STATEMENT OF THE CASE

On February 13, 2015, Respondents filed a construction defect lawsuit regarding a condominium project located on Peas Island, which is located near Folly Beach, Charleston County, South Carolina. [R.201-222 S&C 2/13/2015] The pleadings were revised several times and various defendants asserted crossclaims and third-party claims. [R.223-242 TCR Ans & 3rd-P Comp. 4/22/2015; R.243-252 Complete Ans 4/27/2015; R.253-262 Complete Ans & CC 7/22/2015; R.263-274 TCR Ans to Complete 8/5/2015; R.342-359 TCR Ans to Am. S&C 11/23/2016; R.360-371 Complete Ans to Am. S&C 11/29/2016; R.372-386 TCR Ans to Complete CC 12/16/2016; R.409-425 Novus Ans & CC 11/16/2017; R.426-446 TCR Ans to 2nd Am. S&C & CC 11/17/2017; R.447-456 TCR Ans to Novus CC 12/1/2017; R.457-469 Complete Ans to 2nd Am S&C & CC 12/11/2017; R.470-478 TCR Ans to Complete CC 4/18/2018] The Respondents' amended complaint was filed November 4, 2016 and the second amended complaint was filed November 2, 2017. [R.275-341 Am. S&C 11/4/2016; R.387-408 2nd Am S&C 11/2/2017] The case was tried before the Honorable Jennifer B. McCoy from May 6 through 16, 2019. Respondents settled with various defendants other than Appellant Tri-County Roofing, Inc. ("TCR") before, during, and after the case was tried. Thirty-three of the thirty-six defendants named in the caption participated in the lawsuit at some time. There were eight defendants at the start of trial and five when the case went to the jury for deliberations. In their pleadings and at trial, Respondents sought damages for repair costs, lost use claimed during the future repairs, and punitive damages.

On May 16, 2019, the jury returned a general verdict of $6.5M actual damages against four of the five defendants remaining at trial: Complete Building Corporation, the general contractor (hereinafter “Complete”); TCR, a prime subcontractor to Complete for siding, roofing, and balcony waterproofing; Eloy Alonzo Vasquez, a sub-subcontractor for roofing and waterproofing (hereinafter “Vasquez”); Miracle Siding, LLC and Wilson Lucas Sales d/b/a Miracle Siding, LLC, the sub-subcontractor that installed siding on seventeen of the twenty buildings (hereinafter “Miracle”); and W.C. Services, Inc., a prime subcontractor for fire sprinkler installation (hereinafter “W.C. Services”). [R.116-122 Form 4 filed 5/16/2019; R.1756-1760 Wk-2 Trans pp.836-840] The jury found Complete and TCR were grossly negligent and awarded $500k in punitive damages against them both. [Id.] The trial judge submitted Complete’s crossclaim for contractual indemnity to the jury. The jury awarded Complete $1,000 on its crossclaim against TCR. [Id.] The jury returned a defense verdict in favor of W.C. Services on both Respondents’ claims and Complete’s crossclaims. [Id.] After the initial jury verdict was returned, Vasquez and Miracle, which were found simply negligent, argued for a finding of their relative percentages of fault under Section 15-38-15 of the S.C. Contribution Among Tortfeasor’s Act. [R.1760-1782 Wk-2 Trans pp.840-862] The jury found that Vasquez and Miracle were each five percent (5.00%) responsible for the general verdict award. [Id.]

The trial judge gave the parties ten (10) days to file their post-trial motions. [R.1782 Wk-2 Trans p.862] After accounting for the weekend and holidays, TCR timely filed its post-trial motions on May 28, 2019. [R.525-545 TCR Post-Trial Motion 5/28/2019] TCR was the only defendant that filed post-trial motions because Complete, Vasquez, and Miracle entered into post-verdict settlements with Respondents. [R.1925-1939 Complete Settlement 6/6/2019; R.2065-2076 Miracle Siding Settlement 5/28/2019; R.2077-2088 Vasquez Settlement 5/28/2019] The post-trial motion hearing was held on Friday, June 7, 2019 where Complete, Vasquez, and Miracle confirmed their settlements with Respondents and Complete withdrew its crossclaims against TCR. [R.1809-1812 Post-T Hrg pp.24-27] The trial judge subsequently issued a Form 4 Order denying TCR's post-trial motions on July 23, 2019, which also allocated a portion of the settlement setoffs and reduced the total general verdict amount against TCR from $7M (actual plus punitive damages) to $5.33M. [R.166-167 Form Order 7/23/2019] On July 24, 2019, TCR received an electronic copy of the filed verdict form, which was retroactively file stamped on May 16, 2019, the last day of trial. [R.116-122 Form Order 5/16/2019]

TCR timely filed its motion to reconsider the Form 4 Order on August 5, 2019. [R.620-631 TCR 59(e) Motion 8/5/2019] Although TCR did not abandon any of its post-trial motions, TCR principally addressed setoff in its motion to reconsider. Respondents e-mailed a memorandum in opposition to the motion to reconsider on August 15, 2019.¹ [R.632-648 Plaintiff Memo 8/15/2019] TCR filed a return to Respondents memorandum on August 23, 2019. [R.649-660 TCR Return 8/26/2019] On September 25, 2019, the trial judge entered her final order denying TCR's motion to reconsider. [R.168-173 Order 9/25/2019] TCR timely filed its notice of appeal with the South Carolina Court of Appeals on October 14, 2019 and served the notice on Respondents and the trial court on October 21, 2019. [R.174-200 TCR NOA] Although the notice of appeal addressed several issues, the only question TCR is prosecuting in this appeal is the trial court's inadequate setoff.

STANDARD OF REVIEW

“The right to setoff has existed at common law in South Carolina for over 100 years.” Riley v. Ford Motor Co., 414 S.C. 185, 195, 777 S.E.2d 824, 830 (2015) (citation omitted). This right to setoff was first codified in 1988 as part of the South Carolina Contribution Among Tortfeasors Act. See Id. Section 15-38-50 of the South Carolina Code provides that “[w]hen a release or a covenant not to sue or not to enforce judgment is given in good faith to one of two or more persons liable in tort for the same injury or the same wrongful death: (1) ... it reduces the claim against the others to the extent of any amount stipulated by the release or the covenant, or in the amount of the consideration paid for it, whichever is the greater....”

“[T]he Act represents the Legislature's determination of the proper balance between preventing double-recovery and South Carolina's strong public policy favoring the settlement of disputes.” Riley at 196, S.E.2d at 830 (citation and internal quotation omitted). “A nonsettling defendant is entitled to credit for the amount paid by another defendant who settles for the same cause of action.” Rutland v. SC Dep't of Transp., 400 S.C. 209, 216, 734 S.E.2d 142, 145 (2012) (citing Welch v. Epstein, 342 S.C. 279, 312-313, 536 S.E.2d 408, 425 (Ct. App.2000)). “The trial court’s jurisdiction to set off one judgment against another is equitable in nature and should be exercised when necessary to provide justice between the parties.” Id. “Allowing this credit prevents an injured person from obtaining a double recovery for the damage he sustained, for it is almost universally held that there can be only one satisfaction for an injury or wrong.” Id. (internal quotations omitted; citing Truesdale v. SC Hwy Dep’t, 264 S.C. 221, 235, 213 S.E.2d 740, 746 (1975), overruled on other grounds by McCall v. Batson, 285 S.C. 243, 329 S.E.2d 741 (1985)).

