Mr. Yeo,

I will accept this request but going forward any future motions for extension must be in a letter or formal motion. I'm also copying opposing counsel, as they need to be on all correspondence.

Respectfully,
Sierra

Hi Jeff,

Yes, I received your respondent's initial brief and it has been uploaded on our website.

As of this time, you can still file the final briefs via electronically or mail. If you file via mail, we only need the original and it must be unbound and unstapled. Covers may be white. The SC Supreme Court has not released an Amended Order since May 29, 2020 regarding the Appellate Courts and the Coronavirus Pandemic so we are still adhering to that order (<https://sccourts.org/whatsnew/displaywhatsnew.cfm?indexID=2505>).

Please let me know if there are any other questions.

Best,

Sierra

Sierra,

We filed the Respondents initial brief in this case today by email and got an email response that the filing was received.

Have there been any changes because of the pandemic in regard to the filing of the final briefs pursuant to rule 211?

Thank you.

Jeff

No, just one delivery method is needed.

Thank you. if I use one of the electronic filings, do I still need to mail it? (I know that rule 262 still requires mailing.)

Hi Jeff,

You are more than welcome to email the initial brief to ctappfilings@sccourts.org or file it via our One Drive location (access via AIS). You can still mail the brief and as long as it's mailed no later than the due date, it will be in compliance.

Best,

Sierra

Sierra,

As you have advised below, my brief in the above case is due July 13. With the pandemic going on and not being sure of whether the Court is open, I may just mail my initial brief instead of hand delivering it as I would normally do since I am in Lexington. Can I also fax it or email it under rule 262? Also, with the extended time to file, I want to make sure that mailing it on July 13 will be in compliance with the deadline. Please confirm.

Thank you.

Jeff

Mr. Anderson,

The respondent's initial brief is due June 22nd. Due to South Carolina Supreme Court Order dated March 20, an additional twenty days will also be added to that date and extended to July 13th.

Respectfully,

Sierra

Sierra,

Could I get some confirmation for when my time period begins as to filing my initial brief. I received an email from Mr. Yeo as to the record on appeal on Friday May 22.

Thank you.
