit November 13th 2007, letter.

THE COURT: What says the defense?

MR. TAYLOR: I have no objection, Your Honor.

(Letter marked Defendant's Exhibit No. 5 into evidence.)

Q Mr. Saleeby, prior to the September 2008 trial, did you ever have any discussions with any law enforcement concerning whether they had found child porn or bestiality photographs on any of the computers, if you recall?

A What I recall is, as I was thumbing through the notes I found, a note where I checked with the law enforcement officers and said is there anything in the phone records or the computer records that we need to know. I may have asked Mr. Givens whether or not he found any child porn. But I got no confirmation of that. That was a deadend so far as I knew.

Q When you were thinking about the computers back between 2004 and 2008, what matters of significance were you looking for in that relationship between Mr. Teitjen's computer and Mr. Bryant's computer and the like?

A Anything on Mr. Bryant's computer that would connect him with any of the victims, including Mr. Teitjen, or I was wondering not knowing if you can do this, not being computer savvy, if there was anything on Mr. Teitjen's computer that could be linked to Mr. Bryant having access. I didn't know if that could be done or not. And so far as I know, it couldn't be done or wasn't done.

MR. ZELENKA: Okay. No further questions.

MR. TAYLOR: Briefly on redirect, Your Honor.

REDIRECT EXAMINATION by Mr. Taylor:

Q Mr. Saleeby, this letter that has been entered as Respondent's No. 5, that was, I guess, a decision by you and Solicitor Jackson, to get it per the order, to give everything you had, and were getting to defense counsel so the judge could see it; correct?

A Well we were giving it to the judge per his order for him to make an individual review of.

Q Okay.

A And we were complying and saying here is what we have got.

Q Okay. Do you know if the judge removed anything?

A I don't know what happened to it as it was transmitted. But I don't recall the details of it being transmitted.

Q But even though everything you had was transmitted to Judge Russo, these internet history notes are from Agent Givens.

A And the two documents that you showed me. Or the three documents, we never received those.

Q Okay. So those would not have been transmitted to Judge Russo for his review.

A No, sir.

MR. TAYLOR: Thank you. That's all the questions I have.

MR. ZELENKA: Nothing on redirect.

THE COURT: Is there any reason he can't be excused?

MR. TAYLOR: None from us, Your Honor.

MR. ZELENKA: No objection, Your Honor.

MR. TAYLOR: Your Honor, we would call Mr. Bryant.

THE COURT: Okay.

THE CLERK: State your full name and spell your last for the record.

A Stephen Corey Bryant.

DIRECT EXAMINATION by Mr. Taylor:

Q Your last name is spelled B-R-Y-A-N-T. Mr. Bryant, we are going to be pretty quick. I know this is sort of stressful for you, okay. Do you remember in 2008, you pled guilty to number of murders and burglaries and things of that nature; don't you?

A Yeah.

Q Do you remember that? And was that upon that advice of your counsel at the time?

A Yes it was.

Q And your counsel at the time, Mr. Clark,

Mr. Howle, and I think, Mr. Babb was also still assisting somewhat; correct?

A No.

Q And why did you ultimately plead guilty?

A He told me it was the best opportunity for me.

Q He told you it was the best opportunity for what?

A To not get death.

Q So if you waive your right to a jury trial, you would have a better shot of getting a life sentence as opposed to a death sentence?

A Yes.

Q And did they also, and you signed a number of documents. And did they also tell you that if you went to a jury trial with this overwhelming evidence that the state could sort of play fast and loose with the rules?

A Yes.

MR. TAYLOR: That's all the questions I have, Your Honor. Thank you.

Cross Examination by Mr. Zelenka:

Q Mr. Bryant, when you plead guilty in August of 2012, you were aware that Judge Russo was then going to be the individual that sentenced you; isn't that correct? Mr. Bryant, did you understand my question?

Mr. Bryant, were you aware that Judge Russo was going to be the individual that sentenced you? Are you refusing to answer my questions? Is that why you put the speaker down? Mr. Bryant, are you going to answer my question?

A I don't want to talk to him. He lies too much.

Q Mr. Bryant, did you give written statements to law enforcement in 2004, concerning your involvement---

MR. TAYLOR: Your Honor, I would object. That is beyond the scope of direct. If he wants to ask him about his plea or the decision to plea, it's okay. But that's beyond the scope of direct.

MR. ZELENKA: I don't think that's -- he has filed an application for post-conviction relief alleging as a plaintiff, that his guilty plea was not properly entered based upon the advice of counsel. That allegation was made in a sworn declaration. I am asking him questions related to the matters and proceeding before the court.

THE COURT: Okay. I will allow you to ask it.

MR. TAYLOR: Thank you, Your Honor.

Cross Examination by Mr. Zelenka:

Q Mr. Bryant, when you pled guilty, did you know you were going to be sentenced by Judge Russo rather than a jury?

Mr. Bryant, when you pled guilty did you understand you were pleading guilty to having committed murder upon Mr. Teitjen on October 11th 2004? Mr. Bryant, when you pled guilty and acknowledged that you were guilty of the crimes involving Mr. Gainey, Mr. Burgess, were you aware that you were going to be sentenced by Judge Russo as a result of those crimes?

Mr. Bryant, do you wish to proceed on your application for post-conviction relief?

Mr. Bryant, you have declared that you are not answering my questions because you are specifically asserting that I have lied. What are the lies that you are referring to I have made? Please take your time and answer my question.

MR. TAYLOR: Your Honor, can we have a brief recess?

THE COURT: Okay.

MR. ZELENKA: Your Honor, the witness is on the witness stand. And I believe---

THE COURT: I understand. You can't talk to the witness right now. Let me talk to you all.

MR. ZELENKA: Okay.

(Whereupon, the Court takes a short recess.)

THE COURT: Mr. Bryant, this proceeding has been filed by you, and it is for your benefit. And so I need you to answer any questions that the attorney is going to be asking to you if you can. You know, the fact that you don't answer these questions isn't helping you. I mean, the proceeding is brought by you. So when he asks you a question, I need you to answer them, okay. Start again, Mr. Attorney General.

Cross Examination by Mr. Zelenka:

Q Mr. Bryant, did you plead guilty in August of 2008, to the crime involving the murder of Mr. Teitjen?

A You've got a document with my signature on it; don't you?

Q Were you present in court when you admitted guilt for the death of Mr. Teitjen?

A Repeat that question.

Q Were you present in court when you pled guilty admitting your involvement in the death of Mr. Teitjen?

A Yes.

Q I'm sorry?

THE COURT: He said yes.

Q He said yes. Were you aware at that time that as result of that Judge Russo was going to sentence you rather than have a jury sentence you?

A I was aware of that.

Q Okay. Had you met with Mr. Howle and Mr. Clark before you entered your plea where you received that information; that that is what was going to happen as a result of your plea?

A Howle was on medical leave.

Q You were on medical leave?

A Howle was on medical leave.

Q Was Mr. Babb on medical leave?

A What Babb's first name?

Q Jim.

A Yeah.

Q Do you remember a meeting at Mr. Clark's office?

A I remember that.

Q And at that meeting, the decision to plead guilty rather than have a jury trial was discussed; isn't that correct?

A Not that I remember.

Q You don't remember having that discussion?

A Not at his office.

Q Where did you have that discussion?

A I think it was in prison.

Q In prison? Prior to the time that you entered your guilty plea?

A Yeah.

Q Okay. You were not given any promises that you would receive a light sentence as a result of these crimes; were you?

A I was promised more likely than not I wouldn't get the death.

Q More likely than not. What did that mean to you?

A I was told the judge wasn't for the death penalty.

Q You were told the judge wasn't for the death penalty?

A He told me that if I plead guilty, he would more than likely not, be lenient on me and just give me life.

Q Did they guarantee that that would happen? They didn't; did they?

A No.

Q At the time you pled guilty, you knew you were in deep trouble for committing these crimes and that the state wanted to seek the death penalty against you. And was trying to arm all the powers of government to have the death sentence carried out on you. Isn't that correct?

A They was trying to do what with all the powers of the government?

Q Have a judge and jury sentence you to death? You were aware of that; weren't you?

A Well you didn't answer my question. I didn't hear what all you asked.

Q Okay. Let me ask it a different way. You knew the state was seeking the death penalty; isn't that correct?

A Yeah.

Q And you knew the state was going to seek the death penalty against you even if you pled guilty; isn't that correct?

A Yeah.

Q And you knew the crimes that you were charged with committing were very serious crimes; isn't that correct?

A Are you a mason?

Q No, I am not a mason. Are you a mason? Mr. Bryant, you knew the crimes were very serious the state was presenting against you for having committed; isn't that correct?

A Yeah.

Q Okay. And did you have discussions with your lawyer about what you did during the early part of October 2004, concerning each of these crimes? Did you do that?

A Did you just ask me did I have discussions with my lawyers in the early hours of October the 4th, concerning the crimes?

Q No. Did you have discussions with your lawyers after you were charged with the crimes about what you did during October 2004, concerning the crimes that you were charged with?

A Yes.

Q Did you have discussions with Dr. Donna Schwartz-Watts about what you did during the crimes?

A I can't answer that.

Q Why can't you answer that? Mr. Bryant, why can't you answer whether you had discussions with Dr. Donna Schwartz-Watts about the crimes? Mr. Bryant, do you have remorse for the crimes that you committed? Let me ask another question.

Mr. Bryant, do you think you deserve a life sentence for the crimes you committed?

MR. TAYLOR: Your Honor, I object to relevance. It has nothing to do with his application.

THE COURT: I think that's relevant. Can you answer that question? Can you answer the last two questions he asked you?

A Can you repeat the last question?

Q Mr. Bryant, do you have remorse for the crimes that you have committed?

A That ain't your last question.

THE COURT: That was second to the last.

Q Mr. Bryant, do you think you deserve a life sentence?

A Whether I get a death sentence or whether I get a life sentence, it's still a life sentence. So either way I have a life sentence.

Q Okay. Mr. Bryant, did you write Mr. Teitjen's family a letter before the trial in 2008? Do you recall that?

A Yeah.

Q Okay. Why did you write that letter?

A In a way I felt what she must have done felt.

Q Okay.

A Just, just a couple of months before all this I lost my grandfather.

Q Was that your idea to write that letter?

A Yeah.

Q Did you have discussions with Dr. Donna Schwartz-Watts about what happened at the Teitjen murder site?

MR. TAYLOR: Your Honor, I again object to relevance on that. We're here talking about the application. His discussions with Dr. Watts don't have anything to do with whether or not there is ineffective assistance of counsel.

THE COURT: I know, but there has been extensive testimony from Dr. Watts about her conversations with him. I will allow the question.

MR. TAYLOR: Thank Your Honor.

Q Mr. Bryant, did you have discussions with Dr. Watts about what you did at the Teitjen home on October 11th 2004? You are nodding your head yes. Are you saying yes? Mr. Bryant, why are you choosing not to answer some questions?

A Donna is about the only damn friend I've got in this damn world. And I am not about to say anything about her.

Q Okay. What did you tell her about the crime?

MR. TAYLOR: Your Honor, asked and answered.

THE COURT: Mr. Bryant, he is simply asking you whether you had a conversation with her. He is not asking you to say anything negative about her. He's asking you for a yes or no answer of whether you talked to her about it ora not. Can you gave me a yes or no answer to that?

A I've had conversations with her.

Q Did you also have conversations with Dr. Pamela Crawford about what you did at the Teitjen house on October 11th 2004?

A No. Quite a few months before I got locked up for all these murders that happened, I have been trying to get help. I have been trying to see a doctor. When I go get locked up and I asked to see a doctor, I thought there was such a thing as client confidentiality. What would happen. They used her to testify against me. So yeah, you got it in the statements.

Q You also spoke to the sled agents too about what occurred on that day; isn't that correct?

A After she went and told them everything.

Q Okay.

A After she had me talk to her, after she told me to write down what I was feeling and then she leaves the room and shows them everything I had written down and they come back in the room and talk to me about what I had written down in the statements.

Q Okay. And you told that to---

A That's when I stopped talking to them.

Q You told that to your lawyers; correct?

A What good is it going to do, the damage is already done.

Q Well you spoke to your lawyers about that before you pled guilty; didn't you? Let me ask, let me go back to my first questions. At the time you pled guilty in August of 2008, you knew that Judge Russo was going to sentence you to either life or death; correct?

MR. TAYLOR: Already asked and answered. I don't see what we keep belaboring the point. It's obviously very painful for everyone at this point. I am not sure what the intent of this, but he's asked and answered the question.

MR. ZELENKA: I wasn't sure that he had answered that question.

THE COURT: I am not sure either. Can you answer that for me?

A What was the question?

Q At the time you entered your guilty plea of August of 2008, you were aware as a result of that guilty plea that Judge Russo was going to sentence you to either life or death; isn't that correct?

A I understood that those were the options, but I wasn't under the impression that was what the outcome was going to be.

Q Even though you said you knew there were no promises of what the outcome would be?

A Nothing is promised in this world; is it?

Q So are you saying that when the judge---

A No.

Q Pardon me?

A No.

Q No what? You never told the judge that there weren't any promises? Mr. Bryant, have you ever read your guilty plea of August 18th 2008?

Have you ever read that? You don't remember?

A I don't remember.

Q So as far as you can recall or know everything that was reported on the record on August 18th 2008, is accurate; is that correct?

A What year was that?

Q 2008. Your guilty plea in Florence before Judge Russo.

A Do you remember everything that happened in your life on that date?

Q No, sir.

A I can't either.

Q Mr. Bryant, do you have a tattoo?

A Yes, sir.

Q Do you have a big star like tattoo on your chest?

A I can't lie about it.

Q How long have you had that tattoo?

A I am not sure. I can't remember which one I got first.

Q Okay. Let me ask this. Did you have that tattoo before you were arrested?

A I mean, yeah, I can't lie about that. You all took all the pictures of them.

Q Had you had that tattoo for more than a month at the time you were arrested?

A That I am not sure.

Q Okay. Well that tattoo was evident yesterday the way you had your shirt kind of off to the side.

A Yeah. It shows my whole left chest.

Q And if you had your shirt was off, it would be evident to everybody; wouldn't it?

A It depends.

Q Depends on what?

A I don't know, It depends on the person. Some people don't notice everything. Some people just take life casually.

MR. ZELENKA: No further questions at this time.

THE COURT: Have you got any questions?

MR. TAYLOR: Absolutely not, Your Honor.

THE COURT: You can step down. Watch your step.

MR. TAYLOR: Your Honor, we have no further witnesses and we rest our case. However we would pursuant to Rule 15B of the South Carolina Rules of Civil Procedure, move to amend our application to conform to the evidence.

THE COURT: Anything from the state?

MS. ARMSTRONG: Yes, Your Honor. I'm sorry, we have one piece of evidence that we offered. And I believe it is in without objection from the attorney general's office.

MR. ZELENKA: I don't know that it would be in rebuttal. We have seen it, and we don't have any objection to it being introduced.

THE COURT: Okay.

MS. ARMSTRONG: Yes. It's an affidavit, Your Honor, from Teresa Norris. Ms. Norris consulted with attorney Babb. Excuse me, and they were discussing the details of pleading versus going to trial. And so I would offer this affidavit as Petitioner's, I believe it's 21. There are copies if the court would like me to hand one for your review.

THE COURT: Okay. Thank you. So it's in without objection?

MR. ZELENKA: Yes, Your Honor.

THE COURT: Okay.

MS. ARMSTRONG: Thank you.

(Affidavit marked Plaintiff's Exhibit No. 21 into evidence.)

MR. TAYLOR: We do rest at this time.

THE COURT: Okay.

MR. TAYLOR: Conform pursuant to Rule 15B.

MR. ZELENKA: Your Honor, we would like to set out with specificity what these amendments with that they're moving to conform to.

MR. TAYLOR: Your Honor, we would have to see the transcript. We are just making sure everything is covered. I always do that as a matter of course in any civil trial.

MR. ZELENKA: Well the causes of actions are somewhat specific in a normal civil trial. But there are new allegations that are being raised before we make a decision as to how to present our case. So we appreciate some specificity on what the changes are.

THE COURT: Okay.

MR. TAYLOR: Your Honor, they would just essentially be certain nuances where initially we did not raise appellant defense or appellant counsel error. I think that is now in the application. As far as, the motion to reopen. It was at some point sort of couched as IAC claim, where it can also now be deemed a constitutional claim under due process violations. What we would certainly argue. Things of that nature. Not anything substantive as we are creating a whole new issue.

THE COURT: Okay.

MR. TAYLOR: Nothing like that. And I apologize for any confusion of that nature. It may just be based upon the testimony, it is moved from a constitutional claim to an IAC claim or vice versa. Nothing, no new issue that has been created.

THE COURT: Anything? You want to respond to that? I assume basically everything that---

MR. ZELENKA: It sounds to me like the allegations set out in the second amended application that was filed immediately prior to this proceeding are same allegations that we are proceeding on. Is that correct?

MR. TAYLOR: That is correct. The issues A through F, are all, they all remain the same. There maybe a different ground for relief than we specifically pled. As I said, it may be an ineffective assistance of counsel versus a constitutional issue or vice versa. That's it.

THE COURT: Okay. But you're not changing any other things.

MR. TAYLOR: No, sir. No, sir.

THE COURT: I haven't heard anything. The focus really in the petition. Okay.

MR. TAYLOR: Yes, sir.

THE COURT: Let me ask you this. It is 12:00 o'clock. Do you all want to break for lunch now and come back, or do you want to continue with the state?

MR. TAYLOR: I think the state has a witness as well; correct?

MR. ZELENKA: Yeah. If you could take a brief break.

THE COURT: Okay.

MR. ZELENKA: Five minutes.

THE COURT: I will. Then you all come and let me know.

MR. TAYLOR: Your Honor, it would be our preference though to take a break for lunch where we can gather our thoughts as far as closing arguments in light of today's testimony.

MR. ZELENKA: Did you want to do closing arguments?

THE COURT: Before lunch or after lunch?

MR. TAYLOR: I was hoping after lunch; yes, sir.

THE COURT: Yeah, I was too, unless you all are going to give 4 minutes of closing arguments on each side. We are going to take 30 minutes a piece. It's 12:00 o'clock.

MR. ZELENKA: Well then let's do lunch.

THE COURT: Okay.

MR. ZELENKA: They understand who my witness may be.

THE COURT: Okay. So what time do you want to be back? It's 12:00 o'clock. 1:30? Quarter till two? I don't know how much time you all need.

MR. TAYLOR: A quarter till two would be fine with us, Your Honor.

THE COURT: Okay. See you all at quarter till two.

MS. ARMSTRONG: Your Honor, there is one question that we needed to ask Mr. Bryant when he was on the stand. There are some magic words under Hill vs. Lockhart. It's not just that you would plead guilty based on erroneous advice. There is a follow up question. And we would like to recall Mr. Bryant and ask you to reopen for purposes of that follow up question.

THE COURT: What's the state's position?

MR. ZELENKA: As long as I have full cross examination on the question. Of course, I have no objection. We haven't presented our case yet.

THE COURT: Okay.

MS. ARMSTRONG: Thank you, Your Honor. We would recall Mr. Stephen Corey Bryant.

Stephen Corey Bryant, being previously sworn, retakes the witness stand and testifies as follows:

MS. ARMSTRONG: And, Your Honor, I apologize for the oversight. There was no magic language.

THE COURT: Mr. Bryant, I will remind you, you are still under oath, okay?

MR. ZELENKA: Your Honor, may I just clear up for one second. My assumption would be that not objecting, that you did not have discussions with him about the answers or the questions to be asked. Is my assumption correct? Or otherwise I would have an objection.

MS. ARMSTRONG: I understand. No, we were at lunch.

THE COURT: Okay.

MS. ARMSTRONG: Sorry.

DIRECT EXAMINATION MS. ARMSTRONG:

Q Mr. Bryant, there was one question that we needed to ask you concerning your guilty plea. I think you testified on direct that you listened to your counsel and you pled guilty on their advice; is that correct, sir?

A Yeah.

Q Okay. Well let me ask you this, Mr. Bryant, if it weren't for their advice to plead guilty and your decision to follow that advice, would you have insisted on going to trial?

A That's what I planned on doing from the beginning.

MS. ARMSTRONG: Thank you. Please answer any questions Mr. Zelenka may have.

MR. ZELENKA: I have no questions of Mr. Bryant.

MS. ARMSTRONG: Thank you, Your Honor. Your Honor at the time the Petitioner would reclose his case. Thank you very much.

THE COURT: Does the state have anything?

MS. BROWN: Your Honor, the state would offer the affidavit of Sergeant Trip Mayes.

MS. ARMSTRONG: No objection, Your Honor.

THE COURT: Okay.

(Affidavit of Trip Mayes marked as Defendant's 6.)

MS. BROWN: The state would rest.

MR. ZELENKA: Your Honor, with the understanding that the record on appeal consisting of three volumes is before the court. The final brief of the respondent and the final brief of the appellant and the decision of the South Carolina Supreme Court is also before the court for its review. As well as, obviously the evidence which has been introduced.

THE COURT: Okay. Does either side wish to present a closing argument?

MS. ARMSTRONG: Yes, Your Honor. May it Please the Court, Mr. Taylor and I as co-counsel have divided up our issues. And I would like to present to you just a brief synopsis of our arguments concerning issues A, B and C. Mr. Taylor will take D. And I believe G.

And obviously we are making these arguments without the benefit of a transcript, so I'm relying on memory. If I've misremembered or taken notes that are inconsistent with the transcript, I would ask Your Honor obviously to take that into consideration. I try to take good notes.

The first issue, that would be issue A, is the issue of the entry of the guilty plea. And obviously this case is somewhat unusual in that it is not often that lead counsel ends up with a medical situation that causes him or her to be taken out of a case literally at the 11th hour. And unfortunately that's what happened here. Mr. Babb whose legal expertise is second to none, became very ill. And is no longer practicing law. Up until that point, however, Mr. Babb was working on trying to educate himself on how to handle capital cases. This capital case in particular, I think he testified he went to San Francisco. He spoke to other colleagues. He was trying to figure out what to do in this case.

And as this case had so many charges. It was very complicated. It was very significant event in this town. It certainly very high profile, had a lot of legal issues. And so I believe he testified that Mr. Babb, Jim Babb, testified that he got to know Mr. Bryant as well as he could. He needed to gain his trust. They had a good working relationship. And I believe you heard enough testimony and evidence here today. Or excuse me, in this week, to figure out that Mr. Bryant can be a very difficult to develop a relationship with. Trust is an issue. And certainly Mr. Babb was able to do that. And he is to be commended for that.

However, in his efforts to represent Mr. Bryant, we believe that he made an error as the advice he gave to Mr. Bryant. And we believe that the legal advice that was contained in the plea tender that was shown to Mr. Bryant contains erroneous advice on the law. The first being, that he would be more likely, that there was a statistical basis that made it more likely that Mr. Bryant would receive a sentence of life if he pleaded guilty and was sentenced before a judge rather than to go to trial not present a defense, plead not guilty and have a jury sentence him.

Clearly Mr. Babb's advice, his approach was that he wanted to preserve a constitutional issue. Well he's testified to that. That simply is not possible. To plead guilty and reserve a -- preserve a constitutional objection to the process that's not allowed. That's a conditional guilty plea. It's simply not allowed. That issue has been litigated and lost. As far as getting a jury sentencing after a guilty plea.

I believe Mr. Babb testified that once he became so ill that he had to withdraw from the case, that would have been sometime in March, April, May before the plea. We do know that one thing is for certain and that is his substitute counsel and that being John Clark, was appointed July 18th 2008, in Lexington County by Judge Russo. July 18th was exactly one month from the date that a guilty plea was ultimately issued in Florence County. After according to Mr. Babb, according to his testimony, as soon as he was relieved and determined to be medically disabled from the practice of law, and in fact the advice by his physician to just quit, he stayed on in the capacity sort of like an almagest for the defense and spoke to Mr. Bryant. And tried to keep, you know, comforted and calm. And had a very good personal relationship with him. But his testimony was, I didn't give any more legal advice. Which left Mr. Howle and Mr. Clark who came in in his own words during the fourth quarter.

According to Mr. Howle's testimony as far as the guilty plea went, he relied a lot on the research and information that Attorney Babb had amassed when he was working on that first plea. And all three of the plea tenders are before your Honor as evidence. But the first plea tender when offered by Mr. Babb is undated. Which is neither here nor there. But that's how you can identify it. It's -- and he has identified as the one document that he was part of.

And you will notice that in the second and third, the third being the final piece of written advice given to Mr. Bryant for his plea. Really one of main differences is that there was no reservation of right to challenge the statute. In other words, it was just an unconditional, I'm pleading guilty based on this advice.

And however, what is consistent between these three plea tender documents is this supposed evidence of statistical greater chances of getting life from a judge than going to trial. And pleading not guilty and being sentenced by a jury. So there's the component that seems to run through all three of the plea tenders and is pretty consistent. And then the other piece of advice that we again are challenging as being inaccurate and erroneous is the advice to Mr. Bryant that if he were to go to trial, plead not guilty, and then not contest his guilt that somehow that would relax the rules of evidence and allow the state to, and I believe, the language is in the plea tender. But basically if we went to trial and didn't contest his guilt but pleaded not guilty, the state would be allowed to get in to all sorts of things that would prejudice him. We submitted an affidavit from one of the attorneys that Mr. Babb referenced speaking to about this issue. That's Teresa Norris who is a capital litigation for lack of any other word expert, in the State of South Carolina; who recalled speaking to Mr. Babb. And believes that the advise given was in fact erroneous not just in her personal, professional opinion but based on the law. And the case that she cited was Florida vs. Nixon, which says going to trial and not contesting the guilt, does not give the state, you know, free reign to kind of come in and trample all over you. You are also allowed to say not guilty, but then let the jury know.

Number one, you know, I am not contesting the guilt. And Number two, I have to say not guilty in order to have the 12 of you decide my fate. So we think that the plea agreements while there is some variation and there is some question about who authored or whose little flourishes were in one document versus the other, they pretty consistently give two pieces of advice that were clearly erroneous. He -- there is no statistical information out there that would support a greater likelihood of a life sentence from a judge after pleading guilty than versus going to trial. And certainly the rules of evidence, what was admissible and what was not admissible that doesn't change because you go to trial and don't have an affirmative defense.

So, Your Honor, we would argue that we believe that as stated in ground A, the advice given to Mr. Bryant was erroneous. And pursuant to his testimony he relied on his lawyers. He relied on their counsel. And he believed, he, I think he was very honest; in that, he said nobody promised me anything. But they did tell me that that was my best chance. And the information in those plea tenders essentially backs that up, and gives him advice that was un -- it's simply erroneous under the law.

So we believe that for that reason the guilty plea in this case should be vacated. Moving on to the second allegation, that's a chronic, which is a chronic claim, which is related to the first claim. In that we believe that Mr. Clark by his own testimony, and then he said, look I came in the fourth quarter. If I had come in sooner, I would have been -- you know, I would have more involvement with the plea. He doesn't have any specific recollection discussing the plea. He did remember that the decision to plead guilty essentially had been discussed with Mr. Bryant by Mr. Babb and Mr. Howle before he even walked in the door.

So I think it's fair to say that he was for all intense purposes as far as the decision to plead guilty or go to trial, he essentially was absent. He said I think I was, you know, obviously I wasn't at the plea, and there may have been some discussion. But it was all after the fact. I don't think there is testimony to support that he was actively involved in looking at the plea, doing any research, seeing if the advice given was accurate or weighing in on it. And certainly when you're appointed exactly one month before a capital case goes to a plea hearing, it's not surprising that, you know, you wouldn't be fully engaged. At that point you know because the guilty plea decision would have been made. They were focused on getting ready for the penalty phase. Once you decide to plead guilty, that's the only thing left.

And so I think if you, you know, if you review the prong decision even though Mr. Clark was physically there, he didn't weigh in on this very important decision. The decision to pled or go to trial in a capital case is monumental. And we think it was chronic. Especially when you consider that the State of South Carolina says you get two lawyers. Not one, and a live warm body with a law degree, who didn't have a chance to get involved in the case. But two, the advice of two counsel. And we think under Chronic Mr. Bryant is also entitled to relief.

Finally, Your Honor, ground C, we have objected to the solicitor's making an argument to the judge that he needed to send -- that he needed to send a message to the community by way of his sentencing. And of course by that Mr. Jackson was asking for death. Well sending the community a message by way of sentencing one human being to death is simply unacceptable. That is not the kind of argument that is permitted in our courts. And it's universally condemned.

When you look at the 8th Amendment jurisprudence, it's pretty clear that Number one, the death sentence has to be narrowly tailored. You know, you can't just consider anything that's out there. It has to be based on the facts and circumstances of the crime and the character of the defendant. Sending a message to Sumter County is not a valid basis for sentencing this man to death. And that's what the solicitor argued. Nobody objected to it. And I remember on his cross examination Mr. Jackson was asked, so did you treat this differently because it was in front of a judge versus a jury. He said no. You know, the rules were the same. It was as if I was speaking to those 12 people.

Well I can guarantee you this community message argument, the research and case law out there, you are not allowed to make that kind of argument. Sentences have to be based on the facts and circumstances of the crime, and the character of the defendant if you are in a capital proceeding. Sending a message is not how we sentence people. It's very clearly, a very personal, a very case specific, fact specific decision. So we think that counsel should have objected to that whether it was in front of the judge or not.

It's clearly an impermissible and arbitrary factor that was injected into these proceedings right before the judge went to consider what sentence that Mr. Bryant was going to get. It should have been objected to. And as it's clearly inflammatory. And we believe that on that basis also should entitle Mr. Bryant to relief. Obviously that does not go to the conviction but rather to the sentencing. So with that, I will turn over the rest of our arguments to Mr. Taylor.

THE COURT: Okay. Thank you.

MR. TAYLOR: May it Please the Court.

THE COURT: Yes, sir.

MR. TAYLOR: Our application deals with what we consider to be the additional uncrossed examined, if you will, victim impact testimony. I am mindful of the colloquy we had yesterday where I think you sort of questioned well what else was he to do. What else could the judge do. Well there could have been a different sentencing proceeding for those crimes. If that testimony was not going to be considered by the judge and imposing the sentence of death.

As counsel and I were talking at lunch, and death is different. We treat things much differently in a death penalty case. Again, there was no way for anybody to know whether the testimony of Mr. Ammons or the victim advocate or Mr. Burgess' brother effected the sentence. Again, we can't go into Judge Russo's ex parte. Whetstone says we can't ask.

So we don't know if those things did it. I'm going to say this a bunch throughout my closing. You know maybe he was 51/49 for life in trying to weigh it. And Mr. Burgess' brother got up, who was understandably devastated, and told his story during that separate proceeding that was not subject to cross examination. And maybe that made it 51/49 the other way. We can't know. And that's why we treat these death penalty cases different.

The trial counsel did object to this. So we believe it would be an ineffective assistance claim as well as a constitutional claim under the confrontation clause. Our confrontation case law is clear in South Carolina that the defendant has the opportunity to cross examine, then the confrontation clause was satisfied. Here there was no opportunity. Nor was there any objection.

In fact some years ago in Payne vs. Tennessee, our United States Supreme Court overruled a longstanding precedent admitting or prohibiting rather victim impact testimony. And after that, you know, they allow it. And what they said in that opinion when they were talking about some other -- some criminal history type or aggravation testimony the reasoning was when they started letting that in was it it was relevant, but it was also subject to cross examination.

This victim impact testimony was not subject to cross examination. Again, there was no objection. Mr. Howle stated on direct that he probably would have objected if it had involved one of the murders. Well It did, Mr. Burgess' murder. Judge, and we have a list of case law we have cited and relied upon. But there is North Carolina vs. Hurt. Three Texas capital cases all would stand for the proposition that the confrontation clause is alive and well for a sentencing proceeding.

We believe here in Gardner vs. Florida, states it is a denial of due process when a death sentence is imposed at least in part on the basis of information which the defendant had no opportunity to explain, refute or for that matter, cross examine. We believe that is this situation. And we can't go back, again go back in Judge Russo's mind and know whether this sentence was at least in part on something.

Again Mr. Burgess said, bless his heart, I mean he got up there and poured out his heart about his brother. And, you know, we can't go back and know whether that was it. And I am going to say this, was that the straw that broke the camel's back. Was that what put Stephen Bryant on death row. We can't know.

Next, Judge, Porter vs. McCall and that's another U.S. Supreme Court case. Requires that the sentencer in a capital case must be permitted to consider any relevant, I apologize mitigating factor. That's again, must be. The constitution rather requires that the sentencer be permitted to consider any relevant mitigating factor. I'm going to get that out right in a minute. So that's moves us into Mr. Edward Gause.

This was important evidence as all trial counsel told you. As well as Dr. Watts, or Schwartz-Watts from a mitigation standpoint. This gentleman felt it was important enough to contact Judge Russo at his home. He contacted the public defender to the best of his ability and left a message. We contend that it was error by Judge Russo from a constitutional standpoint that violated due process. We also contend it was an error on the appellate counsel for not raising the issue.

We principally cite the case of State vs. Freddie Owens. Judge, that was a case out of Greenville County where Mr. Owens was in capital trial. He was found guilty in the penalty phase. He went back to Greenville County detention center. Lost his cool, severely beat someone to death in the detention center. Sled agents were called in. The solicitor was notified. And a statement was given. Statements were taken from witnesses. Things of that nature.

Defense counsel was given everything as quickly as they could. There was no dispute that the solicitor gave the statements and evidence they had to the defense counsel within hours of getting it. And the solicitor also said we intend to use this as our aggravation evidence in the sentencing phase. It was before Judge McCaulay.

Defense counsel said, Judge, we would like a continuance to at least investigate this, look at some of the statements. See what happened; if they are going to be using them.

Well as you are aware, it is a very low standard for denying a continuance. It's an abuse of discretion. And in Owens, the court noted that overturning a denial of a refusal to grant a continuance is as rare as the proverbial hens too. But they did in this case. They found that this was different. Said because of the capital nature of the proceeding and given the timing of the appellant statement, we find that due process necessitated a brief. Perhaps a 24-hour continuance. And they reversed Judge McCaulay on the refusal to grant the continuance.

Well this is the same standard on a motion to reopen to at least hear what Mr. Gause had to say. Not only was the motion denied, they were not allowed to even go talk to him to proffer the evidence so it could be preserved for appellate review. And I can, you know, I understand if they had been in a lengthy sentencing proceeding. But this wasn't a situation where they were waiting on a jury or a jury was waiting on them. Rather, had been sequestered for 3 weeks away from their home and we had to get on with them. This was a death penalty case. And they could have -- he could have given 24 hours to find Mr. Gause. We'll hear it.

You know, our Supreme Court said these death penalty cases are different. You know again, this would have marked the third time that Mr. Bryant had cried out for help. One with this grandmother and the Chesterfield police. One with his probation officer. And three, to Mr. Gause and presumably some conversations with Deputy Mayes. That again could have been that 51/49 I was talking about. Could have been or not having it could have been I guess the straw that broke the camel's back. And It would have been so easy for the judge in this capital case just to rehear the evidence. It might not have changed a thing. Buto it might have, and we can't know.

Now I understand based upon some cross examination, the attorney general is probably going to question the credibility of Mr. Gause. Well I submit to you today, it's not relevant for this court. It's whether or not, the relevant issue is whether or not the trial should have been reopened. The credibility issue would be for the finder of fact there, not here. Again, this was, you know, and there would be an affidavit of Trip Mayes, Sergeant Mayes who claims not to remember. But again, I think it should have or we believe it should have been reopened. This man obviously was being somewhat courageous.

He also admitted on the stand that he was in favor of the death penalty. He is not some death penalty apologist that climbed out from under a log somewhere and said I'm going to go try to save this man's life. He just felt it was the right thing to do. And my humble opinion, it would probably be better if there were a lot more people around that felt like they needed to go do the right thing as opposed to just ignoring it.

So we believe that was again a constitutional issue as well as an appellate counsel issue supporting a reversal of the death sentence. Next, Your Honor, and finally is the Brady violation. The standard is pretty clear that if you find a Brady violation you must grant the post-conviction relief sought. And this is Gibson versus State. When a defendant lacks knowledge of material evidence in the prosecutor's possession, the waiver of constitutional cannot be deemed knowing and voluntary.

A Brady claim first must show that it's favorable to an accused; is in possession of or known by the prosecution. It was suppressed by the state and was material to guilt, innocence or was impeaching. Now it would be material No. 1, if there was a reasonable probability that the result would have been different. And I think that's going to be our big issue as to whether or not it is material.

The other standard of materiality is not whether an acquittal would have resulted, but whether he received a fair trial resulting in a verdict worthy of confidence. That's Riddle vs. Osborne. But the question here is, did the suppression, and I am going to get into that in a minute too, of this evidence, result in a verdict worthy of confidence.

Now I am going to preface this, what I am going to say to you is, Kelly Jackson is my friend, Your Honor. I have known him for several years. We both drew the short straws. He was the president of the solicitor's association. I was the president of the defense lawyer's association.

We had to go spend a lot of our time up at the state house as our colleagues seem never to appreciate. And then fuss at us when something happens. So I got to know him through that. He's an honest man. And when he says that he didn't intentionally do this, then I take him at his word. I absolutely do. He has not run from this issue.