When a prior settlement involves compensation for the same injury for which the jury awarded damages, the right to setoff arises as an operation of law. However, when the settlement involves compensation for an injury different from the one tried to verdict, there is no set off as a matter of law. When the settlement is argued to involve two claims, one of which involves the same injury as the claim tried to verdict and one of which does not, the circuit court must make the factual determination of how to allocate the settlement between the claims.

Stoneledge at Lake Keowee Owners’ Association, Inc. v. IMK Development Co., LLC, 425 S.C. 276, 301, 821 S.E.2d 509, 522 (Ct. App. 2018), reh’g den. (Dec. 13, 2018), cert. granted (Aug. 6, 2019) (citations and internal quotations omitted). And when a plaintiff attempts to allocate the prior settlements, the court should review the allocation under the principles of equity. See eg. Rutland at 216, 734 S.E.2d at 145 (noting it was proper for the trial court to reallocate the proposed settlement allocation because there was no evidence of conscious pain and suffering, so all the settlement funds were reallocated by the court to the wrongful death claim).

Although not explicitly explained in the case law discussing setoff, the appellate courts analyze the setoff appeals under an abuse of discretion standard. Under this standard of review, the appellate court must give some deference to the ruling by the trial court. See State v. Lyles, 379 S.C. 328, 665 S.E.2d 201 (Ct. App. 2008). A lower court has abused its discretion when its ruling is either controlled by an error of law or based on a factual conclusion lacking evidentiary support. See Wilson v. Dallas, 403 S.C. 411, 743 S.E.2d 746 (2013).

An abuse of discretion occurs when the trial court’s ruling is based upon an error of law, such as application of the wrong legal principle; or, when based upon factual conclusions, the ruling is without evidentiary support; or, when the trial court is vested with discretion, but the ruling reveals no discretion was exercised; or when the ruling does not fall within the range of permissible decisions applicable in a particular case, such that it may be deemed arbitrary and capricious.

State v. Allen, 370 S.C. 88, 94, 634 S.E.2d 653, 656 (2006)(citations omitted).

FACTS

1. General Background

This is a construction defect lawsuit involving 40 duplex condominium units at a project called Palmetto Pointe at Peas Island, which is located near Folly Beach, Charleston County, South Carolina (hereinafter the “Project”).² [R.201-222 S&C 2/13/2015; R.275-341 Am S&C 11/4/2016; R.387-408 2nd Am S&C 11/2/2017] The Project was constructed in 2006-2007 and received certificates of occupancy from January 19 through November 2, 2007. contract dated December 27, 2005, with Complete, the general contractor, for the construction of the entire project, excluding the clubhouse. [R.2148-2182 Trial Exhibit 5A] The IP-LLC and Complete contract lists various duties and the scope of work of Complete, which includes oversight of the entire construction process, coordination of its subcontractor trades, coordination of the architects' plans and specifications that were given to the various subcontractors, plus other obligations and duties. Q. When you were out there doing the work, were you out there by yourself just making stuff up, or were people assisting you?

A. No. No. That, that, that wouldn't happen. Once again, there's, there's so many entities involved here with architects, engineers, people that are way smarter than me that -- I mean, we took our direction from, you know, what they wanted us to do.

Trial Transcript, Week Two, p.371 ll.15-22. [R.1406]

The architect and engineers on the project were involved throughout the entire construction process. The architect provided the plans and specifications, which set forth the entire design intent that Complete was charged with constructing.

Q. Okay, and we talked a little bit about the role of the architect, and you've looked at the specifications already and you -- in response to Mr. Cole's questions, correct?

A. Yes, sir.

Q. And, and it was the architect in its specifications that determined the types of materials that the owner wanted on this project, correct?

A. I would think so.

Q. And, in fact, the architect specified in the case of the siding the size of the siding the owner wanted on this project, correct?

A. I don't know. I was asked to submit two bids for it on two different sidings, so.

Q. You were just shown by Mr. Cole the siding specification prepared by the architect, correct?

A. That's correct.

Q. An architect called for a 9 and a quarter inch ---

A. That is correct.

Q. --- siding?

A. He approved that.

Q. And that's what you installed?

A. That is correct.

Trial Transcript, Week Two, p.385 ln.18—p.386 ln.14. [R.1420-1421]

Q. Okay, and what exactly is a project manual?

A. The project manual lays out the specifications for the project, to include what products are to be used, size, all the different particulars so that we can give an adequate estimate on that project.

Q. Where does the project manual come from? Who, who puts it together?

A. This one looks like it came from SGM and was given to me by Complete Building.

Q. And who is SGM?

A. It's an architectural firm.

Q. Were they involved in the construction process?

A. Yes, sir, they were.

Q. Were they involved during construction as well?

A. Yes, sir.

Trial Transcript, Week Two, p.329 ln. 22—p.330 ln.11. [R.1367-1368]

The architect addressed issues that came up during construction at regular meetings held at the job site.

A. A lot of times we had meetings with the GC, the architect, the engineer, all to collaborate on the project.

Trial Transcript, Week Two, p.350 ll. 24-25. [R.1385]

Q. And when the meetings were held, was there somebody that was in charge of them?

A. Yes, sir. Typically the GC. In this case Buddy Hilton oversaw, along with Gary Stanley, who was the project manager out there.

Q. Do you know how often you were out there at these meetings?

A. Sometimes weekly, sometimes every other week. It really just depended on what phase we're at in the project and how many buildings were going up and what different phases they were.

Trial Transcript, Week Two, p.351 ln.22—p.352 ln.7. [R.1386-1387]

Respondents filed their original summons and complaint on February 13, 2015 alleging construction defects and praying for the common damages of repair costs plus lost use. [R.201-222 S&C 2/13/2015] TCR brought third-party claims against its sub-subcontractors when it answered the original complaint on April 22, 2015. [R.223-242 TCR Ans & 3rd-P Comp 4/22/2015] Respondents amended their complaint on November 4, 2016 [R.275-341 Am S&C 11/4/2016] and filed a second amended complaint on November 2, 2017. [R.387-408 2nd Am S&C 11/2/2017] The Respondents' amended their pleadings to add new defendants and bring direct claims against the third-party defendants. Despite the number of defendants and the causes of action alleged by the Respondents, the Respondents prayed for the same type of relief: repair costs, lost use, and punitive damages. [R.201-222 S&C 2/13/2015; R.275-341 Am S&C 11/4/2016; R.387-408 2nd Am S&C 11/2/2017] Complete, IP-LLC, and Novus Architects, Inc. f/k/a SGM Architects, Inc. (hereinafter "Novus") filed crossclaims against the co-defendants generally alleging claims sounding in either contractual or equitable indemnity. 2. The Parties at Trial

TCR was not the only defendant at trial and it is not the only party that took a judgment at trial. A number of defendants settled prior to trial. Eight defendants were still in the case when the trial started on May 6, 2019. [R.688-737 Wk-1 Trans pp.171-220] Five defendants were still in the case when it went to the jury for deliberations on May 16, 2019: Complete, TCR, Miracle, Vasquez, and W.C. Services. [R.116-122 Verdict] Complete, as the general contractor, was responsible for the entire project. Testimony was provided explaining the role of the general contractor on the job site and its responsibility to coordinate all of the trades as well as the architect and the engineers. [R.844 Wk-1 Trans p.382 ll.6-22; R.886-887 Wk-1 Trans p.461 ln.20—p.462 ln.13; R.1039 Wk-1 Trans p.727 ll.4-15; R.1058 Wk-1 Trans p.746 ll.18-24; R.1069-1070 Wk-1 Trans p.763 ln.10—p.764 ln.19; R.1072-1073 Wk-1 Trans p.768 ln.9—p.769 ln.21; R.1177-1179 Wk-2 Trans p.101 ln.13—p.103 ln.23; R.1366 Wk-2 Trans p.328 ll.14-17; R.1385-1389 Wk-2 Trans p.350 ln.10—p.354 ln.15; R.1455-1456 Wk-2 Trans p.420 ln.5—p.421 ln.8; R.1559-1560 p.569 ln.3—p.570 ln.4] This testimony was supplemented by the language of the contract between IP-LLC and Complete for the construction of the project. [R.2148-2182 Trial Exhibit 5A]

