S.C. SUPREME COURT

RE: Brandon v. The State
Appellate Case NO. 2019-000643
extension for Writ Certiorari

Dear Courts,

As I am currently being housed at Lee Correctional Institution, I am writing The Supreme Courts of South Carolina trying to keep my letters as professional and honest as possible. The extensions I have been given so far have been 30 day extensions. I have received mail just about on time if not a few days late concerning when the letter was dated. To move on the yard or gain access to movement to the mailroom an order to report is needed (OTR). That has been one of the reasons I have received letter late from the courts. A few day may not sound like they matter entirely to much, but it add up concerning I need to have these otr's to gain access to the legal library. The other problems come with being in a disciplinary unit and shortage of staff at the Institution. It may lead to receiving otr's at a later date or past the date when I'm being given access to movement on the Institute.

I have still got several cases I would like to add to my final copy of my writ, as I have a few more touches concerning typing it up, as well as get it signed by a notary of the Republic. I might have done a better job but I've never attended law school. My lawyer last did a half job because she believed I had no case. Since she asked to be removed as counsel I have been left to accomplish my case to show my proof. The courts have done an amazing job working with me on these extensions so far. If they could work with me on this one more extension id be thankful. Look forward to your response.

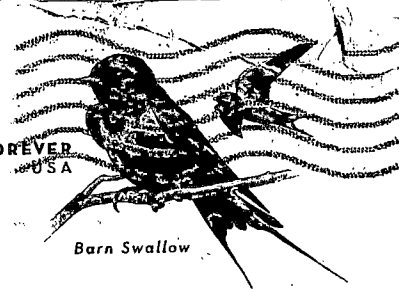

Sincerely

Brandon
Lefell