In fact, we discussed this issue. And I told him where we were coming from sitting around his kitchen table. He didn't tell me I had to take his deposition or I had to go to the A.G.'s Office and sit down. I mean, Kelly has completely been forthright throughout this issue. However, unfair or not, Kyle's vs. Whitley, puts the responsibility on his shoulders. If documents or evidence are in possession of any arm of the state, then the chief prosecutor in the case is responsible for it. It's just like if I do something in my office or my secretary does something in my office that harms one of my client's, I am the one who gets sued, she doesn't. Fair or not. But Kyles vs. Whitley puts that burden on the state.

Now it's obvious that the sled agents had it, and didn't turn it over him. Mr. Jackson testified he never saw it. Mr. Saleeby testified that he never saw it. Again, I take both men at their word. But the standard is not intentional. It can also be negligence. And again, I am not sure they committed any active negligence. But under Kyles vs. Whitley, they didn't have to. It's negligence isn't implying by not finding it.

So, Your Honor, I think we have shown that there is actually a suppression of the evidence. Obviously there was something or some sort of break down in the system at sled. If they made the determination, it's in the reports; that there was nothing of evidentiary value. Well, Your Honor, that's not their call. That's initially I guess, Mr. Jackson's call. And it's a close call then he's got to turn it over. And they didn't give Mr. Jackson the opportunity to. And certainly didn't gave defense counsel the opportunity to.

There was an order that required everything to be turned over to the judge; to be looked at. Of course Mr. Jackson couldn't do that because he didn't have it. And you know those notes are potentially exculpatory or could lead to mitigating evidence that Agent Givens never turned over, why he admits he didn't turn over.

The internet histories, Mr. Babb, Mr. Howle and Dr. Watts all indicated, could have and would have made a difference in how they handled the case. Mr. Babb testified that he would have gotten additional probably experts. And, you know, it would have changed his strategy. Mr. Howle said that also would have changed the way he did things. Dr. Watts said that would have -- the pornography would have had a big impact on how she would explain the putting out the cigarettes in Mr. Teitjen's eyes. Which, you know, again that could be the straw broke the camel's back. Then maybe if it was just a killing, which there is no such thing, I apologize. That is wrong. There is no thing as just a killing.

But if it was murder as opposed to the cigarettes and the notes and things of where it is obviously something disturbing is going on. Maybe if it wasn't all those aggravating factors judge Russo wouldn't have ruled the way he ruled. We had Solicitor Jackson argue in his closing argument that Mr. Bryant killed the man and looked at porn on the computer. Well you saw how confusing those time lines were and things of this nature. But through experts, the defense could have refuted that. There was no way to refute what Solicitor Jackson said or what Mr. Bryant put in his statement. Which as Dr. Watts indicated, he often confused about the crimes and the way things went. There was no way to refute that, because they didn't have it.

Again Solicitor Jackson is making fair argument based on what he has before him. But certainly with these records, that potentially could have been refuted. The computer expert could have shown it didn't happen that way. It couldn't have happened that way. There was evidence that clearly tainted the way folks looked at Mr. Bryant and pornography by virtue of the stuff from Judy Justice where she said he had looked at porn sometime in the past.

Well we now know from Mr. Givens that there was no pornography on that computer. None that he found. So that's again something that could have been refuted. For it to be material or Brady material, it doesn't necessarily even have to be used at trial. It can be something again to refute another fact. And, you know, the fact sort of goes away if defense counsel is allowed to advance the theory.

As Dr. Watts also told you, this would have helped her at least corroborate one thing he said in his statements. And as she was -- as she says and you can read in her transcript, she was beat up pretty good on cross examination about not being able to corroborate anything this man said. Can't do it. But with that evidence she could have.

Now and, you know, Mr. Saleeby even indicated on cross examination he conceded. Well I might not concede it was material, but it certainly could have been useful to either party if they had had it. Your Honor, we believe it is terribly important. And without having that material and again, I make absolutely no accusations on any part of the party or part of the prosecution team that this was intentional, but it doesn't have to be.

Judge, I get back to the 51/49 thing that I was talking about. Well what was weighing on Judge Russo. You know, again, Solicitor Jackson argued that he was looking at pornography after he killed the man. Well Judge Russo could have been saying in his mind, you know, that's it. You know, that was just callous. He just killed him and he sat at his computer and looked at, you know, gross websites. Maybe that was it. The cigarettes that Dr. Watts says she could have helped explain. You know, maybe that was.

Judge, we have so many maybes and what if's related to that evidence that I submit to you that the confidence in that verdict is severely undermined. Confidence in that death sentence was severely undermined by virtue of the Brady violation. We ask that you grant the PCR application.

THE COURT: Thank you, sir.

MR. ZELENKA: May it Please the Court.

THE COURT: Yes, sir.

MR. ZELENKA: On behalf of the State of South Carolina we submit that the applicant in this case has failed to prove by a preponderance of the evidence his entitlement to relief in this case. Each of the allegations that have been presented. I will try to address them in order. With respect to the first allegation the advice to plead guilty, I think a reasonable reading of this record, the testimony of counsel Howle, the testimony of counsel Clark, and the actual transcript of the guilty plea reflects that the advice that defendant received was both reasonable. As a matter of law concerning the advice that he was waving certain constitutional rights; including specifically, his right to a jury trial. And his right to jury sentencing by entering his guilty plea; that the course that was being taken was a recognition that Judge Russo would be the sole sentencer in particular case.

The testimony of Mr. Howle as supported by the testimony of Mr. Clark was that that was albeit and advice was given to the defendant. There was also a strategic decision. And it was a strategic decision based upon the breath of the evidence of the crime concerning the character of this defendant Mr. Stephen Corey Bryant. If there was a straw that broke the camel's back, that straw was done by Mr. Bryant and broken by Mr. Bryant on October 11th 2004, when he committed that crime. And when he committed the subsequent crime even after law enforcement had begun interviewing with him about earlier cases, earlier crimes. The straw broke the camel's back was the actions of Stephen Corey Bryant. And unfortunately that was known to defense counsel as to what Mr. Bryant did on those particular days.

There is no contest about what Mr. Bryant now apparently told law enforcement. There is no contest about what he told Dr. Crawford in her interviews with him, and what he told Dr. Donna Schwartz-Watts. But Dr. Watts testified at the particular proceedings, and has consistently testified in this case her belief that he suffered under a mental illness. But there is no showing that at the time he entered his guilty plea on August 18th 2008, that he was incompetent to enter that advice.

If the plea itself is reviewed, the outset of the plea, Judge Russo makes inquiry of both defense counsel, both Mr. Clark and Mr. Howle, whether they had discussed the indictment with him and his constitutional rights. And whether they received an indication from the defendant that he desired to enter a guilty plea with a recognition that Judge Russo would be the sentencer. That confirmed that they had those discussions. They confirmed from the witness stand that they had discussions with him. Mr. Clark in addition, in his office concerning the circumstances of this particular case.

We submit that they have failed to show that the legal advice that was given to him concerning his right to a guilty plea, his right to have a judge sentence him was improper in any manner. Further, their strategic advice was based upon their belief as to how would a jury have assimilated all this information that the state had marshaled up against the defendant. And who was the best person to have received that advice, that information about what Stephen Corey Bryant did and the type that Stephen Corey Bryant was up until that point of time and in the future.

Their strategic decision was that Judge Russo was the better fact finder and the better sentencer for the defendant. Their position was that this was a difficult case but Judge Russo would give them based upon his experiences as a trial judge the fairest consideration in this case. And I submit that they haven't shown that that advice was actually any different; that they had received it. Their advice was essentially that an individual that acknowledges guilt has a better opportunity to get a sentence of life than a sentence of death. That is basically what the discussion was as opposed to someone who is fighting that decision. That is the breath of the advice that they were being given.

Judge Russo in his inquiry with the defendant and defense counsel made clear that there have been no promises made concerning the type of sentence he would receive. But there hadn't been any expectation presented that Judge Russo would in fact be sentencing him to life during these proceedings. There is no showing that their assessment of Judge Russo and their assessment of the facts of this case were improper.

Judge Russo may have actually been, and they haven't shown otherwise that he would have been a better recipient of this heinous information about the particular crimes, the consistency of those particular crimes, connection of those particular crimes and the ongoing nature of those particular crimes after law enforcement became involved than any jury would have been. That strategic assessment was not unreasonable as a matter of fact. And I would submit was not a reasonable -- is a matter of strategy. And that's the showing that necessarily would have to be made. And we think that it hadn't been made.

Upon review of the guilty plea, we submit that it was freely and voluntarily entered, with a full understanding of his rights and what he was waiving. They have asserted a chronic issue, which is not really a chronic issue, because chronic is as if you were deprived of any right to counsel. What they are asserting is Mr. Clark wasn't involved in the entire process. That some strategic decisions were discussed and some understanding and some belief by counsel Howle was made about the better strategy before Mr. Clark got involved.

South Carolina Statutory Scheme in death penalty Section 16-3-25, I believe allows the right and the statutory requirement to have two counsel represent a defendant when the state seeks a death penalty case. He did have two counsel represent him at the time he was facing death. Counsel Clark was involved in the case from July 18th, prior to beyond 30 days prior -- actually 30 days prior to when he entered his guilty plea. He was also involved as counsel on the day that some of the plea tenders were signed that went before the court.

Counsel Clark was involved in that particular case at that particular time. Counsel Clark remembers discussions that he was having. I would submit that their claim is simply not supported by the facts of the case. They've raised a claim of ineffective assistance of counsel in addition, concerning the argument that Solicitor Jackson made to Judge Russo at the time of particular penalty phase of the trial. And I believe the reference that they are referring to is the record page 1027, which is in Volume three or Volume two, I believe, of the particular transcript.

And let me read that closing portion of the argument to place it in context. Because if I think if you place it in context, it explains a little bit different of the emphasis and the focus that Solicitor Jackson had on the case. And I quote beginning at 1026, line 25. Judge Russo, I don't envy the -- position you are in one bit. But as James Aiken said, you have to make a hard decision and live with them and it takes moral courage. You represent our community in the trial. And it's the function of the capital sentencing jury to express the conscience of the community on the ultimate question of life or death. And there can be no doubt, excuse me, and let their be no doubt, Stephen Corey Bryant through his attorneys, is going to present himself to the court, the most pathetic manner he possibly can. And one more time, Judge, he is going to say, sir, would you help me please. And I ask you to send a message as a representative of the community, to Stephen Corey Bryant with what you now know, Judge, tell him no, thank you.

The message that he is asking to be sent is sending the message to this particular defendant. The argument itself recognizes and suggests to Judge Russo that he has the total responsibility for that life and death decision. And he is asking the judge as the representative of the community, as the sentencer of the community, to tell Stephen Corey Bryant the punishment he deserves for the acts that he did and his own particular character. That is not a violation of the federal constitution. With all due respect, it is not a violation of the prior precedent of the South Carolina Supreme Court. It is a statement recognizing the solicitor's office as the prosecution arm, asking for the sentence that they think the judge as the sole sentencer should give to this particular defendant, the verdict, the sentence, the message to Stephen Corey Bryant. That is what that argument says. And that is what that argument did.

With respect to the victim's impact evidence, I am not sure that that was really raised specifically as such in these proceedings. I think I finally understand what some of their positioning is. But the simple fact is this is a trial judge that was charged with a responsibility to sentence for a series of noncapital crimes that were not a singular part of death penalty sentencing proceeding. The judge as a matter of state law and the victims in those particular cases had the right and authority to issue victim's impact statements.

I question that they say there wasn't confrontation. Because they were presented in the defendant's presence. There was an opportunity for the defendant in his counsel, to hear those matters. And there was an opportunity for them to question those matters. If you look at the United States Supreme Court decision that they relied upon in Gardner vs. Florida, which speaks to of no opportunity to explain, rebut or confront. I believe was the way they spoke about it.

What happened in Gardner was ex parte, out of the presence of the defendant. Sentencing material was given to the particular judge in that case. They did not have the ability to hear it, view it, understand it, explain it or deny it. That's not what happened in this case. What happened in this case, it was fully presented. If you look at the record, the record reflects that during the August 18th 2008, proceedings at the time of guilty plea, it was clear that the judge and the prosecution were clearly stating this is not going to be a sentencing proceeding. We are deferring those matters at a later date.

The presence of victims at that particular setting was not going to utilized to present victim's impact evidence. It was going to be set off at a later time. It is clear that after the penalty phase proceedings ended in September of 2008, there was some understanding that the state was going to be placing up victim's impact evidence subject to some questioning certainly, understanding, hearing by the defendant and his counsel and further evidence in mitigation. On those particular situations the defense was given the opportunity to do the same. Neither side objected to it. And I would submit neither side needed to object. Because that wasn't inconsistent with South Carolina law.

Now the applicant says well this is usual. Why weren't these things uploaded into the sentencing proceeding. Well they just weren't. They just weren't. And I would agree with that, they weren't. But the manner that these proceedings were handled was different. The evidence in that statutory aggravation was presented as a box. The death penalty victim's impact evidence was then presented in a box. And the defense's case in mitigation was then presented during that state bifurcated proceeding. Independent of those other suggestions and those other charges.

The evidence that they suggest was an opening for victim's impact evidence during the proceeding itself simply was the questioning of one of the witnesses about their own health problems which had occurred at that particular crime. Evidence of that particular action. It wasn't necessarily the same type of victim's impact evidence I would suggest was done and was generally done in these particular proceedings. Nevertheless, it's a matter of South Carolina law. I don't see that there was any violation that would have subjected that to an objection. Nor was there any violation of any federal constitutional confrontation right.

The judge had completed the penalty phase in this death penalty case to show the existence or nonexistence of the statutory aggravating factor and hearing evidence in aggravation or mitigation. I think a question you asked the other day is clear. Well what if the judge would have just done it on those other cases on October 18th 2008, after the guilty plea case. He could have done that. He could have done that. They just didn't do that. And if he would have done that, that would not have effected the penalty phase that occurred on September -- through September 11th 2008. It wouldn't have removed the judge from being a sentencer. It would not impacted on how that sentencing proceeding concerning the statutory aggravating factor and the particular punishment for the murder of Mr. Teitjen occurred. It wouldn't have impacted on it at all. It was just a procedural course that was chosen to be taken in that particular case.

We submit that there was no state law error. And certainly no ineffective assistance on failing to object. But South Carolina law allows under these circumstances. With respect to the Gause issue, there are some things that are clear. There was contact at the conclusion on the day of the sentencing where contact is made either by Mr. Gause or Mr. Gause's representatives to Judge Russo and to the public defender's office but not the prosecutor's office. If that claim is being somehow raised as a Brady violation claim, which I understood it once was being raised. They failed in their burden or proof. They failed in it to the extent that there is as we've submitted by the affidavit, there doesn't appear to be any record in law enforcement of a particular contact being made by Mr. Mayes. And there is no recollection by Mr. Mayes certainly at this time of any contact with Mr. Gause having occurred in the month prior to the arrest of the defendant in this particular scenario.

When Mr. Gause came up and testified, he testified that he recognized the color photograph of that defense which occurred in the newspaper. And as I understand his testimony, that was done sometime around the the time of the trial. His recognition of it. We had pointed out that there is an evident tattoo on the defendant's body that could or should have been evident at the time that Mr. Gause is saying he would have seen somebody who looked similar to the defendant.

At that time that information would have been, would have occurred sometime around September 2004. It was being represented based upon the memory that Mr. Gause had of sometime either around one month after the arrest in November of 2004, or at the time of trial in 2008. Certainly questioning the credibility of Mr. Gause is somewhat important. But if we even assume that that was the defendant and that occurred, how would it have changed what had happened in this particular case?

The mitigation case included information in the record that the defendant in fact had been seeking some assistance based upon some mental concerns that he had. Dr. Schwartz-Watts had that information. Testified about that information.

There was information in the record from David Caldwell about attempts the defendant had made particularly at page 145 of the record. There is some cross examination on that about him trying to seek some mental help. Cross examination concerning Holland again. Healthy minds seeking some help. And of course the testimony from Dr. Donna Schwartz-Watts about that.

So the judge had information that there was some preexisting concerns about his mental health during that time period. That time period about and leading up to on criminal activity that brings us to court here today. So I am not sure what the information does. She was able to make the same evaluation that occurred at the time of the trial in 2008. She being Dr. Donna Schwartz-Watts. And it doesn't appear that any change has been to the extent that that needed to be added to or corroborated if there was other information in the record that the state wasn't necessarily contesting. And again we do know for sure because if there was a defendant on that. And we know for sure what caused it was the defendant, for him to be seen as acting the way he was acting on that day.

Again, the defendant, had a record of substance abuse which preexisted his arrest in these particular proceedings. It's unclear what was happening to whomever that was in September of 2004.

We submit that they failed to show what the test. And the test is whether there is material evidence which would have had an impact upon the jury or the judge. And we submit they haven't shown that, that the resulted proceeding would have been materially different. And failing in that showing we submit that issue should be denied. Plus the issue that they raised that the judge should have somehow done something different with the information that he had at that particular time.

They present, this court is not an appellate court for Judge Russo. That court was the South Carolina Supreme Court. And based upon the information that Judge Russo had at that time, we submit he didn't abuse his discretion based upon the information that he had received and the information the defense counsel had in delaying that case or allowing it be reopened at that particular time. Similarly, we submit the defense counsel is not ineffective in failing to seek to further get the judge to reopen the case after contact had been made with Mr. Gause. They haven't sufficiently made the showing that they would have had sufficient evidence to present to cause that case to be reopened. Certainly there isn't anything reflected to guilt or innocence that would have impacted upon it.

Dr. Schwartz-Watts hasn't indicated that she would have found him to suffer even under insanity or guilty but mentally ill based upon that information that has been presented to her concerning that situation. So we submit that there has been a failure of adequate proof in this case. With respect to ineffective assistance of appellate counsel, counsel Savage today reasonably stated based upon review of the record, he didn't see the impact that that information would have had being a winnable issue on appeal based upon the state of law as he understood when he filed his brief around the middle of 2010, when that brief was done and initially went up to the South Carolina Supreme Court.

Again in looking appellate counsel's issues, the issue is whether his actions are reasonable or whether they were based upon neglect. Counsel Savage conceded that whatever action he was taking, it wasn't based upon neglect. He had reviewed the record. He gave what he speculated. He speculated what his general assessment of that information would have been. And didn't find that it was to be basically a winning issue.

The United States Supreme Court in the case of Jones vs. Barnes recognized that it's a responsibility of defense counsel to winnow issues down to what they think they would basically have the most credibility with. What counsel Savage conceded, I would never want to winnow out a winning issue that clear recognition that any appellant counsel would have. He didn't specifically believe that this issue was a winning issue on appeal. He thought the issue that he went with was stronger in hindsight. Since he lost on that issue, why not try something else in hindsight. But the test isn't hindsight. The test is contemporary assessment of that record at that particular time.

We submit that they have failed in their burden of proof on that claim. Now the final claim that I believe is before the court concerns the computer issue and the failure to disclose the computer crimes. Complete assessment of the computer that were done at that particular time.

Again, there is no dispute in the record that Solicitor Jackson, Deputy Solicitor Saleeby possessed that particular information. There is also no dispute on the law that the prosecutors are responsible for gathering all mitigating exculpatory information. And it making clear that that information gets in the hands of defense counsel. We are not disputing that. They don't appear to be disputing that as a matter of law.

But the question is, is it exculpatory. Is it mitigating. And is there a reasonable probability that had that information been presented to the defense the result of the proceeding would have been different. What they have presented to the defense, and it's attachment 79, was the report of Mr. Givens, which stated that after he reviewed the computers he did not find anything of evidentiary value. Find nothing of evidentiary value. Have they shown that there is anything of evidentiary value by the fact that on Mr. Teitjen's computer, there was the existence of clips the day before the crime had happened, which involved sites which may be suggestions of some pornography.

What is the evidentiary value of those factors. They haven't shown that that had any exculpatory mitigating value in this particular case. They simply have not shown it. What we have here today was the same thing that we actually had when that report was generated. They haven't proven anything of evidentiary value. When the case was presented at the time of the trial, what we have were the defendant's statement about his involvement with Mr. Teitjen on that particular day. Those statements and the transcript of Dr. Crawford's interview of the defendant, basically set out this as being the defendant's theory in the case; the theory that he had discussions with Mr. Teitjen when he arrived at Mr. Teitjen's home. That discussion included a number of things; including his knowledge about the masons. And also the fact that he noted the defendant was a younger individual; that he envied him; that he thought he would have the opportunity to have young girls. And that he had viewed some website that had young girls on it.

After an incident that then resulted in Mr. Teitjen's death, the defendant has given a statement that he looked on passwords. Turned on the computer. Looked in the internet history, browsing history. Saw that there had been a visit of a number of sites that he thought suggested that Mr. Teitjen up to that point, hadn't been as candid with him about that number of sites that he had visited.

It also states that he looked at a photograph of an individual young child with an animal. That's what the version was. That version was presented to Dr. Donna Schwartz-Watts. The defendant gave a similar version to Dr. Watts about the manner the crime occurred. The state did not contest the existence of information on Mr. Teitjen's computer. The state was not complaining to Dr. Watts about any lack of corroboration about the computer and information on the computer during cross examination or otherwise in the case. In fact, they were acknowledging that it happened that way.

Dr. Watts testified about the similar report that had been given to her by the defendant in making her assessment of the situation, the straw that broke the camel's back. Again, the defendant's statement. Is there a reasonable probably the result would have been different based upon the fact that we now know that the day before Mr. Teitjen or someone on Mr. Teitjen's computer had visited websites. Someone who is not the defendant. How is that exculpatory? How is that mitigating? How does that change the result in the case? How does that make the verdict of death not worthy of confidence? I submit that they failed in their burden of proof in showing that reasonable probably existed under Brady should the state have had that information and given to the defense.

The state's theory in the case and the solicitor's theory in the case was, they weren't hiding anything back about this information intentionally. They just didn't get it from law enforcement, from sled, that they had the information. They didn't necessarily understand the report that they had received; that there was this other data out there at that time in 2008, before this case was tried. But does that require this verdict of death to be undermined? I submit that it does not.

In the closing argument by the Solicitor Jackson when he makes reference to the information that he had that was presented and its at page 1020; where he is referring to the testimony and his interpretation of that testimony that had come back concerning the Teitjen killing. And he says that was to taunt him and torture them further. He pulled back TJ's shirt, painted on his exposed stomach a star using TJ's blood for the paint. And left a note there as well. He got on their computer and began to visit porn sites by his choosing. Not sites from TJ and Melvin. He got the red, white and blue potholder that Emily made with her own hands. Soaked it up in TJ's blood, painted messages on the wall. That is an inference that is based upon the evidence. That is an inference that is based upon the statements that the defendant had given. That is an inference about the facts of the case based upon the testimony that Dr. Schwartz-Watts had presented.

There is nothing about that statement which undermines confidence in the verdict based upon the totality of the case that was presented based upon the solicitor's ability to argue facts and circumstances that appear as reasonable inferences within the record before this court. And I would assert that absent their satisfying the burden of proof on any and all the claims in this case, post-conviction relief should be denied.

THE COURT: Thank you. Anything else from anybody?

MS. ARMSTRONG: Not at this time, Your Honor.

THE COURT: Well I want to thank both attorneys on both sides. You all have been adequate. Extremely so. I appreciate you all's conduct. You all have been very professional. And I really appreciate it. It's made my job much easier. I will review everything that has placed in evidence in this, the law and everything you have given me. And let you all know my decision. Thank you.

INVESTIGATIVE REPORT

PLAINTIFF'S EXHIBIT

TO: Case File 33-04-0116
11-04-0062

FROM: S/A D.J. Barton and S/A Mark Creech

RE: Death Investigation

COUNTY: Sumter and Richland

Introduction

On Friday, October 8, 2004, Clinton W. Brown was fishing at the Tolar Boat Landing in Eastover, South Carolina, when he was shot in the left rear shoulder area. On Saturday, October 9, 2004, the body of Clifton Gainey was found on the side of the road near Bells Mill Road in Wedgefield, South Carolina. On Monday, October 11, 2004, the body of Willard Tietjen was located at his home at 6775 Cane Savannah Road in Wedgefield, South Carolina. On October 12, 2004, Sheriff Tommy Mimms requested that SLED help investigate two unnatural deaths that had occurred in Sumter County.

Captain David Caldwell responded to the sheriff's office and met with Sheriff Mimms and Sumter County investigators. Captain Paul Grant, of the Midlands Region assigned S/A Barton to respond to Sumter County to assist with the investigation, due to the fact that the shooting incident involving Clinton Brown occurred in Richland County. S/A Mark Creech, of the Pee Dee Region, was also assigned to assist in the investigation by Captain Kin McKenzie, due to the fact that Sumter County is in the Pee Dee Region.

Summary

On October 12, 2004, Captain Caldwell met with Investigator David Florence of the Sumter County Sheriff's Office at [redacted], the residence of Willard Tietjen. The investigators reviewed the crime scene and discussed the possible link of the same offender being involved in the death of Clifton Gainey and the shooting of Clinton Brown.

On October 12, 2004, Captain Caldwell and Investigator Florence met with Captain Tommy Barron and Sergeant Jamie Turner at the Sumter County Sheriff's Office to discuss possible avenues of approach in the investigation. During this meeting, Steven Corey Bryant's name came up as a person of interest. Bryant was a friend of Clifton Gainey and also a truck meeting the description of Bryant's was seen near the scene of Gainey's death.

On October 12, 2004, Captain Caldwell and Sgt. Turner went to the residence of Bryant at [redacted] Park in Sumter South Carolina. Bryant said that he did know Clifton Gainey but had no information to give to investigators regarding his death.

On October 13, 2004, S/A Barton and Capt. Caldwell went to the Sumter Sheriff's Office to meet with the investigators. Upon arrival, S/A Barton made contact with Sgt. Turner and he (Turner) advised that they had developed a suspect. Sgt. Turner requested that Capt. Caldwell and S/A Barton meet the county investigators at the Mi Ami nightclub parking lot on Highway 378 in Sumter. Upon arrival, Capt. Caldwell and

S/A Barton were advised by Sgt. Turner that another homicide had taken place early that morning. The body of Christopher Burgess was located on the side of Foxville Road in Wedgefield, South Carolina. Sgt. Turner advised that a pair of tennis shoes were located near Burgess' body. Sgt. Turner further stated that they were similar to the pair that he had seen the previous day in Bryant's truck. The caliber of handgun used in all of the deaths was a 40-caliber, and at the Burgess crime scene, 40-caliber cartridges were found. While Capt. Caldwell, Capt. Barron, S/A Barton, Sgt. Turner, and Inv. Florence were discussing the investigative options, they were joined by S/A Mark Creech. It was determined that Inv. Florence and Sgt. Turner would apply to a Magistrate for a search warrant for Bryant's GMC pickup truck and residence at #8 Wild's Mobile Home Park. Sgt. Turner and Inv. Florence applied and received a search warrant from Judge Lee Tindal of Sumter County on October 13, 2004 (Attachment #1).

On October 13, 2004, the investigators staged for a pre-search warrant execution briefing and a plan was formulated utilizing the SLED SWAT Team. The SWAT team proceeded to the Bryant residence and made contact with Bryant. Bryant and Judy Justice came out of the residence without incident and were advised that law enforcement had a lawful search warrant for their residence and Bryant's truck (Attachment #2). At approximately 2:44 pm, Capt. Caldwell and Sgt. Turner made contact with Bryant (DOB 4-12-81), and Sgt. Turner advised Bryant of his constitutional rights (Attachment #3). Present during the advisement and Miranda Waiver were, Sgt. Turner, S/A Alex Underwood, Capt. Caldwell, Lt. Hoss Horton, S/A Artee Franklin and S/A Crawford of the FBI. Capt. Caldwell asked Bryant if anyone has borrowed his truck and he stated that no one had borrowed his truck. Bryant told Capt. Caldwell that the shoes that were in his truck belonged to his fiancée, Judy Justice. Bryant stated that on October 12, 2004, he cut his grass, watched television, got on the Internet and "was looking up this fucking shit" that you all are asking about. Bryant stated that he knew one of the victims, Cliff Gainey. Bryant stated that they had worked together for Garris Varner. The last time Bryant saw Gainey was about a month ago and they split a "nickel bag... more like a quarter bag" of marijuana. At approximately 2:59 pm, Bryant requested a lawyer and the questioning ceased. At approximately 3:01 pm, Bryant said to Capt. Caldwell, "I'll volunteer to talk about Garris and answer whatever I want to, but not what I don't want to. I understand Miranda and right to privacy" [sic]. Bryant stated that Garris Varner owns the house where Cliff rents. Bryant went on to say that, "Varner is an angel to the Chamber of Commerce behind closed doors to get his business going. He ain't what people think... I think there is a possibility that he killed Cliff". Bryant also stated that Varner once said that he (Varner) would like to have his wife "knocked off".

On October 13, 2004, S/A Barton, S/A Creech, and Lt. Stan Smith of the Richland County Sheriff's Office interviewed and obtained a written statement from Judy Justice at the scene of the search warrant at [redacted] Sumter, South Carolina (Attachment #4). In her statement Justice stated that she had met Bryant around March of 2002, through the Internet. Bryant moved in with her in the summer of that year. Bryant and Justice had been having "relationship stress", due to monetary problems and working hours. Justice stated that as of Thursday of the previous week, she had not seen much of Bryant because she had been working a lot of hours at the video rental business that she manages. On Saturday, Bryant came to her business around 10:00 pm and stated that he had been fishing all day and that he had a surprise in his truck for her. Justice stated that when they went home, around 11:30 pm, Bryant showed her some "video and sound stuff" and an aquarium. When Justice questioned Bryant about the items, he told her that some guy was trying to pawn the items and he bought the items from him for $50. Justice stated that she worked Sunday from 10:00 am to 10:00 pm, Monday 4:00 pm to 10:00 pm, and Tuesday 11:00 am to 10:00 pm. On Tuesday, Justice came home around 10:45 pm and Bryant was not at home. Bryant got home around midnight and went out again sometime later that morning for cigarettes. She woke up that morning and Bryant was gone and she did not know how long he had been gone. Justice was asked by investigators if she knew of Bryant owning a weapon and she responded, "no". She was asked if she knew Mr. Varner, and she replied that she knew that Steven [Bryant] had worked for him a while back, and that she had met him once or twice. Justice was asked if she knew Clifton Gainey and she replied that only what she had heard through Steven [Bryant]. Gainey and Bryant had worked together for Varner and remembered Bryant saying that Clifton was a drunk. When Justice asked Bryant if Clifton was the same person that was found dead, Bryant said "yea", but nothing more was said. Justice was asked if Bryant used the Internet, she replied that in the beginning a lot. During the time that he was not working, he looked at more porn sites than she liked and that caused a lot of stress. She asked him to stop and to her knowledge, there has been no recurrence of it for nine to ten months. Justice was asked if Bryant ever talked about a dislike of child molesters or porn. She stated that he hated child molesters. Justice was asked if Bryant ever talk about being molested. She stated "yes", his mother, uncle, grandfather, his grandmother's first husband. It was stated to Justice in a therapy session with Bryant. Bryant stated that all of the alleged molestation had occurred at a young age. Justice was asked if she and Bryant go to Wateree River and fish. She answered that they have on several occasions but not lately. They went there Friday night after work to take cat food to some kittens. When they left a policeman stopped them and told them that he was checking everyone and that a man had been shot there earlier in the shoulder. Bryant shook the officer's hand and thanked him then showed him the pvc pipe he had started carrying since he had been attacked and told the officer about the attack. Justice was asked if she was aware of any shoes being in the floorboard of Bryant's truck. She replied, "yes, some blue and white Nike's, they were mine, I had left them in the floor since last Wednesday, wore them fishing, they are the same ones that the officer showed me in the paper bag. I know that they are mine because of the rips and chewed places, bought them several years ago for racquetball, boys 6 or 7." Justice was asked what type of religion Bryant practiced. She replied that he always speaks of things like Chakra and Budda. "Words like third eye and balance of the mind had been said, do not know anything of these meaning" [sic]. Justice was asked to cover in greater detail what happened on Monday:

> Around 8:00 am Monday, Steven woke me to let me know he was leaving to run errands. I had asked him to bring back a pack of cigarettes for me. Had not come back by 3:30 pm, when I left for work. Showed up at my work around 9:00 pm brought food stayed a few minutes. He said he did not feel well, I told him to go home. When I came home he was in bed. I had called once to make sure he got home, the machine picked up.

Shortly after he called saying he didn't hear the phone, must have had the music up too loud.

Justice was asked if she noticed any other suspicious items. She replied that Tuesday morning she saw a silver box in the bed of Steven's truck and was going to open it but did not. She waited for Steven to wake up around 9:00 am. She asked what it was and Bryant said that she was being nosey and going through his things again. Bryant seemed angry to her so she left early for work. Justice was asked if she noticed a Masonic emblem or any type of medallion. She replied, "No, I never known of anything like that" [sic]. The statement was signed and Justice was given a copy.

On October 13, 2004, at approximately 3:25, Bryant advised Capt. Caldwell that he wanted to go to the office to tell him what happened. Bryant was then transported to the Sumter County Sheriff's Office for the interview. At the Sheriff's office, Bryant was again advised of his constitutional rights and agreed to give a written statement to the investigators (Attachment #5). Bryant wanted the investigators to know that he had attempted to obtain mental health counseling but was not able to because of the cost. Bryant stated that he had found a .45 Smith & Wesson and a 12 gauge shotgun at a recycling center near his home along with a box of bullets. Bryant stated that he took the .45 and left the shotgun at the recycling center. Bryant said that he could not sleep and went for a drive. Bryant went to the gas station on Broad Street, across from the Women's Factory Outlet, in Sumter about 1:00 or 1:30 in the morning and saw a black man talking to the cashier. Bryant advised that the man seemed to be high and wanted a ride. Bryant agreed to give him a ride and the man started smoking something, Bryant thought it was crack. Bryant stated that the man started acting weird and getting mad. Bryant stated that he was taking him towards Wedgefield and the man asked him to stop so that he could "take a leak". Bryant stated that the man acted as if he was going to come around the vehicle and Bryant did not want to get trapped in the vehicle, "so I got out [and] I shot him". Bryant stated that he could not remember how many times he shot the man. Bryant then left the scene and went home.

Bryant also stated that the prior Friday, he had been fishing on the river off Highway 378 and was confronted by a black man who accused him of being a racist. Bryant said that he felt threatened and shot the man and went home. Later that evening, Bryant and his girlfriend went to the river to feed some stray cats and were stopped by law enforcement and asked about the shooting.

Bryant stated he had been to the Tietjen home on only one occasion. Bryant said that he had not spoken with the Tietjen family on the phone; as it was reported by the Sheriff on WIS television. Bryant stated that he did not have Tietjen's phone. Bryant told Capt. Caldwell that he did not feel comfortable talking about what happened at the Tietjen home but would talk about it later. Bryant said that he could not remember leaving the Tietjen home that day but would like to be hypnotized to see if it could help him remember.

Bryant stated that on the prior Saturday, he had given Cliff Gainey some "dope", hung out together for a few hours, and Gainey asked if he was interested in buying some items from him. Bryant stated that he bought a TV, VCR, DVD player, and a surround system. Bryant stated that he gave Gainey $75 in cash and some "dope". Bryant said that they then started smoking marijuana together on Gainey's couch. Bryant stated that he does not recall shooting Clifton Gainey. Bryant stated that he left Gainey's house and went to McDonald's on Pinewood Road in Sumter and then went home and cleaned the house. Some time later that night, Bryant stated that he went to his girlfriend's workplace (Hollywood Box Office), waited until she got off work and followed her home around 11:20 pm. Bryant stated that they then stayed home the rest of the night, but they might have gone to Wal-Mart. Bryant put a handwritten addition to the statement that said his girlfriend, Judy, did not have anything to do with these murders and wanted her name to be left out of it. The statement was reviewed and signed by Bryant.

On October 13, 2004, Bryant then agreed to speak with S/A Mark Creech, S/A Barton, and Inv. Florence to discuss some amendments to his previous written statement. Bryant told the interviewers that some of the prior statements needed to be clarified and agreed to give a second written statement (Attachment #6). Bryant was again reminded of his constitutional rights by the interviewers and agreed to give another statement. Bryant stated that he did not find the guns at the recycling center as was previously indicated, but that he had taken the gun, during a house breaking, from a house near Pinewood a few weeks back. Bryant stated that he stopped at a house and knocked on the door and when no one answered, he went to a sliding glass door that was partially open and went inside the residence. Bryant stated that he found the gun in the residence and took it.

Bryant stated that on the previous night, he went to a convenience store on Broad Street in Sumter and saw a black guy talking to the cashier. The guy asked Bryant for a ride to McRays Mill Road and Bryant agreed. The guy put his bicycle into the bed of Bryant's truck and they left the store. The guy wanted Bryant to drive to a street near there in order to buy some drugs, but Bryant would not agree to do so. Bryant stated that they then went towards Wedgefield and ended up on a dirt road. They both exited the truck to relieve themselves and the guy started making demands as to where he wanted Bryant to take him. This made Bryant angry and the guy started to come around to Bryant's side of the truck. Bryant stated that he was concerned that the guy was attempting to take his truck and Bryant reached under the seat of the truck and grabbed the gun and shot the man. Bryant stated that "this one was not intentional" and "I felt threatened".