TCR was the prime contractor for the siding, roofs, and waterproofing installed at the project. [R.914 Wk-1 Trans p.541 ll.5-25; R.1358 Wk-2 Trans p.317 ll.4-8; R.2183-2193 Trial Exhibit 9] This work was done in coordination with and direction from Complete according to the drawings and specifications from the architect and the engineers. W.C. Services was hired by Complete and installed the fire sprinklers at the project. [R.1477 Wk-2 Trans p.442 ll.3-25]

3. The Trial

Trial started on May 6, 2019. The defendants present at the start of trial were Complete, TCR, Vasquez, Miracle, W.C. Services, Stanley's Vinyl Fence Designs (exterior railings) (hereinafter "Stanley's"), JMC Construction, Inc. and JMC Construction, LLC (repair contractor for a subcontractor that settled out before trial) (hereinafter "JMC"), and IP-LLC (developer). [R.694-737 Wk-1 Trans p.177 ln.4—p.220 ln.3] Stanley's settled with Respondents on the second day of trial. [R.838-839 Wk-1 Trans p.339 ln.3—p.340 ln.25; R.861-862 Wk-1 Trans p.411 ln.23—p.412 ln.10] JMC was dismissed by the trial judge on May 9, 2019 by directed verdict after Respondents rested their case. [R.1018-1023 Wk-1 Trans p.659 ln.23—p.664 ln.7] Respondents dismissed their claims against IP-LLC prior to the closing arguments. [R.1580 Wk-2 Trans p.614 ll.2-6]

All of the parties at trial took care to clarify to the jury what claims and issues were still in the case. [R.671-672 Wk-1 Trans p.11 ln.5—p.12 ln.5; R.675-678 Wk-1 Trans p.106 ln.10—p.109 ln.17; R.681-682 Wk-1 Trans p.112 ln.9—p.113 ln.12; R.840 Wk-1 p.372 ll.1-10; R.857-858 Wk-1 Trans p.407 ln.25—p.408 ln.6; R.861-862 Wk-1 Trans p.411 ln.23—p.412 ln.10; R.863 Wk-1 Trans p.415 ll.3-17; R.935-943 Wk-1 Trans p.572 ln.18—p.580 ln.2; R.950-951 Wk-1 Trans p.591 ln.14—p.592 ln.7; R.956 Wk-1 Trans p.597 ll.11-18; R.968-974 Wk-1 Trans p.609 ln.2—p.615 ln.9; R.981-982 Wk-1 p.622 ln.23—p.623 ln.19; R.1217 Wk-2 Trans p.141 ll.23-25; R.1641 Wk-2 Trans p.714 ll.1-8; R.1652-1653 Wk-2 Trans p.725 ln.22—p.726 ln.25; R.1662-1670 Wk-2 Trans p.735 ln.19—p.743 ln.19]

The parties also explained to the jury that certain items had been removed from the case and those previously resolved items were referenced as “issue releases” or “resolved claims.”[Id.]

Mr. Kendall: Your Honor, Rhett Kendall again. We had one other motion that we had filed, and it mirrors what Mr. Lucey has already raised in terms of the issue of preclusion.

So we have – we listed out the ones that we have. I think there is a little bit of difference from the list that he had: Andersen Products. Alderman on interior Handrail. ARS and all of its subcontractors on HVAC and electrical. Builder Services Group, DBA Gayle were fireplaces. And Kelly Flooring was a limited issue.

And we probably ought to talk to each other in advance to made sure we don't step on each other. I think we probably have an agreement in spirit. We generally do. But we will get together and figure that one out.

But I wanted to raise to the court that my list was just slightly different than the list that he had.

The Court: Okay.

Mr. Kendall: But and I hope we can work everything through.

Mr. Lucey: Yes, Your Honor, if I may clarify the list for both of our benefits. As to Andersen Windows what is settled is any allegation of manufacturing defect. As to ARS and its subcontractors what is settled is any defect that is the sole liability of ARS and its electricians and its HVAC subs.

The actual HVAC repair and electrical repair line – and the estimate is growing [sic] out the window. There is a semi-related HVAC related area which is that the framer didn't build access to the HVAC units. The framing issue is still in the case. That has nothing to do with the HVAC subcontractor.

Trial Transcript, Week One, p.112 ln.9—p.113 ln.12. [R.681-682]

Although more causes of action were asserted in the pleadings, the only claims that went to the jury were Respondents' claims for (1) breach of warranty, (2) negligence, and (3) Complete's crossclaims for contractual indemnity. [R.1007 Wk-1 Trans p.648 ll.6-13; R.1566 Wk-2 Trans p.600 ll.8-10; R.1715-1746 Wk-2 Trans p.795 ln.11—p.826 ln.23; R.116-122 Verdict] The damages Respondents sought were for the cost to repair alleged construction defects, lost use contemplated during the repairs, and punitive damages. (See, generally, pleadings and the jury verdict form.) [R.201-478 Pleadings; R.116-122 Jury Verdict Form; R.1723 Wk-2 Trans p.803 ll.21-23] In fact, these are the same injuries that Respondents sought redress in their original summons and complaint and throughout the entire litigation. [R.201-222 S&C 2/13/2015; R.275-341 Am S&C 11/4/2016; R.387-408 2nd Am S&C 11/2/2017; R.694-709 Wk-1 Trans p.177 ln.4—p.192 ln.20; R.949-954 Wk-1 Trans p.590 ln.4—p.595 ln.25; R.1723 Wk-2 Trans p.803 ll.21-23]

The jury also heard testimony that some of the issues the jury was asked to deliberate over included work attributed to Complete and some subcontractors or other parties not actually in the courtroom. For example, the design and specifications from the architect were addressed.

A. ...What is creating these very low slope areas is the meeting of different slopes that come together and they kind of cancel each other out, if you understand what I'm saying.

Q. Yes.

A. And it creates a spot that is just really flat.

Q. So the idea though – because this is a very complicated roofline on these buildings, isn't it, where you have –

A. It is very –

Q. -- these lines that come together and do strange things?

A. It is very architectural, as I like to say.

Q. Right.

A. There are lots of places to it.

Trial Transcript, Week One, p.434 ln.25—p.435 ln.11. [R.869-870]

The jury was also informed about various framing repairs that were necessary to be completed along with the repairs alleged against the parties at trial.

Q. And you, you went and investigated four or five houses for deflections in the main floor you have in the foyer, correct?

A. Floor slopes, yes.

Transcript, Week Two, p.81 ll. 4-7. [R.1157]

Q. What would be the appropriate repair for the siding issue that was identified and talked about be?

A. Sure. So it is a two-step process. The first step is the sheathing, underlying sheathing, appropriately nailed to the structure.

So and there are -- there were requirements about a nailing pattern for that. That could be evaluated using engineering principles. Then assuming that the sheathing is adequately attached it would be possible to face nail the siding to the sheathing and into the studs and have it work.

