SC Court of Appeals

I am writing today to inquire as to what the status of my case is, and to gain clarity on a few questions that I have. My case has been in the South Carolina Court of Appeals for over a year and a half now, and there seems to be no progression. Every time that I call and speak with my caseworker Catlin, and I ask her what the status of my case is, she says that we are waiting on three Judges to decide if they want to see oral arguments, or if they are going to make a decision.

I have a deed that was executed by Solomon & Lawton on June 27, 1997. That deed states that I Yvette Cole, am the sole owner of the property located at 560 Sapp Blvd, SE Estill, SC 29918, Map Number 069-01-12-007. My questions to this court are as follows:

- (1) Is the deed that I have a valid deed?
- (2) If the deed I have is a valid deed, then what is the exact issue that is taking so long for the court to determine?

This case has been dragged out and I am confused because I cannot seem to get any straight answers as to what exactly is going on. I have respected this court's time and I would appreciate if mine was respected in return. I look forward to hearing from you as soon as possible. Thank you.