Bryant stated that on the previous Monday, he was having problems with his truck and pulled over on the side of the road and smoked a marijuana joint. Bryant stated that he saw the Tietjen home and walked towards the house between 9:30 am and 12:30 pm. Bryant stated that he did not think anyone was home but still knocked on the door. Mr. Tietjen answered the door and agreed to help him and they walked towards Bryant's truck. They looked at the truck and then walked back towards the house and Tietjen handed Bryant his cell phone. Bryant stated that he tried to call his girlfriend on two occasions but got the answering machine both times. Tietjen and Bryant sat down inside the residence and started talking about the Masons and the "knowledge". Bryant stated that he (Tietjen) was talking about things in the Masons that he should not have been talking about. Bryant stated that they talked for a couple of hours. Bryant said that Tietjen did not know that he had a gun on him. Bryant stated that Tietjen was disturbed and threatened by the things that Bryant knew about the Masons. Bryant stated that he asked Tietjen if he could use his bathroom and as Bryant turned, Tietjen hit Bryant in the back of the head. Bryant stated that he was dazed and that when he turned around, Tietjen was charging him. Bryant stated that he then pulled his gun and shot Tietjen, but does not remember how many times. Bryant stated that when Tietjen fell, he (Bryant) sat down and started crying. Bryant stated that from this point on he only remembers bits and pieces. Bryant stated that he then went to Tietjen's refrigerator and got a Pepsi and drank it. Bryant said that when he got home from the Tietjen home, he found four medals from Tietjen's home in his pocket. Bryant stated that he does not remember smoking in the Tietjen house but could have. Bryant stated that he does remember praying for Tietjen and lighting some white candles that he found in the cabinet to free Tietjen's spirit so that he could be at peace. Bryant stated that he remembered that Tietjen had told him that he liked young girls and that they had been looking at pornography on Tietjen's computer. Bryant said that he believes that he saw a young girl with a horse in her. Bryant stated that he does not remember how many times he shot Tietjen, but that he had 12 rounds in his clip and had only seven when he got home. Bryant said that he may have left a note but does not remember doing so.

Bryant stated that he remembered going to Clifton Gainey's house and sitting around smoking "dope" and drinking beer. Bryant stated that he left to go to the store to buy some more beer but does not remember shooting Gainey, but could have.

Bryant said that the ephedrine that he bought was for Judy. Judy uses it to help her get going in the mornings. Bryant stated that he does not take pills of any kind. Bryant said that his prison record says that he abused alcohol, but that is not true. Bryant stated that he would go up to lots of people's homes to talk to them and occasionally he would see if he could break in later. Bryant said that his mother sexually abused him when he was seven or eight. Bryant stated that he does not remember having any concussions or bad head injuries.

Bryant was shown photos of the Tletjen crime scene by Capt. Caldwell. Bryant stated that he seemed to remember the note on Tletjen's stomach and that he may have poked his eyes out. Bryant agreed that it was his handwriting in the photos, but something just did not seem right to Bryant. Bryant stated that he does not smoke cigars and noticed that Tletjen's belt was undone. Bryant stated that he had a strong feeling that someone was in the crime scene after he left. Bryant signed the written statement in front of S/A Barton, S/A Creech, and Capt. Caldwell. During the interview process, Bryant was offered breaks and given food and drink. At approximately 6:59 pm, Bryant was given a sandwich. At approximately 8:30 pm, Bryant was given two pieces of pizza. Between 8:50 pm and 10: 00 pm, Bryant was given two drinks. Throughout the entire interview process, Bryant was given restroom breaks multiple times.

Bryant stated that he wanted to convey his concern over what had happened to his girlfriend, Judy Justice. Capt. Caldwell and S/A Creech suggested that Bryant write his feelings down in a letter to Justice (Attachment #7). In this letter, Bryant told Justice how much he loves her and how sorry he is for what had happened. Bryant stated that he was sorry for what he has done to her and them. Bryant went on to say, "I think it's time to resurrect some bad things in my life". Bryant wrote that he has tried to get some help, "its just time now I let it all be known, everything, and hopefully I'll get the right help this time".

After the investigators completed their interviews of Bryant on October 13, 2004, Dr. Pam Crawford obtained a written consent for a psychiatric evaluation (Attachment #8). Florence and S/A Barton advised Bryant of his constitutional rights and he agreed to talk with the investigators and give a written statement (Attachment # 24). Bryant stated that he heard the second black male tell the victim of the shooting, before he left, "I'll be here tomorrow, I'll see you then". Bryant went on to state that on October 9, 2004, he remembers picking up Cliff's (Gainey) knife off the ground. Bryant stated that he also remembered that Gainey had a beer bottle in his left hand getting ready to throw it in the direction he was standing. Bryant stated that after the shooting, he went to the 76 car wash and threw Gainey's wallet into a trash bin. Bryant said that he had forgotten that he still had Gainey's keys and when he got to Judy's store, Bryant stated that he acted like he found some keys that someone had dropped on the floor of the store and turned them over to Judy as lost and found. Bryant stated that Gainey told him that he had wondered what it felt like to get shot, because Gainey said that he knew a guy who had been shot and the guy remembered seeing a big bright light. Bryant said that he did not know why he shot Gainey and the only thing that he could come up with was that Gainey's actions had brought back a bad memory and that he felt scared. Bryant stated that the way that Gainey was holding his beer bottle and the way that he concealed his knife reminded Bryant of his father. After the shooting, Bryant stated that he remembered kneeling beside Gainey's body and crying for him because he (Gainey) was a good friend to him.

Bryant stated that he remembered that just before he left Tietjen's house, he heard the answering machine pick up the phone and he heard a lady, whose name started with an S, saying that she would be there before his wife came home. The DNA profile developed from item 17.1 is a mixture. The profile from the major contributor to item 17.1 has been entered into the Combined DNA Index System (CODIS). Christopher Burgess is excluded as a contributor to the mixture developed from item 17.1.

A report dated March 15, 2005, from the SLED Computer Crimes Department was submitted by S/A David Givens (Attachment #79). S/A Givens had examined computers submitted by the Sumter County Sheriff's Office. Nothing of evidentiary value was found on the computers or the AOL or Yahoo searches. No evidence was identified that would have suggested that Bryant had any computer generated contact with any of the victims prior to their deaths.

A copy of this report will be sent to the Third Circuit Solicitor's Office for review and assistance in their prosecution of Bryant.

RE: Computer Exam, Homicide
Bryant, Stephen (s)
Tietjen, Willard , et al (v)

COUNTY: Sumter

Introduction

South Carolina Law Enforcement (SLED) Agent Bo Barton, who was assisting the Sumter County Sheriff's Department, requested the examination of computer evidence regarding a Homicide investigation. Lieutenant Chip Johnson assigned the case to Agent David Givens.

History

Between October 8, 2004 and October 13, 2004, several shooting incidents occurred in Sumter County, two of which resulted in the death of the victims. On October 13, 2004, Stephen Bryant was subsequently arrested and charged with the homicides.

Summary

On October 12, 2004, a computer belonging to Willard Tietjen, a victim, was submitted to the SLED Computer Crime Center for examination pursuant to a Consent to Search (Attachment 1). The Sumter Sheriff's Department requested the search of the computer to identify any evidence that would assist in the homicide investigation. Prior to the examination of Tietjen's computer, Lieutenant Johnson notified Agent Givens that a suspect had been identified and a Search Warrant was being executed on a residence.

where Bryant was alleged to have lived. Agent Givens and Lieutenant Johnson traveled to Sumter to assist in the seizure of Bryant's computer. A Search Warrant for the actual search of the computer was subsequently obtained by Agent Barton (Attachment 2). Specifically, the computer examinations were to determine if there was any prior contact between Bryant and the victims. Preservation letters were sent to AOL and Yahoo for any content related to Bryant's email and associated screen names (Attachments 3, 4 and 5).

On November 10, 2004, Agent Givens met with Agent Barton to review the results of the computer analysis on the Tietjen and Bryant computer. The results of the AOL and Yahoo account searches were also reviewed. Nothing of evidentiary value was identified. In addition, no evidence was identified that would have suggested Bryant had prior contact with any of the victims. Encase reports were generated for the Tietjen and Bryant computers (Attachment 6).

On October 30, 2004, Agent Barton submitted a computer obtained from Andrea Caulder, Bryant's cousin. This examination was conducted pursuant to a Consent to Search provided by Caulder (Attachment 7). According to Agent Barton, Bryant was alleged to have visited Caulder in the months preceding the Sumter Homicides and used her computer to chat with females via the Internet. Agent Barton requested any information that may lead to other unsolved murders in the upstate of South Carolina. A review of Caulder's computer revealed that someone had created a chat profile, know to belong to Bryant. Very small fragments of chat were located which appeared to indicate that someone using Byrant's profile may have attempted to communicate with someone online. However, these chats were not saved and therefore were unrecoverable. In addition, no evidence was located to suggest Bryant was involved in similar unsolved crimes. Agent Givens contacted Agent Barton and advised him of the same. An Encase report was again generated (Attachment 8).

All original evidence was returned (Attachment 9).

Attachment A

The undersigned on oath states that the evidence of the crime of Murder, South Carolina Code Section 16-3-10, exists on the Gateway LP Mini-tower 600, serial number 0015785096, and on eight (8) unmarked floppy disks. The aforementioned items were seized due to a lawful search warrant executed at [redacted] Sumter, South Carolina, the residence of Stephen Cory Bryant and Judy Justice on October 13, 2004. My belief is based upon the following facts and circumstances:

I, Durwood Barton, Senior Agent with the South Carolina Law Enforcement Division, 4400 Broad River Road, Columbia, SC 29210, phone (803) 737-9000, being duly sworn depose as follows:

I have been a law enforcement officer since 1988 and have conducted numerous criminal investigations including, but not limited to, murders, public corruption, armed robberies, computer related crimes, and narcotics violations. I am presently assigned to the Midlands Investigative Region conducting various forms of criminal investigations. I have received specialized training involving: computer crimes, advanced investigative techniques, and violent crimes. I have received on the job training through supervisors and other experienced law enforcement officers from local, State, and Federal authorities.

Richland and Sumter county deputies, as well as SLED agents related the following sequence of events to your affiant. On Friday October 8, 2004, Clinton W. Brown was fishing at the Polar Boat Landing in Eastover, SC, when he was shot in the left rear shoulder area. Mr. Brown was not able to identify his attacker, but a fired 40-caliber cartridge was located at the scene.

On Saturday October 9, 2004, the body of Clifton Gainey was found on the side of the road at Bells Mill Road in Wedgefield, SC. Among many of the items located at the crime scene were a number of fired 40-caliber cartridges.

On Monday October 11, 2004 the body of Willard Tietjen was located at his home at [redacted] in Wedgefield, SC. Multiple fired 40-caliber cartridges were located in the residence. The UNSUB had written a note and left it on the table near the body. The note stated "No more sick computer porn for this sick fucker", "By the way, just keeping my promise to all". The UNSUB also used the computer terms "LOL" and "LMFAO". Your affiant recognized these as acronyms that are commonly used in computer chat rooms.

On Wednesday October 13, 2004, the body of Clifton Burgess was found on the side of Foxville Road in Wedgefield, SC. A number of fired 40-caliber cartridges were located at the scene. Later that day, agents of SLED and Richland County Sheriff's Office assisted Sumter County Sheriff's Office in the execution of a lawful search warrant at #8 Wild's Mobile Home Park Sumter, SC, the residence of Stephen Corey Bryant and Judy Justice. The search warrant revealed a 40-caliber handgun and multiple items belonging to the previous victim's mentioned above. A subsequent interview of Judy Justice revealed that she had met Bryant through the Internet and that Bryant was constantly on the Internet. Justice went on to say that the issue of Internet pornography had become an issue between them. Justice stated that during the last few weeks, she had attempted to run a history on the computer to see which sites that Bryant had been accessing while she was gone to work. Justice had stated that her attempts to locate the history were not fruitful because Bryant had erased the history completely after each use of the computer.

Based on my training and experience it is this affiant's belief that evidence of the crime of murder will exist in the computer as well as other media seized at the residence. Your affiant also is aware that there are various chat rooms as well as web sites that discuss murder and murder fantasies. There is also the possibility that Bryant could have possibly come into contact with Mr. Tietjen in one of the numerous chat rooms that exists on the Internet. Due to the fact that the person that wrote the note that was left at the scene of Tietjen's murder had at least a small knowledge of Tietjen's computer history on the Internet.

On Wednesday, October 27, 2004, your affiant and S/A Mark Creech interviewed Bryant's girlfriend, Judy Justice at her residence [redacted], Sumter, SC. Ms. Justice stated that she had knowledge of multiple e-mail addresses that Bryant had used and was currently using during the dates in question. She further stated that there was one e-mail address that she and Bryant shared. The following is a list of e-mail addresses that Bryant used exclusively: mystic1_one_1981@yahoo.com, eyes_of_nightwolf@yahoo.com, knowledgeofself1981@yahoo.com, night_1_wolf81@yahoo.com. She stated that she and Bryant shared the following e-mail address: featherwolf@aol.com. The last e-mail address that she provided the agents, was used exclusively by her was laura_croft2000@yahoo.com.

Based upon the above information and my training and experience, this affiant respectfully requests a search warrant for the computer and the floppy disks that may be associated with the crime of murder.

| | WEEK ENDING |
| 10-25-04 | Rec'd call from Solicitor Kelly Jackson. Discussed computer exam on Teitjen computer. Also discussed consents vs. Search Warrant on Bryant. |
| | Rec'd email from Capt. Johnson. Apparently consent has been obtained from Bryant's wife/girlfriend. |
| | Called Bo Barton to advise that Yahoo notified this writer that eyesofthenight_wolf@yahoo.com does not exist. Suggested Barton re-verify the screen name. Barton stated that he had drafted Search Warrant for Bryant's computer. Advised Barton of email received from Capt. Johnson. Barton is having a conf with Solicitor Jackson on Wed. |
| 10-26-04 | Reviewed the Gateway and Acer analysis. Consulted with W. Johnson regarding the date/time issue on the Gateway. The Gateway time appears to be on the 24 hour format. Therefore, the computer time was determined to be 13 hours fast. A timeline was drafted. There is no certainty with regard to all the activities but a general consensus was reached. The Internet Hx provided two dates. It appears that Date #2 column will coincide with actual file access dates/times. |

| | The Acer computer date/time stamp was within 2 mins of actual time (5 mins fast). The Acer computer appears to have been booted at approx. 11:43 am on 10-11-04. No activity noted. (Note: system is a FAT 16 and access times are not available). |

| The STATE OF SOUTH CAROLINA- vs -Stephen Corey BRYANT,Defendant. | TENDER OF GUILTY PLEA{Reserving Right to Jury Determination of Sentence} |

I, Stephen Corey Bryant, have not taken any medication not prescribed by my doctor, nor have I consumed any alcohol, or illegal drugs within the last 96 hours. I am not sick, nor under duress or any other mental infirmity.

I speak, read, write, and understand the English language; and, have read this document in its entirety. I have also discussed my decision to tender a plea of guilty and have a jury determine my sentence with my lawyer(s) in detail and at length. All of my questions have been satisfactorily answered.

I have received a written copy of the charges against me in this case. I have been made aware of and am fully cognizant of the nature of the charges pending against me, and do hereby declare that I fully understand I have a right to trial by jury on each, every, and all of the specific allegations and counts of the foregoing indictment against me, which are as follows:

COUNT ONE - MURDER.

That STEPHEN COREY BRYANT did in Sumter County on or about October 11, 2004, feloniously, wilfully and with malice aforethought, either expressed or implied, kill one Willard Tietjen by means of shooting him with a .40 caliber handgun, and that the said Willard Tietjen did die as a proximate result thereof.

COUNT TWO - ARMED ROBBERY.

That STEPHEN COREY BRYANT did in Sumter County on or about October 11, 2004, violate Section 16-11-330(A) of the Code of Laws of South Carolina (1976), as amended, while armed with a deadly weapon, to-wit: a.40 caliber handgun, did feloniously take from Willard Tietjen in the presence of Willard Tietjen, by means of force or intimidation goods or monies of the said Willie Tietjen, such goods or monies being described: currency, change, camera, knife, jewelry, tools, cell phone and other personal belongings.

COUNT THREE - POSSESSION OF A STOLEN HANDGUN.

That STEPHEN COREY BRYANT in Sumter County on or about October 11, 2004, was in possession of a stolen handgun, to-wit: a Smith and Wesson Model 4046 semi-automatic .40 caliber pistol stolen from James Allen Ammons on or about October 8,2004, in violation of Section 16-23-30(c), Code of Laws of South Carolina (1976), as amended.

These charges have been explained to me by my lawyer(s), and I understand what it is the state would be required to prove beyond a reasonable doubt in order to obtain a conviction against me as to each charge should I elect to have a trial by jury. More specifically, I understand and acknowledge that in order to obtain and sustain a conviction on the foregoing charges/counts against me, the state would have to present evidence sufficient to convince a jury that I did, beyond a reasonable doubt, commit the offenses of which I am accused, to wit:

a.) MURDER being defined as the unlawful killing of any person with malice aforethought, either express or implied;

b.) ARMED ROBBERY being defined as a robbery committed while armed with a pistol, dirk, slingshot, metal knuckles, razor, or other deadly weapon, or while alleging, or either by action or words, alleging to be armed while using a representation of a deadly weapon or any object which a person present during the commission of the robbery reasonably believed to be a deadly weapon; and, c.) POSSESSION OF A STOLEN HANDGUN being defined as knowingly buying, selling, transporting, pawning, receiving, or possessing any stolen handgun or one from which the original serial number has been removed or obliterated.

My lawyers have also explained to me the possible punishments that may result as a consequence of my guilty plea. More specifically, I have been advised and understand that:

MURDER: A person who is convicted of or pleads guilty to murder must be punished by death, by imprisonment for life, or by a mandatory minimum term of imprisonment for thirty years. I understand and acknowledge that the terms "life imprisonment" and "imprisonment for life" means until my death, with no hope or possibility of parole.

If, however the State seeks the death penalty, as it does in my case, then and in the event and a statutory aggravating circumstance is found beyond a reasonable doubt and a recommendation of death is not made by the jury, the trial judge must impose a sentence of life imprisonment.

Because the State has elected to seek the death penalty, I am entitled to have a separate a separate sentencing proceeding. In that sentencing proceeding, if a statutory aggravating circumstance is found by the jury, I must be sentenced to either death or life imprisonment. If no statutory aggravating circumstance is found by the jury, then I must be sentenced to either life imprisonment or else a mandatory minimum term of imprisonment for thirty (30)years.

I understand that "robbery while armed with a deadly weapon" (more commonly referred to as "armed robbery) is a statutory aggravating circumstance. Therefore and because I am tendering a plea of guilty to that offense as well as to murder, it could serve as a statutory aggravating circumstance and result in the jury deciding I should be sentenced to death.

ARMED ROBBERY: A person who is convicted of or pleads guilty to armed robbery in violation of S.C. Code § 16-11-330(A), must be imprisoned for a mandatory minimum term of not less than ten (10) years or more than thirty (30) years, no part of which may be suspended or probation granted. A person pleading guilty to this offense is not eligible for parole until the person has served at least seven years of the sentence.

POSSESSION OF STOLEN HANDGUN: A person who is convicted of or pleads guilty to knowingly possessing a stolen handgun in violation of S.C. Code § 16-23-30(c), is guilty of a "Class F" felony and may be sentenced to a period of incarceration of not more than five (5) years.

CALCULATION OF TOTAL SENTENCE: My lawyers have advised me and I understand there is no requirement that any of my sentences run concurrently - that is, that time be counted all together on each sentence just as if it were one total sentence. My lawyers have advised me and I understand that the Court could and likely will require that my sentences run consecutively – that is one after the other ,and without any credit being given to any one sentence for time served on any other sentence.

I have received a copy and have an opportunity to review the discovery the State has provided to my lawyers to date. I have explained and have had opportunity to explain my side of the story to my lawyers, including possible defenses I may have. I have explained to my lawyers all the facts I know or can call recall about the case.

I understand the state is seeking a penalty of death in my case; and, that should my request to plead guilty and be sentence by a jury be granted, a jury could in-fact sentence me to death. I also understand that should I plead guilty and leave my sentencing to a judge, I could be sentenced to death. Furthermore, I understand that should I plead innocent, and be found guilty by a jury, I could be sentenced to death.

Upon the basis of the empirical and statistical research which exists I understand that should I plead innocent, but then be found guilty by a jury, there exists an increased chance (i.e. a statistically significant correlation) that I would more likely be subjected to a sentence of death by that jury than I would if my request to plead guilty and have my sentence determined by the jury be granted.

I know I have the right to plead not guilty and to have a speedy and public trial by jury; and, that under the laws of South Carolina that I have the right to plead guilty and be sentenced by the Court. Nevertheless and upon advice of counsel, I maintain that the State of South Carolina can not require that I forfeit my right to be sentenced by a jury, should I desire, as I do, to enter a plea of guilty while maintaining and insisting upon exercising my right to have a jury determine all and such additional facts as may affect, impact, or determine my ultimate sentence in this case.

Furthermore; I have had explained to me and understand that I have:

d.) The right to plead not guilty, or having already so pleaded, to persist in that plea;

e.) The right to a jury trial;

f.) The right to be represented by counsel - and if necessary to have the court appoint counsel to assist me at trial and at every other stage of the proceedings;

g.) The right at trial to confront and cross-examine adverse witnesses;

h.) The right at trial to be protected from compelled self-incrimination;

i.) The right at trial to testify and present evidence; and, j.) The right at trial to compel the attendance of witnesses on my behalf; and,

I understand that by tendering a plea of guilty as charged, the acceptance of that plea of guilty would constitute a my waiver of those trial rights and any defenses I may have, or could have alleged at trial, subject, however, to my herein made reservation of my right to have a jury determine my sentence.

I further understand and also acknowledge that before the court accepts my plea of guilty, it can and may require that I be placed under oath, personally and in open court, and that I address, determine, and acknowledge that I understand each and every of the foregoing rights, in addition to each and all of the following:

1.) That should I be placed under oath and questioned by the Court, the government may use any false statements I knowingly make against me in a prosecution for perjury or false statement;

2.) That before accepting a plea of guilty, the court must address me personally in open court and determine that the plea is voluntary and did not result from force, threats, or promises (other than promises made pursuant to a negotiated plea agreement); and,

3.) That before accepting a plea of guilty, the court must determine that a substantial factual basis exists for the plea, which is a matter I hereby declare and admit as true.

I, Stephen Corey Bryant do hereby declare under penalty of perjury that the foregoing is true and correct.

These charges have been explained to me by my lawyer(s), and I understand what it is the state would be required to prove beyond a reasonable doubt in order to obtain a conviction against me as to each charge should I elect to have a trial by jury. More specifically, I understand and acknowledge that in order to obtain and sustain a conviction on the foregoing charges/counts against me, the state would have to present evidence sufficient to convince a jury that I did, beyond a reasonable doubt, commit the offenses of which I am accused, to wit:

) BURGLARY (2ND DEGREE) 16-11-312(A) being defined as burglary in the second degree if the person enters a dwelling without consent and with intent to commit a crime therein.

.) BURGLARY (1ST DEGREE) 16-11-311 (A)(1)(d) being defined as a person entering a without consent and with the intent to commit a crime in the dwelling when, in effecting entry or while in the dwelling or in immediate flight, he or another participant in the crime displays what is or appears to be a knife, pistol, revolver, rifle, shotgun, machine gun, or other firearm.

c.) MURDER being defined as the unlawful killing of any person with malice aforethought, either express or implied;

d.) BURGLARY (1ST DEGREE) 16-11-311(3) being defined as a person entering a without consent and with the intent to commit a crime in the dwelling and the entering or remaining occurs in the nighttime.

e.) ARSON (2ND DEGREE) 16-11-110 (B) being defined as the willful and malicious cause of an explosion, sets fire to, burns, or causes to be burned or aids, counsels, or procures the burning of a dwelling house, church or place of worship, a public or private school facility, a manufacturing plant or a warehouse, a building where business is conducted, an institutional facility, or any structure designed for human occupancy to include local and municipal buildings, whether the property of himself or another.

f.) POSSESSION OF A STOLEN HANDGUN 16-23-30(C) being defined as knowingly buying, selling, transporting, pawning, receiving, or possessing any stolen handgun or one from which the original serial number has been removed or obliterated.

g.) ARMED ROBBERY 16-11-330(A) being defined as a robbery committed while armed with a pistol, dirk, slingshot, metal knuckles, razor, or other deadly weapon, or while alleging, or either by action or words, alleging to be armed while using a representation of a deadly weapon or any object which a person present during the commission of the robbery reasonably believed to be a deadly weapon; and,

h.) ASSAULT & BATTERY WITH INTENT TO KILL 16-3-620 being defined as containing these elements (1) an unlawful attempt, (2) to commit a violent injury (3) to the person of another, (4) with malicious intent (5) accompanied by the present ability to complete the act.

i.) THREATENING LIFE OF PUBLIC EMPLOYEE 16-3-1040 (B) is defined as being knowingly and willfully delivery to a public employee a letter or paper, writing, print, massive document, or electronic communication or verbal or electronic communication which contains a threat to take the life of or to inflict bodily harm upon the public employee or members of his immediate family if the threat is directly related to the public employees official responsibilities.

My lawyers have also explained to me the possible punishments that may result as a consequence of my guilty plea. More specifically, I have been advised and understand that:

BURGLARY (2ND DEGREE)16-11-312(A) A person who is convicted of or pleads guilty to Burglary (2nd Degree) imprisonment of up to fifteen (15) years, provided, that no person convicted of burglary in the second degree shall be eligible for parole except upon service of not less than one-third of the term of the sentence.

BURGLARY(1ST DEGREE) 16-11-311(A)(1)(D) & 16-11-311(3) A person who is convicted of or pleads guilty to Burglary (1st Degree) can be punished by imprisonment for life, or by a mandatory minimum term of imprisonment for fifteen (15) years. I understand and acknowledge that the terms "life imprisonment" and "imprisonment for life" means until my death, with no hope or possibility of parole.

MURDER: A person who is convicted of or pleads guilty to murder must be punished by death, by imprisonment for life, or by a mandatory minimum term of imprisonment for thirty years. I understand and acknowledge that the terms "life imprisonment" and "imprisonment for life" means until my death, with no hope or possibility of parole.

If, however the State seeks the death penalty, as it does in my case, then and in the event and a statutory aggravating circumstance is found beyond a reasonable doubt and a recommendation of death is not made by the jury, the trial judge must impose a sentence of life imprisonment.

Because the State has elected to seek the death penalty, I am entitled to have a separate a separate sentencing proceeding. In that sentencing proceeding, if a statutory aggravating circumstance is found by the jury, I must be sentenced to either death or life imprisonment. If no statutory aggravating circumstance is found by the jury, then I must be sentenced to either life imprisonment or else a mandatory minimum term of imprisonment for thirty (30) years.

I understand that "robbery while armed with a deadly weapon" (more commonly referred to as "armed robbery) is a statutory aggravating circumstance. Therefore and because I am tendering a plea of guilty to that offense as well as to murder, it could serve as a statutory aggravating circumstance and result in the jury deciding I should be sentenced to death.

ARSON (2ND DEGREE) 16-11-110(B): A person who is convicted of or pleads guilty to Arson (2nd Degree) must be imprisoned not less than one (1) but not more than ten (10) years.

POSSESSION OF STOLEN HANDGUN16-23-30(C): A person who is convicted of or pleads guilty to knowingly possessing a stolen handgun in violation of S.C. Code § 16-23-30(c), is guilty of a "Class F" felony and may be sentenced to a period of incarceration of not more than five (5) years.

ARMED ROBBERY16-11-330(A): A person who is convicted of or pleads guilty to armed robbery in violation of S.C. Code § 16-11-330(A), must be imprisoned for a mandatory minimum term of not less than ten (10) years or more than thirty (30) years, no part of which may be suspended or probation granted. A person pleading guilty to this offense is not eligible for parole until the person has served at least seven years of the sentence.

ASSAULT AND BATTERY WITH INTENT TO KILL 16-3-620 A person who is convicted of or pleads guilty to assault and Battery with Intent to Kill can be sentenced up to twenty (20) years imprisonment.

THREATENING LIFE OF A PUBLIC EMPLOYEE 16-3-1040(B): A person who is convicted of or pleads guilty to Threatening Life of a Public Employee must be fined not more than five hundred dollar or imprisonment not more than thirty days, or both.

CALCULATION OF TOTAL SENTENCE: My lawyers have advised me and I understand there is no requirement that any of my sentences run concurrently - that is, that time be counted all together on each sentence just as if it were one total sentence. My lawyers have advised me and I understand that the Court could and likely will require that my sentences run consecutively

= that is one after the other, and without any credit being given to any one sentence for time served on any other sentence.

I have received a copy and have an opportunity to review the discovery the State has provided to my lawyers to date. I have explained and have had opportunity to explain my side of the story to my lawyers, including possible defenses I may have. I have explained to my lawyers all the facts I know or can call recall about the case.

I understand the state is seeking a penalty of death in my case; and, that should I plead guilty, I would by so doing also waive my Constitutional right to have a jury determine my sentence. Should I plead guilty I understand that, pursuant to South Carolina Law I would be sentenced by the trial judge, and not by a jury. I understand that I could plead not guilty and preserve my right to be sentenced by a jury. I understand that should I plead guilty, the trial judge could in-fact sentence me to death.

Upon the basis of the empirical and statistical research which exists I understand that should I plead innocent, but then be found guilty by a jury, there exists an increased chance (i.e. a statistically significant correlation) that I would more likely be subjected to a sentence of death by that jury than I would if my previously made, but denied, request to plead guilty and have my sentence determined by the jury be granted. I understand that if I decide to plead guilty before a judge, I am also waiving my right to contest or challenge the constitutionality of the South Carolina death penalty statute – which my lawyers have assured me is unconstitutional and could not survive a constitutional attack as has been prepared and preserved in my case up to this point. I understand that in pleading guilty, I am abandoning and waiving all and any rights to later assert those Constitutional objections and attacks as regards the South Carolina death penalty statute.

I know I have the right to plead not guilty and to have a speedy and public trial by jury; and, that under the laws of South Carolina that I have the right to plead guilty and be sentenced by the Court. Furthermore; I have had explained to me and understand that I have:

a.) The right to plead not guilty, or having already so pleaded, to persist in that plea;

b.) The right to a jury trial;

c.) The right to be represented by counsel - and if necessary to have the court appoint counsel to assist me at trial and at every other stage of the proceedings;

d.) The right at trial to confront and cross-examine adverse witnesses;

e.) The right at trial to be protected from compelled self-incrimination;

f.) The right at trial to testify and present evidence; and,

g.) The right at trial to compel the attendance of witnesses on my behalf; and,

I understand that by tendering a plea of guilty as charged, the acceptance of that plea of guilty would constitute my waiver of those trial rights and any defenses I may have, or could have alleged at trial.

I further understand and also acknowledge that before the court accepts my plea of guilty, it can and may require that I be placed under oath, personally and in open court, and that I address, determine, and acknowledge that I understand each and every of the foregoing rights, in addition to each and all of the following:

1.) That should I be placed under oath and questioned by the Court, the government may use any false statements I knowingly make against me in a prosecution for perjury or false statement;

2.) That before accepting a plea of guilty, the court must address me personally in open court and determine that the plea is voluntary and did not result from force, threats, or promises (other than promises made pursuant to a negotiated plea agreement); and,

3.) That before accepting a plea of guilty, the court must determine that a substantial factual basis exists for the plea, which is a matter I hereby declare and admit as true.

I understand the state is seeking a penalty of death in my case. I also understand that South Carolina State law (S. C. § 16-3-20(B)) requires sentencing by the trial judge, and not a jury, when trial by jury has been waived, or if defendant has entered a guilty plea. I believe and I have been advised by my lawyers that those requirements of South Carolina law are unconstitutional.

I understand that law to be unconstitutional on the grounds that it violates my Sixth Amendment right to have a jury determine any fact(s) which can increase my sentence, and I believe it to be unconstitutional because it forces me to choose between my Eight Amendment right to plead guilty in mitigation or as a mitigating factor and my Sixth Amendment right to have a jury decide whether any statutory aggravating circumstances exists, and if so, whether or not a sentence of death is warranted in my case.

I have made every attempt and have exhausted every way I know or have been told exists to exercise and preserve my full constitutional rights. I requested that this Court (the trial Court) permit me to plead guilty and empanel a jury to then determine my sentenced. That request was denied.

On my behalf I had my attorneys Petition the South Carolina Supreme Court to review the ruling of the Trial Court and the constitutionality of the South Carolina statute in question. That Petition was denied.

On my behalf I had my attorneys Petition the South Carolina Supreme Court to grant a stay of my trial so that I might Petition the United States Supreme Court to review that ruling of the Trial Court, the ruling of South Carolina Supreme Court, and the constitutionality of the South Carolina statute in question. That Petition was denied.

On my behalf I have had/am having my lawyers file a Petition for a Writ of Certiorari to the United States Supreme Court to review that ruling of the Trial Court, the ruling of South Carolina Supreme Court, and the constitutionality of the South Carolina statute in question. The trial Court, however, has scheduled my trial to commence on September 1, 2008; which leaves me in a dilemma as to how I should proceed.

Upon the basis of the empirical and statistical research which exists I am informed and understand that should I plead innocent, but then be found guilty by a jury, there exists an increased chance (i.e. a statistically significant correlation) that I would more likely be subjected to a sentence of death by that jury than I would if my previously made, but denied, request to plead guilty and have my sentence determined by the jury had been granted.

I further understand that unless the jury first unanimously found a statutory aggravating circumstance to exist beyond a reasonable doubt, even then I could not be sentenced to death unless each, every and all of the jurors unanimously determined that to be the appropriate sentence. If any one juror decided against imposing the death penalty, for any reason or for no reason at all, then I could not be sentenced to death. Whereas if I plead guilty, then my ultimate fate would rest solely in the hands of one man, the trial judge, who is an employee of the State of South Carolina, the very entity seeking my death.

I have been informed that lawyers for the State of South Carolina have argued I could have a jury trial and just tell the jury that I am in-fact guilty. The problem with that argument, as I understand it, is that under the standard of appellate review employed by the South Carolina Supreme Court, then any errors committed by the prosecution or by the Court, would be considered harmless error. It would essentially grant the prosecution a license to do things during my trial they would otherwise be prohibited from doing – all of which could certainly further prejudice the jury against me, destroying any advantage I might have gained in the first place by telling them I am guilty and remorseful for what I have done.

I have been advised and understand that if I decide to plead guilty before a judge, I will be considered as having waived my right to contest or challenge the constitutionality of the South Carolina death penalty statute. While I do understand that, I do not agree with. It seems to me the State of South Carolina is unnecessarily and unconstitutionally coercing me to choose between which of my Constitutional rights I can effectively pursue. The choices are not mutually exclusive, except by statute, and the mere fact of this State sponsored coercion should be deemed a denial of my fundamentals rights (i.e. a denial of due process).

Much as I had rather have the option of pleading guilty and having a jury determine my sentence (as I believe I am entitled to have under the Constitution of the United States of America), since the State of South Carolina is denying me that option over my objection and over the objection of my attorneys on my behave, I have no choice but to make a decision.

Having considered all of the foregoing, and I have conclude the safest option, given the limited choices I have, is to enter a plea of guilty.

I, Stephen Corey Bryant do hereby declare under penalty of perjury that the foregoing is true and correct.

These charges have been explained to me by my lawyer(s), and I understand what it is the state would be required to prove beyond a reasonable doubt in order to obtain a conviction against me as to each charge should I elect to have a trial by jury. More specifically, I understand and acknowledge that in order to obtain and sustain a conviction on the foregoing charges/counts against me, the state would have to present evidence sufficient to convince a jury that I did, beyond a reasonable doubt, commit the offenses of which I am accused, to wit:

a.) BURGLARY (2ND DEGREE) 16-11-312(A) being defined as burglary in the second degree if the person enters a dwelling without consent and with intent to commit a crime therein.

.) BURGLARY (1ST DEGREE) 16-11-311 (A)(1)(d) being defined as a person entering a without consent and with the intent to commit a crime in the dwelling when, in effecting entry or while in d.) BURGLARY (1ST DEGREE) 16-11-311(3) being defined as a person entering a without consent and with the intent to commit a crime in the dwelling and the entering or remaining occurs in the nighttime.

e.) ARSON (2ND DEGREE) 16-11-110 (B) being defined as the willful and malicious cause of an explosion, sets fire to, burns, or causes to be burned or aids, counsels, or procures the burning of a dwelling house, church or place of worship, a public or private school facility, a manufacturing plant or a warehouse, a building where business is conducted, an institutional facility, or any structure designed for human occupancy to include local and municipal buildings, whether the property of himself or another.

h.) ASSAULT & BATTERY WITH INTENT TO KILL 16-3-620 being defined as containing these elements (1) an unlawful attempt, (2) to commit a violent injury (3) to the person of another, (4) with malicious intent (5) accompanied by the present ability to complete the act.

i.) THREATENING LIFE OF PUBLIC EMPLOYEE 16-3-1040 (B) is defined as being knowingly and willfully delivery to a public employee a letter or paper, writing, print, massive document, or electronic communication or verbal or electronic communication which contains a threat to take the life of or to inflict bodily harm upon the public employee or members of his immediate family if the threat is directly related to the public employees official responsibilities.

My lawyers have also explained to me the possible punishments that may result as a consequence of my guilty plea. More specifically, I have been advised and understand that:

BURGLARY (2ND DEGREE)16-11-312(A) A person who is convicted of or pleads guilty to Burglary (2nd Degree) imprisonment of up to fifteen (15) years, provided, that no person convicted of burglary in the second degree shall be eligible for parole except upon service of not less than one-third of the term of the sentence.