Trial Transcript, Week One, p.759 ln.24—p.760 ln.8. [R.1065-1066]

Respondents' cost estimator, Jerry "Jay" Handegan, issued his cost estimate dated December 21, 2017. [R.2619-2629 Trial Exhibit 677; R.958-959 Wk-1 Trans p.599 ln.23—p.600 ln.16] However, in contemplation of removing the issue release items, Mr. Handegan produced a revised estimate during the Respondents' case in chief that was dated May 7, 2019. [R.950-951 Wk-1 Trans p.591 ln.14—p.592 ln.11] Mr. Handegan's revised estimate was comprised of handwritten notes made directly onto his December 21, 2017 estimate. [Id.] Respondents presented the revised estimate to the jury through trial testimony. [R.949-954 Wk.1 Trans p.590 ln.4—p.595 ln.22] In order to cross-examine Mr. Handegan on his repair line items, Complete had the original cost estimate entered without objection as Exhibit 677 [R.2619-2629] to the trial. [R.958-959 Wk-1 Trans p.599 ln.23—p.600 ln.16] The revised estimate was not entered into the record.

Mr. Handegan's revised estimate removed the issue release items and added new figures for fire wall repairs plus an additional 10% contingency. The net change results in a reduction of Respondents' repair estimate from $15,257,512 to $13,428,826. [R.950-951 Wk-1 Trans p.591 ln.14—p.592 ln.11]

It was clear from the arguments from Respondents and defense counsel as well as the testimony from Mr. Handegan that the jury was not to consider the line items referencing the Clubhouse [R.952 Wk-1 Trans p.593 ll.23-25; R.1652-1653 Wk-2 Trans p.725 ln.22—p.726 ln.2; R.2993-3003 Handegan Rev. These were the line items from Mr. Handegan's cost estimate associated with the issue releases. All of the other line items and claimed damages Respondents were seeking were presented to the jury through testimony or by inclusion of Mr. Handegan's cost estimate.

Although Mr. Handegan had reduced his original cost estimate of $15,257,512 to $13,428,826 at trial, counsel during Respondents' closing arguments told the jury they took out the Clubhouse numbers and added a lost use figure and specifically asked the jury for actual damages in the amount of $12.8M. [R.1653 Wk-2 Trans p.726 ll.23-25] When the jury started its deliberations, Respondents had already received settlements for the settlements labeled as issue release, for other settlements, and for funds from a covenant not to execute favoring Complete totaling $5,012,500. [Id.] Respondents submitted a jury verdict form that made no such allocations and had a single line for the jury to fill in a general verdict number that combined the causes of action for breach of warranty and negligence. [Id.] The Trial Court used the Respondents' version of the jury verdict form with slight edits. [R.116-122 Verdict; R.1624 Wk-2 Trans p.697 ll.3-7; R.1877-1880 Email dated 5/15/2019 from Plaintiff]

The jury returned its verdict on May 16, 2019. The jury found the total construction defect/repair damages that were presented at trial were valued at $6.5M. [R.1756-1759 Wk-2 Trans p.836 ln.14—p.839 ln.24; R.116-122 Jury Verdict] The jury found Complete and TCR were both grossly negligent and awarded $500k in punitive damages against both. [Id.] The trial judge had submitted Complete's crossclaim for contractual indemnity to the jury. The jury awarded Complete $1,000 for its crossclaim against TCR. [Id.] The jury returned a defense verdict in favor of W.C. Services. [Id.] Vasquez and Miracle were found only simply negligent; therefore, a supplemental post-trial argument to the jury was conducted pursuant to § 15-38-15 of the South Carolina Contribution Among Tortfeasors Act. [R.1760-1779 Wk-2 Trans p.840 ln.5—p.859 ln.12] Complete and TCR did not participate in this post-verdict allocation hearing because they were found jointly and grossly negligent. [Id.] The jury found that Vasquez and Miracle were both deemed five percent (5.00%) responsible for the total damages. [R.1780-1781 Wk-2 Trans p.860 ln. 19—p.861 ln.18; R.116-122 Jury Verdict]

4. The Settlements

Prior to the start of trial, Respondents received $5,012,500 dollars in settlements. This figure includes $1M from a covenant not to execute favoring Complete that was paid by one of Complete's insurance carriers. [R.1914-1917 Email response by TCR dated 6/10/2019; R.1918-1924 Complete Covenant 7/10/2018] Some of the pre-suit settlements were clearly designated by the parties at trial as issue releases. ARGUMENTS

TCR is entitled to complete setoff of the jury verdict by the settlements reached in this case that were not otherwise removed from review by the jury and designated as issue releases.

I. TCR is entitled to setoff of all post-verdict settlements.

TCR was not the only defendant at trial and it is not the only party that took a judgment at trial. At the end of the second week of trial, the jury provided a general verdict against Complete, TCR, Miracle, and Vasquez. The jury did not find W.C. Services liable for the damages claimed against it and awarded it a defense verdict. JMC was dismissed by directed verdict at the close of Respondents' case. Stanley's settled during trial. Respondents acknowledge that TCR is entitled to setoff of the exterior railing settlement from Stanley's. Respondents eventually conceded that TCR is entitled to a setoff of the post-verdict settlements from TCR's own subcontractors, Vasquez and Miracle. However, Respondents only concede a small portion of the post-verdict settlements from Complete should be setoff. TCR submits that it should receive full setoff credit for the post-verdict settlements by Complete, including the $1M paid on behalf of Complete for the covenant not to execute, which was included in the settlement agreement with Complete. See Smalls v. S.C. Dept of Ed., 339 S.C. 208, 221, 528 S.E.2d 682, 688 (Ct. App. 2000).

The verdict in the amount of $6.5M is dated June 16, 2019—the last day of trial. Despite any arguments to the contrary, the jury rendered the decision on the items presented to the jury and found the total actual damages for Respondents' claims is $6.5M. There is no need to parse out which items are characterized as issue releases for the post-verdict settlements because Complete, TCR, Vasquez, Miracle, W.C. Services, Stanley's, and JMC were actually at the trial. "Because a verdict is deemed to be the full measure of the plaintiff's loss, then a verdict plus a settlement would be more than full recovery. Hence, the result is the allowance of a setoff to the non-settling defendant against his verdict." James L. Ward, Jr. and Edward J. Westbrook, South Carolina Damages, Second Edition (S.C. Bar 2009).