BURGLARY(1ST DEGREE) 16-11-311(A)(1)(D) & 16-11-311(3) A person who is convicted of or pleads guilty to Burglary (1st Degree) can be punished by imprisonment for life, or by a mandatory minimum term of imprisonment for fifteen (15) years. I understand and acknowledge that the terms "life imprisonment" and "imprisonment for life" means until my death, with no hope or possibility of parole.

MURDER: A person who is convicted of or pleads guilty to murder must be punished by death, by imprisonment for life, or by a mandatory minimum term of imprisonment for thirty years. I understand and acknowledge that the terms "life imprisonment" and "imprisonment for life" means until my death, with no hope or possibility of parole.

If, however the State seeks the death penalty, as it does in my case, then and in the event and a statutory aggravating circumstance is found beyond a reasonable doubt and a recommendation of death is not made by the jury, the trial judge must impose a sentence of life imprisonment.

Because the State has elected to seek the death penalty, I am entitled to have a separate a separate sentencing proceeding. In that sentencing proceeding, if a statutory aggravating circumstance is found by the jury, I must be sentenced to either death or life imprisonment. If no statutory aggravating circumstance is found by the jury, then I must be sentenced to either life imprisonment or else a mandatory minimum term of imprisonment for thirty (30) years.

I understand that "robbery while armed with a deadly weapon" (more commonly referred to as "armed robbery) is a statutory aggravating circumstance. Therefore and because I am tendering a plea of guilty to that offense as well as to murder, it could serve as a statutory aggravating circumstance and result in the jury deciding I should be sentenced to death.

ARSON (2ND DEGREE) 16-11-110(B): A person who is convicted of or pleads guilty to Arson (2nd Degree) must be imprisoned not less than one (1) but not more than ten (10) years.

POSSESSION OF STOLEN HANDGUN16-23-30(C): A person who is convicted of or pleads guilty to knowingly possessing a stolen handgun in violation of S.C. Code § 16-23-30(c), is guilty of a "Class F" felony and may be sentenced to a period of incarceration of not more than five (5) years.

ARMED ROBBERY16-11-330(A): A person who is convicted of or pleads guilty to armed robbery in violation of S.C. Code § 16-11-330(A), must be imprisoned for a mandatory minimum term of not less than ten (10) years or more than thirty (30) years, no part of which may be suspended or probation granted. A person pleading guilty to this offense is not eligible for parole until the person has served at least seven years of the sentence.

ASSAULT AND BATTERY WITH INTENT TO KILL 16-3-620 A person who is convicted of or pleads guilty to assault and Battery with Intent to Kill can be sentenced up to twenty (20) years imprisonment.

THREATENING LIFE OF A PUBLIC EMPLOYEE 16-3-1040(B): A person who is convicted of or pleads guilty to Threatening Life of a Public Employee must be fined not more than five hundred dollar or imprisonment not more than thirty days, or both.

CALCULATION OF TOTAL SENTENCE: My lawyers have advised me and I understand there is no requirement that any of my sentences run concurrently - that is, that time be counted all together on each sentence just as if it were one total sentence. My lawyers have advised me and I understand that the Court could and likely will require that my sentences run consecutively – that is one after the other, and without any credit being given to any one sentence for time served on any other sentence.

I have received a copy and have an opportunity to review the discovery the State has provided to my lawyers to date. I have explained and have had opportunity to explain my side of the story to my lawyers, including possible defenses I may have. I have explained to my lawyers all the facts I know or can call recall about the case.

I understand the state is seeking a penalty of death in my case; and, that should I plead guilty, I would by so doing also waive my Constitutional right to have a jury determine my sentence. Should I plead guilty I understand that, pursuant to South Carolina Law I would be sentenced by the trial judge, and not by a jury. I understand that I could plead not guilty and preserve my right to be sentenced by a jury. I understand that should I plead guilty, the trial judge could in-fact sentence me to death.

Upon the basis of the empirical and statistical research which exists I understand that should I plead innocent, but then be found guilty by a jury, there exists an increased chance (i.e. a statistically significant correlation) that I would more likely be subjected to a sentence of death by that jury than I would if my previously made, but denied, request to plead guilty and have my sentence determined by the jury be granted. I understand that if I decide to plead guilty before a judge, I am also waiving my right to contest or challenge the constitutionality of the South Carolina death penalty statute – which my lawyers strongly believe is unconstitutional and could not survive a constitutional attack as has been prepared and preserved in my case up to this point. I understand that in pleading guilty, I am abandoning and waiving all and any rights to later assert those Constitutional objections and attacks as regards the South Carolina death penalty statute.

I know I have the right to plead not guilty and to have a speedy and public trial by jury; and, that under the laws of South Carolina that I have the right to plead guilty and be sentenced by the Court. Furthermore; I have had explained to me and understand that I have:

a.) The right to plead not guilty, or having already so pleaded, to persist in that plea;

b.) The right to a jury trial;

c.) The right to be represented by counsel - and if necessary to have the court appoint counsel to assist me at trial and at every other stage of the proceedings;

d.) The right at trial to confront and cross-examine adverse witnesses;

e.) The right at trial to be protected from compelled self-incrimination;

f.) The right at trial to testify and present evidence; and,

g.) The right at trial to compel the attendance of witnesses on my behalf; and,

I understand that by tendering a plea of guilty as charged, the acceptance of that plea of guilty would constitute my waiver of those trial rights and any defenses I may have, or could have alleged at trial.

I further understand and also acknowledge that before the court accepts my plea of guilty, it can and may require that I be placed under oath, personally and in open court, and that I address, determine, and acknowledge that I understand each and every of the foregoing rights, in addition to each and all of the following:

1.) That should I be placed under oath and questioned by the Court, the government may use any false statements I knowingly make against me in a prosecution for perjury or false statement;

2.) That before accepting a plea of guilty, the court must address me personally in open court and determine that the plea is voluntary and did not result from force, threats, or promises (other than promises made pursuant to a negotiated plea agreement); and,

3.) That before accepting a plea of guilty, the court must determine that a substantial factual basis exists for the plea, which is a matter I hereby declare and admit as true.

I understand the state is seeking a penalty of death in my case. I also understand that South Carolina State law (S. C. § 16-3-20(B)) requires sentencing by the trial judge, and not a jury, when trial by jury has been waived, or if defendant has entered a guilty plea. I believe and I have been advised by my lawyers, as it is their belief also, that those requirements of South Carolina law are unconstitutional.

I believe that law to be unconstitutional on the grounds that it violates my Sixth Amendment right to have a jury determine any fact(s) which can increase my sentence, and I believe it to be unconstitutional because it requires me to choose between my Eight Amendment right to plead guilty in mitigation or as a mitigating factor and my Sixth Amendment right to have a jury decide whether any statutory aggravating circumstances exists, and if so, whether or not a sentence of death is warranted in my case.

I have made every attempt and have exhausted every way I know or have been told exists to exercise and preserve my full constitutional rights. I requested that this Court (the trial Court) permit me to plead guilty and empanel a jury to then determine my sentenced. That request was denied.

On my behalf I had my attorneys Petition the South Carolina Supreme Court to review the ruling of the Trial Court and the constitutionality of the South Carolina statute in question. That Petition was denied.

On my behalf I had my attorneys Petition the South Carolina Supreme Court to grant a stay of my trial so that I might Petition the United States Supreme Court to review that ruling of the Trial Court, the ruling of South Carolina Supreme Court, and the constitutionality of the South Carolina statute in question. That Petition was denied.

On my behalf I have had/am having my lawyers file a Petition for a Writ of Certiorari to the United States Supreme Court to review that ruling of the Trial Court, the ruling of South Carolina Supreme Court, and the constitutionality of the South Carolina statute in question. The trial Court, however, has scheduled my trial to commence on September 2, 2008; which makes my determination on how to proceed more difficult .

Upon the basis of the empirical and statistical research which exists I am informed and understand that should I plead innocent, but then be found guilty by a jury, there exists an increased chance (i.e. a statistically significant correlation) that I would more likely be subjected to a sentence of death by that jury than I would if my previously made, but denied, request to plead guilty and have my sentence determined by the jury had been granted.

I further understand that unless the jury first unanimously found a statutory aggravating circumstance to exist beyond a reasonable doubt, even then I could not be sentenced to death unless each, every and all of the jurors unanimously determined that to be the appropriate sentence. If any one juror decided against imposing the death penalty, for any reason or for no reason at all, then I could not be sentenced to death. Whereas if I plead guilty, then my ultimate fate would rest solely in the hands of one man, the trial judge.

I have been informed that lawyers for the State of South Carolina have argued I could have a jury trial and just tell the jury that I am in-fact guilty. The problem with that argument, as I understand it, is that under the standard of appellate review employed by the South Carolina Supreme Court, then any errors committed by the prosecution or by the Court, would be considered harmless error. It would essentially grant the prosecution a license to do things during my trial they would otherwise be prohibited from doing – all of which could certainly further prejudice the jury against me, destroying any advantage I might have gained in the first place by telling them I am guilty and remorseful for what I have done.

I have been advised and understand that if I decide to plead guilty before a judge, I will be considered as having waived my right to contest or challenge the constitutionality of the South Carolina death penalty statute. While I do understand that, I do not agree with it. It seems to me the State of South Carolina is unnecessarily and unconstitutionally requiring me to choose between which of my Constitutional rights I can effectively pursue. The choices are not mutually exclusive, except by statute, and the mere fact of this legislatively-mandated limitation should be deemed a denial of my fundamentals rights (i.e. a denial of due process).

Much as I had rather have the option of pleading guilty and having a jury determine my sentence (as I believe I am entitled to have under the Constitution of the United States of America), since the State of South Carolina has codified language that makes this option impossible (over my objection and over the objection of my attorneys on my behalf), I have no choice but to make a decision. This does not affect the fact that I am tendering a plea of guilty to all of the charges stated, but only my dissatisfaction that this option is not available to me.

Having considered all of the foregoing, and I have conclude the safest option, given the limited choices I have, is to enter a plea of guilty.

I, Stephen Corey Bryant do hereby declare under penalty of perjury that the foregoing is true and correct.

RE: Disclosure & Production of Discovery
In re: State -vs- Stephen Corey Bryant
2006-GS-43-0699

Dear Mr. Jackson:

Following my formal appoint as lead counsel in the above referenced prosecution wherein your office is seeking imposition of a sentence of death, I conducted a preliminary review of the 1,021 pages of discovery provided to Mr. Howle on the 8th day of May, 2007 - some two and one-half years after the arrest of Mr. Bryant.

Based upon the timing of that disclosure, my review of the documents disclosed, and my prior experience, I must in all candor advise you that I am most seriously concerned that your office has been, is, and continues to be less than fully forthcoming. Accordingly, please kindly convince me that you and your staff are in compliance with Rule 5, *Brady, Kyles, the Rules of Professional Conduct, etc., before close of business this coming Friday, June 1, 2007. Otherwise I shall have no option but to seek such relief as may be available from all appropriate sources.

Should you have questions, require additional information, or believe my concerns to be wholly without merit, then please let us hear from you at your earliest convenience. With professional regards,

Sincerely,

JAMES C. CAMPBELL
CLERK OF COURT
SUMTER COUNTY, S.C.

DOCKET No.: 2006-GS-43-699

The STATE OF SOUTH CAROLINA

- vs -

Stephen Corey BRYANT, Defendant.

MOTION FOR ORDER OF DISCOVERY IN A CAPITAL CASE

CERTIFIED TRUE COPY
STAMP NOT FILED
DEPUTY CLERK OF COURT
SUMTER COUNTY
SOUTH CAROLINA

PLAINTIFF'S EXHIBIT 16

The Defendant, Stephen Corey Bryant, through undersigned counsel, respectfully moves this Court, pursuant to the Fifth, Sixth, Eight, and Fourteenth Amendments to the United States Constitution; Article I, Sections 3, 14, and 15 of the South Carolina Constitution; Rule 5, SCRCrimP; and, other applicable law and interpretative judicial decisions to order the prosecution, all state and local agencies or entities, and all law enforcement agencies and personnel to forthwith disclosure any and all discoverable evidence and material, be it inculpatory, exculpatory or impeachment materials which are relevant to the charges pending or the sentence sought against the defendant of which the prosecution, and/or any such state, local, or law enforcement entity, agency, or employee thereof is aware, should be aware, or could be aware by exercise of due diligence.

In support of this motion and as ground therefore, the defendant submits, asserts, and will show all of the following facts and legal principles:

RELEVANT BACKGROUND.

1. Stephen Corey Bryant stands accused, inter alia, of Murder, Armed Robbery, and Possession of a Stolen Handgun.

2. The relevant murder warrant (H-782551) charged Mr. Bryant with the October 11, 2004 murder of Willard Tietjen. It was served upon Mr. Bryant on October 14, 2004. As probable cause for the warrant, Sumter County Senior Investigator D.E. Florence executed an affidavit stating that Mr. Bryant admitted "he shot and killed the . . . victim. Law enforcement also recovered the 40 caliber Smith and Wesson handgun in the Defendants (sic) truck that he stated he used to kill the victim."

3. The relevant armed robbery warrant (H-782558) charged Mr. Bryant with the October 11, 2004 armed robbery of Willard Tietjen. It was served upon Mr. Bryant on October 14, 2004. As probable cause for the warrant, Sumter County Senior Investigator D.E. Florence executed an affidavit stating that Mr. Bryant admitted "he killed the victim at the victims (sic) residence . . .. Property belonging to the victim was recovered by law enforcement officers from the Defendants (sic) vehicle."

4. No warrant was apparently served upon the Defendant relative to the charge that he was in possession of a stolen handgun. Mr. Bryant was, however, also on October 14, 2004 served with a warrant for possession of a weapon during the commission of a violent crime. As probable cause for the warrant, Sumter County Senior Investigator D.E. Florence executed an affidavit stating that Mr. Bryant admitted "that he did shoot and kill the victim with the use of a 40 caliber handgun. This Affiant and other officers recovered cash and other property from the Defendants (sic) house believed to have been taken by the Defendant during the murder and robbery."

5. Following arrest, Mr. Bryant was determined to be indigent. Jack D. Howle, Jr., who is the Chief, Contract Public Defender for Sumter County was initially appointed to represent Mr. Bryant on the instant and other charges pending before the Sumter County Court of General Sessions.

6. On the 24th day of November, 2004, Mr. Howle filed and served two (2) separate request for discovery under and pursuant to Rule 5, SCRCrimP, and Brady -vs- Maryland.

7. At the preliminary hearing held on December 21, 2004, the testifying law enforcement represented that numerous items of evidence had been collected; that scientific and other testing had been conducted with positive results being obtained; that a confession had been obtained; and generally, that the State was in possession of ample and considerable evidence.

8. On August 10, 2005, the solicitor obtained an order of the court allowing the South Carolina Law Enforcement Division to obtain a sample of Mr. Bryant's blood and DNA for testing on the asserted grounds and basis that "law enforcement authorities have found samples of bodily fluids which need to be compared."

9. On January 31, 2006, Mr. Howle direct a letter to solicitor Jackson stating that:

> "I received Steven Bryant's application on November 23, 2004. I filed a request for discovery under Brady and have yet to receive anything at all from your office."

10. The case file in this matter is devoid of a response from Solicitor Jackson to that further written request.

11. On July 20, 2006, the Sumter County Grand Jury returned the instant indictment as a true bill.

12. On April 27, 2007,solicitor Jackson served Mr. Howle and Mr. Bryant with a notice of intent to seek imposition of the death penalty against Mr. Bryant for the murder of Willard Tietjen. No discovery was made available on that date.

13. Nevertheless, the written notice of intent to seek imposition of the death penalty specifically stated that:

> [I]n addition to the statutory aggravating circumstances specified above, the State intends to submit other evidence in aggravation which is relevant to the character of the defendant and/or the circumstances of the crime. Such evidence will certainly include, but in no way be limited to, the sworn testimony and exhibits introduced in the guilt phase of the trial, victim impact evidence, the defendant's prior criminal record, proof of his commission of other crimes during the period of October 5-13, 2004, proof of the defendant's conduct during incarceration, the information and materials provided to the defense pursuant to Rule 5 and Brady disclosure and any and all other evidence relevant to the jury's sentencing determination.

14. On May 8, 2007, the prosecution disclosed and provided to the defense some 1,021 pages of discovery, inclusive of the prosecution's response and reciprocal motions.

CONTROLLING CASE LAW.

15. Pursuant to the Due Process Clause of the Fourteenth Amendment, the prosecution must disclose "evidence favorable to an accused upon request . . . where the evidence is material to either guilt or to punishment." Brady v. Maryland, 373 U.S. 83, 87 (1963). This obligation extends to information in the hands of law enforcement and others assisting in the prosecution. Therefore, "the individual prosecutor has a duty to learn of any favorable evidence known to the others acting on the government's behalf in the case, including the police." Kyles v. Whitley, 115 S.Ct. 1555, 1567 (1995); see also United States v. Antone, 603 F.2d 148 (5th Cir. 1979); see also United States v. Muse, 708 F.2d 513 (10th Cir. 1983)(prosecution must produce exculpatory material even if it is in the hands of another agency); Carey v. Duckworth, 738 F.2d 875 (7th Cir. 1984)(prosecution cannot avoid disclosure obligations by keeping itself ignorant of exculpatory information); United States v. Bryan, 868 F.2d 1032 (9th Cir. 1989)(prosecutor is deemed to have knowledge of everything in investigation of defendant).

16. The mandate of Brady and its progeny includes impeachment material because "[s]uch evidence is 'evidence favorable to the accused.'" United States v. Bagley, 473 U.S. 667, 675 (1985)(citing Brady, 373 U.S., at 87); see also Strickler, 119 S.Ct. at 1940; Giglio v. United States, 405 U.S. 150 (1972); United States v. Sutton, 542 F.2d 1239 (4th Cir. 1976)(nondisclosure of evidence that affects credibility is a due process violation); Barkauskas v. Lane, 878 F.2d 1031 (7th Cir. 1989) (Brady requires disclosure of exculpatory material that undermines credibility of government witnesses).

17. Even in a case where there is a possibility that a guilt plea may be entered, the full disclosure of Brady material is mandated. In Gibson v. State, 334 S.C. 515, 514 S.E.2d 320 (S.C. 1999) the South Carolina Supreme Court held that a defendant may challenge the voluntariness of his guilty plea by asserting a Brady violation, and reiterated that "The overriding theme of the Brady cases is the emphasis the Supreme Court has placed in the prosecutor's responsibility for fair play." Gibson, 514 S.E.2d at 325.

18. In addition to these federal and state law principles, disclosure of favorable evidence is further mandated by Rule 3.8 of the South Carolina Rules of Professional Conduct. That provision, entitled "Special Responsibilities of a Prosecutor," provides as follows:

> The prosecutor in a criminal case shall:
> (d) Make timely disclosure to the defense of all evidence or information known to the prosecutor that tends to negate > the guilt of the accused or mitigates the offense, and, in connection with sentencing, disclose to the defense and to the tribunal all unprivileged mitigating information known to the prosecutor, except when the prosecutor is relieved of this responsibility by a protective order of the tribunal[.] Rule 3.8, SCRPC.

19. While defendant has no way of knowing for certain which items in the possession of the prosecution or its agents contain information favorable to the defense, such material is likely to be found in investigative reports and summaries, incident reports, witness statements, forensic reports, psychiatric records, and statements by the defendant to law enforcement and others. This list is by no means exhaustive, and the prosecution's obligation, as set forth above, extends to all information in the hands of government agents. Moreover, where there is uncertainty as to whether a particular item is favorable to the accused, "'[t]he prudent prosecutor will resolve doubtful questions in favor of disclosure.'" Kyles, 115 S.Ct. at 1568 (quoting United States v. Agurs, 427 U.S. 97, 108 (1976)).

20. Favorable information concerning defendant's mental state is also critically important with regard to both guilt-or-innocence and sentencing. Such evidence is highly material to issues such as competency to stand trial or to waive constitutional rights, ability to form the requisite intent to commit the crime charged, and other crucial issues. Additionally, because the state is seeking the death penalty against Mr. Bryant, if he is found guilty, he must be permitted to rebut the state's case for death. See Simmons v. South Carolina, 512 U.S. 154 (1994); Skipper v. South Carolina, 476 U.S. 1 (1986); Gardner v. Florida, 430 U.S. 349 (1977). Holmes v. South Carolina; ___ U.S. ___ (No. 04-1327, 2006) In this regard, evidence tending to reduce the defendant's moral culpability is material and must be disclosed. Thus, any evidence which may shed light on Mr. Bryant's mental state at the time of the alleged offense, and any other relevant mental health information, falls within the scope of the prosecution's disclosure obligations and must therefore be disclosed.

GROUNDS FOR MOTION.

As grounds for this motion and the relief herein sought, your Defendant alleges all of the following:

21. The Fifth, Sixth, Eight, and Fourteenth Amendments to the United States Constitution; Article I, Sections 3, 14, and 15 of the South Carolina Constitution; Rule 5, SCRCrimP; and, other applicable law and interpretative judicial decisions;

22. Rule 3.8 of the South Carolina Rules of Professional Conduct;

23. The unexplained and, on information and belief, inexplicable, two and one-half (2½) year delay between arrest and the disclosure or production of any discovery to Mr. Howle, during which time the State determined and gave notice of intent to seek a death sentence;

24. On information and belief, either some of the agencies and entities possessed of materials and information which are relevant and material to one or more issues touching upon guilt, innocence, impeachment, or sentencing have failed to provide those materials and information to the attorney for the prosecution; or else, the attorney for the prosecution has failed to timely disclose and make available such materials and information to the defense as has been provided and received to date;

25. On further information and belief and in either event, full complete disclosure as required by and under the law has not been made;

26. The Constitutions and laws of the United States of America and of the State of South Carolina; and,

27. Such other good cause as may be discovered or more fully revealed at hearing hereon.

WHEREFORE, Mr. Bryant hereby requests and moves that this Honorable Court order that the prosecution, all State and local agencies or entities, and all law enforcement agencies and personnel to forthwith disclosure any and all discoverable materials relevant to the charges pending or the sentence sought against the defendant of which the prosecution, and/or any such law enforcement entity, agency, or employee thereof is aware, should be aware, or could be aware by exercise of due diligence;

1.) Cooperate with and provide all relevant and necessary discovery to the defense within ten (10)days time;

2.) That any inculpatory evidence not disclosed within the said ten(10) days time be excluded from introduction at trial;

3.) That any and all relevant information which the prosecution, any state or local entity or any law enforcement agency may have concluded or considers not relevant or exculpatory be disclosed to the court within ten (10) days time and for purposes of an in camera review and independent determination as to relevance and requirement for production and disclosure (i.e. discoverability) of the same;

4.) That any such information reviewed by the Court and not disclosed to the defense be placed under seal for purposes of appellate review; and,

5.) That any violation of the requested orders of the court result in appropriate sanctions, including but not limited to dismissal of the pending charges.

RECORDED
2007 NOV -5 PM 4:32

The matters herein determined came before me upon written motion of Messrs. Babb and Howle, duly appointed counsel for Defendant Stephen Corey Bryant in this capital prosecution.

By written motion herein filed for record on the 29th day of May, 2007, defense counsel requested a written order requiring and commanding the prosecution, all state and local agencies or entities, and all law enforcement agencies and personnel to forthwith disclosure any and all discoverable evidence and materials irrespective of whether it be inculpatory, exculpatory, or impeachment materials which are relevant to the question of quilt or innocence insofar as the pending charges are concerned and/or insofar as the sentence sought to be imposed is concerned, be it in aggravation or mitigation thereof.

The grounds for their motion being the Fifth, Sixth, Eight, and Fourteenth Amendments to the United States Constitution; Article I, Sections 3, 14, and 15 of the South Carolina Constitution; Rule 5, SCRCrimP; other applicable law and interpretative judicial decisions; and those facts and circumstances more fully and particularly set forth in the motion itself.

On the basis of my knowledge of the relevant history and issues involved in this most serious of litigation, I find and concluded it would be in the best interest of all involved that the Court issue an order governing and regulating the discovery process as this matter is prepared for what appears to be a trial certain.

PLAINTIFF'S EXHIBIT 1/6/12

WHEREFORE, IT IS HEREBY ADJUDGED, DECREED, AND ORDERED THAT:

1.) All State and local agencies or entities, and all law enforcement agencies and personnel shall forthwith, and in no event later than twenty (20) days of the date of this Order disclose and make known to Sumter County Solicitor's Office any and all information and/or materials known or relevant to any pending or prior charges against the defendant or the sentence herein sought to be imposed upon him of which the prosecution, and/or any such law enforcement entity, agency, or employee thereof is aware, should be aware, or could have become or made aware of by the exercise of due diligence;

2.) All and any information, material, or knowledge which the prosecution, any state or local entity, or any law enforcement agency may have concluded, believes or considers not relevant or exculpatory or otherwise not discoverable, shall be disclosed and made available to the court within twenty (25) days of the date of this Oder for purposes of an in camera review and independent determination by the Court as to relevance and requirement for production and disclosure (i.e. discoverability) of the same;

3.) If the Court determines any such information, material, or knowledge to be discoverable, the prosecution shall forthwith disclose and produce the same to the defense. If the Court determines any such information, material, or knowledge not to be discoverable, the same shall be place under seal and made available to the defense following trial for purposes of appeal;

4.) The prosecution shall thereafter fully cooperate with, disclose, and provide all relevant discovery to the defense within thirty (30) days of the date of this Order;

5.) An on the record discovery conference shall be convened by the Court, at its convenience, on or about forty-five days following the date of this Order ; and,

6.) All parties and other recipients of this Order are hereby put on notice that any intentional violation of the herein requirements of these orders may and can result in appropriate sanctions, including but not limited to a proceeding for contempt, or dismissal of the pending charges.

Dear Judge Russo:

Your below reply/request was received this evening at 6:14 PM.

The information you requested is most reasonable and will be provided as expeditiously as possible. That being said, beginning with our second request for funding, I would draw your attention to paragraph number Five (5), wherein we list our reasons for the services therein requested, to wit:

5. With regard to the proposed additional funding requested, Messrs. Babb and Howle have made it known to the Court that:

| Nature of Service Requested | Funding Sought | Justification |
|---|---|---|
| Neuropsychologist | $10,000.00 | Mr. Bryant reports have been both physically and sexually abused as a child and as an adolescent. He reports head trauma, and further, the use of mushrooms, insecticides, etc. in conjunction with other illicit drugs. |
| DNA Expert | $10,000.00 | SLED submitted numerous items for forensic DNA testing. The Defense requires and expert to evaluate the results and methodology employed by SLED , as well as the veracity of claims regarding the number of individuals involved in one or more relevant crimes. |
| Licensed Social Worker/ Family History Expert | $10,000.00 | The Assistance of a licensed social worker is critical to preparation for the mitigation phase of the trial and the Defense can not safely go to trial without approval of funding for such services. |
| Interrogation & Interrogation Techniques Expert | $10,000.00 | Mr. Bryant was arrested at 9 AM after having been up all night, admittedly using drugs. He was questioned for the entire balance of that day and into the next. In fact, at approximately 1:00AM of the following day, SLED sent in a licensed psychiatrist to obtain further and additional confessions from Mr. Bryant. |

| Nature of Service Requested | Funding Sought | Justification |
|---|---|---|
| Psycopharmacologist & Addictive Disorder Expert | $8,500.00 | A psycopharmacologist and/or addictive disorder expert is required in order for the Defense to prepare and present statutory mitigating circumstances surrounding the murder in question. |
| Prison Adaptability Expert | $8,500.00 | On information and belief, the Prosecution intends to argue Mr. Bryant is not adaptable to prison life as the result of his reaction to an incident in which the Defense claims he was provoked by a guard spitting into his food. Further, prison adaptability is a Constitutionally recognized mitigating factor. |
| Forensic Computer Expert | $5,000.00 | SLED and the prosecution seized, and analyzed one or more computers. Further, subpoenas were issued to ISP's, the results of which requires an expert for the Defense to interpret and/or understand. Further and in addition, the defense has questions about the time-lines submitted by the State and may require that relevant Law Enforcement Computers be subjected to appropriate forensic examination. |
| Polygraphist | $1,000.00 | The issues of whether Mr. Bryant can successfully pass a polygraph examination as to one or more aspects of his defense may be determinate of what defense is pursued at trial and/or during mitigation. |
| Office & Mileage Expenses. | $2,500.00 | Mr. Bryant is being held for safekeeping in another county requiring more than usual travel by defense counsel. Further, Mr. Bryant has rightly and properly requested a copy of all documents relative to his case, significantly increasing the costs of representation to Defense Counsel, who is already paid at an hourly rate less than adequate to reimburse his office overhead and related costs. |

In light of the foregoing, accordingly, please provide if additional information is required as regards our basis for the services of the type of expert requested. If so, then and in that event we will likely need to have one or more of our already approved experts and appear and provide testimony in support of the requests, which will necessarily inflate the costs and expenses about which you have expressed concern.

As a general rule I have found it more efficient and productive to leave the hiring and firing of any particular expert to my discretion, as an officer of the court, and so as not to have to trouble the court or OID with a situation in which I find that any particular expert is performing below my expectations. In that regard, I would further point out that the Solicitor is neither questioned nor faces any such limitations with regard to his use and reliance upon all and the full resources of the State of South Carolina.

In any event, I simply prefer to retain the right to dismiss and/or replace any expert upon my own initiative and in the best interest of my client. Given your request, however, and as it relates to our funding request to date, we can deal with the insistence of the court to in this regard at a later date. That said, the identified experts with whom I have previously consulted and would still hope to retain are as follows:

As for the need for certain of the foregoing experts, following her examination of our Client Doctor Donna Schwartz-Watts advised me as follows: "Jim; we need neuropsychological testing (Dr. Tora Brawley), addictionologist (Alex Morton) and social worker (preferably Marty Loring given his PTSD)."

Curriculum Vitae's are attached for Doctors Loring & Morton, and Consultant Smith. While I think I have or can readily hourly rates for most of the experts proposed, I will double check and be back to you on that tomorrow.

s for a Neurosurgeon, I have not located an expert and may not need one. The issue there may be able be handled in another manner provided and depending upon whether the Court is willing to require the production of appropriate medical records, and/or depending upon what the relevant treating physician recalls having relayed to the Senior Investigation Officer, who previously testified under oath as to the matters the State indicates it intends to use in the sentencing phase of the trial in order to obtain a death verdict.

Please understand that I do not expect the State to "write a blank check," however, if the State intends to kill my client, I do believe the Bar, Disciplinary Counsel, the South Carolina Supreme Court, the United States Supreme Court, the Constitutions of the State of South Carolina and of the United States, and my oath as an attorney impose fairly stringent and rigorous requirements on my representation. I take those matters extremely seriously, I would imagine that you do and intend, expect and require that Mr. Howle and myself do nothing less than fully fulfill and those time honored expectations.

In any event, it would be my plan to be back in-touch with you tomorrow, though I do have commitments and am required to appear in Federal Court in the AM. If, however, you should have questions or require additional information concerning the facts herein provided, please contact me or my office at your earliest convenience.

Lastly, I would and do ask if you intend to entertain or sign our proposed order requiring that the state file and serve responses to those of our written motions to which they wish to interpose an objection? The answer to that question and their response to the motions already and possibly to be filed may have very significant implications for the defense strategy in this matter. Alternatively, I guess we can simply hand up our motions at any future hearings with no notice to the court or the solicitor, which quite frankly to me seems to defeat the entire reason for a structured system.

/ith highest of personal and professional regards. Jim

RE: State vs. Stephen Corey Bryant
Indictment No. 2006-GS-43-0699

Dear Mr. Babb:

This is both to acknowledge receipt of your two letters of May 29, 2007, and to respond to your discovery requests.

We will be glad to assist you in providing better copies of some of the documents produced to the extent that we are technically capable of doing so. Please prepare a list of the exact items you need (with attached copies) and submit the same to Dudley Saleeby, Jr. The two of you can work out the details at your mutual convenience.

With regard to the inspection of documents and tangible objects, please be advised that we have alerted the Sumter County Sheriff's Office of your request. Both the chief investigating officer in the Bryant case and the property custodian have informed us that they are scheduled to be in court for most of the next two weeks, although there is a possibility that their schedules may clear toward the middle of the week beginning on June 18th. We will monitor that situation and keep you informed.

With regard to your statement that ".....I am not entirely certain that we have received a copy of everything to which we are entitled.", I would propose that we resolve this issue by you providing this office with a list of the specific items to which you refer. This would neither foreclose nor forfeit your right to make generic requests, but the greater degree of specificity, the easier it will be to determine compliance. Furthermore, if you are of the opinion that some of the items you are seeking are or may be or should be in the possession of a particular agency, please indicate as much so that we can inquire accordingly.

Sincerely,

C. Kelly Jackson

Developmental History:
Interview of paternal aunt, Terry Caulder reports that Mr. Bryant's mother abused alcohol around the time of her pregnancy with Mr. Bryant, but she did not observe her drink while pregnant. According to Dr. Marti Loring, Mr. Bryant's mother did not acknowledge she drank while pregnant with Mr. Bryant. A picture of Mr. Bryant during childhood did show facial features (hypertelorism) that can be seen in children exposed to alcohol in utero. School records that relied upon Mr. Bryant's mother as a historian report that his birth was normal, he walked at 1 year and talked between 18 months and 3 yrs. Mr. Bryant reports he is 30% Native American. He states his mother's side is Indian.

Mr. Bryant reports a childhood history of episodic sexual abuse. He states his mother molested him at least two times when he was age seven. Mr. Bryant reports his mother was pregnant with Brandon when this happened. He states she came into his room naked, said she was sore, asked for rubdown, used a vibrator on herself and had him kiss her all over. He reports this happened twice. He also reports that on the night his brother Brandon was born, his paternal grandfather digitally penetrated him, kissed him, told him how pretty he was, and threatened to kill him, which he reports is the "real injury". Interview of the paternal aunt, Terry Caulder reveals that this same grandfather sexually abused her. Interview of paternal grandmother, Shirley Freeman reveals that Mrs. Freeman divorced from Mr. Bryant Sr. because of his sexually abusive behaviors. An affidavit from Mr. Bryant Sr. denies that he sexually assaulted Mr. Bryant; however both his grandmother and aunt report that Mr. Bryant disclosed his victimization and sexual abuse to them before his offenses occurred. Records from the YWCA also report he told them of this abuse before his crimes. Mr. Bryant also reported witnessing his mother have sexual relations with a male and female. He states he was beaten by his father when he told his father what he had seen. Mr. Bryant's mother did confirm to Dr. Marti Loring that her son had witnessed her infidelity but there is a discrepancy when this occurred. In addition to his mother and paternal grandfather, Mr. Bryant reports his half brother Trey sodomized him and also an Uncle Randy when he was age 9 or 10. Mr. Bryant's family confirms that his uncle was gay and died from AIDS. Mr. Bryant reports he grew up watching parents drink. He states he watched his father roll marijuana at age 8.

In addition to reporting sexual abuse, Mr. Bryant was involved with the Department of Juvenile Justice at a young age (11). Family court records from Horry County (1992-93) report a number of behaviors including setting a couch on fire, and numerous larcenies. Mr. Bryant reports that the fire setting was an accident, but his mother did not believe him. Mr. Bryant reports he felt his little brother was favored, and his mother confirmed that Mr. Bryant felt slighted in an interview with Dr. Loring. Mr. Bryant reports he ran away a lot and stayed in abandoned houses until he was picked up by police and returned to parents. He states his mother threatened him with butcher knife on the day he got home from DJJ. In notes from Mr. Bryant's father (92-93) and in communication between his attorneys, Mr. Bryant was physically assaulted while in custody. Mr. Bryant also lived with his paternal grandmother and her second husband for a period of time.

School History:

Mr. Bryant attended elementary school in Chesterfield. He repeated the first grade for missing too many days, and not meeting the testing standards to pass. School records indicate he transferred to Lancaster in 1991. He later moved to Myrtle Beach and attended Saint James Middle School, and Socastee High School. Mr. Bryant had numerous psychological evaluations while in school due to his placement in self-contained classes from Grades 4 through 9. He was classified as Disruptive. He did have poor achievement overall. His lowest IQ test scores were in fifth grade, where he was found to have a Full Scale IQ of 79, which is in the Borderline Range of Intellectual Functioning. Adaptive assessments completed around the same period of time show he had low socialization. A teacher, Elizabeth Moody in 1993 recorded that Mr. Bryant:

"Lacks appropriate self-help skills. Catastrophic reactions to minor problems, unhappy. Can't control behavior. Very few friends."

Mr. Bryant failed the sixth grade. Intellectual assessment completed in the sixth grade showed his verbal IQ to be 82, his Performance IQ to be 94 and a Full Scale IQ to be 86. In the eighth grade, he was assessed again and found to have a full scale IQ of 92, which is coincidental with the time Mr. Bryant was treated for Attention Deficit Disorder with Prozac® and Ritalin®, and living with Shirley and Floyd Freeman.. His grades were better as well. In the first quarter of the eighth grade (1995), he was described as: having a good attitude toward work, being a good dependable student and having a positive attitude. Even though he was doing better, adaptive functioning assessments from that same period of time showed him to function as a 9-11 year old, when he was 14 years 11 months old.

He was placed on Homebound Instruction on 4/18/96. He attended Socastee High school the following school year. A letter from one of Mr. Bryant's teachers, Romie Reichel written on 10/21/1996 to Judge McKinnon noted: "It is as a classroom teacher with 24 years' experience with this age group that I respectfully request the Court to consider as serious an intervention as is legally possible. I believe that Cory needs immediate help in order to turn himself around and become a positively contributing member to home, school and his general environment." An assignment from Mr. Bryant was included which stated: "My hole (sic) life has been a total fight between me and the selfish little ASSHOLE COPs. It's been a family tradition to have a kussword (sic) in every sentence. And that's my hole(sic) life."

Vocational History:
Mr. Bryant was evaluated by Kelly Price of Vocational Rehabilitation on 1/3/03 for assistance with getting glasses. She diagnosed him with Disruptive Behavior NOS (Not Otherwise Specified). No testing was performed. He denied wanting psychiatric services at that time. He did work at a company known as Con Braco beginning in 2/7/03 according to Department of Probation, Pardon and Parole services (DPPS). DPPS records report he was fired around 5/15/03 for filing a false worker's compensation claim. Mr. Bryant denies these allegations and reports he was injured, but when being examined by the company physician, he felt he was touched inappropriately and cursed at the doctor and fled. In addition to working at Con Braco, Mr. Bryant reports he framed houses.

He did have a history of problems with supervisors at work. He had a restraining order filed against him with a former employer in Sumter in 8/4/04. He states his employer wanted him to wire a house and says he told the man he "didn't know how to wire houses," so the man gave him "a book." He states when he "messed up the wiring," his pay was "docked." Mr. Bryant admits he wanted his money. He states his former employer went to his probation officer, told her about it and told her he was going to sue him. At the time of the crimes, Mr. Bryant was not employed. He was approaching people, asking them for gas money, "fishing a lot", and swindled money during a drug deal.

Medical History:
On the Initial Mental Health Center Contact at the Sumter County Detention Center on 10/22/04, he reported being hit by an automobile hit him at age five. Mr. Bryant reports he suffered a head injury with a loss of consciousness. He states his father hit him with a strap that had holes and metal in it. He states he has a scar on his head from the assault. He also reports he was hit in the head with a knife.

Toumey Hospital records indicate he was seen on 9/11/04 for a spider bite. The record indicates he left because he waited in room for over an hour without being seen.

He was seen in the Toumey Emergency Room one and one half weeks before his crimes. He states that two men assaulted him. He was described as "somewhat obsessed from the incident." There was a superficial abrasion on the right side of the forehead noted. He also reported this assault to his Probation Officer on 9/30/04. DPPS records report that he reported he was cut in the face on Eagle Road on 9/29/04. Mr. Bryant reports he was walking down Eagle Road at 10pm when he was attacked by two males.

He had a medical history and assessment at the Sumter County Detention Center on 10/20/04. He was reported to use marijuana and alcohol. He denied any history of seeing a doctor in the past six months although records reflect he had been to Toumey twice in the September 2004.

On 11/12/04 while in the detention center, he was noted to be walking in his cell when he developed a shooting pain and fell on the floor. He was reported to be uncooperative and refusing to cooperate with exam. He was found to be hypoglycemic on laboratory work a few weeks earlier. He was noted to "be angry with officers (facial expression). He was later seen walking in his cell. He was prescribed Tylenol for headache. He was placed on Paxil® CR 12.5 mg and then 25 mg by Dr. King on 11/15/04.

Mr. Bryant did not put forth a good effort in neuropsychological testing, which was conducted in April 2008. He did have an EEG on August 25, 2008, which was read as normal. He had a neurological examination by Dr. James Selph on August 25, 2008 as well. Dr. Selph recommended an MRI of the brain with contrast due to his distractibility, which was competed and shown to be normal except in the sinus area.

Mr. Bryant has a number of tattoos including: a Tribal falcon on his right hand (Which he says is a Cherokee sign), an hour glass, a cross (he states he got these about seven years ago but does not remember why) and a Fairy (which he says represents wikken).

Since his confinement, he had an abscess of his left molar (5-9/07).

He reports he has significant weight loss since his incarceration. His highest documented weight was 160 lbs while in the South Carolina Department of Corrections in 1999, and his lowest documented weight is 117lbs. Mr. Bryant had periods of hypoglycemia and a weight of 110 lbs when he was on a hunger strike in 2/07. Mr. Bryant reports he was on a hunger strike because he had medical complaints (abscess and bleeding from the rectum), which were not being addressed. He began to eat again when he was treated for these problems. Mr. Bryant has chronically been treated for allergic rhinitis while confined. He has been tested for HIV since confined with negative results.

Psychiatric History:

Mr. Bryant reports he attended treatment at Waccamaw Mental Health Center from ages 14-15. He states he was treated with Prozac® and Ritalin® by Dr. Resinoff several times per month. Such treatment is cross-referenced in his school records and in the notes of his father from 1992-93, which mention an appointment on November 5. Attempts to obtain these records have not been successful. His paternal grandmother confirms he attended treatment. These records were also requested by Dr. Tracy Gunter in 1996 and were not available.

Mr. Bryant did receive psychological/psychiatric evaluation while at the Department of Juvenile Justice in 1996. He was diagnosed with Dysthymia, ADHD and Conduct Disorder by Dr. Hildy Dinkins and Adjustment Disorder, ADHD and Conduct Disorder by Dr. Tracy Gunter. Dr. Gunter recommended Prozac®. Mr. Bryant also had multiple assessments in school.

Mr. Bryant was seen by mental health while at SCDC but the records are difficult to read. An Offender Survey from SCDC around 1/29/99 reports he endorsed flashbacks and stated he saw two people killed and thinks about it. A Note from SCDC on 7/26/99 reports he was taking Prozac® for a history of depression.

Mr. Bryant's paternal aunt and grandmother report that on August 19, 2004, Mr. Bryant disclosed his sexual abuse and difficulties adapting. His aunt, Terry Caulder reports she telephoned a police officer she knew, Sgt. Wayne Jordan, who gave Ms. Caulder the phone number for the Pee Dee Coalition. Mr. Bryant reports that he did go the YWCA and was referred to Healthy Minds by Ms. Willie Mae Thompson on 9/1/04. Notes from the YWCA record his presenting problems were recorded as sexual assault, child abuse/neglect and sleeping problems due to dreams of the above checked box. The record also indicated he had prior treatment at Waccamaw Mental Health Center. He endorsed a prior criminal history of burglary, assault, discharging a firearm, aggravated assault, disturbing peace and assault of a high and aggravated nature at ages 15 or 16. He reported four assailants including his uncle, grandfather, mother and step-brother. He reported that restraint was used and threats were made. Oral intercourse, kissing and penetration were endorsed. A record noted he was seven when he was assaulted by his grandfather, but did not know what age he was when he was assaulted by his mother.

The notes indicate follow-up calls were placed to Mr. Bryant on 9/3, 9/7 and 9/10 and he was listed as "fine." While there are three phone calls documented, the word "fine" is listed only once and there are not specific notes about the content of the calls. A Client Assessment Form indicates he endorsed symptoms of anger, unhappiness, shame, guilt, and flashbacks, although the flashbacks were qualified as some of the time.

Mr. Bryant was not seen again until after his charges. On Initial Mental Health Center Contact on 10/22/04, he reported symptoms of depression, sleep disturbance, impulsiveness and feeling blue. The record noted: "knew something was wrong with himself due to increased feelings of rage-reports seeking treatment at Healthy minds and YWCA but received no assistance. Valerie Oxendine assessed Mr. Bryant on 10/22/04, 10/26/04,11/15/04, 12/9/04 and 2/1/05. She diagnosed him with Antisocial Personality with depressed Mood and r/o PTSD. She referred him to Dr. King who eventually prescribed antidepressant medication. On 10/22/04, Mr. Bryant reported difficulty sleeping and nightmares about his sexual abuse as a child. On 11/15/04, he reported he had a depressed mood and sleep disturbance for 7-8 months. He was prescribed Paxil® CR by Dr. King at Detention Center on 11/15/04. He reported sexual abuse and depression to Dr. King who diagnosed him with Depression, Not Otherwise Specified and Antisocial Personality Disorder. He was seen again on 12/9/04 and described as still depressed. His Paxil® was increased to 25 mg twice a day. He was seen again on 2/1/05 and his meds were changed to Zoloft®. He was still described as depressed. He was seen by Southeastern Service group and prescribed Zoloft® 50 mg per day on 2/05-10/20/05. On 6/3/05, he was found with blood all over his upper torso and face. He was described as "very anxious." He had lacerations on his wrist. He was referred to mental health. He requested to see mental health and reported his medications needed reevaluation. He was seen on 6/705 and his Zoloft® was increased to 100mg.

He was transferred to Lee Correctional Institute in 11/05 after assaulting a detention center officer on 10/26/05. He was seen by Dr. Kirby on 11/15/05 and diagnosed with Intermittent Explosive Disorder. Dr. Kirby diagnosed him with Antisocial Personality Disorder on 1//31/06. Dr Kirby renewed his prescription until 4/30/06. He was seen by mental health after Dr. Kirby stopped his medications and was noted to have lost weight (4/24/06). While unmedicated, Mr. Bryant lacerated his left arm on 10/20/06, and was placed on suicide watch for six days. On 10/24/06 a mental health note indicated he had been thinking about a former girlfriend who had committed suicide and did not remember cutting himself. He also states that was only the third time in his life he had done that.

On 2/5/08, he requested mental health treatment. He reported: " I feel like Ima(sic) bout(sic) to go crazy in this room, sometimes Im(sic) feeling to hyper, I can't really think straight cause my mind feels like its processing thing quicker than I can accept them.." On 7/21/08, he was seen in the mental health clinic. He described himself as "not doing well." He was referred to the psych clinic for a history of ADHD, depression, being fidgety and anxious. He was seen on 7/28/08 by Dr. Janet Woolery. . He was described as hypervigilant and a dysphoric affect. He was diagnosed with Intermittent Explosive Disorder, Antisocial Personality and Polysubstance dependence and placed on the mood stabilizer, Tegretol®. He was placed on 200mg per night for five days with an increase ordered to twice a day afterwards. Labwork from 7/30/08 revealed a mildly elevated hemoglobin and hematocrit. He reported only receiving one pill per day at the time of his most recent court appearance on 8/18/08. When seen on 8/25/08, he reported he had not been receiving his medication every day.

Presently, Mr. Bryant meets the DSM-TR (Diagnostic and Statistical Manual or Mental Disorders, Fourth Edition Text Revision) criteria for Post Traumatic Stress Disorder. In order to meet the diagnostic criteria for Post Traumatic Stress Disorder, six criterion must be met. First, the person must have been exposed to a traumatic event that involved actual threatened death or serious injury, or a threat to his physical integrity and his response to such a threat involved helplessness, horror or intense fear. Mr. Bryant has a history of childhood sexual abuse. In children, sexually traumatic events may include developmentally inappropriate sexual experiences without threatened violence or actual physical injury (p 464).

The second criterion for Post Traumatic Stress Disorder involves persistently re-experiencing the traumatic event in the form of recurrent, intrusive thoughts, recurrent dreams of the event, feeling as if the traumatic event is reoccurring, intense psychological distress at exposure to internal or external cues that symbolize or resemble an aspect of the traumatic event or physiological reactivity when exposed to internal or external cues that symbolize or represent an aspect of the traumatic event. He reports flashbacks and dreams 'of the past and present." He states he dreams about his family. A Reception and Evaluation form upon his confinement to SCDC in 1999 reported "some alcohol and cannabis abuse and flashbacks about things that happened in the past." He also reported flashbacks to Ms. Thompson of the YWCA before his charges. He has a number of behaviors in the past that are consistent with physiologic reactivity, including his refusal to be examined by the physician at Con Braco when he felt he was touched inappropriately. "In rare instances, the person experiences dissociative states that last from a few seconds to several hours, or even days, during which components of the events are relived and the person behaves as though experiencing the event at that moment." (p. 464). Mr. Bryant does report periods where he cannot account for time. He reports that four months before his present incarceration, he went at 1am to get gas and looked at his clock and it was 1:40 and he was in Conway and doesn't remember how he got there. He states he arrived in Myrtle Beach at 2:30 am to see him grandfather who was in a medical facility on 17 South. He states he slept in his truck outside of his grandmother's house because he didn't want to wake her. He states he visited his grandfather that day. He states his step-grandfather William Floyd Freeman died from cancer shortly before his crime. SCDC records note that when he mutilated himself, he later told his caseworker he did not remember doing that and he had only cut himself two other times in his life. Mr. Bryant has been observed by this examiner to have periods where he stares into space and is not attending to the task at hand.

The third criterion for Post Traumatic Stress Disorder involves persistent avoidance of stimuli associated with the trauma and numbing of general responsiveness by efforts to avoid thoughts, feelings or conversations about the trauma, efforts to avoid activities or places associated with the trauma, inability to recall important aspects of the trauma, markedly diminished interests in activities, feeling detached or estranged from others, restricted range of affect and a sense of foreshortened future.

The fourth symptom consists of increased arousal as indicated by difficulty sleeping, irritability or outbursts of anger, difficulty concentrating, hypervigilance or exaggerated startle response. Mr. Bryant has a history of hypervigiliance. He describes period of paranoia and fears that people are attempting to pass judgment on him or harm him. He also has periods of irritability and outbursts as demonstrated by his assaulting Officer Justice.

The fifth criterion requires the duration of the above symptoms for more than a month. Mr. Bryant has symptoms of this disorder documented in 1999, but his childhood inattentiveness was most likely a feature of this disorder.

Finally, the disorder must cause significant distress or impairment in social, occupational or other important areas of functioning. Mr. Bryant has significant legal, emotional, familial and interpersonal stressors because of his symptoms.

In addition to the criterion for Post Traumatic Stress Disorder, the Diagnostic and Statistical Manual (DSM) also specifies if the disorder is acute or chronic. Mr. Bryant has a chronic form of Post Traumatic Stress Disorder, since the duration of his symptoms have been for more than three months.

Mr. Bryant has had a number of complications associated with PTSD. Paranoid ideation can be present in some severe and chronic cases. Mr. Bryant has a preoccupation with Masons that at times has resulted in severe paranoid ideation. He expressed these beliefs about the judge in his case. He expressed these beliefs about his victim, Mr. Tietjen. "the following associated constellation of symptoms may occur and are more commonly seen in association with interpersonal stressor: impaired affect modulation, self destructive and impulsive behavior, dissociative symptoms, somatic complaints, feelings of ineffectiveness, shame, despair or hopelessness, feeling permanently damaged, a loss of previously sustained beliefs, hostility, social withdrawal, feeling constantly threatened, impaired relationships with others or a change from an individual's previous personality characteristics" (p. 465). Mr. Bryant has a number of these complications. He does have impaired affect modulation. For example, he can become quite irritable suddenly, and can also laugh or smile inappropriately. He has dissociative symptoms and reports feeling threatened. He has many self destructive and impulsive behaviors.

Substance Abuse History:

Mr. Bryant reports an extensive history of substance abuse, including marijuana one ounce every four days, mushrooms, methamphetamines, Ny Quil® high doses, Xanax,® and Valium.® He reports using cocaine several times. He reports he does not like to drink alcohol but was drinking with Mr. Gainey at time of his murder. SLED Toxicology reports from the time of his arrest reveal a Urine Drug Screen positive for THC (a metabolite of cannabis). Mr. Bryant reported that he used cannabis that has been laced with Raid®. He endorsed feelings of paranoia when he used marijuana and mushrooms together.

Family History:

Mr. Bryant's mother reports there is a maternal aunt with a history of paranoid schizophrenia. Mr. Bryant's aunt Terry Caulder also endorsed symptoms consistent with childhood sexual abuse. Both of Mr. Bryant's parents have a history of substance abuse and met while in treatment.

Juvenile History:
In 1992 at the age of 11, Mr. Bryant was charged with Arson. Mr. Bryant burned the curtains in his house but denies his actions were intentional. In September 1992, Mr. Bryant broke into and vandalized a home with peers. He was charged with Interfering with the Operation of a School Bus, Burglary 3rd, Grand Larceny Auto and Malicious Injury to Real Property.

He had intelligence testing while at DJJ in 1996 when he was 15 years old. He obtained a full scale IQ of 93, with a Verbal IQ of 90 and a Performance IQ of 99. His highest subscale score was in Comprehension, and his lowest scales were similarities and arithmetic. On the VMI, he obtained a score of 105 which was consistent with his age. His reading comprehension was at an eighth grade level and in the 40th percentile. Personality testing showed him to be an "anxious, introversive youth with poor self control skills." He was diagnosed with Conduct Disorder, Dysthymic Disorder, ADHD NOS and Cluster B Personality Traits. He was also evaluated by Dr. Tracy Gunter on 5/21/96. She diagnosed him with Conduct Disorder, ADD NOS and Adjustment Disorder with Depressed Mood. She recommended Prozac®. She noted that he had been treated at Waccamaw Mental Health Center and Coastal. She reported that Waccamaw did not have a record of treatment for him. There is no record that Mr. Bryant reported his childhood sexual abuse. Mr. Bryant states he did not tell Dr. Gunter because: 14-15 year olds don't talk about that stuff. Mr. Bryant reports the first person he ever told was Judy Justice.

While at DJJ, he was punched in the mouth by another juvenile on 5/7/96. He was treated for two lacerated areas of his right bottom inner lip. He also reported a knot on the back of his head after being punched by a peer. He was noted to have a .5cm raised area to his occiput.

Legal History:
Mr. Bryant reports he started breaking into houses again around age 17. He stated they were vacant and he would go there to cry. In 1998, Mr. Bryant was sentenced to 5yrs suspended to 3 yrs probation (YOA) for Nonviolent Burglary, 2nd degree. In 1999, Mr. Bryant was sentenced to 7 yrs suspended to 5yrs and 5 yrs probation for Burglary 2nd. His Probation was also revoked and he was concurrently sentenced to 3yrs ss 18mos. Mr. Bryant served 18 months and was released from the Department of Corrections on 12/22/02. Mr. Bryant reports he had been out of prison for one year and nine months when his present charges occurred.

Corrections History:
When questioned about his DJJ evaluation in 1996, Mr. Bryant reported the 30 days he spent at R&E (Reception and Evaluation) were the best of his life. He reports he enjoyed his evaluation at DJJ because he could "be a kid, play kickball, baseball and other games with kids my age." He stated he "wish I would have thought to do something so he I would be committed until age 18."

Mr. Bryant was confined at SCDC from 1999-2002. He was at Kershaw, Allendale, Tyger River and Trenton. He had many disciplinaries and spent time in SMU. His disciplinaries included: threatening to inflict harm, refusing to obey, possessing contraband, evading a security device, using profane language, being out of place, leaving quarters without permission, possessing marijuana and buck (homemade alcoholic beverages), and refusing to attend school. Mr. Bryant reports he was approached sexually and grabbed by an inmate, Willie on 11/21/99. Mr. Bryant filled out a grievance and was told to place himself in PC. An entry from 11/25/99 shows that he refused Protective Custody. Mr. Bryant reports it was during this confinement that he met the victim, Chris Burgess, also known as "goldie."

Mr. Bryant was jailed at the Sumter County Detention Center on 10/14/04. He was classified as a Safe Keeper and transferred to Lee County after he assaulted Officer Justice in the Sumter County Detention Center on 10/26/05. File information from the officer confirms he had been reprimanded for disrespectful behavior towards inmates before Mr. Bryant was ever jailed there, and using foul language (6/19/94), insubordination (9/7/04), calling inmates stupid (9/9/04). He was reported for intentionally waiting ten minutes to serve inmates after the food was delivered so it would be served cold. A letter submitted by Inmate George Williams on 10/8/04 indicates that Officer Justice had assaulted him while he was asleep in his cell.

After being assaulted by Mr. Bryant, Officer Justice was evaluated at Tuomey Hospital and treated for a fractured maxillary sinus. Incidentally, he was found to have a basilar artery aneurysm, which was medically recorded as having no connection to the assault. In a letter written after the assault, Mr. Bryant alludes to his treatment at the detention center, including being tasered, being restrained for four days, not being fed, being spit on, being stripped and left in his cell with no blankets for ten days, denied visits, and assaulted. Mr. Bryant reports that on the day of the assault, Officer Justice had just spit on him and was attempting to run from his cell, when Mr. Bryant was able to stop him from shutting the cell door. Mr. Bryant alluded in his letter that the detention center was referred to as a "POW camp."

While at Lee County, Mr. Bryant has been disciplined for throwing bodily fluids, refusing to obey, possessing a weapon, and mutilating himself. He was maced for not removing his arm from the flap.

Relationship History:
Mr. Bryant reports a tumultuous relationship with his parents. He reports his mother has not been attached to him, because she knows he "knows too much." When he was seen on 4/12/06, he states he had not had contact with her in four years. He referred to her as "that woman." He states she told him God would bring death to him many years ago. He reports a distant relationship with his father because he reports his father has never believed him when he disclosed his mother's behavior, and in fact would beat him whenever he told on his mother. Mr. Bryant does not report a close relationship with his older half brother, William Bryant Jr. (5 yrs older than Stephen) or his younger brother Chris (8 years younger). He reports that his older brother also attempted to sexually abuse him. He reported a distant relationship with his younger brother because he reports his mother favored his younger brother.

His primary attachments have been his paternal grandmother, paternal step-grandfather, who died in August before his charges and his paternal aunt. His most significant adult relationship was with Judith Justice. Mr. Bryant reports that Miss Justice was fifteen years his senior and that his mother did not approve of the relationship. A note from a home visit by DPPS on 5/6/03 notes that his mother told his probation officer he was staying overnight with Miss Justice. Mr. Bryant reports he met Miss. Justice on the Internet in March 2002. Mr. Bryant reports they began dating near his birthday in April and he moved in with her in the summer of 2002. In a statement to SLED, Miss Justice reported there was "stress in the relationship for six to seven months due to money and her working all the time." Mr. Bryant reports he disclosed his sexual abuse to Miss Justice and that she accompanied him to Healthy Minds and the YWCA.

Sexual History:
Mr. Bryant's reports of sexual abuse have been referenced in the developmental history section. In addition to reporting childhood sexual abuse, Mr. Bryant reports a number of inmates tried to rape him in prison or in jail, including the third murder victim, Christopher Burgess. Mr. Bryant reports when he was at Kershaw around 1999, he served time with Mr. Burgess. He states Mr. Burgess was called "goldie" because he wore a grill. He states that on the evening of his death, he remembered who Mr. Burgess was because of the greeting and his gold tooth.

Mr. Bryant reports he did not have consensual sex until he was 22 years old. He reports he may have a daughter from a prior relationship. He was in a relationship with Judy Justice at the time of his crimes. Miss Justice, in her statement to police noted that she and Mr. Bryant had some relationship difficulties because he looked at porn on Internet nine to ten months earlier.

Mental Status Examination:
Initially, Mr. Bryant was guarded and made very little eye contact. Over time as he became less anxious around this examiner, his eye contact improved his ability to discuss issues improved and he was able to demonstrate some affect including smiling and laughing on occasion. His laughter has been self-deprecating. Mr. Bryant is easily distracted and frequently scans his environment, especially when in novel situations. For example, when Mr. Bryant was in the USC office of this examiner for the first time, he scanned the room, had difficulty paying attention and became paranoid. He also recently displayed this behavior in a court proceeding but was able to maintain his attention, follow testimony and answer questions appropriately. Mr. Bryant is pre-occupied with the Masons and at times has become acutely paranoid and unable to work with his attorneys. However, his paranoid ideation decreased once he was medicated. His affect is usually blunted, although he does have outbursts of irritability at times with others. His intelligence is low average. He has difficulty with attention and distraction at times. He has not been suicidal or homicidal. His judgment is seriously impaired due to his mental illness and personality disorder. He has some insight and would like more treatment.

Results of Testing:
Because of Mr. Bryant's inability to recall important aspects of his criminal behavior and his severe distractibility, neurological examination, MRI examination, electroencephalogram assessment and neuropsychological testing were ordered. Mr. Bryant was unable to complete neuropsychological testing due to poor effort. His neurological examination did not reveal an organic cause for his symptoms. Both EEG and MRI f the brain did not show organic causes for his violence, distractibility and inability to recall various details in his life and about his crime.

Diagnosis:
The fourth edition of the American Psychiatric Association's diagnostic and Statistical Manual of Mental Disorders is the official nomenclature used by psychiatrists and other physicians to diagnose mental disorders. The DSM uses a multi-axial system of assessment. There are five axes, which help clinicians plan treatments and outcomes. Axis I Disorders are for major mental illnesses and other conditions that are the focus of clinical attention. If an individual has more than one Axis I disorder, they should be recorded separately. Axis II Disorders are personality disturbances and mental Retardation. The listing of personality disorders or Mental retardation prevents these conditions from being overlooked, especially when patients suffer from Axis I disorders at the same time. Axis III is for General Medical Conditions. Medical conditions can affect the management and course of Axis I and Axis II illnesses. Axis IV codes psychosocial and environmental problems that can affect the diagnosis, treatment and prognosis of mental disorders. A psychosocial problem can be a negative life event, an environmental difficulty, familial or interpersonal stress, or an inadequate social support. Axis V is a global assessment of functioning. The Global Assessment of Functioning (GAF) is the clinician's judgment of the patient's overall level of functioning. The GAF scale is divided into ten ranges of functioning. The scale has two components: symptom severity and level of functioning. A single value is picked that best reflects the individual's functioning. The ratings range from 0 to 100. The lower the rating, the higher levels of danger to self and others and inability to function. The higher the rating, the less likely one is to suffer any symptoms of mental illness or have impairment in functioning. A GAF of 50 represents serious symptoms of mental illness or serious impairment in functioning.

The following is a list of Mr. Bryant's diagnoses:
Axis I) Post Traumatic Stress Disorder, chronic (P) Cannabis Dependence, In a Controlled Environment
Hallucinogen Abuse
Sedative Abuse
Amphetamine Abuse, by History

Attention Deficit Hyperactivity Disorder, by History
Dysthymia by History
Axis II) Antisocial Personality Disorder
Axis III) Sinusitis, weight loss
Axis IV) Problems with legal system, problems related to social environment, occupational problems, economic problems, problems with access to health care services, Axis V) 35 (major impairment in several areas)

Accounts of Crime:

Mr. Bryant was experiencing a number of stressors before his charges. His step-grandfather died in 8/04. Mr. Bryant's step-grandfather was a primary attachement. Mr. Bryant reports that he and his father had a disagreement at the Memorial Service in Cheraw. He reports after the funeral and two weeks before the offense, he had decreased sleep, episodes of paranoid, and racing thoughts. He was also abusing drugs around this period of time. During this period of time, he disclosed his history of sexual abuse to Miss Justice, his grandmother and aunt. He reports he attempted to get help in September but was unable to pay for services. He was unemployed and in arrears with his Probation Officer. He reports he was assaulted by two men and seen in Toumey ER on 9/30/04. He states he noticed that cats were afraid of him. He reports he had a nightmare and two days later, broke into a house and stole bullets and a gun.

He admits to shooting Mr. Brown on 10/8/04. He states he smoked a joint, went fishing and saw Mr. Brown and another man fishing. He states one of the men left. He reports he felt threatened that the man was charging him.

Mr. Bryant reports he used to work with Clifton Gainey, the victim of the Belles Mill Road homicide. In his statement, he says Cliff called him on Saturday (10/8) and needed some dope. He states they both smoked weed and Cliff was also drinking, which is substantiated by the autopsy report. He states they went fishing and that they went to the bathroom. He states Cliff was so messed up he was trying to take a belt off that he didn't have on. He states that Mr. Gainey's actions reminded him of his father when he drank. He states Mr. Gainey talked about gunfire and then made a sexual remark to him, and he doesn't know how many times he shot him. He states he cried over body because he did not know why he killed him. He denies setting Mr. Gainey's couch on fire, but says he left a joint there.

Mr. Bryant reports that on Monday, 10/11/04 around 9:30 am, his truck overheated while he was on his way to fish. He states he smoked a joint, knocked on Mr. Teijtan's door for help. He reports he tried to telephone Judy twice for assistance. He reports that Mr. Tietjan was friendly to him at first, and they spent a lot of time "sharing knowledge" about the masons. He states Mr. Tietjan became agitated with him because of his knowledge of the masons. Mr. Bryant reports he was also agitated with Mr. Tietjan because he made sexual innuendos about younger girls. Mr. Bryant states he asked if he could "take a leak." He states Mr. Tietjan wanted to know why he had to use the bathroom. He states as he walked to the bathroom, Mr. Tietjan struck him in the back of head with mason ring. After killing him, Mr. Bryant reports he cried, smoked another joint, lit some candles and that one candle slipped and caught his beard on fire. Mr. Bryant reports that while n the home, he looked on Mr. Tietjan's computer and found pornographic images of a young girl being molested by an animal. He states he then remembers doing something to his eyes and writing a note. When confronted with the contents of the note, Mr. Bryant reports that it dealt with "knowledge of the masons." Mr. Bryant stated he then went fishing to calm down. Mr. Bryant reports that while fishing, three people called him on Mr. Tietjan's phone and he told them all he had just killed him. When confronted with the words left in blood, Mr. Bryant stated "they don't make sense with a 4 and a 5". Mr. Bryant reports he did not leave a cigar nor did he know how the victim's belt and zipper were undone.

On 10/12, Mr. Bryant was interviewed by law enforcement. When they questioned him, he was filing complaints about his assault the week before.

Mr. Bryant reports he was unable to sleep that night. He states he went to MacDonald's around 4am, (10/13) to get something to eat. Video from the MacDonald's does show evidence of the hypervigilance seen with Post Traumatic Stress Disorder. Mr. Bryant reports he then stopped to get gas, and while there saw Mr. Burgess who later asked him for a ride. Review of the interaction between Mr. Burgess and Mr. Bryant in the store shows that Mr. Burgess initiated conversation with Mr. Bryant. Mr. Bryant revealed to this examiner on 8/25/08 that he recognized Mr. Burgess from a prior confinement and that Mr. Burgess had "come on to him years earlier." He states he gave Mr. Burgess a ride and felt threatened felt threatened because Mr. Burgess was loud and demanding, saying: "I was going to take him here and there". He states Mr. Burgess asked him to pull over to use the bathroom. He states he got hit with the cap of a beer bottle that mr. Burgess was opening. He states while Mr. Burgess was urinating, he looked as if he were coming towards him to harm him, so he shot him.

Mr. Bryant reports that upon his arrest at 9am, he talked with various agents until 3am. He states his conversations from 1am until 3am with Dr. Crawford were audio taped. Mr. Bryant remembers speaking with Dr. Crawford and Agent Caldwell. During an interview with Mr. Caldwell on 10/13/04 around 3:01 pm, Mr. Bryant reported he was willing to discuss Mr. Varner, whom he referred to as "An angel to the Chamber of Commerce behind closed doors."

In a statement around 7:10pm, Mr. Bryant admitted to killing Mr. Burgess, would not talk about Mr. Tietjan and stated he did not remember anything about Mr. Gainey.

Around 7:45pm. Mr. Bryant was writing a letter to Judy and began crying. At that time, he admitted to stealing a gun, feeling threatened by Mr. Burgess, killing Mr. Tietjan but not remembering Mr. Gainey. Dr. Crawford interviewed him around that period of time. He disclosed sexual abuse to Dr. Crawford and reported flashbacks. He also reported insomnia and "images in my mind." He reported to Dr. Crawford that his problems began when he tried to get close with his father again at his grandfather's funeral. He admitted to paranoia when "people pass judgment on him." He also reported racing thoughts. He reported a change in him that "the cats knew." He reported bad dreams before the onset of his crimes. He reported to Dr. Crawford that the day after he stole the gun, he had thoughts were: "Resurrect old memories to see if anybody would remember them." He also reported: "It's like before each one of them, I'm not sure what happened because it's like I go into a different place." He also told Dr. Crawford while discussing the death of Mr. Tietjan that he was upset that the victim would have "such lusts or desires when it comes to his sexual side." He reported "If his eyes go astray, poke them out." He also reported: "knowing there's more of them out there."

In another statement from 8:53 until 12:35am, he reported he remembered killing Cliff. He reported accidentally setting Mr. Tietjan's beard on fire, removing property from him and answering his phone.

At 1:21am, he discussed Mr. Tietjan's computer, denied killing animals, viewed pictures of the crime scene and reported only vague recollections of Mr. Tietjan's eyes and the notes left at the crime scene. He discussed his sexual abuse and concern for his brother Brandon.

Mr. Bryant admits to assaulting Officer Justice. He reports that Officer Justice spat on him and then tried to run from the room.

Opinions:

1. Mr. Bryant's age and mentality at the time of his offenses should be considered. Mr. Bryant has a history of intellectual and adaptive functioning deficits documented since school age. He has been shown to have difficulty with socialization and adaptive function as referenced by school tests. He was also diagnosed and treated for ADHD and Dysthymia during childhood. Even at the age of 14 years, eleven months, he was shown to function at the level of nine years and eleven months. Dysthymia is a chronic form of depression where symptoms are present for two years. Dysthymic Disorder has an early onset and a chronic course. Symptoms include poor self esteem, a history of social inadequacy, feelings of guilt, and brooding about the past.
2. The murders were committed while the defendant was under the influence of mental disorder. Mr. Bryant was clearly suffering from active symptoms of Post Traumatic Stress Disorder during the commission of his charges. He was seen briefly before these crimes and asked for help. He has prior documentation of flashbacks in his prison documents dating back to 1999. He disclosed his symptoms to his grandmother, aunt and girlfriend prior to the offenses. He reported symptoms of his illness to Dr. Crawford in his confession.
3. The capacity of the defendant to appreciate the criminality of his conduct or to conform his conduct to the requirements of law was substantially impaired for the assault of Mr. Brown and the murders of Mr. Gainey, Mr. Tietjen and Mr. Burgess. Around the time of the crime, Mr. Bryant was experiencing a number of stressors, which impaired his capacity to conform his conduct and appreciate the criminality of his actions. He was on probation and was unemployed. His DPPS records recorded he was in arrears, which was a stressor for him. His step-grandfather died a few months prior to his charges. In addition to grieving for his grandfather, Mr. Bryant had a number of prior familial stressors re-emerge. Mr. Bryant was having difficulties in his relationship with Miss Justice over his internet pornography, and his unemployment. Mr. Bryant was assaulted shortly before his offenses. He was also dealing with his own sexual abuse and attempting to get treatment and understand his symptoms. He also began using drugs more heavily during this period of time. He also reported insomnia and would be awake most of the evenings and early morning hours. In each of his murders and assault, Mr. Bryant misperceived the motives of his victims. In each situation, he reports feeling threatened by the victim, which is a symptom of his mental illness. He also has difficulty recalling all aspects of his crimes, which is also consistent with his mental illness. Finally, Mr. Bryant's irritability and assault of Officer Justice was related to his illness.

4. Mr. Bryant is presently receiving the medication, Tegretol®. This medication has improved his symptoms of distractibility and decreased his anxiety to a point where he is able to participate fully in the proceedings. These medications need to be continued and monitored throughout the proceedings.

COUNTY OF RICHLAND )

Teresa L. Norris, who appeared personally before me, affirms and states the following:

1. I am an attorney with Blume Norris & Franklin-Best, LLC in Columbia, South Carolina. I have been intimately involved in capital habeas corpus litigation in South Carolina for approximately eighteen years.

2. I became licensed to practice law in South Carolina in November 1990. From November 1994 until March 2006, I worked at the South Carolina Death Penalty Resource Center, the Post-Conviction Defender Organization, and the Center for Capital Litigation, which would eventually become the Death Penalty Resource and Defense Center ("the Center"). I was the Senior Staff Attorney until April 1996 and thereafter served as Acting Director and then Director.

3. Since April 2006, I have been in private practice but my practice continues to be almost completely devoted to capital litigation.

4. I have directly represented approximately 40 capital defendants throughout all stages of the proceedings from the trial to clemency. I have served as a consultant, both pro bono and retained, in numerous other capital trial and post-conviction cases. While most of my work has been in South Carolina, I also currently represent death-sentenced inmates in North Carolina, Mississippi, Texas, the military, and the federal system. I routinely teach nationally and locally at capital defense seminars.

5. Lisa Armstrong, post-conviction counsel for Stephen Bryant, has informed me that trial counsel has asserted that they advised Mr. Bryant to plead guilty and waive his right to a jury without a plea agreement based, at least in part, on advice from me. Ms. Armstrong has also provided me with copies of the three "Tender of Guilty Plea" documents signed by Mr. Bryant.

6. I provide this affidavit in lieu of testimony during the PCR hearing scheduled for the week of October 1. I have already booked travel to fly out to Mississippi on September 30 for work on cases there, including argument in the Mississippi Supreme Court on October 2 and client visits/evaluations on October 3 and 4. I can be available on the morning of October 3 to testify by phone. Alternatively, I return to South Carolina very late on October 4, but could be available to testify on Friday, October 5.

7. I recall talking to Jim Babb at least 2-3 times by phone and having some email exchange with him. The biggest thing that I recall about the discussions is that an attempt had already been made to plead guilty but to still have jury sentencing. At the time of my discussions, a writ had already been filed in the South Carolina Supreme Court and Mr. Babb forwarded the pleadings to me.

8. I do not recall talking to Mr. Babb about the case before a guilty plea was tendered. I do not recall talking to anyone else on behalf of Mr. Bryant.

9. I am positive that I have NEVER advised any attorney in a capital case to advise their client to plead guilty and waive a jury sentencing without a pretrial agreement. In fact, I have raised ineffective assistance of counsel claims in post-conviction against attorneys who have done this. Likewise, the American Bar Association Guidelines for the Appointment and Performance of Defense Counsel in Death Penalty (Feb. 2003) makes clear that "[i]f no written guarantee can be obtained that death will not be imposed following a plea of guilty, counsel should be extremely reluctant to participate in a waiver of the client's trial rights." Commentary to Guideline 10.9.2.