Respondents' attempt to allocate the post-verdict settlement by Complete is improper. Moreover, the attempt to allocate the post-verdict settlement by Complete is untimely. The general verdict amounts entered against Complete, TCR, Vasquez, and Miracle were set by court order effective May 16, 2019. [R.116-122 Form Order & Jury Verdict 5/16/2019] The first reference to any attempt by Respondents to allocate any settlements was in the settlement agreement with Complete that was executed on June 6, 2019—twenty-one days after the jury rendered its verdict. In fact, the June 6th settlement agreement with Complete is the only settlement agreement that references any attempt by Respondents to allocate the settlement proceeds they received. [R.1918-1924 Complete Covenant 7/10/2018; R.1925-1939 Complete Settlement 7/10/2018; R.1940-1954 Creekside Settlement 6/6/2019; R.1955-1979 ARS Settlement 4/23/2019; R.1980-1994 Atlantic Settlement 4/5/2019; R.1995-2009 Gale Settlement 7/24/2018; R.2010-2018 Novus Settlement 2/22/2018; R.2019-2033 Tallent Settlement 2/22/2019; R.2034-2048 CertainTeed Settlement 7/12/2018; R.2049-2056 Kelly Flooring Settlement 1/25/2019; R.2057-2064 Cornerstone Settlement 4/25/2018; R.2065-2076 Miracle Settlement 5/28/2019; R.2077-2088 Vasquez Settlement 5/28/2019; R.2089-2091 Alderman Settlement 6/19/2018; R.2092-2106 Stanley's Settlement 5/8/2019; R.2107-2121 Cohen's Settlement 7/12/2018; R.2122-2130 Moseley Settlement May-June, 2019; R.2131-2142 H&A Settlement 1/31/2018; R.2143-2145 Andersen Settlement 4/30/2019; R.1819 Post-T Hrg p.34 ll.13-24] Respondents provided no notice to the trial judge or to the other parties how they would attempt to allocate the settlement funds until after the jury returned its verdict against Complete, TCR, Vasquez, and Miracle. “[B]efore entering judgment on a jury verdict, the court must reduce the amount of the verdict to account for any funds previously paid by a settling defendant, so long as the settlement funds were paid to compensate the same plaintiff on a claim for the same injury.” Smith v. Widener, 397 S.C. 468, 471-472, 724 S.E.2d 188, 190 (Ct. App. 2012) (citing Hawkins v. Pathology Assocs. of Greenville P.A., 330 SC 91, 113, 498 S.E.2d 395, 406-407 (Ct. App. 1998)). In the instant case, Complete entered into its settlement agreement after the jury rendered its verdict and after the judgment was filed. The Complete settlement agreement also incorporated the funds from the covenant not to execute. Therefore, Complete’s settlements are in actuality partial satisfactions of a judgment. The verdict must be reduced by the post-verdict settlements, to do otherwise would be wholly prejudicial and inequitable. Such a procedure advocated by Respondents would allow double recovery because they could recover part of a judgment from one defendant and call it a settlement, and then later execute the entirety of the judgment against another defendant.

“When a prior settlement involves compensation for the same injury for which the jury awarded damages, the right to setoff arises as an operation of law.” Stoneledge, 425 S.C. at 301, 821 S.E.2d at 522 (citing Widener, 397 S.C. at 473, 724 S.E.2d at 191 (Ct. App. 2012)). “Allowing this credit prevents an injured person from obtaining a double recovery for the damage he sustained, for it is almost universally held that there can be only one satisfaction for an injury or wrong.” Rutland, 400 S.C. at 216, 734 S.E.2d at 145 (internal quotations omitted; citing Truesdale, 264 S.C. at 235, 213 S.E.2d at 746 (overruled on other grounds by McCall, supra)). Moreover, the actual damages awarded by the jury are to compensate the plaintiff and not to serve as additional punishment against the defendant. See Rutland at 217, 734 S.E.2d at 146 (citing 22 Am. Jur.2nd Damages §27 and Haselden v. Davis, 353 S.C. 481, 486, 579 S.E.2d 293, 296 (2003) for the proposition that “[c]ompensatory damages are intended to make the plaintiff whole, not to punish the tortfeasor.... [and w]here allocation of damages furthers that policy, we do not believe the result is inequitable.”)

The jury determined that Complete, the general contractor in charge of the entire construction site, and TCR, the prime subcontractor for the siding, roofing, and deck waterproofing, were jointly responsible for the entire actual damages-general verdict in the amount of $6.5M. Stated another way, although the Respondents asked the jury for $12.8M to compensate them for all items still presented at trial, the jury found that after the issue released items were removed, Respondents’ repair cost and lost use damages were valued at $6.5M. If Complete was the sole non-settled defendant, then Respondents would have to concede setoff of all settlements that were not otherwise removed from deliberation as issue releases. There is no reasonable argument to deny TCR a setoff of the entire settlement that Complete paid to Respondents when no attempted allocation was submitted before the jury verdict and because TCR was deemed jointly responsible for the judgment under the general verdict.

TCR acknowledges that on the night before the post-trial motions hearing Respondents produced copies of the settlement agreements it had entered with the various settled parties. [R.1809-1810 Post-T Hrg p.24 ln.12—p.25 ln.5] These settlement agreements generally acknowledge that Complete is entitled to setoffs. However, these settlement agreements do not state that the settlements are for anything other than the resolution of Respondents' claims seeking reimbursement for the cost of repair and for lost use. Because of the joint and several verdict against Complete and TCR, TCR is now responsible for all of the damages that Complete was responsible for, including damages resulting from Complete's management and oversight of the entire project, addressing framing repairs of the sheathing and porch joists, repairing the exterior railings and wood columns, repairing all of the fireproofing and fire wall deficiencies, repainting, and repairing the siding, roofing, and deck waterproofing. [R.845-856 Wk-1 Trans p.386, ln.7—p.397, ln.2; R.865-868 Wk-1 Trans p.427, ln.20—p.430, ln.25; R.869-874 Wk-1 p.434, ln. 4—p.439, ln.5; R.894-899 Wk-1 Trans p.491, ln.3—p.496, ln.24; R.900-905 Wk-1 Trans p.500, ln.23—p.505, ln.4; R.950-954 Wk-1 Trans p.591, ln.14—p.595, ln.22; R.974-976 Wk-1 Trans p.615, ln.10—p.617, ln.12; R.982-995 Wk-1 Trans p.623, ln.21—p.636, ln.19; R.1106-1138 Wk-2 Trans p.28, ln.3—p.60, ln.16; R.1157 Wk-2 Trans p.81, ll.4-17; R.1166-1168 Wk-2 Trans p.90, ln.23—p.92, ln.5; R.1177-1179 Wk-2 Trans p.101, ln.13—p.103, ln.23; R.1181-1183; Wk-2 Trans p.105, ln.16—p.107, ln.19; R.1538-1544 Wk-2 Trans p.522, ln.15—p.528, ln.6; R.1628-1655 Wk-2 Trans p.701, ln.11—p.728, ln.21; R.1707-1713 Wk-2 Trans p.782, ln.13—p.788, ln.8; R.1832-1836 Post-T Hrg p.47, ln.8—p.51, ln.14] TCR is now deemed responsible for more than its actual scope of work on the Project because of the general verdict entered by the jury.

TCR and the other defendants at trial submitted proposed jury verdict forms that would have allowed the jury to separate out which components of repair were properly associated with a defendants' scope of work. Respondents insisted on a general verdict damages number. While Complete was responsible for the entire project, it is fundamentally unfair, for example, for TCR to be responsible for repairing the firewall and fireproofing deficiencies arguably attributable to W.C. Services and Complete as it would be unfair for W.C. Services to be responsible for the alleged siding deficiencies. However, by not giving setoff for the Complete settlements, TCR is now deemed responsible for more damages than TCR's original scope of work. Respondents' post-verdict allocation made on June 6, 2019 is not actually a settlement allocation, but it is an attempt to invade and interpret the general jury verdict that was rendered on May 16, 2019. Our courts have long held that it is improper for the court to invade the province of the jury. See, e.g., Kennedy v. Richland Cty. Sch. Dist. Two, 428 S.C. 98, 119, 833 S.E.2d 414, 425 (Ct. App. 2019), reh'g denied (Oct. 24, 2019), cert. dismissed (Mar. 9, 2020) (when entertaining a motion for a new trial nisi, there must be "compelling reasons to justify invading the province of the jury."); Stanton v. Southern Ry. Co., 56 S.C. 398, 34 S.E. 695 (1900) (noting it would be improper for the trial judge to interject his opinions into the jury charge as this would invade the province of the jury). It is the court's duty to enforce a verdict, not make it. Stoneledge, 425 S.C. at 302, 821 S.E.2d at 522 (citing Joiner v. Bevier, 155 S.C. 340, 355, 152 S.E. 652, 657 (1930)). But it is also incumbent on the court to apply the statutory mandated setoff post-verdict because setoff is not a matter properly triable to the jury. Broome v. Watts, 319 S.C. 337, 342, 461 S.E.2d 46, 49 (1995).