10. With respect to the initial plea offer in which counsel attempted to preserve the right to jury sentencing or to appeal of the issue, I do not believe I talked to Mr. Babb or saw the actual document before that offer was made.

11. If I had been provided the document beforehand and been asked to advise counsel, I would have informed counsel that the first paragraph of page 5 is misleading, at best. An accurate statement of the empirical and statistical research would reflect that capital defendants who present a denial defense during trial, but are then found guilty, are sentenced to death more often than defendants who admit guilty or at least some responsibility, for example by admitting a lesser included offense. Specifically,

> [J]uries in denial defense cases imposed death sentences twice as often as they imposed life sentences, while juries in admission defense cases chose a life verdict over a death sentence by a three-to-two ratio.

Scott E. Sundby, The Capital Jury and Absolution: The Intersection of Trial Strategy, Remorse, and the Death Penalty, 83 Cornell L. Rev. 1557, 1574-75 (Sep. 1998). The only exception to this rule is in the limited circumstances–inapplicable to Bryant–in "cases that involve multiple criminal actors and only circumstantial evidence as to which of the participants acted as the ringleader." Id. at 1579.

12. A "denial defense," which includes a "reasonable doubt" defense without an affirmative offer of evidence by the defense, is harmful, such that "a defendant is essentially playing lottery odds by relying on an all-or-nothing guilt phase strategy that challenges the prosecution in the hope of producing a lingering doubt that will secure a life sentence." Id. at 1589.

13. This is clearly different than the advice provided to Mr. Bryant, which was that by entering a plea of not guilty, he increased his odds before the jury of being sentenced to death. Numerous capital defendants have pleaded not guilty because of the desire to have jury sentencing, but then informed the jury during trial that they were, in fact, guilty but the not guilty plea had to be tendered in order to obtain jury sentencing under state law. In fact, the last capital sentencing trial before a jury in this state to my knowledge was the joint trial of David Edens and Jennifer Holloway in Greenville County in June 2006. I represented Holloway, who pleaded not guilty, but my co-counsel essentially informed the jury in opening statements that she was guilty and the only real question would be on sentencing. We continued that acceptance of responsibility throughout the trial phase and also admitted guilt in closing arguments. After she was convicted, I informed the jury in opening statements in sentencing that the aggravating factors were present and not in issue, so again the only question was one of sentence. The jury hung on both defendants in sentencing and they were sentenced to life imprisonment by the trial judge.

14. I also do not recall any discussions with Mr. Babb or any other attorney about the decision to plead guilty once it was clear that Mr. Bryant would neither obtain jury sentencing nor be allowed to preserve that issue for appeal. It's possible I had such a discussion, but I do not recall it.

15. I am positive, however, as addressed above, that I would never have advised such an action. While I believe the statute should be changed, and that there is a potential someday that a federal court may find the statutory scheme to be unconstitutional, I would never advise a client to enter a guilty plea without a pretrial agreement in order to litigate that issue. I would also never advise any other counsel to do so.

16. With respect to the last two plea offers signed on August 4 and August 9, 2008, I do not believe I talked to Mr. Babb or anyone else about it or saw the actual documents.

17. If I had been provided these documents beforehand and been asked to advise counsel, I would have informed counsel again that the paragraphs concerning empirical and statistical research were misleading, at best, as described above.

18. I also would have informed counsel that I disagree completely with the advice included in both the August 4 and August 9 documents in the paragraph at the bottom of page 8/top of page 9. Pleading not guilty in order to obtain a jury for trial in sentencing does not change the rules of evidence or trial rules. The United States Supreme Court explicitly addressed this in Florida v. Nixon, 125 S.Ct. 551 (2004). The Court held that counsel may reasonably concede guilt during trial (after pleading not guilty in order to obtain a jury) in order to maintain credibility for the capital sentencing. Even after conceding guilt, the defendant still "retain[s] the rights accorded a defendant in a criminal trial." Id. at 561.

19. While it is true that any error during the trial might be found to be harmless if challenged on appeal that is COMPLETELY different than what Mr. Bryant was apparently informed. Specifically, I believe it is inaccurate and erroneous to advise a capital defendant that pleading not guilty and then admitting guilt during trial will "grant the prosecution a license to do things during my trial they would otherwise be prohibited from doing – all of which could certainly further prejudice the jury against me, destroying any advantage I might have gained in the first place by telling them I am guilty and remorseful for what I have done." This statement is, in my opinion, completely inaccurate. Indeed, in the Holloway trial, even though we admitted our client's guilt, the state was still held to the same burden of proof, the rules of evidence were still strictly adhered to, and the jury instructions did not change. In other words, it simply does not happen and would never happen the way counsel apparently informed Mr. Bryant that it would.

I affirm, under the penalty of perjury, that the foregoing is true and correct.

Re: State v. Stephen Corey Bryant

Dear Mr. Bryant,

Though we spoke at length about the plea coming up on the 18th and you signed the plea sheets, I wanted to be sure you understood exactly what the procedure will be on that date.

The judge will ask a number of questions regarding the voluntaryness of your plea he will actually probably begin by reading the charges on each one of the indictments. The questions he will ask will be similar to these: Are you pleading guilty because you are guilty of committing these offenses? Has anyone promised you, threatened you or coerced you to plead guilty to any of these charges? Are the pleads to all of these charges freely given? Are you under the influence of any drugs or medications today that would make you unable to understand my questions? Or cause you to not know what you are doing in these proceedings?

I don't think the Judge will simply look at you and ask exactly what did you do that makes you guilty of these charges. Some judges will do this but in this type plea I do not expect Judge Russo to ask that kind of question This is different from a normal plea generally, once the judge has determined that the person is pleaing free and voluntarily he then asks the Solicitor to give him facts on any of the charges,an investigating officer even a family member can speak if they would like, then the attorney speaks on behalf of the client and the client or his family can address the court if they want to. Once all of that is done the Judge then goes ahead and determines the sentence.

Here, once the judge has determined that the plea is given free and voluntary he should just go ahead and stop the proceedings and state that he is accepting the plea and that the determination of what that sentence will be will be made after the presentation of the aggravating and mitigating circumstances at the trial on September 2nd. It will be at that trial that we present all of our mitigation. Stephen, some of the mitigation team may be their on the 18th. I know that we have tried to make arrangements for your grandmother and aunt to be there for the plea. I understand your feelings about your mother and father and we have no intentions of having them present at the plea or the determination of the sentence itself.

The plea itself will probably take a good bit of time since the judge will be reading or asking questions regarding each one of the charges. The Solicitor should not be going into any lengthy description of any of the offenses since this is simply a matter of determining whether or not the Judge will take the plea. If for any reason he does not take the plea then on September the 2nd we would actually begin with the jury trial and a jury would first determine whether you were innocent or guilty and if they found you guilty then they would determine in the second part of the trial what that sentence would be. John Clark and I fully expect that the Judge will accept the plea and that we will proceed on September the 2nd before the Judge alone with him to then determine what the sentence should be for all of the offenses.

I appreciate your cooperation with Dr. Melikian this past Saturday. I certainly felt that your responses in regard to all of her questions were well thought out and that a plea to these offenses is what you have clearly indicated that you want to do. John and I will see you early on the morning of the 18th to answer any questions you may have before we go before the court. At this time, I am not sure where the plea will be taken it will not be Sumter County and will probably be in Florence.

Very truly yours,

Jack D. Howle, Jr.

MEMORANDUM
ATTORNEY/CLIENT ONLY

To: Stephen Corey Bryant File
From: Carlisle McNair
Date: February 27, 2008
Re: Interview: Agent Billy Crumpton-Sled Computer Lab

On February 27, 2008, I called Sled Computer Lab to talk to Agent David Givens, who conducted exams on computers belonging to Willard Tietjen & Stephen Bryant. Agent Givens was not available. I spoke to Agent Billy Crumpton and asked if he could explain the computer exam report so that I may be able to understand what I was reading. Agent Crumpton advised he could not discuss an ongoing case with me without the permission of the originating agency. I advised Agent Crumpton I didn't want to discuss the case, I wanted someone to explain to me how to read their report and what their report was saying. Agent Crumpton advised I would have to contact Sumter County Sheriff with my questions.

10/13/04 #1

Though Agent Caldwell says that he thinks I had been to the Tietjen's more than once, I've only been there one time. It is on Cane Savanah Road. I went there Monday. I don't remember what time, but it was daylight. I heard on WIS news that the Sheriff said that Tiejen's family members spoke with his killer on his phone. That was somebody else that came there after I was there. I didn't have his phone. I am not comfortable talking about what happened at the Tietjen's. In time, I will tell about it. I do not remember leaving any notes there, but I would like to be hypnotized or see a psychiatrist who could help me remember so I could get all of this out.

10/13/04 #2

On Monday, I was having problems with my truck with it overheating. I pulled my truck over to the side of the road. I sat in the truck and rolled and smoked a joint waiting for the engine to cool. I saw Tietjen's house. I walked in the yard and saw a truck. I think it was sometime between 9:30 and 12:30. I didn't figure anyone was home. This was the first time I ever went to this house. I knocked on the door and the man answered. We both walked back to the truck and looked at the truck. The man was going to help me.

We walked back to the house and the man handed me his cell phone. I tried to call my girlfriend twice, but got the answering machine both times. The man sat down and started talking about the masons and the knowledge. He was telling me about secret things in the masons he shouldn't be talking about. He started talking about his views on life and religion and we talked a couple of hours.

The man didn't realize I had a gun on me. It was tucked in my waist with a loose shirt over it. He was showing me things he had about the masons and bragging. I was high at the time and had read a lot about the masons. He was disturbed at what I knew. He was asking me how I knew what I did about the Masons. I think he was threatened by what I knew.

I asked the man if I could use his bathroom. He didn't understand why I asked him that after we had been talking so long. I turned around and the man hit me in the back of the head. I still have the knot to prove it. I was dazed and when I turned around the man started charging me. I grabbed the gun and shot the man. I don't know how many times. When the man fell I sat down and I started crying. I was asking the man why because I didn't want it. From this point I only remember bits and pieces. I remember sitting by his side with blood coming out of his head and chest.

?! I went to the refrigerator and got a pepsi because my throat was getting dry. I don't remember getting the pepsi from the fridge.

When I got home I found medals from the man in my pocket. I don't remember smoking in the house but I could have. I do remember praying for the man and lighting white candles I found in the cabinet to free his spirit so he could be at peace. I remember the man telling me he wishes he was young like me because he liked young girls. I remember looking at the man's computer and seeing pornography. I'm not sure, but I think I'm having flashbacks of being on the computer and seeing a young girls with a horse in her.

I don't remember how many times I shot the man, but I had 12 rounds in the clip and when I got home I only had 7. I may have left a note on a piece of paper but I don't remember.
Agent Caldwell showed me photographs of the Tiejen crime scene. It seems like I remember the note on his stomach, but then I don't. I was thinking I might have poked his eyes out. It doesn't look like I did. This is my handwriting in the photographs, but one thing I don't understand is I contradict myself – I've got "4" on the wall and I got "5" right here. Something just don't seem right. There's two things here that aren't the way I left it, the cigar right here (I don't smoke cigars and he didn't smoke while I was there.) and his belt is undone. I'm getting a strong feeling that someone else was here after I left.

10/15-16/04

Oct 11th, between 9:30 AM & 10:30 AM I was going fishing and my truck started overheating so I pulled off to the side of the road to let my truck cool down, I got out, poped the hood and felt the engine and engine was hot, so I got back in my truck and rolled me a joint and smoked it while the engine was cooling down, I then put the gun in my pants and walked up to the nearest house which was Tietjen house and knocked on the door. This is the first time I ever been to his house. Mr. SCB Tietjen opend the door and he asked me how may I help you, I told him my truck was overheating and he walked out with me to my truck and he looked at it and he even agreed that my truck was overheating. By then a lady in a red car stoped and asked if everything was ok and I said everything is fine and she said ok and drove off, the lady was military cause she had a military uniform on. We walked back up to the house and I used his cell phone after he invited me in his home. I asked him to if I could use his cell phone to call my girlfriend to come and pick me up because my truck was overheating. I then left a message on her answering machine the first time and then I left a message on her voicemail to pick up the phone, so I hung up and called her right back but got no SCB answere, I figured she done left for work. Over the next couple of hours we had a general conversation about masons and the knowledge behind it. During that time I noticed he was getting agitated about the way I was talking about the SCB Masons with such knowledge meaning for what things stood for. This was while we were downstairs looking at the medals and his shriner car he had down in his basement. We went upstairs and talked awhile longer and I then asked him if I could use his restroom, he asked why?, I said I had to take a leak, and as I was getting up from the couch going towards the direction he pointed, he then hit me in the back of the head, I turned around and about fell because the blow dazed me, I looked at him while he was comming towards me, I then pulled out the 40 caliber smith & wesson hand gun and shot him maybe 3 or 4 times but I not sure.

and As I was walking towards him crying the gun slipped out of my hand and went off, I picked the gun up and knelt by his side crying and asked him why he did it, and then I said a prayer for him. I then sat down on the couch and smoked me a joint and then a cigg. I felt the knot on the back off my head and looked down at his hand and saw the big mason ring he wore that caused the knot on the back of my head, I took the ring off and placed it in the bathroom sink SCB and filled the sink up with water to let it wash the blood off the ring but forgotten all about the ring. After I put the cigg. out I put the cigg. in a cup of water in the sink. The next thing I did was light some candles for him being he was one in the knowledge as I, The white candles on the table symbolizes his purity & innocence that lies within his body & spirit, to set him free, as I was lighting one to place on his head I set down to place it simply on my hand and [redacted] SCB correctly and SCB caught his beard on fire and I blew the candle up and placed it above his head. I remember doing something to his eyes but not sure what, I thought I might have poked his eyes out, but not sure. I remember writing a note, but not sure of what I wrote, I don't remember. Next I remember walking through the house and putting some power tools, some hand tools, and putting them into a blue bag, I placed a couple of mason medals in my pocket, I took a big plastic bottle full of coins from the fireplace area, I went through his wallet and taking less $30 cash, and his SS card. I then took his cell phone, and one silver camera case with camera equipment with sticker on the Box from around the world, plus one knife with a deer horn for a handle.

I took the property out the front door and carried the stuff with me through the woods to be left unseen by anyone with what I was carrying, I placed the stuff in the back of my truck and I left to go home. I then left the house a couple of hours later to go do some fishing to calm down some and TJ's cell phone ring, I answered it, she asked for TJ. I said that I just killed him, she then hung up said I don't believe you and she hung up the phone. Another call had came, it was a different lady, she asked for TaJa, I said I just killed him, I then hung up the phone, Another call came in, this time from a guy, he asked for TaJa. I told him the same and not to call this # again, I then got up near TaJa's house and noticed all the police there so I took a left instead of a right like I had planned to do some fishing cause my truck was starting to run hot. I then took another left onto a dirt rd. and there I stoped & rolled me cigarette [redacted] on to the side of the rd. [redacted] home & later that evning I took the change to the [redacted] store to cash it in at their coinstar machine, [redacted] it totalled out to be $130 dollars in change or so, I then left to go spend the remainder of the evning till the video store closed and then went home.

Also during the time on Oct. 11th Mr Tietjen was also talking about how he wished he was my age cause he liked young girls and everything, and he was talking about some websites he looked up, and later before I left his house I got onto his computer and noticed the passwords written on a peice of paper on the wall and typed in the password batteries and it came on and I looked under history to see if what he said was true and so it was, more sights than I can count of nude young girls, especially one with a horse inside her. I also recall taken a spy camera with some tapes in it & It was in a black nylon [redacted] bag.

10/19/04

And just before I left Teitjen's house there was a lady who's name started with a "S" and said she said she would be there before he's wife got home. SCB
Also a knife I took from Mr. Teitjen's residence I sold the next day to Lee at the river for $10.00, also I took a camera from Teitjens residence and sold it to the night manager a Laptop "DST", it was a small Sony camcorder.

10/21/04

In my initial statement I said that I've never been to Mr. Teitjens house, that not true, I remember now going to his house a couple of days before he got shot, I don't remember when or what day exactly. He was coming from his mailbox at around 1830 looking through his mail as he was entering the driveway of his yard, I just pulled in and started a conversation asking him if so & so lives here, he said no, but does she live on this rd, I said yea, Well he said well pull up in the driveway and I'll look in the phone book and see, and when he came out he greeted me in a masonic shake, thats when I first realized he was a mason, we couldn't find this person in the phone book of course so we sat there and talked for about an hour or and hour & half about knowledge and I said I've got to get going cause I had to go meet someone, he said ok hope to see you again sometime, I said ok, appreciate your help then and then I left around 2:30 - 3:00 at the latest. And I also remember something about the word prowler, I had created that name on a Yahoo id on a laptop computer that was stolen that I thought about buying from Lee, but I didn't, I give it back to him on the oct 7th, that I give back to him that night, which I later learned he tracked it for some weed on Saturday 9th. The laptop was a compaq presario. Lee told me that the computer was stolen and that he stole it, and that he's got some stolen stuff including the leather case the laptop was in in some apartments he's remodeling over on either hampton or church Street.

TRANSCRIPT OF INTERVIEW

FROM CASSETTE TAPES

RE: STEPHEN COREY BRYANT

This interview by forensic psychiatrist, Dr. Pamela Crawford of Stephen Corey Bryant held on October 13, 2004 was transcribed from two cassette tapes at the request of South Carolina Law Enforcement Division on March 25, 2004 to the best of Rhonda Ergle's ability.

A P P E A R A N C E S

PERSON CONDUCTING INTERVIEW: Dr. Pamela Crawford

PERSON BEING INTERVIEWED: Stephen Corey Bryant

DR. CRAWFORD: This is Dr. Pamela Crawford working with the South Carolina State Law Enforcement.

And let me get -- your full name is, give me it.

MR. BRYANT: Stephen Corey Bryant.

DR. CRAWFORD: Stephen Corley?

MR. BRYANT: Corey.

DR. CRAWFORD: Stephen, is that P-H?

MR. BRYANT: Yes.

DR. CRAWFORD: Corey Bryant, B-R-Y-A-N-T.

MR. BRYANT: That's correct.

DR. CRAWFORD: Before we get started, I need to explain to my role in all this. And this is something I do with everyone just to make sure you understand what's going on. So, I'm going to read this to you. And I'll need you to sign it if you agree to go ahead and talk to me.

This part of it is just basic Miranda Rights. The South Carolina Law Enforcement Division and the Sumter County solicitor's office have requested a forensic psychiatrist, Pamela Crawford -- that's me -- to perform a psychiatric evaluation of you.

Before you agree to participate in the evaluation, you must understand your rights. You have the right to remain silent. Anything you say can and will be used against in a court of law. You have the right to an attorney before we conduct this evaluation. If you cannot afford an attorney, one will be provided for you.

If you decide to participate in this evaluation without consulting an attorney, you have the right to stop at any time. You have the right to refuse to answer any of the specific questions, any questions. And then that's the first part.

Let me read to you the second part and make sure, you ask me if you have any questions at all, okay? Dr. Pamela Crawford, that's me, your examiner, is performing this evaluation at the request of law enforcement. I will be sharing with law enforcement and the Sumter County solicitor's office any information that I obtain from you. Anything we talk about.

MR. BRYANT: I understand.

DR. CRAWFORD: I am not your doctor. I am not your treating doctor.

MR. BRYANT: I understand.

DR. CRAWFORD: And I'm here to evaluate you, not treat you. And if you need mental health counseling, that's something that we can get you hooked up with, okay? I may be asked to testify in court about this evaluation.

If you are charged with a crime and convicted, my evaluation maybe used by a judge or jury to help make decisions about your sentence, about what happens to you.

You may be video taped or audiotaped -- you're being audiotaped. Any audiotape will be provided to the solicitor's office. And any audiotape may be used in court. And then I'll need, if you agree to that, to understand -- to sign this.

MR. BRYANT: I understand.

DR. CRAWFORD: When you're done with that, I need you to read that out loud for me. And sign here, too. Okay. I think today is October 13; is that right?

MR. BRYANT: Yeah.

DR. CRAWFORD: 2004. We are in Sumter's County's sheriff's office. And if you could read aloud for me where it says, waiver of rights.

MR. BRYANT: I agree to answer the question -- I agree to answer questions at this time, I do not want to talk --

DR. CRAWFORD: Just read it out loud, if you would.

MR. BRYANT: I have agreed to answer questions at this time. I do not want to talk with a lawyer at this time. I understand and know what I am doing. No promises have been made to me and no threats or recourse of any kind have been used against me to participate in this evaluation.

DR. CRAWFORD: Okay. Is that okay with you?

MR. BRYANT: Yeah.

DR. CRAWFORD: If you could sign that. Then we can start talking. Thank you very much. All right. Have they been treating you okay?

MR. BRYANT: So far they been pretty good to me.

DR. CRAWFORD: Who have you talked to so far? Do you know the different people involved in all this?

MR. BRYANT: (Inaudible), Captain Smith. And the other fellows that was in here, I don't know the names of them.

DR. CRAWFORD: Okay. And Captain Hall (inaudible) would be okay to talk to you.

MR. BRYANT: Yeah.

DR. CRAWFORD: What is going on in your head right now? Tell me where you're at right now.

MR. BRYANT: Right where I've been for the last, I don't know how many years, I've been stuck in a place when I was very young.

DR. CRAWFORD: Stuck in a place where what?

MR. BRYANT: When I was very young.

DR. CRAWFORD: Okay. What do you mean by that?

MR. BRYANT: I keep having dreams.

DR. CRAWFORD: Okay.

MR. BRYANT: I keep having dreams.

DR. CRAWFORD: Okay.

MR. BRYANT: I can't sleep.

DR. CRAWFORD: All right.

MR. BRYANT: Images in my mind are images of (inaudible) and a bunch of.

DR. CRAWFORD: I need you to talk a little bit this way. I'm sorry. Just so I can make sure I've got you recorded. Images of what your mom did to you and your Grandpa?

MR. BRYANT: Yeah. Everybody in the family knows about my Grandpa.

DR. CRAWFORD: Okay.

MR. BRYANT: But they don't do nothing about it. They expect everything to be okay.

DR. CRAWFORD: What did your Grandpa do?

MR. BRYANT: He sat there, played with me, sticking his fingers in me.

DR. CRAWFORD: Stuck his fingers in you, when you were a kid? How old were you?

MR. BRYANT: Probably eight years old.

DR. CRAWFORD: Eight years old. Did they know it at the time?

MR. BRYANT: They know because he got my aunt when she was a little girl, his own daughter.

DR. CRAWFORD: He did that to her?

MR. BRYANT: And he got one of my cousins when they was a little baby. But they don't do nothing about it. They expect everything just to pick up and go on and be okay. But it ain't okay.

DR. CRAWFORD: How did they find out about it?

MR. BRYANT: They first found out from my aunt because she told my Grandma about it, which is her mama, when she was very little. She just let it go. And then it happened again and that's when she finally walked out.

DR. CRAWFORD: Did this stuff happen before you were on the scene with him? I mean, did they find out about what he did before he did it to you?

MR. BRYANT: Yes.

DR. CRAWFORD: So, they knew that and, yet, let you be over there?

MR. BRYANT: They found out about this when my aunt, which is probably 40 something years old now, ever since she was probably ten years, ten or twelve years old. But yet nothing gets done about it. They expect everything to be okay.

DR. CRAWFORD: That's (inaudible).

MR. BRYANT: But then I (inaudible) and these dreams of my dad beating the shit out of me. When I was little, my mom was cheating on my dad a lot. And I keep telling him about it. And every time I'd tell him, he'd beat me. Just beat me down and call me a liar.

Every time I looked in the mirror, I got to see my chipped tooth from where his rings caused. And in the end, I proved him wrong. And I didn't even get a sorry or an apology or nothing from him. All these damn beatings and shit I went on.

DR. CRAWFORD: How old were you then?

MR. BRYANT: That probably all started when I was about seven years old.

DR. CRAWFORD: Okay. So, let me understand this. You were living with your mom and dad, initially. Did you stay living with them your whole life, your whole childhood?

MR. BRYANT: My whole childhood until I could finally get out on my own.

DR. CRAWFORD: What is your dad's name?

MR. BRYANT: William Bryant.

DR. CRAWFORD: William Bryant. And what's your mom's name?

MR. BRYANT: Catherine Bryant.

DR. CRAWFORD: Spelled with a C?

MR. BRYANT: Yeah.

DR. CRAWFORD: Where do they live?

MR. BRYANT: In Kershaw. Kershaw (inaudible) Scott Road.

DR. CRAWFORD: Okay. So, they've been married -- are they still married?

MR. BRYANT: As far as I know they are, yeah. I ain't talked to them in so fucking long now.

DR. CRAWFORD: What's your birthday?

MR. BRYANT: 12/81.

DR. CRAWFORD: 12/81. So, things were okay until you were about seven or were there beatings and stuff before that as well?

MR. BRYANT: Until I was about seven until my mom realized I knowed her. And she felt scared (inaudible) I might tell somebody. Then she used my father to keep me silent by the beatings. She would call me a liar and (inaudible).

DR. CRAWFORD: And that was because she was running around. And then when you were seven, you realized what she was doing?

MR. BRYANT: Yeah.

DR. CRAWFORD: And that's the when beatings started?

MR. BRYANT: Yeah.

DR. CRAWFORD: But none before then that you remember or you can't remember?

MR. BRYANT: None before then. I can't remember. I think there's a lot more there to it than what I know --

DR. CRAWFORD: Could easily be.

MR. BRYANT: Yeah.

DR. CRAWFORD: It could easily be. Do you have brothers and sisters? Were they in the house, too, during all this?

MR. BRYANT: He was just born when I was molested by my grandfather. That's why I stayed in the house that night because he was being born.

DR. CRAWFORD: Your brother? What's his name?

MR. BRYANT: Brandon.

DR. CRAWFORD: So, he was being born the night you stayed at your grandfather's house?

MR. BRYANT: Yeah.
DR. CRAWFORD: Do you remember that date?
MR. BRYANT: No.
DR. CRAWFORD: How old -- do you know what year your brother was born in or how old he is?
MR. BRYANT: I think there's seven years difference between us.
DR. CRAWFORD: So, it was the night that you stayed there that he molested you?
MR. BRYANT: I'm never going back there again. I was bleeding. I was scared. I was hurt.
DR. CRAWFORD: All right. And nobody realized it; you couldn't tell your mom; you couldn't tell anybody?
MR. BRYANT: I had nobody to tell.
DR. CRAWFORD: Because they would have taken it out on you?
MR. BRYANT: They would have. They would have thought I was a liar again as usual.
DR. CRAWFORD: So, nobody helped you?
MR. BRYANT: I tried reaching out for help in the past six months with both my psychologist and my probation officer. I talked to Ms. Thompson. I talked to Ms. Creech. I told them I needed to see somebody. I told them I needed help. I told there's something serious. I kept making phone calls.

DR. CRAWFORD: Yes.

MR. BRYANT: I kept leaving messages with Ms. Thompson.

DR. CRAWFORD: Okay.

MR. BRYANT: And the only way somebody will see me is if I got money. And that's something I don't have. But they expect me just to pick up my shit and be okay.

DR. CRAWFORD: But you've haven't been okay for a long time. Have things been getting worse in the last six months? I mean, what's brought --

MR. BRYANT: Dreams. I can't get any sleep.

DR. CRAWFORD: You can't sleep.

MR. BRYANT: I keep having these dreams.

DR. CRAWFORD: When did the dreams start?

MR. BRYANT: The first time I got molested.

DR. CRAWFORD: Okay. So, since you were molested, the dreams started. Have they been getting worse, the dreams?

MR. BRYANT: Yeah. They get more intense. They get more evil. They get more wicked.

DR. CRAWFORD: Okay. What are they like? Can you tell me what the dreams are like?

MR. BRYANT: Just getting where like what my grandfather first done to me, ain't nothing like it is now. (Inaudible) it's like he just takes me on as his little woman.

DR. CRAWFORD: Okay.

MR. BRYANT: And my mom is like, I don't know, she is fucking sick.

DR. CRAWFORD: Why do you say that?

MR. BRYANT: What she wants her own son to do to her.

DR. CRAWFORD: She molested you as well?

MR. BRYANT: Yeah.

DR. CRAWFORD: What did she do to you?

MR. BRYANT: She called me in the living room one morning. She wanted me to give her a massage because her muscles were sore.

DR. CRAWFORD: Okay.

MR. BRYANT: She said she had a lot of tension. She was completely naked. She had a vibrator with her. I didn't know what it was at the time but now I do.

DR. CRAWFORD: Uh-huh.
MR. BRYANT: She wanted me to pleasure her with it. Stick it in her, in her, out her and touch her and kiss her in certain places.
DR. CRAWFORD: All right. And how old were you when this happened? I know this is difficult but this is important.
MR. BRYANT: I was probably eight years old.
DR. CRAWFORD: About eight years old. Did this happen all along -- let me put this here so I can make sure to hear it -- did this happen more than once?
MR. BRYANT: It happened twice.
DR. CRAWFORD: It happened twice.
MR. BRYANT: With Mama.
DR. CRAWFORD: And three times close together?
MR. BRYANT: Yeah. Probably no more than two weeks part.
DR. CRAWFORD: And then she never did it again?
MR. BRYANT: I wouldn't get close to her after that. I would always run away from home. I'd always leave. I couldn't be around them.

DR. CRAWFORD: Uh-huh. Now, was she drunk? Was she high? Was she --

MR. BRYANT: I don't know if she was high or not but I did -- do know she smoked a lot of damn dope back them.

DR. CRAWFORD: She was smoking dope. I mean, thinking back, do you think she was intoxicated, didn't know what she was doing or she knew what she was doing?

MR. BRYANT: I think she knew what she was doing. She always do.

DR. CRAWFORD: Did she molest your brother?

MR. BRYANT: I don't know.

DR. CRAWFORD: Okay. So, you were molested by your grandfather and your Mama. And anybody else? Did your dad ever?

MR. BRYANT: No. He would just beat me because of the lies that she would tell him. These right here, three of them. Scars right here.

DR. CRAWFORD: Uh-huh.

MR. BRYANT: Scars on my face right there and right there. Got another one right on the side of my head. Got another one on my back from where he took the belt off and just started beating me with the fucking buckle.

DR. CRAWFORD: So, it was a living hell. Absolutely intolerable.

MR. BRYANT: You have no fucking idea.

DR. CRAWFORD: It can't get much worse than that. I have to say. I've heard a lot of people. And it can't get much worse than that. Did the teachers at school realize there was a problem? Did anybody?

MR. BRYANT: They thought I had an attitude problem so they just expelled me from school.

DR. CRAWFORD: But they didn't pick up on the fact that you were being beaten?

MR. BRYANT: They picked up on the fact. They seen the bruises. They thought I was just fighting people. They thought it was just me being me.

DR. CRAWFORD: They never called DSS?

MR. BRYANT: No.

DR. CRAWFORD: Nobody did anything like that?

MR. BRYANT: No.

DR. CRAWFORD: They just left you there?
MR. BRYANT: Just like here recently when I been trying to reach out for help because I needed it.
DR. CRAWFORD: I know.
MR. BRYANT: And now my life is fucking over.
DR. CRAWFORD: And you recently -- it sounds like you've been doing a lot of things to try and get help. You went to that psychologist or something but she wouldn't help you unless you came up with money?
MR. BRYANT: I talked to her one time. Me and my fiance went up there and we talked with her. And I told her everything that was on my mind just like I'm telling you.
DR. CRAWFORD: Right.
MR. BRYANT: And it's like she don't want to deal with it.
DR. CRAWFORD: Didn't want to deal with it.
MR. BRYANT: But then she started referring me to other people but they would only charge me.
DR. CRAWFORD: And what is her name?
MR. BRYANT: Ms. Thompson.

DR. CRAWFORD: Ms. Thompson. And where was she working?

MR. BRYANT: Healthy Minds.

DR. CRAWFORD: Healthy Minds in (inaudible.) Why didn't you go to the mental health clinic? Did anybody talk to you about that? Go to a mental health center where it's according to what you can pay or did you not know all that then?

MR. BRYANT: I did not know about that.

DR. CRAWFORD: Okay. Your probation officer didn't tell you about going to like Sumter Mental Health or --

MR. BRYANT: (Inaudible.)

DR. CRAWFORD: And what is your fiance's name.

MR. BRYANT: Judy Justice.

DR. CRAWFORD: Judy Justice. Is she being supportive? I mean, is she a good lady?

MR. BRYANT: (inaudible) everything in me.

DR. CRAWFORD: Okay.

MR. BRYANT: I love her. I love her.

DR. CRAWFORD: Okay. How long you all been together?

MR. BRYANT: Two years.

DR. CRAWFORD: I know this is hard. You've been needing to talk to someone for a long, long time. What are you thinking about right now?

MR. BRYANT: I'm never going to see her again. But that's going kill me because she's the only thing I've got.

DR. CRAWFORD: Have you talked to her?

MR. BRYANT: They won't let me talk to her right now. They just let me write a letter to her. So, I wrote a letter to her and they promised me they'd give it to her.

DR. CRAWFORD: Okay.

MR. BRYANT: I love her.

DR. CRAWFORD: Have you all been living together? And she's a good person, she's been good to you?

MR. BRYANT: Yeah. She has.

DR. CRAWFORD: Did you talk to her about all these things that have happened to you? How did she take that?

MR. BRYANT: She (inaudible) about it all, that something like that can happen.

DR. CRAWFORD: Yeah.

MR. BRYANT: And nobody give a damn. She's trying to helping me go see somebody but nobody will want to see me without any fucking money. Like a $75 consultation fee. Like I got that to give up front when I barely got that in a month's time.

DR. CRAWFORD: Let's go back a little bit to when you were a kid growing up -- well, first of all, how far did you go in school?

MR. BRYANT: I don't remember. I was probably 12, 13 years old when I got expelled.

DR. CRAWFORD: And what did you get expelled for?

MR. BRYANT: They said I had an anger problem.

DR. CRAWFORD: What kind of things would you do?

MR. BRYANT: They said I just wasn't paying attention in class. They said I never do anything.

DR. CRAWFORD: Okay. Would you get in fights?

MR. BRYANT: I never got in one fight in school.

DR. CRAWFORD: You never got in one fight?

MR. BRYANT: Not in school.

DR. CRAWFORD: How about outside of school, neighborhood and stuff? I mean, kids who are --

MR. BRYANT: A few outside of school.

DR. CRAWFORD: I mean, kids who are as tormented as you were a lot of times act out because that's the only way they can express what's going on. So, you got in a few fights. Did you ever run away from home?

MR. BRYANT: More times that I can remember. And they just take me right back and tell me to just stay there or else they're going to lock me up.

DR. CRAWFORD: All right. Did you ever get in trouble when you were a kid like shoplifting or things like that?

MR. BRYANT: (Inaudible.)

DR. CRAWFORD: How about breaking into houses or things like that or cars? Did you break into houses or cars?

MR. BRYANT: (Inaudible.)

DR. CRAWFORD: How old were you when you started doing that?

MR. BRYANT: About the time I started running away, probably.

DR. CRAWFORD: Which was about what age, do you reckon?
MR. BRYANT: Twelve.
DR. CRAWFORD: Okay. Did you ever get into things like setting fires as a kid?
MR. BRYANT: I didn't really get into too much to setting fires.
DR. CRAWFORD: How about hurting animals?
MR. BRYANT: No. I love animals.
DR. CRAWFORD: You love animals. Were you ever arrested as a juvenile? When was that about?
MR. BRYANT: About 15 or 16.
DR. CRAWFORD: What did you get arrested for?
MR. BRYANT: Breaking and entering.
DR. CRAWFORD: Okay. Did you have to go to juvenile detention? How long did you stay there for?
MR. BRYANT: 30 days.
DR. CRAWFORD: Okay. And then you got out. Did you ever have to go back?
MR. BRYANT: Six years -- about five years.
DR. CRAWFORD: You stayed there five years?

MR. BRYANT: From 17 on up.

DR. CRAWFORD: 17 --

MR. BRYANT: Until I was about 21, I think. I got -- I think I was 21 when I got out.

DR. CRAWFORD: At DJJ?

MR. BRYANT: No. In prison.

DR. CRAWFORD: Oh, you were in prison. They put you in actual prison when you were 17?

MR. BRYANT: Yeah.

DR. CRAWFORD: Where were you in prison?

MR. BRYANT: Kershaw Correctional Institution.

DR. CRAWFORD: Did you get any mental health treatment there?

MR. BRYANT: I talked to a few psychologists there but none of them would ever really to talk to me.

DR. CRAWFORD: Were you ever hospitalized at (inaudible)? Why wouldn't they talk to you? Just too many people, didn't care, just --

MR. BRYANT: They'd go in. They'd tell me what they think. Each session would probably last no longer than five minutes. And they'd just tell me they were going to keep me on this medication and that would be

it. And the next person would come in.
DR. CRAWFORD: Who started you on medication?
MR. BRYANT: I don't remember her name.
DR. CRAWFORD: Was it in the prison you got started on medicine or before that?
MR. BRYANT: They started me on medication when I was on the streets when they diagnosed me with ADD, believe it or not.
DR. CRAWFORD: Okay.
MR. BRYANT: They give me 150 mgs of Prozac and Ritalin.
DR. CRAWFORD: 150 mgs of Prozac?
MR. BRYANT: And Ritalin each day.
DR. CRAWFORD: Okay. And how old were you when you started that?
MR. BRYANT: About seven, eight. Seven or eight.
DR. CRAWFORD: Seven or eight, you started on Prozac and Ritalin. Were you going to the mental health center?
MR. BRYANT: Waccamaw Mental Health. Dr. Resinaw (phonetic). I still remember his name.
DR. CRAWFORD: Dr?

MR. BRYANT: Resinaw, I don't know how to spell it.

DR. CRAWFORD: And so you went there for a long time?

MR. BRYANT: For a while.

DR. CRAWFORD: Did that help you? Did the medicine help you? Didn't do anything. You didn't notice any changes in it? Did they ever put you in a psychiatric hospital as a kid?

MR. BRYANT: No.

DR. CRAWFORD: But they knew there was a problem?

MR. BRYANT: Yeah. ADD. That's the problem with every kid these days, right?

DR. CRAWFORD: Right. Sort of a rubber stamp diagnosis.

MR. BRYANT: All that is is a money making process. That's all that is.

DR. CRAWFORD: And so they didn't even get into with you what your life was like?

MR. BRYANT: They talked to my mom before they talked to me. I mean, they didn't really talk to me. They just talked to her and she would just tell them off the wall stuff.

DR. CRAWFORD: What would she tell them, do you remember?

MR. BRYANT: That I would act out crazy. That I say mean things and stuff like that, which weren't true. And stuff like that.

DR. CRAWFORD: Why do you think she treated you so bad?

MR. BRYANT: Because I knew her and she feared what I knew. She feared I might tell somebody.

DR. CRAWFORD: Did you ever -- is it that you caught her screwing around?

MR. BRYANT: Yes. I have actually caught her a couple of times. Actually, about three or four times.

DR. CRAWFORD: All right. And did you get into using alcohol or drugs or anything like that in all this?

MR. BRYANT: I don't drink alcohol. And I do drugs. Well, I do one type of drug.

DR. CRAWFORD: What do you do?

MR. BRYANT: Weed.

DR. CRAWFORD: Oh, just weed. Have you ever tried other drugs?

MR. BRYANT: Huh-uh.

DR. CRAWFORD: How much marijuana do you smoke?

MR. BRYANT: About four or five joints a day.

DR. CRAWFORD: And have you been doing that since when?

MR. BRYANT: I don't know. My Daddy gave me my first one when I was probably seven years old, probably.

DR. CRAWFORD: So, he started you on that, too?

MR. BRYANT: Yeah.

DR. CRAWFORD: What kind of work did he do? I mean, was he working?

MR. BRYANT: He worked in the mill, some kind of factory.

DR. CRAWFORD: And how about your mom, did she work?

MR. BRYANT: I don't know. I ain't spoke to her in so -- I ain't spoke to either one of them in so long, I couldn't tell you where they at today. I mean, as far as --

DR. CRAWFORD: What they're doing.

MR. BRYANT: What they're doing.

DR. CRAWFORD: When did you lose contact with them?

MR. BRYANT: The last time I tried to reach out to my father and just talk to him. And he really act like he didn't have nothing to say to me.

DR. CRAWFORD: How long ago was that?

MR. BRYANT: Right before my grandfather's death.

DR. CRAWFORD: When did he die?

MR. BRYANT: About four months ago, now. He died from cancer in the hospital.

DR. CRAWFORD: Okay. And this is the grandfather that molested you?

MR. BRYANT: No. This is my grandfather -- this is my real grandfather.

DR. CRAWFORD: Oh, your real. Who was the other grandfather?

MR. BRYANT: That was my grandfather on my daddy's side.

DR. CRAWFORD: Okay. So, this is the one on your mom's side not your dad's side?

MR. BRYANT: Yeah.

DR. CRAWFORD: Were you close to him?

MR. BRYANT: Yeah.

DR. CRAWFORD: Okay. Did things start getting worse when he died? I mean, is that part of what's going on?

MR. BRYANT: Honestly, I can't -- I don't know. I just don't know when things got worse.

DR. CRAWFORD: And maybe we can help figure that out. But when you say you were close with your grandfather, what was his name?

MR. BRYANT: Floyd Freeman.

DR. CRAWFORD: Say that one more time.

MR. BRYANT: Floyd Freeman.

DR. CRAWFORD: Did, how close were you to him?

MR. BRYANT: He was all that I had growing up.

DR. CRAWFORD: Uh-huh.

MR. BRYANT: I mean, he couldn't be there for me all the time. He couldn't do much for me but he was always there for me.

DR. CRAWFORD: He was. And he was a good man. Did he know what had happened to you?

MR. BRYANT: I didn't want to tell him because he had a pretty serious heart condition there for a while. He had strokes there for a while. He had heart attacks. And then he just finally came down with cancer and it all went from there.

DR. CRAWFORD: When did he get the cancer?

MR. BRYANT: Six years ago.

DR. CRAWFORD: So, is he someone that you kept in touch with even though you weren't talking to your parents?

MR. BRYANT: Yes.

DR. CRAWFORD: Do you have a grandmother?

MR. BRYANT: Yes.

DR. CRAWFORD: And is she still alive?

MR. BRYANT: Yeah. She's living is Cheraw.

DR. CRAWFORD: And what is her name?

MR. BRYANT: Shirley Freeman.

DR. CRAWFORD: Shirley. And are you close to her? Okay. Have you talked to her in the last four months?

MR. BRYANT: Yes.

DR. CRAWFORD: Does she know what a bad time you've had in your life?

MR. BRYANT: I've told her bits and pieces of it.

DR. CRAWFORD: Do they have anything to do with your mom anymore?

MR. BRYANT: There ain't nobody in my family really got anything to do with my mom.

DR. CRAWFORD: So, other people know how --

MR. BRYANT: She's fucked up in the mind. If you sit here and talk to her for about -- just for a little bit, you can see it. You just have to look behind her -- the perception she puts out.

DR. CRAWFORD: Does she put out a pretty good percep -- I mean, she acts like she's okay?

MR. BRYANT: Yeah.

DR. CRAWFORD: You might not know it just to see her?

MR. BRYANT: You might not know it just seeing her, but you sit down and talk to her and just be around her, you'll see.

DR. CRAWFORD: It comes out?

MR. BRYANT: It comes out.

DR. CRAWFORD: Okay.

MR. BRYANT: Especially around another female -- I mean, not female. But especially around another guy. If she's around another guy, oh God.

DR. CRAWFORD: Because she's flirting or she's, what is she doing?

MR. BRYANT: She don't flirt. She goes straight up and grabs guys' things.

DR. CRAWFORD: Uh-huh.

MR. BRYANT: I mean, and that's something I don't care to see.

DR. CRAWFORD: Well, especially not your mother. Do these guys have mental health problems? I mean, has she been in the hospital? Has she been diagnosed with something, do you know?

MR. BRYANT: Not that I know of.

DR. CRAWFORD: And so your grandmother -- do you ever get to go stay with her or were you always -- could you get some relief by doing that?

MR. BRYANT: I would go stay with her every once in a while. But like I said, she was old at the time, too. And I didn't want to put too much pressure on her.

DR. CRAWFORD: Right. So, you were kind of looking out for them, not wanting to put on them what happened. How about your brother, are you close to your brother?

MR. BRYANT: I don't even think that's my brother.

DR. CRAWFORD: You think he's half brother? Do you have anything to do with him?

MR. BRYANT: I mean, he won't even talk to me because of Mama. He's a mama's boy. He's going to turn out gay. You can look at him and tell right now he's gay.

DR. CRAWFORD: Really.

MR. BRYANT: He's 13 years old. I think he's 13 years old, I don't know.

DR. CRAWFORD: Oh, he's that young, right. Okay.

MR. BRYANT: And you can look at him and tell somebody's done fucked with him because he's --

DR. CRAWFORD: He's really kind of feminine, kind of girlish in a way?

MR. BRYANT: Yeah. And he'll get right up there on his mama's lap and just hold her just like a little baby would. As big as that fucker is. And he's a hell of a lot bigger than me, to be his age.

DR. CRAWFORD: Do you think she's molesting him?

MR. BRYANT: I think she done got to him.

And I think that's something that will never change right there between them two. I mean, if you could just sit down and watch them for a little bit, you can see that something's there that shouldn't be there. My dad is so fucking blind by it at all, it's so fucking funny.

DR. CRAWFORD: He doesn't see it?

MR. BRYANT: Huh-uh.

DR. CRAWFORD: Does he treat your brother different than he treated you? I mean, is he nicer to him?

MR. BRYANT: Of course.

DR. CRAWFORD: It's like a whole different picture?

MR. BRYANT: Yeah.

DR. CRAWFORD: So, you're the bad kid and your brother's the good kid?

MR. BRYANT: Yeah.

DR. CRAWFORD: Yeah. Did that happen as soon as he was born, do you feel like? I mean, was it pretty obvious that they were going to just have a different feel with him?

MR. BRYANT: I didn't notice right when he was born. But probably a couple years went by after he was born, I --

DR. CRAWFORD: Did they accuse you of messing with him or causing him problems or did you get blamed for things for him?

MR. BRYANT: Oh, man. I don't even want to talk about it. If he cries, I did it. If he falls, I did it. If he gets a scratch on him, I did it.

DR. CRAWFORD: Right.

MR. BRYANT: And he could just be out playing with friends but I did it

DR. CRAWFORD: So, he is the golden boy, the baby and you're responsible for anything that happens to him?

MR. BRYANT: Yeah.

DR. CRAWFORD: Did they ever accuse you of sexually doing anything to him?

MR. BRYANT: No.

DR. CRAWFORD: But they accused you of pushing him or doing this or doing that?

MR. BRYANT: Yeah.

DR. CRAWFORD: Did he ever have to spend time with your grandfather, the one that messed with you?

MR. BRYANT: Not that I remember.
DR. CRAWFORD: Now, how about the aunt that was molested? Do you talk to her or did you talk to any of those people?
MR. BRYANT: I talked to her because she's been through it with him.
DR. CRAWFORD: Uh-huh.
MR. BRYANT: And see how the fuck she deals with it. She just ignores it like it ain't shit. I don't see how she can do it.
DR. CRAWFORD: Will she talk to you about it, though?
MR. BRYANT: Yeah. She'll talk to anyone about it.
DR. CRAWFORD: What is her name?
MR. BRYANT: Terry Caulder.
DR. CRAWFORD: Terry?
MR. BRYANT: Caulder, C-A-U-L-D-E-R.
DR. CRAWFORD: And where does she live?
MR. BRYANT: Right beside my Grandma in Cheraw on the same land.
DR. CRAWFORD: Okay.
MR. BRYANT: They all live right there beside each other on the same land. My Grandma, and my Aunt Terry and her husband.

DR. CRAWFORD: And what's her husband's name?

MR. BRYANT: Eddie Caulder.

DR. CRAWFORD: Eddie Caulder, is he a good guy?

MR. BRYANT: He's a good guy.

DR. CRAWFORD: When's the last time you talked to Terry?

MR. BRYANT: About (inaudible) months ago when I was talking to her about these problems.

DR. CRAWFORD: Uh-huh.

MR. BRYANT: I been talking to her off and on about them, trying to get some kind of comfort. But I can't get no comfort or relief from her.

DR. CRAWFORD: Why not?

MR. BRYANT: Because she's, well, you just got to let it go. I mean, just live with it. I mean, there's nothing you can do about it. Just deal with it. Dealing with -- I've been dealing with it for too fucking long, now. I'm ready to get it out of me.

DR. CRAWFORD: Yeah. I mean, it's eating you alive.

MR. BRYANT: Please help me.

DR. CRAWFORD: I'm going to try and understand what's going on and get you to the help that you need, okay? That is what I can do, is try to understand what is going on and get you to the help you need, okay. Because you're in a tremendous amount of pain and there's no question about that and you need some help, big time. And I can make sure that happens.

MR. BRYANT: You don't know how much I would appreciate it. I just want it out of me.

DR. CRAWFORD: And that's what -- I can promise you that I will contact the people that need to see you immediately. And have you be seen as soon as possible because you've got to talk about this stuff.

You know that's not my role here. My role here is to understand you and understand how we got to this point. But also as a doctor, I will see to it that you get help.

MR. BRYANT: You just don't know how much I would appreciate it.

DR. CRAWFORD: There's no question. It's a done deal. It's an absolute done deal.

MR. BRYANT: (Inaudible) for so many years I been wanting it out of me.

DR. CRAWFORD: I know.

MR. BRYANT: I'm tired of dreaming about it. I'm tired of just, I don't know, I can be looking at a book -- I can be looking at that duck right there on that desk. I can just look at a (inaudible) on the wall and for some strange reason a certain image will pop in my mind. I don't know why.

DR. CRAWFORD: Okay.

MR. BRYANT: And it just (inaudible) so fucking much.

DR. CRAWFORD: Okay. And tell me what the images are as clearly as you can.

MR. BRYANT: Either from my dad beating me, my mom molesting me or my grandfather's evil ass passion getting worse.

DR. CRAWFORD: Okay. Have the images changed over time that you see?

MR. BRYANT: Yeah. It's like it just comes to me just to laugh in my face.

DR. CRAWFORD: What do you mean, exactly?

MR. BRYANT: Because I can be -- I can go to sleep and have a dream. I can see my grandfather. And I can see what he do to me as I lie there helpless. This whole time I don't see his face. But right before I wake up, it's like his face just looks me dead in the fucking mouth and laughs.

DR. CRAWFORD: Uh-huh.

MR. BRYANT: And it ain't fucking funny.

DR. CRAWFORD: Do you ever dream or have flashes of trying to kill him or your mom?

MR. BRYANT: No.

DR. CRAWFORD: No. Nothing like that. But it's just him sort of mocking you?

MR. BRYANT: Yeah. Just sitting there laughing in my face. Just sitting there showing dominance on something that is helpless.

DR. CRAWFORD: Uh-huh. And I hate to have to ask you this exactly, but he put his finger in your anus? What did he do to you?

MR. BRYANT: He started playing with himself. He started kissing me all over and then he put some kind of lotion on his fingers and started sliding them in and out of me while he was playing with himself.

DR. CRAWFORD: Okay.

MR. BRYANT: And he told me that if I ever repeated it that he would be sure that I would die.

DR. CRAWFORD: Okay.

MR. BRYANT: That's probably what scared me the most.

DR. CRAWFORD: Is he still alive?

MR. BRYANT: Yes, he is.

DR. CRAWFORD: And what is his name?

MR. BRYANT: William Bryant, the same as my father. His name is actually my father's.

DR. CRAWFORD: And where does he live?

MR. BRYANT: Somewhere in Cheraw, South Carolina. My Aunt Terry could tell you where he lives. My Grandma could tell you where. But I couldn't tell you where he lives at in Cheraw.

DR. CRAWFORD: Is this the kind of thing that you would be willing to press charges on him? I mean, just curious. It doesn't have much to do with what we're talking about now. But are you --

MR. BRYANT: It's a very good possibility.

I don't know.

DR. CRAWFORD: I mean --

MR. BRYANT: And the thing about it, everybody in the fucking Cheraw area knows about it.

DR. CRAWFORD: But they let him walk the streets?

MR. BRYANT: I had -- when I went to my grandfather's funeral down there, because it was down in Cheraw.

DR. CRAWFORD: Uh-huh.

MR. BRYANT: I had one guy look at me, are you William Bryant's grandson. I'm looking and I said, yeah, why. He just gave me this fucking evil ass, disgusting look. Like I wasn't shit. Such harsh judgment on someone he's never met.

DR. CRAWFORD: You think it has to do with the molesting stuff?

MR. BRYANT: Everybody in Cheraw knows about it but they just can't fucking prove it.

DR. CRAWFORD: How do they all know about it?

MR. BRYANT: Because people talk.

DR. CRAWFORD: And when you went to this counselor you said, was it like two months ago?

MR. BRYANT: If that.

DR. CRAWFORD: Did you tell her about -- you told her about all this stuff?

MR. BRYANT: Yeah. Everything I'm telling you, I told her. And she just seemed like she just don't want to deal with it.

DR. CRAWFORD: When you have these flashes, is it like it's in your mind or is it like you can actually see it like --

MR. BRYANT: It's like I'm actually there. It's just like it's actually there.

DR. CRAWFORD: Does it come when you're just sitting around? I mean, could you just be sitting there and have one of these flashes?

MR. BRYANT: It could be anything. It could be anything. Like take for example, it could be anything like this box of crayons. I could see something that brings back a certain image. A certain color or certain shape or something, anything that could spark an image or a memory or something. Something that just sparks it and it takes on from there.

DR. CRAWFORD: And this has been going on since you were a kid?

MR. BRYANT: Yeah.

DR. CRAWFORD: But somehow worse lately or maybe not worse lately? I don't want to put words in your mouth.

MR. BRYANT: It might be worse lately because maybe for the first time in my life I tried to reach out for help.

DR. CRAWFORD: Uh-huh.

MR. BRYANT: I tried to talk about it. I tried to get all this out of me. I tried to find out what's wrong with me. And it's like no one is there.

DR. CRAWFORD: Okay.

MR. BRYANT: And it's like what am I supposed to do? I don't have money. I mean, people want money but I don't got money but, yet, I need the fucking help.

DR. CRAWFORD: Yes, you do. You definitely need the help. Tell me how your sleep has been.

MR. BRYANT: Some days I can sleep good and some days I be all night tossing and turning or just laying there. Just laying there, can't even go to sleep.

DR. CRAWFORD: How about the last two weeks?

MR. BRYANT: I didn't get no sleep at all.

DR. CRAWFORD: No sleep.

MR. BRYANT: I haven't had but maybe two hours sleep in the last two or three days.

DR. CRAWFORD: So, your sleep got a lot worse when? Two or three days ago or two weeks ago you started having it bad, a week ago, when did your sleep start getting real bad?

MR. BRYANT: Probably the last time I tried to talk to my father just to get some kind of closure on this or some kind of comfort feeling, you know?

DR. CRAWFORD: Uh-huh.

MR. BRYANT: Something that you can live with. Something that can help ease your mind as to why he is that way. And just try to get some type of understanding.

DR. CRAWFORD: Right.

MR. BRYANT: I guess that was just wishing.

DR. CRAWFORD: And that was when your grandfather died about four months ago? Have you been thinking about committing suicide?

MR. BRYANT: No.
DR. CRAWFORD: Have you ever tried to commit suicide?
MR. BRYANT: No.
DR. CRAWFORD: What do you think stops you? I mean, a lot of people go there when they are suffering as much as you do.
MR. BRYANT: Probably the only thing stopping me right now is my girlfriend.
DR. CRAWFORD: Okay.
MR. BRYANT: I don't know what I would do without her. And I don't even know how she feels -- if she's okay right now -- (inaudible).
DR. CRAWFORD: Well, I'll be talking to her later.
MR. BRYANT: I love her.
DR. CRAWFORD: But you're not suicidal right now?
MR. BRYANT: No, ma'am, I'm not.
DR. CRAWFORD: Have you ever heard voices?
MR. BRYANT: No.
DR. CRAWFORD: Have you ever, ever like thought you were getting messages from the television or the radio?

MR. BRYANT: No.
DR. CRAWFORD: Do you ever feel like people want to harm you?
MR. BRYANT: Sometimes.
DR. CRAWFORD: Tell me about that.
MR. BRYANT: It just makes me feel threatened when people use judgment on my past when they don't even know me.
DR. CRAWFORD: Okay.
MR. BRYANT: It makes me feel out of place when they look at me or talk to me or act towards me like I'm something lower than them.
DR. CRAWFORD: Okay. Do you think -- do they have to say something to make you feel that way or do you just sense that people are thinking low of you? I mean, is it like --
MR. BRYANT: It's just stuff that they say and do because I don't go on senses that much unless if I know true.
DR. CRAWFORD: So, they have to give you real indication. It's not like you're walking around out there and just looking at people and thinking, oh, I think he's thinking bad things about me?

MR. BRYANT: No. It's not like that. They have to give me good indication.

DR. CRAWFORD: Okay. Do you ever have times when your thoughts race very quickly?

MR. BRYANT: All the time.

DR. CRAWFORD: How long has that been going on?

MR. BRYANT: Six months, probably.

DR. CRAWFORD: About six months. And what is that like? Is it your thoughts jump from one thing to another or is it -- tell me what that's like.

MR. BRYANT: It's like -- see, when I think about stuff or something is on my mind, I not only think it but I visual, visualize it to help me get a better understanding on it.

DR. CRAWFORD: Okay.

MR. BRYANT: Sometimes I can't visualize it because it runs so fast I can't keep up with it.

DR. CRAWFORD: Uh-huh. Has that happened to you before or has it just been the last six months?

MR. BRYANT: It's happened to me before.
DR. CRAWFORD: Does it like go on for a while and then go back to normal and then it starts again?
MR. BRYANT: It's just whenever I'm feeling down.
DR. CRAWFORD: Have you been feeling depressed would you say? Have you ever not felt depressed?
MR. BRYANT: Yes.
DR. CRAWFORD: When have you not felt depressed?
MR. BRYANT: About the only time I've never felt depressed in my whole entire life was most of the times I've had with my girlfriend. I mean, that's like -- I don't know. Maybe if I met her a little sooner. Maybe if I hadn't let my pride get in the way of talking to her about a lot before. I don't know. Maybe things would be different.
DR. CRAWFORD: Is she the first person you've ever really loved?
MR. BRYANT: She's the first person I've ever been with.

DR. CRAWFORD: What do you mean? Do you mean sexually?

MR. BRYANT: In every way.

DR. CRAWFORD: Really. So, you never had sexual stuff as a kid?

MR. BRYANT: No. I'm very shy about it. I mean, not as far as shy in doing it. But shy as I'm not very comfortable with it. And it has to be somebody I fully trust to be comfortable with it, to be able to even enjoy it.

DR. CRAWFORD: And so she was your first full sex partner?

MR. BRYANT: Yeah.

DR. CRAWFORD: And you're how old now?

MR. BRYANT: 23.

DR. CRAWFORD: And you met her when you were 21?

MR. BRYANT: Yeah.

DR. CRAWFORD: So, you hadn't had sex until you were 21. Had you fooled around or anything with other girls, with girls?

(Tape side ended.)

DR. CRAWFORD: Okay. So, you were real shy about sex. And do you guys have a decent sex life?

MR. BRYANT: Not as of here lately because of the things I've been going through and the things I've been keeping from her.
DR. CRAWFORD: Okay.
MR. BRYANT: I mean, I've been keeping a lot of serious stuff from her that's hurting us.
DR. CRAWFORD: What have you been keeping from her?
MR. BRYANT: My anger. The life I just lived. I mean, she knew nothing about this stuff that just happened.
DR. CRAWFORD: Okay. This stuff this last few days?
MR. BRYANT: I don't know how she's feeling right now. I know she's scared and alone.
DR. CRAWFORD: Yeah. Well, you -- but when did this sexual stuff with her, when did it become less frequent? Was that the last few months or what would you say about that?
MR. BRYANT: The past two weeks now.
DR. CRAWFORD: The past two weeks was it that you were having trouble performing sexually or was it you just weren't interested?

MR. BRYANT: I just weren't interest. I mean, it's just like, I got to be at ease with myself to even be interested in it. And I ain't been at ease with myself at all these past two weeks.

DR. CRAWFORD: Okay.

MR. BRYANT: But the woman, I love her to death. I would do anything in this world for her.

DR. CRAWFORD: Sure. But something in the last two weeks has been stirring you up. And what I'm trying to get a sense of, is -- this has been going on for so long but it sounds like things have really kind of come to a head the last couple weeks?

MR. BRYANT: It's over.

DR. CRAWFORD: And why, and why do you think the last couple of weeks.

MR. BRYANT: Maybe it's just me wanting too much of a relationship.

DR. CRAWFORD: Uh-huh.

MR. BRYANT: To know my own father and know it's never going to happen. Maybe it's me wishing I'd never been born because of the (inaudible) deck that's been dealt to me.

DR. CRAWFORD: Uh-huh.
MR. BRYANT: I ain't been able to get much sleep here lately.
DR. CRAWFORD: And I know it's personal stuff but it's important to get the whole picture. Has sex always been sort of a problem with you and her?
MR. BRYANT: No.
DR. CRAWFORD: It's been okay? You've been able to perform and you've been able to be interested?
MR. BRYANT: Yes.
DR. CRAWFORD: Okay. That's up until the last two weeks?
MR. BRYANT: Yeah.
DR. CRAWFORD: It's been fine?
MR. BRYANT: Everything between her and me from the beginning to here lately, I mean, to me, the way it's been, it's like something you read out of a book. And you rarely find it. But when you do, it's something you never want to let go.
DR. CRAWFORD: Right.
MR. BRYANT: The thing is, I never had a chance fully with her yet because of what I been going through.

DR. CRAWFORD: Right. Were you all planning to get married?

MR. BRYANT: Yes. Judy got a wedding dress.

DR. CRAWFORD: You picked out a wedding dress?

MR. BRYANT: She did.

DR. CRAWFORD: When did she do that?

MR. BRYANT: Not loo long ago.

DR. CRAWFORD: When did you guys decide to get married?

MR. BRYANT: I proposed to her one evening.

DR. CRAWFORD: When was that?

MR. BRYANT: About five or six months ago.

DR. CRAWFORD: Had you set a date yet? Things were looking up, it sounds like. But somehow this stuff was getting worse?

MR. BRYANT: That's why I say I've never had a full chance with her yet.

DR. CRAWFORD: Right.

MR. BRYANT: And that's going to eat me up.

DR. CRAWFORD: What?

MR. BRYANT: And that's going to eat me up.

DR. CRAWFORD: Yeah.

MR. BRYANT: Knowing what I've done to her

now. Knowing what she's going through and she's there alone.

DR. CRAWFORD: Uh-huh. Does she have support and family?

MR. BRYANT: Yes. She's over at her sister's house right now.

DR. CRAWFORD: Okay. And what I would like to try and understand is how all that's happened to you has led to what happened the last few days. Do you think that your past in your life led to that point? I mean, is that why we're here? It finally all came together. Help me understand it.

And you've got to know I don't know a lot of details about what happened. But I want to try and understand how your life, your experiences played into what has happened.

MR. BRYANT: I reckon it was just time.

DR. CRAWFORD: It was just time. It was just like a fuse finally burned?

MR. BRYANT: Yeah. I mean, there was a change in me not loo long ago. The cats in the house know -- I was asleep. My girlfriend was awake at the time. She said the cats were scared of me. She said it was like something in you just came out -- see, I talk in my sleep a lot. And I don't know what all goes in my dreams. And I don't know what all goes on in my sleep. And she said it was like the cats just sensed something evil came out of me and ran from it. And it's not like the cats. The cats love me.

DR. CRAWFORD: Uh-huh. So, if she mentioned -- so the cats -- it's almost like the cats sensed --

MR. BRYANT: It was like she felt it, too, she said. She said it is just like something in me came out of me at that time.

DR. CRAWFORD: When did it come out?

MR. BRYANT: About two weeks ago.

DR. CRAWFORD: Tell me what happened two weeks ago when it came out.

MR. BRYANT: I don't know. I was sleeping just like I said. And she said it was like something that shook me, it was like it just came out of me.

DR. CRAWFORD: Did you look a funny way at her?

ÆbOW

MR. BRYANT: I was asleep at the time.
DR. CRAWFORD: Oh, you were asleep at the time.
MR. BRYANT: And I talk in my sleep. I don't know.
DR. CRAWFORD: And I'll ask her about that, what you were saying what about. So, when did things get moving, the action begin of this evil whatever? What happened? When did you become aware of this breaking free from you?
MR. BRYANT: Probably about two days after that dream.
DR. CRAWFORD: Okay.
MR. BRYANT: Whatever it was about. I don't remember what that dream was about to save my life.
DR. CRAWFORD: So, is that when ball started rolling about two days after?
MR. BRYANT: Yeah.
DR. CRAWFORD: Tell me about two days after. How did you become aware things were getting out of control?
MR. BRYANT: When I done something I swore I would never do again. And that's break into another house even though the door itself was open.

DR. CRAWFORD: Uh-huh.

MR. BRYANT: I swore to myself I'd never do that stuff again because I got somebody here that actually loves me for a change.

DR. CRAWFORD: Tell me how your thinking was when you broke into the house. I mean, was it that morning you woke up and said, I'm going to break into a house? Tell me how this happened.

MR. BRYANT: I was low on gas and that was the closest house. And I pulled up in their yard to see if there was any way they could help me out with some gas money because like I say, I haven't had a job in a while and I been laid off.

DR. CRAWFORD: Okay. So, you pulled into a house. And whose house was it, do you know?

MR. BRYANT: I don't know.

DR. CRAWFORD: Where was the house?

MR. BRYANT: Somewhere in Pinewood.

DR. CRAWFORD: In Pinewood. Was this during the daytime or at night?

MR. BRYANT: During the daytime.

DR. CRAWFORD: And what happened then?
MR. BRYANT: I noticed no one was there. But there was a truck there. I kept knocking on the door.
So, I heard something around the backside of the house. I walked around the backside of house and I noticed there was a dog out there. That's what I heard was a dog.
DR. CRAWFORD: Okay.
MR. BRYANT: It was running loose. And that's when I noticed the sliding glass door.
DR. CRAWFORD: What was going on in your mind?
MR. BRYANT: I just thought, you know, I found it kind of weird nobody would answer the door if they were home but, yet, the sliding glass door was open.
DR. CRAWFORD: Right.
MR. BRYANT: I mean, it was probably like cracked about that far apart.
DR. CRAWFORD: Okay.
MR. BRYANT: I just kind of peeked my head in and kind of said, hello, seeing if anybody was there. Nobody answered. I walked on in. I was thinking maybe somebody was hurt on the floor or anything.

DR. CRAWFORD: You thought someone was hurt on the floor?

MR. BRYANT: Hurt, you know, laying down.

DR. CRAWFORD: Okay. Because they weren't answering but the door was open.

MR. BRYANT: But the sliding glass door was open. That's what threw me off the whole time. I noticed there wasn't nobody there and I got to looking around.

DR. CRAWFORD: Okay.

MR. BRYANT: Old instincts kicked in and I hate myself for it.

DR. CRAWFORD: Old instincts meaning, I'm here.

MR. BRYANT: I mean, there ain't nobody here but I need some gas and I can't get that much further.

DR. CRAWFORD: So, what did you take?

MR. BRYANT: I took just a pistol.

DR. CRAWFORD: Okay. Was it just laying out there?

MR. BRYANT: It was laying on the side of the stand.

DR. CRAWFORD: On the side of what?

MR. BRYANT: Well, the bullets were laying on the side of the stand beside his bed. I seen a box of bullets there.

DR. CRAWFORD: Okay.

MR. BRYANT: I said, well, if he's got bullets, then there's a gun around here somewhere.

DR. CRAWFORD: Uh-huh.

MR. BRYANT: And I figured it would be right there under his mattress being that the bullets was right there by the bed. So, that's where it was at.

DR. CRAWFORD: Okay.

MR. BRYANT: I just took that and left.

DR. CRAWFORD: Why didn't you take anything else?

MR. BRYANT: I just, I was feeling bad when I was doing that. That's probably another reason why I left. I was starting to hate myself. Starting to resent it because I was doing it again.

DR. CRAWFORD: Okay. So, that was the first time since you'd been locked up that you had done anything like that?

MR. BRYANT: Yes.
DR. CRAWFORD: And that was, you said, two weeks ago?
MR. BRYANT: If that. I don't remember the exact date. In that time range.
DR. CRAWFORD: Okay. And so here you're noticing, here's my old ways coming out. And you felt bad. You felt like these are my evil ways or my bad ways. What did you do after that?
MR. BRYANT: I got in my truck and I drove down the street.
DR. CRAWFORD: Uh-huh.
MR. BRYANT: I noticed a game warden parked along side of a dirt road.
DR. CRAWFORD: A what now?
MR. BRYANT: A game warden.
DR. CRAWFORD: Uh-huh.
MR. BRYANT: I forget his name. He was in a truck with a trailer. And on that little small trailer was a four wheeler. I noticed there was a big gas container in the back of his truck.
And I talked to him and I told him I was in a real bind right now. And I didn't have any money and was low on gas, if he could help me out. It was a five gallon gas jug he had, he had just filled it up and filled everything up. And he gave it to me.

DR. CRAWFORD: Okay. Did you know him?

MR. BRYANT: No. I didn't know him. But he was nice enough to give me the gas, to help me out. And after that I went home.

DR. CRAWFORD: Okay. When did the next thing happen? Did your thoughts -- you had the gun, is that when your thoughts started going to darkness?

MR. BRYANT: Yeah.

DR. CRAWFORD: Tell me what the thoughts were, what was going through your head?

MR. BRYANT: It was like I was thinking, maybe it's time now for the people to see -- for the people who done to me what they done to me to see what they cost.

DR. CRAWFORD: Uh-huh.

MR. BRYANT: But I did not realize that it would go to the extent it did.

DR. CRAWFORD: Had you thought about that before, ever before, years ago?

MR. BRYANT: No.
DR. CRAWFORD: Never. So, here you are -- when you took the gun were you thinking about that?
MR. BRYANT: No, I wasn't.
DR. CRAWFORD: So, was it that same day you started having those thoughts?
MR. BRYANT: The next day after I had the gun.
DR. CRAWFORD: Is that when you started thinking, I'm going to show them what they done to me? What kind of thoughts were in your mind about what you were going to do?
MR. BRYANT: I was thinking it was time to resurrect some old memories to see if anybody remembers them.
DR. CRAWFORD: You were thinking it was time -- say that again.
MR. BRYANT: Resurrect some old memories and see if anybody remembers them.
DR. CRAWFORD: How would you do that?
MR. BRYANT: That I wasn't too sure of at the time.
DR. CRAWFORD: What kind of thoughts did you have?

MR. BRYANT: I thought about -- I thought about once going to the police.

DR. CRAWFORD: Thought about going to police.

MR. BRYANT: Once I thought about it.

DR. CRAWFORD: Okay. And saying what to the police?

MR. BRYANT: Reach out for help. Because at the time I was reaching out for help but they were the last people I reached out to. But then again, I knew they couldn't do nothing for me because that was just the police department.

DR. CRAWFORD: What were you going to say to them? Did you fantasize about what you'd say to them?

MR. BRYANT: Just what I'm telling you.

DR. CRAWFORD: You mean, all the things that had happened to you?

MR. BRYANT: Yeah. I'm trying to get this out of me.

DR. CRAWFORD: I know.

MR. BRYANT: That's what I wanted to do. That's all I wanted to do.

DR. CRAWFORD: I know. So, one of the things was thinking about going to the police. What else did you think about?

MR. BRYANT: I thought about going back to see them, try to make them see differently somehow. I don't know. And how it came to be about (inaudible) I have no idea.

DR. CRAWFORD: Right.

MR. BRYANT: I don't know.

DR. CRAWFORD: It just kind of unfolded in front of you?

MR. BRYANT: Yeah.

DR. CRAWFORD: Did you think about going to them with the gun and, you know, taking it out on the people that had done this to you?

MR. BRYANT: Not with a gun. I thought about just going there and making them see what they'd done to me.

DR. CRAWFORD: Okay. How would you do that?

MR. BRYANT: Talk to them. I know if I told my father about it, I know I'd probably wind up fighting him.

DR. CRAWFORD: Uh-huh.

MR. BRYANT: Because he wouldn't want to listen to it. He would think I'm fucking lying.

DR. CRAWFORD: Right. So, you knew you weren't going to get any --

MR. BRYANT: Closure or nothing. Not even the slightest comfort. Something I could sleep easily on.

DR. CRAWFORD: Right.

MR. BRYANT: And that's all I was wanting was something I could finally sleep easily on and just go on.

DR. CRAWFORD: Go on with your life.

MR. BRYANT: Yeah.

DR. CRAWFORD: What was the next thing that happened along these lines? I want to try to understand how it turned into what it turned into.

MR. BRYANT: I went down to river one day to do some fishing.

DR. CRAWFORD: When was that?

MR. BRYANT: Friday, I think.

DR. CRAWFORD: But between the time you got the gun and Friday what was going on in your head? What?

MR. BRYANT: I never really thought much about the gun.

DR. CRAWFORD: You didn't really think much about the gun.

MR. BRYANT: I didn't really think about killing anybody. I really didn't think about using it on anybody.

DR. CRAWFORD: I got you.

MR. BRYANT: I had a couple thoughts of selling it and getting some money out of it or something. But that was about it.

DR. CRAWFORD: So, then you go down to the river on Friday.

MR. BRYANT: I was going to do some fishing. There was two black guys down there where I like to do a lot brim fishing at, bass fishing. There was two black guys there. I just waited around a while for -- to see if they were done or anything. But one of them finally left. So, I went back down in there.

DR. CRAWFORD: Uh-huh.

MR. BRYANT: And seen what it looked like at the other sites, end of the banks.

DR. CRAWFORD: Right.

MR. BRYANT: And there was this one black guy asking me, you ain't one of these racist motherfuckers, redneck motherfuckers who like to call people niggers are you.

DR. CRAWFORD: Uh-huh. He just out of the blue asked you that?
MR. BRYANT: Yeah.
DR. CRAWFORD: Okay.
MR. BRYANT: I don't know -- from what I gathered the way he said it, I gather he had some type of run-in or some type of problems with another person down there before. I don't know.
DR. CRAWFORD: Okay. Did he seem afraid of you?
MR. BRYANT: No. He didn't seem afraid of me. He felt very dominant by the way he was talking.
DR. CRAWFORD: Okay. What happened then?
MR. BRYANT: I looked at him and I said, no, man, I ain't. I ain't racist whatsoever.
DR. CRAWFORD: Uh-huh. What happened then?
MR. BRYANT: I'm not sure what happened. It's like before each one of them, I'm not sure what happened because it's like I go into a different place.
DR. CRAWFORD: Okay. Try the best you can, any glimpses. You may not remember the whole thing but any glimpses of what happened.