According to Respondents' post-verdict allocation of the Complete settlement, the repairs that Complete defended at trial were claims regarding the exterior railings, fire separation walls and other issues related to W.C. Services' work, framing repairs, and punitive damages. [R.1925-1939 Complete Settlement 6/6/2019] All the damages

Respondents' sought in this construction defect litigation are to recover for the common injury relating to the cost to repair, lost use, and punitive damages. See Widener, supra. (noting that setoff is proper between actual and punitive damages because the damages arise out of the same type of injury); accord Centex-Rooney Construction Co., Inc. v. Martin County, 706 So.2d 20, 29 (Dist. Ct. App. Fla. 1997), reh'g den. (March 11, 1998) (allowing setoff of prior settlements paid by an architect and a concrete and masonry construction company to a judgment against the construction manager because "the damages were not separate and distinct" and the setoff prevents a double recovery for the plaintiff). Respondents' received a general verdict in their favor, and it would be improper and inequitable for the Respondents to now reinterpret the jury's verdict under the guise of a setoff allocation. Respondents are only entitled to one recovery for their injury. See Huck, 422 S.C. at 437, 813 S.E.2d at 291 ("In other words, there can be only one satisfaction for an injury or wrong."); Rutland, 400 S.C. at 216-217, 734 S.E.2d at 145-146 (noting that a setoff prevents a person from obtaining a double recovery since "[c]ompensatory damages are intended to make the plaintiff whole, not to punish the tortfeasor."); Truesdale, 264 S.C. at 235, 213 S.E.2d at 746 ("[I]t is almost universally held that there can be only one satisfaction for an injury or wrong.").

TCR was not the only defendant at trial and it is not the only party that took a judgment at the trial. TCR is entitled to a setoff of all post-verdict settlements, which includes the full settlements paid by Complete, the settlements by Vasquez and Miracle, and any future post-verdict settlements, if any, by any other parties that were joined in the litigation. Respondents' already concede that the settlement funds from Stanley's, Vasquez, and Miracle—three of the parties at trial—properly setoff the general jury verdict. There is no rational basis to treat the post-verdict settlement executed by Complete on June 6, 2019 differently. TCR is entitled to setoff in the amount of $3,082,500 for the post-trial and during trial settlements.¹⁹ “Where reallocation of damages furthers th[e] policy [that compensatory damages are intended to make a plaintiff whole, not to punish the tortfeasor], we do not believe the result is inequitable.” Rutland at 217, 734 S.E.2d at 146.

II. TCR is entitled to setoff of all the settlements that were not otherwise removed from the trial of this case and designated as issue releases.

A plaintiff is only entitled to recover once for their injuries. The law prevents a plaintiff from receiving a double recovery by applying setoff. See Welch, 342 S.C. at 312, 536 S.E.2d at 425 (“In other words, there can only be one satisfaction for an injury or wrong.”); Rutland, 400 S.C. at 216, 734 S.E.2d at 145 (“A non-settling defendant is entitled to credit for the amount paid by another defendant who settles for the same cause of action.”); Riley, 414 S.C. at 195, 777 S.E.2d at 830 (“[I]t is almost universally held that there can be only one satisfaction for an injury or wrong.”); Hawkins, 330 S.C. 92, 113, 498 S.E.2d 395, 406 (Ct. App. 1998) (“A non-settling defendant is entitled to credit for the amount paid by another defendant who settles.”). “The trial court’s jurisdiction to set off one judgment against another is equitable in nature and should be exercised when necessary to provide justice between the parties.” Welch at 313, 536 S.E.2d at 425. The common law regarding setoff was codified in 1988. See Riley at 195, 777 S.E.2d at 830. “[I]n the absence of bad faith, the function of the trial court is limited to applying the settlement credit pursuant to § 15-38-50.” Ellis v. Oliver, 335 S.C. 106, 112, 515 S.E.2d 268, 271 (Ct. App. 1999). “[T]he [South Carolina Contribution Among Tortfeasors] Act represents the Legislature’s determination of the proper balance between preventing double-recovery and South Carolina’s ‘strong public policy favoring the settlement of disputes.’” Riley at 196, 777 S.E.2d 830 (quoting Chester v. S.C. Dep’t of Pub. Safety, 388 S.C. 343, 698 S.E.2d 559 (2010)).

In the first complaint filed in this case, Respondents sought damages to repair the Project and to reimburse the Plaintiffs for any lost use they may suffer while the repairs are performed. [R.201-222 S&C 2/13/2015] Respondents sought these same damages when they asked the jury to return a general verdict at trial for their alleged cost of repair plus lost use damages. The names of the legal theories asserted by Respondents do not control whether setoff should be applied when the claimed damages are the same and they arise from the same factual scenario. See Widener, 468 S.C. at 472, 724 S.E.2d at 190 (finding a claim against an employee benefits provider was for the same injury for the damages sought against beneficiaries charged with improperly removing funds from the employee benefits account, thus setoff was applied); Vortex Sports & Ent., Inc. v. Ware, 378 S.C. 197, 209-210, 662 S.E.2d 444, 451 (Ct. App. 2008), reh’g den. (June 26, 2008) (noting that setoff was proper for causes of action for aiding and abetting a breach of fiduciary duty and tortious interference with contract because the damages “arose out of the same factual scenario.”); Ellis, 335 S.C. at 113, 515 S.E.2d 268 at 272 (pointing out the claims against Richland Memorial and Dr. Oliver “arouse out of the same factual scenario” and that the plaintiff “confuse[d] the concept of damages within the meaning of the word injury as used in [S.C. Code § 15-38-50].”). The injury contemplated in the setoff statute “is broad enough to include all damages.” Ellis at 113, 515 S.E.2d at 272. In fact, Respondents specifically requested the jury issue a single damages number on the jury verdict form.

In this case, Respondents sought damages to repair the Project and for lost use. The trial judge informed the jury that the damages being sought by Respondents were for the cost of repairs plus lost use, and the trial judge assured the jury that she would act as the gatekeeper to ensure that the Plaintiffs would not receive multiple recoveries for the same damages.

With regard to cost of repair, the plaintiffs are not required to prove that the repairs have actually been made. A competent estimate of the cost of repairs is sufficient to create a factual issue for you to determine damages.

With regard to loss of use, if you find that the plaintiff was or will be unable to use its property for a period of time because of a defendant’s wrongful conduct, you should award the plaintiff compensation for the loss of use only if you believe the loss of use was proximately caused by a defendant’s conduct.

The cost of repair or restoration is a valid measure of damages for injury to a building. When determining the amount of damages, if any, you may consider a competent estimate of the cost to repair to a building.

If you find that the plaintiff proved its right to recover on multiple causes of action, then plaintiff is entitled to receive a full set of damages on each individual cause of action so proven. The trial judge will ensure the plaintiff does not receive a double recovery. In other words, although plaintiff is entitled to receive a full set of damages for each individual claim, a plaintiff will only recover once.

Trial Transcript Week Two, p.815 ll.8-17; p.816 ll.9-12; and p.816 ln.23—p.817 ln.5. [R.1735-1737]

Generally, damages in construction defect cases like the Palmetto Pointe litigation all arise out of the same set of facts or type of injury. See Widener, supra. (noting that setoff is proper between actual and punitive damages because the damages arise out of the same type of injury); accord Centex-Rooney, supra (allowing setoff of prior settlements paid by an architect and a concrete and masonry construction company to a judgment against the construction manager because “the damages were not separate and distinct” and the setoff prevents a double recovery for the plaintiff). The confusion regarding whether the injury and claim in a construction defect lawsuit are similar and therefore subject to setoff appears to derive from the fact that the seminal cases discussing setoff in South Carolina involve claims for wrongful death and survivorship.