MR. BRYANT: I remember me going -- reaching for my gun because I had it on me.

DR. CRAWFORD: Uh-huh.

MR. BRYANT: But I don't remember shooting him.

DR. CRAWFORD: Okay. Did you shoot him in the back, in the face?

MR. BRYANT: I don't know.

DR. CRAWFORD: So, was he yelling this at you and then you shoot him or was it afterwards? Do the best you can.

MR. BRYANT: I'm thinking it was some kind of argument between us before I shot him. I'm not sure.

DR. CRAWFORD: Okay.

MR. BRYANT: I'm thinking there is. I can't be positive. I'm thinking we got in an argument about something. I'm thinking maybe he said something I didn't like and I got smart with him or I said something he didn't like and I got smart with him or he got smart with me.

DR. CRAWFORD: Uh-huh.

MR. BRYANT: I think tempers just rose up is all.

DR. CRAWFORD: Uh-huh.

MR. BRYANT: And I don't know.

DR. CRAWFORD: And you shot him. And what did you do then?

MR. BRYANT: I felt real bad for what I'd done.

DR. CRAWFORD: You felt sad?

MR. BRYANT: I got in my truck and I started driving home. And I was crying the whole -- crying home.

DR. CRAWFORD: Did you feel -- you know how you were saying the cats were afraid of you and all that? Did you feel like something evil came out of you? Do you remember feeling hatred, feeling I'm on top now? I mean, those kinds of things.

MR. BRYANT: I just felt really bad, really low.

DR. CRAWFORD: Did you know if he was dead or not?

MR. BRYANT: No, I did not. I don't even know if he lived or not.

DR. CRAWFORD: Okay. So, you're feeling really low and you drove home?

MR. BRYANT: Yes.
DR. CRAWFORD: And what did you do at home?
MR. BRYANT: I sat there and started smoking some weed, turned up the music and try to drown it out and just try and forget about it, what happened. I mean ---
DR. CRAWFORD: What music were you listening to? What kind of music do you listen to?
MR. BRYANT: Mostly country.
DR. CRAWFORD: Country. So, you're trying to drown it out, smoking some weed. Then what happened?
MR. BRYANT: I remember falling asleep on the bed. I remember waking up. I remember cleaning the house up some. I remember going to the video store later that evening up there with my girlfriend. Because it was a in a pretty bad neighborhood to begin with at night. And I just wanted to be up there with her at night.
DR. CRAWFORD: So, you went to the video store.
MR. BRYANT: And just sat up there with her until closing time. And after closing time

I left with her and came home.
DR. CRAWFORD: Okay. Didn't tell her what happened? And what was going on in your mind?
MR. BRYANT: I was feeling guilty. I was feeling down.
DR. CRAWFORD: I mean, did you have a sense -- like, I remember you saying before this started, you were feeling like, I'm going to show them -- not I'm going to show them but I'm going to see if they remember and show them what this cost. Was that part of -- what the cost was in how they were treating you, was this part of that?
MR. BRYANT: It could have been.
DR. CRAWFORD: It's important to understand that. Now, how could it have been? Just whatever you're thinking. Tell me what's going on.
MR. BRYANT: I remember feeling resentment. I remember feeling hatred toward myself and towards people in my family.
DR. CRAWFORD: This is before you shot him or while you were shooting him?
MR. BRYANT: This is after.

DR. CRAWFORD: After. Okay.
MR. BRYANT: I felt like something I didn't want to be.
DR. CRAWFORD: Uh-huh. But did you have a sense, it's starting now?
MR. BRYANT: Somewhat.
DR. CRAWFORD: Okay. Tell me about that. Do you need another soda or do you need to go to the bathroom or anything?
MR. BRYANT: I just need something to drink. My mouth is dry.
DR. CRAWFORD: Okay. Are you sure you don't need to use the restroom?
MR. BRYANT: I'm sure.
DR. CRAWFORD: Because I think this was a long time coming.

We're starting the tape up again after a soda break.

So, you were saying that you felt some of the part of, now, they'll see what happened. I don't want to put words in your mouth. If I'm not getting this right, you make sure you tell me. But is it correct?
MR. BRYANT: Somewhat. I believe I may have felt just a little bit of that.

DR. CRAWFORD: A little bit of that. What did you guys do that night?

MR. BRYANT: Me and Judy, I think we went to Wal-mart that night. I'm not sure if we did or not. It's either Friday or Saturday night we went to Wal-Mart.

DR. CRAWFORD: Friday -- wasn't there some time you went down and fed the cats or something?

MR. BRYANT: That was what we did Friday night. We went down there and fed the cats. It was Saturday night we went to Wal-Mart.

DR. CRAWFORD: And was that near where this had happened?

MR. BRYANT: Yeah. It was right across, on the other side of the river from me.

DR. CRAWFORD: How did it feel going back there?

MR. BRYANT: Being around a place I didn't want to be no more. (inaudible) something inside of me I didn't want there no more.

DR. CRAWFORD: What did you feel inside you?

MR. BRYANT: Something mean and ugly.

DR. CRAWFORD: Tell me what that was like.

MR. BRYANT: It was like having no confidence at all in yourself.

DR. CRAWFORD: Uh-huh.

MR. BRYANT: It's like feeling every worst imaginable thing that you could feel about yourself about yourself.

DR. CRAWFORD: Uh-huh. Did part of you know that you would kill again?

MR. BRYANT: (Inaudible.)

DR. CRAWFORD: So, nothing in your mind Friday night said to you, this is a cycle, this is something that's started?

MR. BRYANT: Not as far as killing.

DR. CRAWFORD: Not as far killing. How about as far as anything else? Okay. Did you sleep Friday night?

MR. BRYANT: Very little.

DR. CRAWFORD: You fed the cats, went home. And one of the officers said that somebody talked to you about the shooting?

MR. BRYANT: Yeah. We got pulled over on the way out of there. They was pulling over anybody that came down in there.

DR. CRAWFORD: Okay. Did they talk to you much?

MR. BRYANT: No. They was just making routine stops just checking people out.

DR. CRAWFORD: Did you get nervous?

MR. BRYANT: Yes.

DR. CRAWFORD: Okay. What happened Saturday?

MR. BRYANT: They say that's the day I killed Cliff but I don't remember killing him.

DR. CRAWFORD: Okay. Just see what you can remember.

MR. BRYANT: I remember me going there.

DR. CRAWFORD: You remember going to see Cliff?

MR. BRYANT: Yeah. I remember --

DR. CRAWFORD: Why were you going over there?

MR. BRYANT: I usually see him every now and then to hook him up with some dope whenever he ask for it.

DR. CRAWFORD: Okay.

MR. BRYANT: I went over there to hook him up with some. And he said he was low on cash right now because his work ain't been too steady here lately.

DR. CRAWFORD: Uh-huh.

MR. BRYANT: So, I bought some of his stuff off of him, give him some cash.

DR. CRAWFORD: Now, how did you have cash?

MR. BRYANT: From my girlfriend.

DR. CRAWFORD: Uh-huh.

MR. BRYANT: Not only that, I had just got through doing some work for somebody and I came across some money.

DR. CRAWFORD: So, you were going to buy some stuff off him?

MR. BRYANT: Yeah.

DR. CRAWFORD: And what happened?

MR. BRYANT: We was sitting around listening to the radio for a little while. Just, he was drinking and he was smoking weed. And I don't drink. So, I was just smoking weed.

DR. CRAWFORD: Did it bother you he was drinking?

MR. BRYANT: No.

DR. CRAWFORD: Okay. And you all were getting along?

MR. BRYANT: Yeah. We've always gotten along.

DR. CRAWFORD: And then what happened?

MR. BRYANT: I remember leaving his house but I don't remember him leaving with me. I don't remember us going down on the dirt road together.

DR. CRAWFORD: Okay. So, you remember leaving his house?

MR. BRYANT: Yeah.

DR. CRAWFORD: But you don't remember him going with you?

MR. BRYANT: I swear I don't.

DR. CRAWFORD: Okay. Do you remember saying, I'll see you later or what do you remember exactly?

MR. BRYANT: I always tell him, I'll get back up with you later, Bo. That's what I always tell everybody, I'll get back up with you later, Bo --

DR. CRAWFORD: But is it like you remember saying that and leaving or you're having trouble remembering?

MR. BRYANT: It's like I remember saying that and leaving. But what I have trouble remembering is actually him getting in the truck with me and going down the dirt road and me killing him. That I don't remember at all.

DR. CRAWFORD: Okay.
MR. BRYANT: I don't know.
DR. CRAWFORD: Do you remember any parts of that?
MR. BRYANT: Huh-uh. That's what confuses the hell out of me right now. This is what's troubling me the most right now, is he wound up dead and I was with him. But I don't remember killing him.
DR. CRAWFORD: Let's try and piece it together. Did you black out?
MR. BRYANT: I don't remember.
DR. CRAWFORD: I mean, do you remember -- is it like -- people describe, like they can tell there's a piece of time missing. They can't remember what happened but they can tell there's a piece of time missing.
MR. BRYANT: It's like I remember everything that happened that day. But it's like, it's just the one thing I can't remember is what happened. The one thing that did happen, I can't fucking remember it. And it would seem like I would remember something like that.
DR. CRAWFORD: Yeah.

MR. BRYANT: But after doing what I've done, it makes me wonder if I did do it.
DR. CRAWFORD: Okay. Tell me why it makes you wonder. What about that?
MR. BRYANT: Because if I'm capable of doing it one time then, damn it, I'm capable of doing it again.
DR. CRAWFORD: Okay. How would you feel if you had done that to him?
MR. BRYANT: I'd feel pretty damn bad because he was a good friend of mine. And he's got two damn sons that I know -- he always made sure them damn boys was all right.
DR. CRAWFORD: Okay. So, he was a good friend of yours?
MR. BRYANT: Yeah.
DR. CRAWFORD: Do you remember a well of anger coming up; do you remember feeling not like yourself?
MR. BRYANT: No. Because I've always had a good feeling around Cliff. I mean, sure he may drink and everything, but he ain't a natural drunk by choice or anything. He don't drink to get drunk. He don't walk around drunk or staggered or anything.

That's one thing I liked about him. He didn't drink to that extent. But I've always had an easy feeling around him. It's like -- it was just like he was a good friend.

DR. CRAWFORD: Just a good friend. He didn't come on to you?

MR. BRYANT: No.

DR. CRAWFORD: Nothing like that. Has he ever come on to you?

MR. BRYANT: No.

DR. CRAWFORD: So, you remember leaving the house and where did you go?

MR. BRYANT: If I'm not mistaken, I went to stop by the McDonald's right there in Pinewood. I remember getting me a number three, double quarter pounder. But I remember going home.

DR. CRAWFORD: Right.

MR. BRYANT: And then what I usually do during the day when I ain't working, just sit back and smoke a couple; get the radio going; clean the house up and get it taken care of before I just be lazy for the rest of the day.

DR. CRAWFORD: Okay. Is it something that you feel that like you couldn't tolerate thinking that you've done and so you block out? I mean, is this --

MR. BRYANT: That would be a logical explanation but I don't know.

DR. CRAWFORD: You don't know. You don't even have glimmers of it.

MR. BRYANT: I don't even have a slight visual image of it.

DR. CRAWFORD: All right. So, you think you may not have done that?

MR. BRYANT: In some ways, I think so. But in other ways, it makes me wonder because they say I've done it. It's the same type of gun that killed him or whatever. But I just don't remember doing it. And I damn sure don't remember setting his house on fire.

DR. CRAWFORD: All right. Do you -- have you ever had times when you do things, don't remember and people tell you you've done them later?

MR. BRYANT: No. I never had anything like that growing up.

DR. CRAWFORD: You never had blackouts?
MR. BRYANT: Huh-uh.
DR. CRAWFORD: Okay. So, that's Saturday. When did you find out he'd been shot?
MR. BRYANT: A couple days later when I read it in the paper.
DR. CRAWFORD: Okay. So, you didn't know Saturday?
MR. BRYANT: Huh-uh.
DR. CRAWFORD: What did you do the rest of Saturday?
MR. BRYANT: I remember going home, smoking me a couple joints. I mean, it was probably -- I mean, if I smoke a couple joints, it takes me about an hour. Because I smoke one and wait another 30 minutes before I smoke another one before I actually clean up and get going and everything. Because I just take a moment to relax myself before I get cleaning up. Because I don't like cleaning up but I do it anyway.
DR. CRAWFORD: Uh-huh.
MR. BRYANT: I remember smoking me a couple of them, turning the music on AOL and getting it, listening to music. And I remember cleaning up. I remember taking me a nap some time that afternoon. I remember setting the alarm to wake me up about a couple hours later. I remember when I got up, I went down to the video store for a while to be with Judy, that's what I normally do at nights.

DR. CRAWFORD: Uh-huh.

MR. BRYANT: We didn't get out of there until about 11, if I'm not mistaken. I think we went to Wal-Mart that night. I'm not sure if we did or not. There was one night we went to Wal-Mart. But I can't remember what night it was we went to Wal-Mart.

DR. CRAWFORD: That's fine.

MR. BRYANT: And that's about it.

DR. CRAWFORD: Went home and went to bed.

MR. BRYANT: Yeah.

DR. CRAWFORD: Sleep that night?

MR. BRYANT: I don't know if I did or not. I can't remember.

DR. CRAWFORD: And how were feeling during the day Saturday?

MR. BRYANT: I was feeling pretty regular, like I regular, normally would as of here lately.

DR. CRAWFORD: Uh-huh. Meaning, not bad, not good but like what?

MR. BRYANT: I mean, I still felt down and everything. Because I been feeling down here for a while here lately. But other than that, I felt pretty good.

DR. CRAWFORD: And then tell me about Sunday. What time did you wake up?

MR. BRYANT: I don't know what time I woke up Sunday. It would have had to have been after -- it would have had to have been after 11:00 or 12:00 because my girlfriend didn't open up the video store until after 12:00 on Sunday.

DR. CRAWFORD: Okay.

MR. BRYANT: I know it was after that time, I woke up. Because I woke up with her. I mean, I was laying there for a little while but I was already awake. I just got on up when she had got on up. I just laid there and watched her sleep.

DR. CRAWFORD: What did you do Sunday?

MR. BRYANT: You know, I don't remember much. I'm trying to think what I did do that Sunday. I don't know if I went and done a little fishing that day or not. I think I done went fishing that Sunday.

DR. CRAWFORD: You think you did go fishing?

MR. BRYANT: I think I did go fishing Sunday.

DR. CRAWFORD: Okay.

MR. BRYANT: I think I did go fishing Sunday.

DR. CRAWFORD: What else did you do?

MR. BRYANT: I remember -- I don't remember much about Sunday. In fact, I did do some fishing. In fact, I stayed most of Sunday. I think, I did -- yeah, I did. Most of that Sunday, I stayed with Judy up there at the store. Most of that day, yeah, I did. I stayed up there with her until closing time that day.

DR. CRAWFORD: Okay.

MR. BRYANT: I'm pretty sure I did.

DR. CRAWFORD: And then Sunday -- but none of the sort of evil feelings, none of that stuff was coming out? You weren't feeling like -- were you thinking about that I need to show people. I need to show them what I need -- I mean, what they did to me or anything like that?

MR. BRYANT: No.

DR. CRAWFORD: So, Sunday was pretty normal more or less?

MR. BRYANT: If I'm not mistaken, I have to talk to Judy to be sure, I think Sunday was a pretty damn good day for us in a while.

DR. CRAWFORD: How come?

MR. BRYANT: Because I think, I don't -- because we sat down -- I don't know, it's just like we talked and talked for hours that day, which is something we ain't done in a long time. And we just felt real good about each other that day. I mean, we spent most of that day in each other's presence if I'm not mistaken.

DR. CRAWFORD: When did you wake up Monday?

MR. BRYANT: I woke up early that day for some strange reason. I don't know something -- I don't know if it was a bad dream or what. Something woke me up. I woke up, straight up in bed.

DR. CRAWFORD: Uh-huh.

MR. BRYANT: I remember having sweat all over my forehead and all over my body. I was hot but it was cool in the house (inaudible) got me a glass of drink, smoked me a cigarette. I remember laying back down for a little bit.

DR. CRAWFORD: Uh-huh.

MR. BRYANT: I remember getting up and going for a ride.

DR. CRAWFORD: Okay.

MR. BRYANT: My truck starts overheating or something. I don't know exactly what the hell happened to it.

DR. CRAWFORD: Okay.

MR. BRYANT: The gauge on it (inaudible).

DR. CRAWFORD: Right.

MR. BRYANT: So, I got out, popped my hood and (inaudible).

DR. CRAWFORD: What time was this about?

MR. BRYANT: This was early in the morning. Probably about 9:30, 10:00. Somewhere in there. I remember feeling the engine and it was pretty hot.

DR. CRAWFORD: Uh-huh.

MR. BRYANT: But I've always had some kind of electrical problems with that engine. Ever since they put that engine in that truck, it ain't been fit to run.

DR. CRAWFORD: Uh-huh.

MR. BRYANT: So, I remember getting in my truck and rolling me up a joint and smoking one. That's when I noticed there was a mailbox right down the street there on the left side. So, I figured there must be a house somewhere right in there. So, I looked and sure enough there was a house sitting off in the woods right there. I did not know it was there.

DR. CRAWFORD: Okay.

MR. BRYANT: I went up, knocked on the door. This guy came to the door. And I told him my truck was overheating.

DR. CRAWFORD: Okay.

MR. BRYANT: We walked out there and he looked at it. And he thought it might be the same thing. As a matter of fact, I remember now, me asking him to give me a ride to my house.

DR. CRAWFORD: Uh-huh.

MR. BRYANT: I just now remember me asking him to give me a ride to my house. But I remember him telling me he couldn't because the wiring harness or something in his ignition was messed up.

DR. CRAWFORD: The what now?

MR. BRYANT: The wiring harness or something in his ignition in his truck. He said something about muskrats got up underneath it and messed the wiring up or something. I'm just now remembering that.

DR. CRAWFORD: Okay. That's good.

MR. BRYANT: And he couldn't. So, I used his cellphone. I called the house. I asked him could I use his cell phone. He let me call the house but Judy had done left for work.

DR. CRAWFORD: Okay.

MR. BRYANT: And there was nobody else I could call at that time of day. And as I was in his house looking -- I was noticing as I was looking around there was a lot of masonic.

DR. CRAWFORD: A lot of what?

MR. BRYANT: Masonic stuff in there.

DR. CRAWFORD: Okay. Are you a mason?

MR. BRYANT: No. I just know a lot about that stuff.

DR. CRAWFORD: All right.

MR. BRYANT: And then like I said, I was getting ready to talk to him. Because I've always been pretty deep in the knowledge and wanting to learn it and understand it and all that.

DR. CRAWFORD: Uh-huh.

MR. BRYANT: We got to talking about a lot of things dealing with masonic, dealing with different religions, from the Bible, to the Koran, to Buddhism, to (inaudible) all that stuff. We was talking about everything, about everything dealing with religion and spirituality.

DR. CRAWFORD: Uh-huh.

MR. BRYANT: And I'm like damn, this is the first mason I've ever met who will actually talk a little freely about the crap.

DR. CRAWFORD: Uh-huh.

MR. BRYANT: And that's what kind of surprised me. But I liked it, though. It was someone I could talk to and it was someone who had the same interests as me, you know.

DR. CRAWFORD: Uh-huh.

MR. BRYANT: We talked for a couple hours. And somewhere along the lines, it seemed -- and I'm remembering -- something about some kind of pornography about how he likes them -- he was saying how he wished he was my age again because he likes them young.

Then he got to talking about the pornography and there's all kind of different web sites on his computer, if I'm not mistaken. I'm not sure. I'm just now remembering this.

DR. CRAWFORD: That's fine. Just whatever comes to you. So, he started talking about some pornography web-sites he had?

MR. BRYANT: Yeah.

DR. CRAWFORD: Okay.

MR. BRYANT: And somehow I remember -- I'm thinking it was afterwards that he was there. That I had somehow gotten on his computer and actually seen it for myself what all there was.

DR. CRAWFORD: Okay.

MR. BRYANT: And there was actually a picture taken on his computer under saved history from where he looked at from where a girl was fucking a horse.

DR. CRAWFORD: Uh-huh.

MR. BRYANT: And that really disturbed me.

DR. CRAWFORD: Uh-huh. That was after he was dead?

MR. BRYANT: If I'm not mistaken. I'm pretty sure it was.

DR. CRAWFORD: How long did you spend over there?

MR. BRYANT: We talked for a good two hours.

DR. CRAWFORD: Okay.

MR. BRYANT: So ---

DR. CRAWFORD: And so what happened?

MR. BRYANT: I'm getting up to use the bathroom -- I asked where his bathroom was, could I use the bathroom. He asked me what I wanted to use the bathroom for. I told him I had to take a leak. And then he sat down like he had a problem with that from me. About the last couple hours as we was talking, he act like he was getting agitated in the way I was talking. Like I was knowing stuff about the masons I shouldn't know.

DR. CRAWFORD: Uh-huh.

MR. BRYANT: Because, I mean, I was feeling high at the time and I was feeling good. And I was freely talking about what I know because I felt like I was -- I felt pretty comfortable talking about it with him. Because he was talking pretty comfortable about it with me. But it seemed like the more I talked about it, he would get agitated.

Because I would be -- I was sitting here and doing signs and shit with him about the masonic crap and everything. And he was, like wanted to know how I knew all that. But it's just something I've always been around.

DR. CRAWFORD: Right.

MR. BRYANT: And he seemed to get agitated by that. But anyway, when I got up to use the bathroom, he hit me on the back of my head. And I still got to knot back here.

DR. CRAWFORD: Uh-huh.

MR. BRYANT: And he almost knocked me out.

I remember turning around and looking and I was staggering a little bit because he caught me by surprise. And he was coming at me. And he was just coming after me. And I just reached under my shirt and grabbed the gun.

DR. CRAWFORD: And what happened?

MR. BRYANT: You know, it's like, I remember me reaching for the gun. But it's like, I don't remember nothing past there.

DR. CRAWFORD: Okay.

MR. BRYANT: I mean, it's just -- I don't know.

DR. CRAWFORD: Do you remember pieces of what happened?

MR. BRYANT: I remember me, I remember after he was dead -- now, I know this because I remember this.

DR. CRAWFORD: Okay.

MR. BRYANT: I remember me seeing all the white candles they had in their house. I remember me putting them on the coffee table I was scattering them. I'm not sure.

DR. CRAWFORD: Uh-huh.

MR. BRYANT: I remember me lighting a bunch of white candles to pray his spirit and to put it -- and to bring him at peace.

DR. CRAWFORD: Okay.

MR. BRYANT: Bring his spirit and his soul at peace because white brings out the purity and the innocence in us all.

DR. CRAWFORD: Uh-huh.

MR. BRYANT: It's very symbolic. And I remember praying for him. And I remember me getting down on my knees and sitting right there watching him. And I prayed for him. I don't know why he done it. I don't know if I said something I shouldn't have said or what.

DR. CRAWFORD: Okay. What about the writings and stuff?

MR. BRYANT: No. I don't know about the writings.

DR. CRAWFORD: I mean, you've got to remember something about that.

MR. BRYANT: It seems like I remember something about me writing something down on paper, but I'm not sure.

DR. CRAWFORD: Do the best you can. It's very important in understanding your state of mind at the time. About the writings or on the walls or whatever. Very important.

MR. BRYANT: I'm in a room. The candles are lit. I'm laying down beside his body praying for him. Because I felt so bad. I felt so horrible at what I'd done.

I remember thinking, how could such a mind with such knowledge and understanding and being what he is in the brotherhood and yet, not actually be true to himself or to his fellow brothers.

DR. CRAWFORD: Uh-huh.

MR. BRYANT: By having such lust or desires when it comes to -- when it comes to his sexual side.

DR. CRAWFORD: Uh-huh.

MR. BRYANT: It seems like I wrote something down about that. I'm not sure. About the sexual side of him.

DR. CRAWFORD: Uh-huh. But you didn't know about that until after you looked on the computer? Oh, no, he talked to you about that?

MR. BRYANT: Yeah.

DR. CRAWFORD: What do you see when you think about this about the walls and what was on the walls? Very important to understand.

MR. BRYANT: On the walls?

DR. CRAWFORD: Uh-huh.

MR. BRYANT: I just don't remember nothing on the walls. I don't.

DR. CRAWFORD: Are you sure about that? I mean, from what happened before in your life, it seems connected with this. Maybe I'm wrong about that.

MR. BRYANT: If I wrote something on the walls, I don't remember it.

DR. CRAWFORD: You don't remember anything about that?

MR. BRYANT: It seems like I remember writing something down on paper but I can't remember it.

DR. CRAWFORD: Do you remember being angry at him, wanting to do things to his body?

MR. BRYANT: I wish I could tell you.

DR. CRAWFORD: Do the best you can. Because I have to be able to try to explain how this all ties together.

MR. BRYANT: It seems like I remember something, writing something down on paper about some kind of, about his (inaudible) ways, but ---

DR. CRAWFORD: Did you do anything to his body?

(Tape ended.)

DR. CRAWFORD: This is tape number two, Stephen Corey Bryant.

We were talking about his body and what you did. You were thinking why you did it. What's most important to me is what the heck is going on in your head while you're doing this stuff.

MR. BRYANT: It seems like I remember something, something about -- I see myself putting my hands over him or something. I'm trying to remember.

DR. CRAWFORD: Uh-huh.

MR. BRYANT: I did smoke -- I did smoke weed while I was in there.

DR. CRAWFORD: Okay.

MR. BRYANT: That was something I wasn't too sure of. But I'm sure of it now.

DR. CRAWFORD: That's fine. It's coming back to you.

MR. BRYANT: I did smoke a joint in there. It was one I already had rolled up in my cigarette pack.

DR. CRAWFORD: Uh-huh. After he was dead, you smoked it?

MR. BRYANT: Uh-huh. I mean, I think I did anyway. I'm pretty sure I did, I'm not sure.

DR. CRAWFORD: You're not sure?

MR. BRYANT: I'm not sure if I smoked one in there or not. I'm thinking I did.

DR. CRAWFORD: Okay.

MR. BRYANT: There was something about his eyes, wasn't it?

DR. CRAWFORD: How do you know that?

MR. BRYANT: I'm seeing his eyes. I'm seeing my hands go over his eyes for something.

DR. CRAWFORD: Did anybody tell you that, that there was something about his eyes?

MR. BRYANT: No. I'm seeing myself in my mind. I'm seeing myself reaching over his eyes for something.

DR. CRAWFORD: Okay. So, none of the police officers told you anything about his eyes?

MR. BRYANT: No.
DR. CRAWFORD: Okay.
MR. BRYANT: I'm tying to remember what I done. I mean, it was something about his eyes. I'm trying to remember.
DR. CRAWFORD: Okay.
MR. BRYANT: I mean, was there something done to his eyes?
DR. CRAWFORD: Uh-huh.
MR. BRYANT: I'm remembering an old Bible verse, a part out of the Bible in the Old Testament.
DR. CRAWFORD: Okay.
MR. BRYANT: I'm remembering saying to myself, after I have looked at these pictures that I had to see for myself that he talked about he looked on his computer. I'm pretty sure now he was dead when I looked on his computer.
DR. CRAWFORD: Uh-huh.
MR. BRYANT: I'm pretty sure of it now. If eyes go stray, poke them out.
DR. CRAWFORD: Uh-huh.
MR. BRYANT: Okay.
DR. CRAWFORD: So, you remember thinking that?

MR. BRYANT: I remember thinking that. I'm thinking I did think that. Because I remember it was a quote out the Old Testament. Something about lust. Something about his fucking eyes. I'm trying to remember.

I see myself going across his eyes with my hand. But I'm trying to remember what it was about or what I done. I'm not sure. I remember saying to myself as I got through, done praying for him, if the eyes go stray, poke them out.

DR. CRAWFORD: I'm sorry?

MR. BRYANT: If the eyes go stray, poke them out.

DR. CRAWFORD: Did you poke his eyes out?

MR. BRYANT: I don't know if I did or not. I might have poked his eyes out. I might have, I might have pulled his eyes out. I don't know. I see myself reaching over his eyes for something.

DR. CRAWFORD: What did you poke them out with?

MR. BRYANT: I don't see nothing but my hand. And I don't think I pulled his eyes out or poked them out with my hand. I just remember seeing my hand like it was just reaching over his face above his eyes for something. I'm trying to remember.

DR. CRAWFORD: That's fine. You're doing real well.

MR. BRYANT: God. I poked his eyes, didn't I?

DR. CRAWFORD: You did something to his eyes.

MR. BRYANT: I didn't poke them out?

DR. CRAWFORD: I'm not exactly sure what you did. But you did do something. You did harm his eyes. And the reason -- I'm not trying to play games with you. I want to know what you remember. You know, what I'm saying? I want to know what was going on in your mind. I don't want to put things in your head. I want you to figure this out.

MR. BRYANT: The only thing I can see myself with me saying that scripture and me thinking or feeling what I saw, was me pulling his eyes out or poking them out somehow.

DR. CRAWFORD: Okay.

MR. BRYANT: That's the only thing I can think of.

DR. CRAWFORD: Now, my understanding is it's something to do with putting a joint out in his eyes or something. Does that ring a bell to you?

MR. BRYANT: A joint?

DR. CRAWFORD: Or a cigarette or something.

MR. BRYANT: Cigarette. It might have been. I don't know. It could be.

DR. CRAWFORD: Does that sound right to you? I don't want to put words in your mouth, honey.

MR. BRYANT: It don't -- I don't know. I might have.

DR. CRAWFORD: Okay. And then did you write in his blood? Did you draw something on him in his blood.

MR. BRYANT: Did I draw something on him in his blood?

DR. CRAWFORD: Uh-huh.

MR. BRYANT: I can't imagine what it would be if I did.

DR. CRAWFORD: Do you remember anything about that?

MR. BRYANT: I don't remember me writing anything in blood. I wish I did.

DR. CRAWFORD: Okay. Were you thinking thoughts about your family when this was going on, about what had been done to you?

MR. BRYANT: No. But somehow I'm feeling that afterwards I -- I really -- it seems like I felt ill about myself or something. I don't ---

DR. CRAWFORD: Okay. Now, were you having flashbacks during this, of your family?

MR. BRYANT: Somehow I'm getting flashbacks now.

DR. CRAWFORD: What kind of flashbacks?

MR. BRYANT: After he was dead.

DR. CRAWFORD: You're getting flashbacks now of after he was dead?

MR. BRYANT: After he was dead, I was -- it was like I was thinking about all those pictures and shit that I seen. It was like I felt a little bit of, I don't know.

DR. CRAWFORD: A little bit of?

MR. BRYANT: I don't know.

DR. CRAWFORD: Go ahead.

MR. BRYANT: It was like something having all these (inaudible) and shit.

DR. CRAWFORD: Uh-huh.

MR. BRYANT: (Inaudible) just memories of what happened to me. It was like a flashback for me or something seeing those pictures.

DR. CRAWFORD: Okay. What kind of flashback?

MR. BRYANT: Of what my grandfather done to me.

DR. CRAWFORD: But you weren't having the flashbacks before you killed him?

MR. BRYANT: No.

DR. CRAWFORD: So, no flashbacks before you killed him but flashbacks afterwards?

MR. BRYANT: Yeah.

DR. CRAWFORD: Okay.

MR. BRYANT: It was like me just sitting there looking at the computer screen, seeing these fucking pictures. And looking at him and thinking there's no way this man could be looking at stuff like this.

DR. CRAWFORD: Uh-huh.

MR. BRYANT: But I felt, I felt really fucking down. Knowing it just wasn't one fucking person in this world like that but there's more of them out there.

DR. CRAWFORD: Now, his wife called the cell phone -- did you take the cell phone with you?

MR. BRYANT: I don't remember nothing about a cell phone afterwards. I don't remember taking his cell phone. I don't remember talking on his cell phone.

DR. CRAWFORD: Okay.

MR. BRYANT: I mean, I don't remember being there shortly after. It's just like I told the investigators, if they talked to somebody on the cell phone, then there had to have been somebody else there afterwards. Because I don't ever remember ever even using his cell phone.

DR. CRAWFORD: Is it possible you forgot? I mean, because they'll be able to match it up with your voice.

MR. BRYANT: I don't know. It's possible. There's still things I can't remember, so I can't rule it out.

DR. CRAWFORD: Okay. So, it's possible you had the cell phone?

MR. BRYANT: It's possible. I don't know. I doubt it.

DR. CRAWFORD: You doubt it. Okay. Where did you go afterwards? What happened afterwards?

MR. BRYANT: I remember me going home.

DR. CRAWFORD: Okay. What did you do at home?

MR. BRYANT: I remember me sitting in the bath and just taking me a long hot bath and trying to get relaxed. Trying to get all this shit out of me. I was screaming. I was crying. I was so alone and scared.

DR. CRAWFORD: What were you scared of?

MR. BRYANT: Scared of what happened to me growing up happening to somebody else. Scared of that, this thing inside of me.

DR. CRAWFORD: What's inside of you?

MR. BRYANT: This fucking resentment. This anger. These memories. It's time for them to come out. I need them out of me.

DR. CRAWFORD: Did they come out of you on this man? Did they come out of you on the man by the fishing? Was that the anger and resentment coming out of you?

MR. BRYANT: Could have been.

DR. CRAWFORD: Or on your friend?

MR. BRYANT: Could have been.

DR. CRAWFORD: When you say it could have, what do you mean, it could have?

MR. BRYANT: Because I was feeling a lot of mixed emotions right then. I know I was feeling anger. I know I was feeling resentment. I know I was feeling down.

DR. CRAWFORD: Uh-huh.

MR. BRYANT: I know I felt pushed over the edge. It's like I reached out and nobody was there and here I am.

DR. CRAWFORD: What I see is this series of events of just this rage coming out of you from all the abuse and all the shit you went through. That's when the killings started, it's like the rage is flowing, is that right?

MR. BRYANT: Rage would be a correct word.

DR. CRAWFORD: Rage is a correct word. So, this series of events, I mean you're describing as sort of isolated incidents. Well, this guy said something bad to you.

You don't remember what happened to your friend. And then this guy in the house, you know, pushed you or hit you. I wonder if it's not all part of the same rage that you go on this rampage by killing people as this rage pushes out of you.

MR. BRYANT: No. Because I had no intentions of killing people.

DR. CRAWFORD: You never -- you mean, once it started, you had no intentions?

MR. BRYANT: I had no intentions. Just like the guy down at the landing when I went fishing, I had no intentions of doing what I did to him.

DR. CRAWFORD: No intentions of him; no intentions of your friend; no intentions of this guy?

MR. BRYANT: No.

DR. CRAWFORD: Okay.

MR. BRYANT: I mean, it was like ---

DR. CRAWFORD: You weren't counting? There's number one, there's number two there's number three, there's more coming. I mean, I've talked to a lot of people who have been in this situation, who have killed multiple people and they start, you know, were you counting?

MR. BRYANT: No.

DR. CRAWFORD: Okay. So, you go home. You're in the bathtub. You're scared.

MR. BRYANT: I'm screaming.

DR. CRAWFORD: You're screaming.

MR. BRYANT: Crying. Feeling alone. Holding myself.

DR. CRAWFORD: And your girlfriend, she wasn't home?

MR. BRYANT: She was at work.

DR. CRAWFORD: What did you do then?

MR. BRYANT: I remember just laying in that tub for a while, just holding myself. Just holding myself, crying the whole time. Got out and dried myself off but just fell down on the couch and went to sleep. I was so exhausted, tired.

DR. CRAWFORD: What time was this that you got home?

MR. BRYANT: It was daylight. I know that. It was in the evening, it was like ---

DR. CRAWFORD: How long do you think you spent at his house all together?

MR. BRYANT: About four, four or five hours.
DR. CRAWFORD: Why so long?
MR. BRYANT: I remember talking to him for like two hours.
DR. CRAWFORD: Uh-huh.
MR. BRYANT: I know I sat there and prayed for him for a while. I just sat there and knelt beside him and prayed for his fucking soul. I remember just sitting there crying for the longest.
DR. CRAWFORD: Okay. And so you were there about four or five hours. You went straight from there home?
MR. BRYANT: Yeah.
DR. CRAWFORD: What happens Monday night? You said you just went to sleep in the evening, when did you wake up?
MR. BRYANT: Monday night?
DR. CRAWFORD: This was Monday night, right you went to sleep?
MR. BRYANT: I went to sleep. I woke up, I couldn't sleep, I went for a ride.
DR. CRAWFORD: About what time? I mean, this is early Tuesday morning?
MR. BRYANT: Yeah. It was after 1:00 in the morning. That much, I'm thinking pretty much positive on. As far as exact time, I couldn't tell you.

DR. CRAWFORD: And you went for a ride, where did you go?

MR. BRYANT: I was just going out riding to get some fresh air on my face.

DR. CRAWFORD: Was your girlfriend home yet?

MR. BRYANT: Yeah. She was home. She was -- what was she doing? She was watching TV. She was watching a movie on TV. I told her I needed to go for a ride to get some fresh air on my face and I'd be back in a little bit.

DR. CRAWFORD: What happened on your ride?

MR. BRYANT: I stopped at the this little convenience store that was open. The only one that opened up in that little area at that time of night. I put $20 worth of gas in my truck. And I got me a pack of cigarettes. And there was a drunk down in there.

DR. CRAWFORD: Okay.

MR. BRYANT: I mean, he was talking to this lady behind the register which he said he