Wrongful death and survivorship claims in South Carolina are created by statute. There is no question that these are distinct claims that seek separate forms of damages. A wrongful death claim is brought by the beneficiaries of the decedent to compensate for their own losses. “In a wrongful death action in South Carolina, the damages recoverable by the statutory beneficiaries of the decedent include (1) pecuniary loss, (2) mental shock and suffering, (3) wounded feelings, (4) grief and sorrow, (5) loss of companionship, and (6) deprivation of the use and comfort of the intestate's society.” Boyle v. U.S., 948 F.Supp.2d 577, 580 (D.S.C. 2012) (citing Knoke v. South Carolina Dept. of Parks, Recreation & Tourism, 324 S.C. 136, 141, 478 S.E.2d 256, 258 (1996)). “In a wrongful death case, the question of damages is not directed toward the value of the human life that was lost, but rather the damages sustained by the beneficiaries as a result of the death.” Id. (citing Self v. Goodrich, 300 S.C. 349, 351, 387 S.E.2d 713, 714 (Ct. App. 1989)). “In a survival action, the legal representative of the deceased may recover damages for the deceased's conscious pain and suffering and medical expenses.” Boyle at 580 (citing Baker v. Sanders, 301 S.C. 170, 391 S.E.2d 229 (1990)).

In the cases discussing setoff and the allocation of damages between claims for wrongful death and survivorship, the analysis turns on whether there was sufficient information in the record regarding the decedent’s pain and suffering to support an allocation proposed by the plaintiffs. The appellate courts have overturned allocations where no evidence of pain and suffering was presented giving no justification to apply any portion of the settlement to the wrongful death claim (see Rutland, supra.) and the courts have upheld allocations where there was some evidence to support the proposed allocation (see Riley, supra.). Claims other than wrongful death and survivorship claims do not share this same distinction. See, e.g., Widener, supra.; Vortex, supra.; Ellis, supra.

[Id.] Whatever was not explicitly removed from the trial was still presented to the jury through witness testimony and trial exhibits. Every item not designated as an issue release was included in the trial since Complete, the general contractor responsible for the entire construction project, was present during the whole trial.

The construction of the Palmetto Pointe Project was not completed in a bubble. The jury heard testimony regarding all the different parties that worked together to construct the Project. The trial court properly allowed testimony that the architect provided the plans and specifications at issue with the construction, [R.865-868 Wk-1 Trans p.427 ln.19—p.430 ln.25; R.869-870 Wk-1 Trans p.434 ln.16—p.435 ln.11; R.876 Wk-1 Trans p.445 ll.4-11; R.881 Wk-1 Trans p.452 ll.10-12; R.1036-1040 Wk-1 Trans p.724 ln.16—p.728 ln.7; R.1044 Wk.1 Trans p.732 ll.21-23; R.1057-1058 Wk-1 Trans p.745 ln.9—p.746 ln.10; R.1363 Wk-2 Trans p.325 ll.7-16; R.1367-1368 Wk-2 Trans p.329 ln.22—p.330 ln.11; R.1373 Wk-2 Trans p.335 ll.9-25; R.1385 Wk-2 Trans p.350 ll.19-25; R.1398 Wk-2 Trans p.363 ll.10-15; R.1407-1408 Wk-2 Trans p.372 ln.10—p.373 ln.14; R.1409 Wk-2 Trans p.374 ll.11-19; R.1412-1413 Wk-2 Trans p.377 ln.17—p.378 ln.15; R.144 Wk-2 Trans p.379 ll.4-9; R.1420-1421 Wk-2 Trans p.385 ln.18—p.386 ln.14; R.1429-1430 Wk-2 Trans p.394 ln.22—p.395 ln.3] that certain engineers were involved with the design and product selection process [R.865-868 Wk-1 Trans p.427 ln.19—p.430 ln.25; R.879 Wk-1 Trans p.450 ll.18-22; R.885-886 Wk-1 Trans p.460 ln.22—p.461 ln.24; R.889-891 Wk-1 Trans p.466 ln.4—p.468 ln.7; R.1385 Wk-2 Trans p.350 ll.19-25; R.1393-1395 Wk-2 Trans p.358 ln.7—p.360 ln.2; R.1401 Wk-2 Trans p.366 ll.8-11; R.1406 Wk-2 Trans p.371 ll.15-22; R.1445 Wk-2 Trans p.410 ll.20-22; R.1464-1465 Wk-2 Trans p.429 ln.22—p.430 ln.20], that the manufacturer of the siding and waterproofing inspected the installation of their respective products [R.874 Wk-1 Trans p.439 ll.11-15; R.1351 Wk-2 Trans p.304 ll.1-18; R.1375-1376 Wk-2 Trans p.340 ln.4—p.341 ln.23; R.1381 Wk-2 Trans p.346 ll.3-12; R.1383 Wk-2 Trans p.348 ll.2-18; R.1384-1385 Wk-2 Trans p.349 ln.21—p.350 ln.7; R.1393-1395 Wk-2 Trans p.358 ln.7—p.360 ln.2; R.1396-1397 Wk-2 Trans p.361 ln.2—p.362 ln.14; R.1430-1431 Wk-2 Trans p.395 ln.4—p.396 ln.5], and that the framers were responsible for installing the roof and deck slopes on the project. See Smith v. Tiffany, 419 S.C. 548, 557, 799 S.E.2d 479, 484 (2017). There is no allocation to the empty chair defendants, but the parties at trial are not without a remedy in the post-trial procedures because the court may apportion liability among the parties at trial pursuant to S.C. Code § 15-78-100 and “any respondent found liable will be entitled to an equitable set-off against the settlements... already received.” Chester, 388 S.C. at 346, 698 S.E.2d at 560.

The defendants objected to Plaintiffs’ proposed jury verdict form that lumped all of the issues at trial into a single, general verdict figure. Although the parties worked together to construct the Project, some scopes of work can be distinguished. For example, if the jury was allowed to allocate responsibility between the parties at trial, then the firestopping issues alleged against W.C. Services and Complete would not now be attributable to TCR as part of the general verdict. It is improper for the Plaintiffs now to attempt to dissect which claims at trial should be allocated out of the general jury verdict via arbitrary allocations.

It is established law that Respondents here are not entitled to multiple awards for the same injury. See Welch, 342 S.C. at 312, 536 S.E.2d at 425 (Ct. App. 2000) (“In other words, there can only be one satisfaction for an injury or wrong.”); Rutland, 400 S.C. at 216, 734 S.E.2d at 145 (“A non-settling defendant is entitled to credit for the amount paid by another defendant who settles for the same cause of action.”); Riley, 414 S.C. at 195, 777 S.E.2d at 830 (“[I]t is almost universally held that there can be only one satisfaction for an injury or wrong.”); Hawkins, 330 S.C. at 113, 498 S.E.2d at 406 (“A non-settling defendant is entitled to credit for the amount paid by another defendant who settles.”). On the other hand, TCR is not seeking to get credit for the items labeled as issue releases twice. TCR concedes that it, as well as Complete, Miracle, Vasquez, and W.C. Services, received the benefit of a lower trial demand when the items labeled as issue releases were taken out of Respondents’ repair cost estimate. See The Oaks at Rivers Edge Property Owners Association, Inc. v. Daniel Island Riverside Developers, LLC, 420 S.C. 424, 803 S.E.2d 475 (Ct. App. 2017), reh’g den. (Oct. 19, 2017).

The Oaks is a construction defect case that was tried against various construction parties including the developer and the construction manager. Prior to the scheduled trial date, several settlements were entered. The developer and construction manager were granted a partial release by the POA and they signed the settlement documents that set forth which claims were dismissed with prejudice and which claims remained. The Oaks court makes clear that the settlement agreement reserved the question of whether the developer construction manager would receive any credits from the settlement, which “will be determined by the court consistent with South Carolina Law.” Id. at 433, 803 S.E.2d at 481. The jury awarded a judgment against the appellants and the appellants moved for allocation of the damages and setoff. The court disagreed and found that the appellants had “already received the benefit of the settlements” because the amount of damages the plaintiff presented at trial had removed the items from the settlements that were paid. See Id. at 442, 803 S.E.2d at 484. The Oaks court noted that the POA’s total repair estimate prior to trial was approximately $13M but the POA only asked for approximately $9M in damages at trial. The difference in the pre-trial repair estimate and the damages requested at trial was calculated by the POA having “removed from their claim the repairs necessitated by the damage cause by the window installation.” Id.

In the present Palmetto Pointe case, Respondents’ cost estimator, Mr. Handegan, testified that he modified his original repair cost estimate by subtracting out the issue releases and then adding in additional fire wall and fire sprinkler damages. [R.950-954 Wk-1 Trans p.591 ln.14—p.595 ln.22] The Respondents’ original repair cost estimate was $15,257,512. [R.2619-2629 Trial Exhibit 677] The revised repair cost estimate at trial was $13,428,826. [R.951 Wk-1 Trans p.592 ll.8-11] The issue releases thus reduced the Respondents’ repair cost demand by $1,828,686. In his closing arguments, counsel for the Respondents restated the amount of Mr. Handegan’s revised estimate total and then he told the jury he was taking out the clubhouse damages and the window product issues, adding in lost use damages, and made a revised request to the jury to award actual damages of $12.8M. [R.1653 Wk-2 Trans p.726 ll.23-25] Stated another way, Respondents claimed at trial that their total damages when the issue released items were taken out was $12.8M.

TCR is not asking for a setoff of the issue release settlements for the HVAC, grading and paving, fireplaces, interior flooring, interior trim and interior railings, concrete, and the window products that reduced Respondents’ original cost estimate to their demand of $12.8M at trial. TCR is asking for a setoff of all of the claims other than the issue releases. The trial court erred when it failed to properly set off the remaining items not designated as issue releases by the parties. See Tubbs v. Bowie, 308 S.C. 155, 417 S.E.2d 550 (1992) (since “one tortfeasor is entitled to credit for the amount paid by another tortfeasor, the amount of setoff is the amount actually paid rather than the lifetime value of a structured settlement.”); Widener, 397 S.C. at 473, 724 S.E.2d at 191 (noting “a plaintiff’s claim for actual and punitive damages arising from the same injury is the same claim for purposes of setoff under section 15-38-50(1).”); Smalls, 339 S.C. at 219, 528 S.E.2d at 688 (As a general rule, “[a] nonsettling defendant is entitled to credit for the amount paid by another defendant who settles.”); Lloyd’s, Inc. v. Good, 306 S.C. 450, 412 S.E.2d 441 (Ct. App. 1991) (the amount of the damages recoverable against the non-settling tortfeasor is reduced by the total amount of consideration paid for a release of a joint tortfeasor); Atlas Food Systems and Services, Inc. v. Crane Nat’l Vendors, Inc., 99 F.3d 587, 596 (4th Cir. 1996) (“Under South Carolina law, a non-settling defendant is entitled to a pro tanto reduction of a judgment in a same cause of action.”).

At the time of the post-trial motions hearing, Respondents had received total settlements in the amount of $6.8M. The settlements that all parties agree were for the issue released items for the HVAC, grading and paving, fireplaces, interior flooring, interior trim and interior railings, concrete, and the window products total $1,407,500. Subtracting this figure from Respondents’ original repair estimate yields $13,850,012, which figure is close to Mr. Handegan’s revised estimate dated May 7, 2019 of $13,428,826. TCR acknowledges that the issue released items for the HVAC, grading and paving, fireplaces, interior flooring, interior trim and interior railings, concrete, and the window products are incorporated into the Respondents’ revised trial demand. Prior to trial, Respondents had received settlements of $4,012,500 or $5,012,500, depending on whether the funds from the covenant not to execute befitting Complete are referenced pre-trial or as part of the settlement agreement that was entered on June 6, 2019, twenty-one days after the jury returned its trial verdict. If all the pre-trial settlements were in fact removed from the trial as Respondents apparently advocate now, then Mr. Hendegan's revised estimate at trial should have been either $10,245,012 or $11,245,012, depending on whether the funds from the covenant not to execute are included. Respondents' position guarantees that they will receive double recovery on the items that were not removed from the case as issue releases. The trial judge abused her discretion when she failed to act as the gatekeeper to prevent such a double recovery. "Compensatory damages are intended to make the plaintiff whole, not to punish the tortfeasor." Rutland, 400 S.C. at 217, 734 S.E.2d at 146. Respondents are made whole when the proper setoffs are applied. TCR's requested setoff allocation is the mandated statutory and common law result that furthers the policy to avoid double recovery to the Plaintiff and lead to an equitable result. See Id.

CONCLUSION

The trial judge abused her discretion and committed an error of law by failing to allocate the full amount of setoff available in this case. TCR does not seek setoff of the items that all parties agreed were issue releasees and where the jury was specifically informed that they were not to include as damages at trial. All settlements paid by the defendants who were at the trial of this case should reduce the final jury verdict as setoffs. This includes the Stanley's settlement of $295,000 already conceded by Respondents. Once the jury rendered its verdict against the parties at trial, the damages were set, and any post-verdict settlements merely reduce the amount of the verdict. Thus, the post-verdict settlements by Complete for $2,137,000, by Miracle for $325,000, and by Vasquez for $325,000 should reduce the general jury verdict.

Respondents incorporated all claims that were not otherwise removed as issue releases in their case against the parties at trial. This included the claims against Complete, the general contractor. By the gross negligence/joint and several verdict entered against Complete and TCR, TCR is deemed responsible for all the issues that Respondents sought against the general contractor, whether the claims relate to TCR's actual scope of work on the Project or not. The damages sought in this construction defect action are common and arise out of the same facts and are subject to setoff. This is why TCR also requests full credit and setoffs for prior settlements that were not designated as issue releases. The general jury verdict should be reduced further by the $150,000 settlement paid by Creekside for painting and caulking (Respondents concede this full amount as setoff); by the $700,000 settlement paid by Atlantic Building for framing; by the $500,000 settlement paid by H and A Framing, Atlantic Building's subcontractor; by the $650,000 settlement paid by Novus Architects for its architectural design and specifications for the Project; by the $35,000 settlement paid by Certainteed, the siding and roofing product supplier (Respondents concede this full amount as setoff); by the $150,000 settlement paid by Cornerstone Construction for siding installation on three buildings (Respondents concede this full amount as setoff); and by the $125,000 settlement paid by Cohen's Drywall for insulation and drywall. The total setoffs not designated as issue releases and already accounted for at trial add up to $5,392,500.

The appellate court should remand this case to the trial court with direction to properly account for the settlements available for setoff. With the information currently available, the general verdict amount should be reduced to reflect a final judgment against TCR of $1,607,500.

Respectfully submitted

COLLINS & LACY, P.C.
